JUDGE GAYER DIES OF HEART ATTACK AT DINNER TABLE

Falls From Chair After Meal at Home With Wife and Daughter—Had Not Been Ill Previously.

SERVING SECOND FOUR-YEAR TERM

Jurist Had Become Known for Reversing Decisions on Appeals—Governor to Fill Vacancy.

Judge Paul A. Gayer of the Court of Criminal Correction died unexpectedly at his home, 4561 Harris avenue, at 6 o'clock last evening.

He had just finished an early dinner when he fell from his chair. His wife and daughter, Miss Ethel Gayer, strove to lift him, but he died before a physician could be called. While a heart attack is supposed to have occurred, he had not been ill previously. He was 62 years old.

Besides his widow and daughter, Judge Gayer is survived by his mother, Mrs. Margaret Gayer, who lives in Kirkwood.

Judge Gayer was elected last November to a second four-year term on the bench of the Court of Criminal Correction, Division 2. His death leaves a vacancy which [illegible] Caulfield will have to fill, and the appointee will serve until the next State election, in November, 1930.

Widely Known as Judge.

In his service of a little more than four years on the bench, Judge Gayer became unusually well known, because of his readiness to reverse the decision of city Police Courts, and to rebuke police witnesses and throw out cases in which he held some necessary element of evidence to be lacking.

Elected first in 1924, Judge Gayer still was comparatively new to the bench when the present Police Board, headed by Col. A. C. Orrick, took office in 1925, and when Mayor Miller named C. C. Beck and H. P. Rosecan as judges of the City Courts. The Police Board started a vigorous clean-up movement against disorderly resorts and hangouts of crooks. The new Police Judges, under the Mayor's instructions, began a policy of heavy fines for traffic violations, in the endeavor to reduce the death and injury rate from motor casualties.

When the persons arrested in raids were taken before Judge Gayer, and when the traffic fines reached him on appeal, there were many reversals of the Police Board and Police Court policies. The dismissals and reversals were accompanied by lectures from the bench, some of them directed at policemen, and some aimed over the policemen's heads at their superiors and at the Police Judges.

Assails Dragnet Arrests.

In an interview printed in the Post-Dispatch in July, 1925, Judge Gayer declared that he was in sympathy with the public demand for law enforcement, and that he was in accord with the Safety Council's campaign to reduce traffic accidents. "But," he added, "they can't convict people in my court unless they have the evidence." He said that in cases thrown out by him, liquor raids had been made without warrants, or that he considered the circumstances otherwise illegal, and he denounced "official lawlessness" and dragnet arrests.

The raiding situation became less acute, but Judge Gayer's friction with the Police Courts over traffic cases continued, and complaint was made that his leniency was making proper traffic enforcement impossible. After freeing numerous men who had been convicted in Police Court of driving while intoxicated, Judge Gayer admitted, in June, 1926, that his policy had not worked well, and said that in future he would impose workhouse terms. However, he soon resumed the liberal discharging of appellants.

Accepts Rose as Bondsman.

Judge Gayer accepted Louis Rose, evader of judgments, on bonds in his court after Judges of the Circuit Court had refused him, and he accepted Sam Arky, another evader of judgments.

In the primary of last August, and in the November election, Judge Gayer had the indorsement of the St. Louis Bar Association for renomination and re-election.

He was born in St. Louis, and was a public school teacher and a photographer before, in middle life, he studied law. He was Assistant City Counselor and Police Court Prosecutor for five years, before being elected to the bench.

INDIAN GUIDE SEEKS TO NAME FLO LEEDS IN $500,000 SUIT

Beauvais Would Make Woman Co-defendant in Slander Action Against J. A. Stillman.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Fred K. Beauvais, Indian guide, who figured in the Stillman divorce proceedings in 1922 filed in Supreme Court today a copy of an amended complaint by which he desires to make Florence Leeds a co-defendant in the $500,000 suit for slander he has filed against James A. Stillman, banker. The Stillmans have since become reconciled.

Beauvais alleges the letters introduced in the Stillman trial were forgeries made by agents of Stillman, Florence Leeds, and John Doe and Richard Roe. He does not know the real names of Doe and Roe, but wants to make them co-defendants.

The complaint charges that the four persons conspired against him because he refused to testify falsely against Mrs. Stillman and that when he scorned their proffered bribes they slandered him so that persons of wealth who formerly employed him to act as guide for their wives and daughters no longer trust him.

Stillman has been ordered to show cause on Monday why Flo Leeds, John Doe and Richard Roe should not be named co-defendants.

6 PRISONERS LASHED, FOUR 40 TIMES, TWO 20, IN DELAWARE

Whip "Laid on Well" as Law Directs in New Castle County Workhouse.

By the Associated Press.

WILMINGTON, Del., March 16.—Six prisoners went under the lash today in the New Castle County workhouse. Four received 40 lashes, and the others 20 lashes each. Elmer J. Leach, "laid it on well," as the law directs, before a small crowd in the workhouse yard.

Roy Holland, Negro, who shot a man in a robbery last week, was the first to be shackled to the whipping post. He was followed by James Pryor, an accomplice in the robbery and shooting, and Grant Brown, both Negroes. Daniel Jones, the only white man among the six, was next whipped. George D. Butler and John Edwards were next with 20 lashes each.

LINDBERGH PLANS 36-HOUR COAST-TO-COAST SERVICE

Pittsburg Paper Says Only One Night's Travel in Train Is Provided in Proposal.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 17.—(Sunday)—The Sun-Telegraph, in a copyrighted story today, says that it has learned authoritatively that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is working out plans for a coast-to-coast air-rail passenger service with a traveling time of 36 hours between New York and Los Angeles.

Under the plan, which the paper says is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., for which Lindbergh is advisory engineer, only one night—from New York to Columbus—would be spent on a train in the coast-to-coast journey.

Only one stop is planned for the planes between Columbus and Los Angeles, and that for refueling, probably at Dodge City, Kan., or Las Vegas, N. M.

Problem Not Alone of National but of World Significance, Gov. Young Says — Higher Discount Rates as Last Resort.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., March 16.—Roy A. Young, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, which for more than a month has been trying to restrain the use of Federal Reserve credit in speculation, said tonight that speculative demand for credit may go to a point where it will be "a serious deterrent to business." He warned lenders to see first that business gets credit at reasonable rates" and to let others get what is left.

Speaking before the Cincinnati Commercial Club, Gov. Young said that already all lines of commerce and business have felt the effect of increased credit charges resulting from high rates offered by speculators, and told his audience that the final cost of the speculative demand for credit "may involve the impairment of the prosperity of our commerce and industry."

This, he pointed out, would be caused through the increasing credit rates having a bad effect on the trade of foreign countries, two of which he said already have increased their rates to prevent money being attracted by higher rates in this country.

No Occasion for Excitement.

Gov. Young's address was the first public utterance he has made on the credit situation since the Board issued its warning to member banks Feb. 6 that speculation was causing board members concern.

He told his listeners that there was "no occasion to become unduly excited" and said that thus far the increased rates to commerce and industry have not been a deterrent to active operation.

Gov. Young said that if other means of curbing speculative credit fails, the board may be compelled in the end to resort to higher discount rates.

"We are all cognizant that rates are much higher for all kinds of credit than they were in August, 1927," he said. "For six years or more there has been an unusual demand for a form of credit that can properly be termed speculative; in fact the unusually high rates that prevail in that field make it evident that the demand has pressed hard on the supply. However, when the funds were not forthcoming from the banks, the speculators made the rate so attractive that corporations and individuals, both foreign and domestic, supplied the funds.

Rates Not Yet Harmful.

"The unusual demand for this particular form of credit has had an effect upon the cost of all other forms of credit so that practically all lines of commerce and industry have been affected to a certain degree, although from all I can observe at this time, the increased rates to commerce and business have not so far been a deterrent to active operation.

"There are many people in the United States who feel that, because of some power that I am frank to confess is unknown to the Federal Reserve Board, low rates could be maintained to commerce and industry indefinitely, even though the speculators pay higher rates.

"I want to remind you that there are approximately 27,000 bankers in the United States and while, from what I have been able to observe, they take care of local needs, when they have funds to employ outside of their own community and are offered call loans at rates from 3 to 4 per cent above credit based upon production and distribution, obviously, they extend that credit which brings the best rates.

"This forces the commercial borrower to make his offer more attractive, with the result that in the course of time everyone pays higher rates. This process of lifting may go to a point where it will become a serious deterrent to business, and it is that phase of the present situation with which the reserve system most concerns itself.

Other Nations Affected Too.

"Nor is this problem a local one. It is not alone of national but of international significance. High rates have drawn credit and gold from many quarters of the globe to satisfy the appetite of the speculative borrower. Two foreign banks of issue already have had to raise their rates to protect their own position. If this continues, others will no doubt have to follow and those countries will go through the experience of lifting rates around a circle until they may get to a point where they will not only have a bad effect on the trade of the foreign countries, but would seriously interfere with the exports of this country. To put it baldly, the final cost may not be reckoned

FALLS DEAD JUST AS WOMAN CALLER ENTERS HIS OFFICE

P. C. Floyd, President of Three Fertilizer Companies, Succumbs in Arcade Building.

DEATH CAUSED BY HEART DISEASE

Miss Marcelle Wright Whom He was Aiding in Getting a Position, Present at End.

Pleasant C. Floyd, president of three fertilizer companies, died of heart disease in his office in the Arcade building, Eighth and Olive streets, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He had been waiting for the daughter of a former employe whom he was helping to get a position and who had just arrived and was standing in the doorway when he collapsed.

The young woman, Miss Marcelle Wright, who lives at the East St. Louis Y. W. C. A., was questioned at police headquarters and placed under bond as a witness for the Coroner.

"I have known Mr. Floyd for some time," Miss Wright told police. "My father used to work for him, but my father and mother are separated now. I had an appointment with Mr. Floyd for 5:30 to talk about a position he was going to help me get.

"I saw him standing in the doorway as I walked toward his office. He was fumbling with his hat and had a sort of blank stare on his face. Apparently he didn't see me until I stopped beside him and spoke. He started and said, 'Hello, Marcelle.' Then he clutched at his breast, and without saying another word toppled over. I called a doctor from a nearby office. The doctor said he was dead."

Floyd was 54 years old and lived at 7135 Northmoor drive, University City. He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Virginia, 19 years old, and a son, John, 18. Both children are students at the University of Missouri.

At his home it was said that he had suffered a severe heart attack a year ago.

He was president of the Floyd Plant Food Co., which operates a plant at Monsanto, Ill., just south of East St. Louis; the Western Fertilizer Products Co., at Stallings, Ill., near Granite City, and the Evansville Fertilizer Co., at Evansville, Ind.

Dr. A. J. Griot, Coroner's physician, performed an autopsy and announced that death was caused by chronic heart disease.

SEEKS $20,000 STAKE OF GAMBLER WHO DIED AT TABLE

Widow Wants Sum That Accrued Because Her Husband Died.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, March 16.—From the Riviera has come a gruesome gambling story of a fortune made at one of the principal casinos which is now being disputed by the widow of the player and the gambling resort. The newcomer took a seat and staked $40 on a number. The number won. Since the player made no sign, the croupier left the original stake on the same number with a portion of the winnings making the maximum.

When his number won again the player still remained motionless, clasping his head in his hands. The lucky number came up repeatedly in a long series until the winnings totaled $20,000.

Then some one nudged the silent gambler. He was dead. The game stopped while the body was taken out. The widow later came to claim the winnings, but the casino refused to give them up, declaring that if the player had been alive he would not have left his money on the same number all the time. A lawsuit is pending.

15,000 HOMELESS IN ALABAMA FLOOD; $250,000 NEEDED

National Guardsmen Rescue 5000 Citizens From Two Inundated Towns—Water Going Down.

15 PERSONS DROWN, OTHERS ARE MISSING

Survivors Suffer From Want of Food and Sanitary Conditions Are Bad—Property Loss Is Big.

By the Associated Press.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 16.—Flood waters that engulfed several southeastern Alabama towns tonight had begun to subside and rescue work apparently was nearing a successful termination. Fifteen persons thus far are known to have drowned at Elba and elsewhere, but more fatalities are feared. Gov. Bibb Graves said tonight that he believed approximately 15,000 persons had been made homeless and that some $250,000 was needed to maintain them until rehabilitation could be effected.

The little Coffee County seat of Elba, shut off by the waters of the Pea River and two creeks for the last two days, was virtually deserted. Most of its 2000 inhabitants had been removed to Troy and Opp, neighboring towns, by boat and automobile. Several hundred were said still to be in the town, although in no immediate danger.

The last two drownings occurred near La Grange, Ga., when a wagon in which J. D. Burgess, a farmer, and his 4-year-old son were riding, was swept from a bridge into the river. A second son in the wagon seized a limb and was rescued by an unidentified man who breasted the swift currents to bring the boy to land.

Geneva, directly south of Elba, still was flooded, but most of its inhabitants were reported safe at Samson.

Food Needed at Brewton.

Brewton, in Escambia county, near the Florida line, was not considered in immediate danger, Adjutant-General F. Eugene Butler said, but food is needed.

The town, of approximately 5000 inhabitants, in the Conecuh River basin, was engulfed by the overflowing waters of Murder and Burnt Corn creeks.

Information from the guardsmen was that food was the principal need at Flomaton, another town in the lower Alabama watershed. Airplanes had dropped supplies considered sufficient for a day or so. A carload of provisions was on the way from Mobile.

While direct communication had not been established with Castleberry, Garland, Pollard, Keego, Pera and several other towns partly submerged in the basin, rescue work was being directed to all those places.

High Water at Montgomery.

While the rise apparently was halting in the southern part of the State, the Alabama River at Montgomery was still approaching a crest. The backwaters of the Alabama, Coosa and Tallapoosa Rivers tonight had driven approximately 4000 from their homes in Montgomery County.

A 57-foot mark, the flood stage, was predicted for the Alabama River at Montgomery tonight.

Elba, with water from Pea River Choctawhatchee tributary, 25 feet deep in its main sections, was the scene of a great exodus last night and today. The Alabama National Guard established a relief camp on Cemetery Hill, between Elba and Big Creek, and took out 1500 persons within 24 hours. There were still several hundreds who had little or no food since Wednesday. Among them were about 100 children, marooned in a school house. Currents prevented boats from reaching them until noon today.

Evacuation began in Geneva last night before the worst of the water from Pea River arrived, and the 3500 citizens were removed to nearby town on high ground during the night and early day hours.

17 Planes Fly Over Flood.

Direction of relief and disease prevention was taken over at Montgomery today, with Enterprise, Troy, Dotham and the National Guard base at Cemetery Hill designated as refuge and supply concentration centers. Gov. Bibb Graves was in temporary command of 17 army airplanes from Maxwell Field, which flew over the various flood sectors with food, serum and other supplies.

Returning aviators and news correspondents told of desperate

REBELS QUITTING TORREON AS CALLES' ARMY CLOSES IN, MEXICO CITY ANNOUNCES

ANTI-SALOON BODY INCLUDES ST. LOUIS IN WIDE CAMPAIGN

Women's Clubs, Churches, Sunday Schools and W. C. T. U. Counted on by Dr. F. Scott McBride.

CITY IS CONSIDERED ONE OF WET AREAS

(Copyright, 1929.)

WASHINGTON, March 16.—A vigorous drive to make St. Louis dry; a drive in which thousands of St. Louis men and women will take part, is down on the program of the Anti-Saloon League of America and soon will be worked out in detail under the direction of Dr. F. Scott McBride, the league's general superintendent, in co-operation with dry leaders in Missouri.

"Like a good many other big cities," said Dr. McBride. "St. Louis is in the third line of trenches which the prohibition law enforcement advocates must storm and take. We have taken the first two lines of trenches in the case of the rural and smaller communities. Only the big cities remain. Our fight now is to dry them up, and we are going into that fight confident of success.

"We know a majority of the good citizens of St. Louis want to see the prohibition law enforced. The bootleggers and the criminals don't. The steady drinkers of bootleg liquor don't. In addition, perhaps, there is a small minority of honest citizens who believe that the law can't be enforced. It can be enforced. And we are going to see that it is enforced."

Outline of Dry Plan.

The plan in its broad, general scope covers the chief cities of the country and applied to St. Louis, includes the following major activities:

Thorough and effective organization of women's clubs and associations, including the Women's Christian Temperance Union, to "follow through" on arrests for dry law violations and see that prosecutions are prompt and vigorous.

The appointment of women's committees by the churches to visit the city's courts, sit through the trials of dry law violators, observe the effectiveness or laxity of justice and report to their various churches.

Organization of male committees from Bible classes and other bodies including civic clubs to busy themselves for law enforcement. This includes the selection and support of dry candidates for city, State and national office; and a fight on wet candidates at the polls.

City and Statewide committee appointments by such organizations as the Parent-Teachers' Association the League of Women Voters, Rotary, Civitan and Kiwanis clubs to aid actively in observing the administration of justice involving dry law violations, reporting miscarriage of justice and taking appropriate steps to prevent the repetition of such miscarriages.

Would Educate Public.

A local "campaign of education" for law enforcement in which churches, schools and clubs will co-operate.

Appropriation of all funds necessary by Federal, State and city governments to enforce the prohibition laws in city and State. This includes an increase in dry law enforcement forces where necessary, more Judges if needed and larger forces in the offices of the District Attorneys and other prosecutors.

The Anti-Saloon League and other dry organizations make no secret of the fact that they now are planning the final drive to carry prohibition enforcement over the top. Headquarters here are humming with activity. Enactment of the Jones bill prescribing heavy penalities for violation and Hoover's inaugural address appear to have added immensely to their morale. Apparently they are delighted with the prospect and keen and eager to get busy with their

MAN KILLED BY SPEEDING AUTO; DRIVER ESCAPES

Victim, About 55, Struck on Jefferon Near Cherokee—Papers Bear Name of Abner Halteman.

An unidentified man about 55 years old, was killed by a speeding automobile last night when he attempted to cross Jefferson avenue near Cherokee street. The automobile which struck him, a brown closed car, sped south on Jefferson without stopping.

Papers in the dead man's clothing bore the name Abner Halteman 3323 South Ninth street. One was a letter from Pressmen's Union No. 6 announcing a meeting. Another, issued by Washington University Medical School dispensary, had the same name and address.

The man was knocked 60 feet by the impact of the automobile, according to Patrolman Fruin of the Soulard street district who witnessed the accident. Fruin did not obtain the license number of the automobile.

The body was taken to the Morgue.

He wore a brown overcoat, gray felt hat, blue coat and pencil-striped trousers and a blue work shirt.

Herman Dicke, 70 years old, a cooper, 1447 North Broadway, was struck by an automobile driven by Paul Toelle, prohibition agent at Broadway and De Soto street last night. At City Hospital Dicke was found to be suffering from a possible fractured skull and acute alcholism. Toelle was taken to the Angelica street police station and released on bond.

AVIATORS GIVE MEAGER DETAILS OF MOVEMENT

Federals Have 30,000 Men and Defenders Under Gen. Escobar Only 5000, Government Says.

LATTER MAY MOVE TO CHIHUAHUA

Official Bulletin Charges Insurgent Chief Has Shipped Family and $100,000 Over-Border.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—Meager reports reaching here today indicate that Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, rebel commander in chief and his forces are evacuating Torreon, the limit of their earlier southward drive and their last important stronghold in Central Mexico.

The Government report of this movement was based on observations by aviators. The evacuation had been predicted in Government bulletins for several days. If today's news is true it indicates that Escobar has decided that the five Federal columns converging on Torreon are too strong for his troops. The Government has said that about 30,000 well equipped Federals are engaged in this campaign, while Escobar was reported to have only 5000 followers, part of whom are not well equipped.

Only 20 Miles From Torreon.

The Government communique on the evacuation came after a day filled with unconfirmed rumors that the rebels were withdrawing before the close approach of the Federal troops from the east. The Government announced that some of its fighting units now were within 20 miles of Torreon, at San Pedro, and were advancing.

Escobar was said by the Government to be transferring his money to the United States and Canada, having already sent his family into the United States in anticipation of the complete failure of the rebel movement and to pave the way for his own escape. It was declared that in one town he had abandoned Federal soldiers found papers showing that he had deposited $100,344.80 in American money in the Bank of Montreal, Quebec.

At Torreon Today, Calles Says.

Gen Calles telegraphed President Portes Gil today that he hoped to reach Torreon with his main army tomorrow. He said that some of his forces were then at Guadalupe Victoria, about half way between Durango and Torreon.

Government headquarters was informed that the private car of Gen. Escobar was attached to an engine at Torreon ready for instant departure. The General was reported to have 3,000,000 pesos ($1,500,000) packed to carry with him.

The Consul at El Paso, Tex., informed the Government that trains from Juarez running southward through rebel territory had been unable to proceed beyond Jiminez, Chihuahua, because of bombing by the Federals.

Possible Effect of Retreat.

Gen. Escobar had occupied Torreon for nearly two weeks. He fell back to that city after a brief occupancy of Monterrey and a longer stay at Saltillo, in both of which places he confiscated money and war supplies.

If he now is falling back toward Chihuahua, it may possibly mean that he has decided to draw the Federal forces farther into rebel territory where he will gain added strength while the Federals are put to a disadvantage because of the long distance from their base of supplies.

Leniency to All But Leaders.

President Portes Gil today ordered the Federal authorities in the State of Vera Cruz to free all rebel prisoners below the grade of lieutenant-colonel. It was under-

ATLANTA PRISON WARDEN OUSTED; SPY SYSTEM RAKED

John Snook Ordered to Resign by April 4—He Refused to Co-Operate in Espionage.

BORAH DENOUNCES "UNDERCOVER" MEN

Their Use Involves Courts in Fake, He Says — Mrs. Willebrandt Defends Their Employment.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Severely condemning the use of "undercover" agents in the Federal penitentiaries, Senator Borah, (Rep.), Idaho, in a statement today predicted that the new Attorney General, William D. Mitchell, would discontinue the practice.

This confidence in the course to be pursued by Mitchell was expressed by the Senator after a conference with the Attorney General this week. However, it developed that Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General, was not so ready to give up the system.

"The whole system is based upon a wrong theory," said Senator Borah. "I have given much time to the investigation and consideration of the so-called spy, or "under cover" system in our Federal penitentiaries. It is my judgment it can not be justified upon any theory of law or of practice or of expediency. Mitchell is a great lawyer, trained in law from childhood, and, basing my opinion upon this fact, I predict that the system will be discontinued."

Mrs. Willebrandt, who is in charge of the administration of the prisons declared, however, that "the system seems the only way at present to find the facts necessary to keep conditions wholesome in the penitentiaries." She believed the "under cover" system had been "fairly and equitably applied." She was not responsible, she said, for the institution of the practice. It was instituted by former Attorney-General Sargent.

The present row was stirred up when Warden John Snook of the Atlanta penitentiary refused to cooperate with the department in the use of "under cover" agents in his institution threatening to resign if the practice were continued. His resignation within 30 days was asked for on March 5 but it was declared at the department that this was not the only complaint against Snook though no charge involving his integrity has been made. The 30 days are up April 4.

Mrs. Willebrandt said that Snook's resignation had been asked because of "utter want of administrative ability." While Snook is from Idaho and has the interest of Senator Borah, the Idaho Senator has declared himself a foe of the spy system on several other occasions.

"The system involves, in the first instance," Senator Borah said, "in order to get the spy, or under cover man, into the penitentiary, fake or fraudulent commitments and then fake or fraudulent representations or procedure in order to secure his release. These commitments must either ostensibly, or in fact, involve the courts or the officers of the courts. Any plan which draws the courts, or the officers of the courts, into a scheme for issuing fake or fraudulent processes or commitments is essentially vicious. I would not hesitate myself to vote to impeach a judge who had signed or issued such papers or who would authorize it to be done.

"There is the other question the effect of the system upon the prisoners also. Penologists very generally condemn it as demoralizing." There is a way to deal with our inmates in the penitentiary other than that of debasing and prostituting the courts or reflecting upon the wardens o fthe penitentiaries. In addititn to this, it is about 300 years behind the times in prison management."

BRENTWOOD BECOMES A CITY

St. Louis County has another city today as the result of a special election in Brentwood. By a vote of 450 to 168, Brentwood voted to become a city of the fourth-class instead of a village.

As a village, Brentwood was dependent on the County Court for public improvements. As a city it will have the right to assess taxes for paving, sewers, fire plugs and other improvements. An election will be held April 2 at which a Mayor, Chief of Police, a Board of Aldermen and other officials will be chosen. Brentwood is directly west of Maplewood and has a population of about 2000.

Bible's Tragic Drive, as Shown by Camera of Photographer Who Was Killed

ANTI-SALOON BODY PLANS EFFORT TO DRY UP ST. LOUIS

plans for enforcing the law in every wet section of the United States.

St. Louis comes within that classification, Dr. McBride asserts. The program which is now being worked out for making the city dry will be communicated to the Missouri leaders when completed, and is in line with similar plans for other big cities of the country. The field work will be largely under the direction and guidance of local leaders.

It will be carried out, Dr. McBride asserts, along the line of plans that will apply generally to all large cities. The National organization plans to give the State and local dry leaders the formula, to start it working, and leave it largely to them to execute. Where help is wanted from Washington, Dr. McBride says, help will be forthcoming. National headquarters' field workers stand ready to go to St. Louis, if needed and requested, to help start the big drive.

An important part of the drive revolves around the activities of the city's women. Under the present tentative program, it is planned to have groups of women attend regularly all sessions of the various courts at which prohibition cases come up. These women will simply sit in the court rooms as spectators and observe the progress of the trials and the sentences that are imposed on those found guilty. There may be three or more women in each court room, or there may be a dozen. Day after day they will attend the sessions. The personnel of the group, of course, will change from time to time.

"The idea back of this," Dr. McBride asserted, "is not to antagonize the courts, or to be unfriendly or critical, but to let the Judge see in each case that women are present and following the administration of justice as he dispenses it. The Judge who upholds the law should feel encouraged by the presence of those outstanding advocates of law enforcement. The Judge who imposes inadequate penalties, whose sympathies are personally with the wets, who makes a farce out of law enforcement, will know that he is under sueveillance.

"The time when Judges can make a laughing stock of the law by imposing small fines and other utterly inadequate sentences upon violators is now passing. Soon it will have passed entirely. The law has teeth and those teeth are going to be used. When the courts punish bootlegging and other dry law violations adequately by real fines and real prison sentences, bootlegging will become unpopular, unprofitable and dangerous. Law violation will diminish correspondingly.

"This does not mean that Missouri is without good Judges, as it has some of the best. It rather means that the citizens are going to show that they are interested in public affairs."

The foregoing are among the activities which Dr. McBride and other dry leaders here believe were in President Hoover's mind when he referred in his inaugural address to the duties of citizens. That is one side of the picture, as Dr. McBride sees it.

"The other side," he said "is that part of law enforcement which must be undertaken by the Federal Government and the States and local communities. Thus far, the Federal Government's share in prohibition enforcement has been handicapped to some extent by lack of money.

To See About Funds.

"I don't know, off-hand, how much money the Federal Government is spending to enforce prohibition in the cities. Whatever it is, I should be inclined to say it isn't enough. But the exact amount is not the essential points. What is essential is to make sure that the Government has enough money to do its work thoroughly. If the prohibtion enforcement agencies need more money then the Anti-Saloon League and other dry organizations will see to it that Congress, which is three-to-one dry, appropriates enough money to do the job.

"If the State of Missouri and the city of St. Louis are not doing their part to enforce the law, either through their regular enforcement machinery, or in other ways, then we will make it our work to remedy that situation, too, so far as we can.

"For the first time since the enactment of the Volstead law we are within definite hailing distance of real, general prohibition enforcement. The end of widespread violation is in sight. The rural communities, in the main, already are dry. The smaller cities and towns, likewise, have little, if any, prohibition problem. Only the big cities, St. Louis among them, are wet. Those cities constitute the last stand, the Hindenburg line, of the wets. When that line is smashed, the wets will be everywhere in full retreat, routed.

"The dry forces are now about to engage in a general assault on the last line of resistance. We will attack it all along its length, city by city. We are making separate plans for each big city in the country, keying them all to the general program but adopting the plan in each community to local needs, conditions and circumstances. It may take a little time to work them out. But that work is what we are tackling now, and I am wholly convinced that we shall succeed.

"Fundamentally, the men and women of St. Louis are law-abiding. They have a high sense of their duty to obey the law. They are patriotic and public spirited. We do not anticipate great difficulty in awakening those now seemingly indifferent to their duties with respect to prohibition law obedience."

"Do you give any time limit on drying up the cities?" Dr. McBride was asked.

"No, but I am confident that within a year there will be a big change for the better in local law enforcement."

HOOVER'S POLICY ON OIL ONLY PART OF LARGER PLAN

He Has New Program of Dealing With Public Domain, Ex-Congressman Winter Says, After Call.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 16. — The Government oil conservation policy of the Hoover administration is only a first step in a new program of dealing with the public domain, former Representative Winter of Wyoming, said today after a conference with the President at the White House.

Winter asserted that the Chief Executive had a plan for dealing with public lands under which the comparatively small group of States in which these lands lie will be able to realize a return from them. He was without details of the plan and administration officials declined to discuss the matter.

While Winter was at the White House, Secretary Wilbur of the Interior Department announced the appointment of a committee of three to review outstanding permits to prospect for oil and gas on Government lands with a view to the early cancellation of those whose holders have failed to protect their equities.

This committee is composed of William Spry, commissioner of the General Land Office; George Otis Smith, director of the Geological Survey, and Edward C. Finney, solicitor of the Interior Department. It will begin work at once.

Wilbur Outlines Survey.

The policy of the committee in dealing with these permits was outlined in this formal statement by Secretary Wilbur:

"With regard to the 20,000 outstanding permits on public lands, the department will deal fairly with holders who have been diligent in maintaining their equities. Where actual drilling operations have been started and are being continued, opportunity will be given to carry on development work to finally determine the character of the land. Immediate steps will be taken, however, to cancel all such permits where no drilling has been done or money spent in development.

"Where permits are now in good standing, either because of recent issue or previous extension of time, no action will be taken during the remaining period covered by the permit. When that time has expired, however, and the permittee has failed to comply with the terms of his permit, he will be called upon immediately to show cause why the permit should not be canceled.

More Than 5000 Applications.

"This includes so-called group developments heretofore approved and in which extensions have been allowed, where permittees are engaged in a joint drilling program, test wells being drilled by a responsible drilling company on some of the public lands in the area covered by the permits. So long as this program is being diligently prosecuted, no adverse action will be taken.

"No leases will be issued for oil and gas production unless required by mandate of law, such as discovery under existing permits, as provided by the mineral leasing act or through the advertisement of a minimum of 25,000 acres of Osage Indian lands annually, as directed by the act of Congress approved March 2, 1929."

The Secretary disclosed that more than 5000 applications for oil and gas permits were pending in the General Land Office here, with many others in the field offices. Steps have been taken to reject all of these applications.

"Probably in none of the cases on hand has the applicant expended money for development purposes," Secretary Wilbur said, "although he may have gone to some expense in opposing conflicting claims or furnishing additional evidence in support of his application."

Resolution Urges Keeping Oil Output Down to 1928 Average.

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., March 16.—A resolution recommending that beginning April 1 the output of crude oil in the United States, Mexico and northern South America be curbed so as not to exceed the average daily production in 1928 was adopted here today by the General Conservation Committee of the American Petroleum Institute.

It was pointed out that the daily average production so far this year had been climbing steadily until it now was several hundred thousand barrels in excess of the average for last year.

Regional committees were requested to report to the American Petroleum Institute, meeting in New York March 27, as to whether the terms of the resolution could be carried out.

R. G. Holmes of New York, president of the Texas Co., was chairman of the subcommittee which drew the resolution. Dr. George Otis Smith, chairman of the advisory committee of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, expressed thorough satisfaction with the results of the conference.

LIAM T. MAC COSGAIR SENDS ST. PATRICK'S DAY GREETINGS

That Is Gaelic Signature of President Cosgrave of Irish Free State in Message to U. S.

DUBLIN, March 16.—President William T. Cosgrave today gave the Associated Press the following message for the people of America on St. Patrick's day, it was signed with the Gaelic form of his name, Liam T. MacCosgair.

"On St. Patrick's day hosts of Ireland's thoughts take wing across the oceans carrying her children's and friends' message of gratitude and confident call of their fealty and friendship.

"Exiles' hearts are stirred and they proudly proclaim their race. No other country's national festival is more loyally celebrated than that of Ireland. In every corner of the world Irish men and women gather in their dozens, in their hundreds and in their thousands to demonstrate their abiding love of their mother country.

"In the old land the spirit of self-reliance is the force that is being used to build a new state. Nevertheless the good will and moral support of our fellow Irishmen in other countries are factors which influence and assist us and on which we know we can always count. Every one of our people abroad can do his or her share in making the new Ireland by maintaining that unshakeable pride of race which has after long centuries brought us again in the circle of nations by showing in daily life a lofty ideal of citizenship and by keeping themselves well informed of affairs in the homeland."

FAILS IN ATTEMPT AT TEXAS-PANAMA DAYLIGHT FLIGHT

Capt. Eaker Arrives at Managua, Nicaragua, Behind Schedule — To Go to Canal Zone Today.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 16.—Capt. Ira C. Eaker arrived here at 5:21 p. m., from Guatemala City, which he left at 2:15 p. m. two hours behind schedule. He abandoned his attempt to make a dawn-to-dusk flight from Brownsville, Tex. to France Field, C. Z., and will leave for the Canal Zone at 6 a. m., tomorrow.

He still had 400 of the 1950 miles of his journey to cover. He plans to fly to David, Panama, 365 miles to refuel, then 185 miles to France Field.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., March 16.—Capt. Eaker, in his pursuit plane "Pan-America" in which he expected to be able to maintain the speed of 135 miles an hour necessary for the journey, left this city at 4:08 a. m. today in an attempt to make a dawn-to-dusk flight to France Field, C. Z. He landed for refueling at Tampico 260 miles away at 6:30 a. m., at Minatitlan, Mex., at 9:30 a. h., 370 miles further on and covered the 440 miles to Guatemala City by 2 p. m. His next scheduled stop reached at 5:21 p. m. was Managua, 330 miles beyond Guatemala City.

Before his departure, Capt. Eaker said he expected to attempt a return dawn-to-dusk flight from France Field to Brownsville, then a one-day trip from San Antonio, Tex., to Washington.

Capt. Eaker, who was chief pilot on the 150-hour endurance flight of the Army monoplane Question Mark, was described today by Hans J. Adamson, secretary to T. F. Davison, Assistant Secretary of War, as a man of steel, yet withal a bit superstitious like many air men.

PAIR HELD IN MEMPHIS TELL OF THREE ST. LOUIS HOLDUPS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 16.—Juanita Rausculp, 21 years old, and Howard L. Cox, 24, both of Lima, O., arrested here yesterday while attempting to rob a filling station, told police they had come from St. Louis after robbing three filling stations in that vicinity.

The two said they left Lima about a month ago and went to St. Louis, living at the Claridge Hotel for more than three weeks. When their funds ran out, they turned to crime, according to the police.

East Side police think Miss Rausculp may be the young woman with a red hat and wine-colored coat who accompanied two men in two holdups the morning of March 4. While the woman waited at the wheel, the two men obtained $30 in the Thompson Restaurant at 129 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, later appearing at East Alton where they robbed A. L. Traynor, a filling station attendant, of $189, and compelled him to ride with them to East St. Louis.

POLICE ARREST 800 DRIVERS WHO LACK NEW TAGS

Men Stationed Along All Thoroughfares to Downtown District Stop State and City Violators.

DAYTON ST. DISTRICT OFFICERS CATCH 130

Clarence Terhune, Zeppelin Stowaway, Among Offenders—All to Appear in Court This Week.

Policemen stationed on all thoroughfares to the downtown district arrested more than 800 motorists, between 7 a. m. and 6 p. m. yesterday, who had neglected to obtain State and city license tags for 1929.

Those who had no State licenses were taken to the nearest police station, to furnish $200 bond for appearance in Police Court, and those who were without city licenses were required to prove residence beyond the city limits or accept Police Court summonses.

Police of Dayton Street District made the greatest number of arrests with 130, while Soulard and Magnolia districts vied for second place with 100 and 99 arrests, respectively. Carondelet District trailed with nine arrests.

A Blow to Thrifty Drivers.

Particular attention was paid to automobiles which displayed 10-cent tin signs, marked "St. Louis County" in place of city license tags, becauses Chief of Police Gerk had heard that a number of thrifty St. Louisans had adopted this practice to avoid paying the city tax. St. Louis County residents who failed to have city tags for the municipalities in which they lived were advised to get them.

Clarence Terhune, stowaway of the Graf Zeppelin on its homeward flight, received a police court summons at Thirteenth street and Washington avenue for failure to have a city tag.

For the first time since city automobile licenses have been sold in St. Louis, there was a line of last-minute purchasers outside the Collector's office in City Hall yesterday morning. In the basement an even larger crowd packed the offices of the State license office, which opened at 8 a. m., an hour before the Collector's office started business.

More than 10,000 State licenses were issued at the City Hall Friday.

By an agreement among authorities, arrests started simultaneously yesterday in St. Louis, St. Charles, Jefferson and Franklin counties. In Central Township, including Clayton, more than 150 were arrested.

The 800 St. Louisans arrested yesterday have been ordered to appear on various days in the coming week in Police Court, charged with operating cars without licenses. In past years, such drivers have been released on payment of costs if they displayed proper licenses in court.

However, the advocates of such a plan apparently overlooked the fact that any such procedure at this time would result in an invitation to the speculator to proceed at an even more rapid rate than in the past.

"Another solution offered is that we do nothing and let nature take its course. There are others who believe the system is able to earmark its credit in such a manner that it can by some wonderful formula brand the credit it releases and confine its use to approved purposes. "Another group believes that the system should resort to the orthodox and traditional method of correction by a rediscount rate which they think will accomplish the result desired. In making such a suggestion, however, they overlook the fact that high money rates may not deter the speculator when he is optimistic, but, if they continue long, may seriously depress trade and industry.

"It is for this reason that the system believes it should first use every effort to accomplish the desired results by other means, though it may be compelled in the end to resort to higher discount rates."

"Another group believes that the system should resort to the orthodox and traditional method of correction by a rediscount rate which they think will accomplish the result desired. In making such a suggestion, however, they overlook the fact that high money rates may not deter the speculator when he is optimistic, but, if they continue long, may seriously depress trade and industry.

"It is for this reason that the system believes it should first use every effort to accomplish the desired results by other means, though it may be compelled in the end to resort to higher discount rates."

Ceremony for Melville E. Stone.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The ashes of the late Melville E. Stone, counsellor and former general manager of the Asociated Press, will be committed to their final resting place in Washington Cathedray at 11 a. m., Saturday, March 23. A number of prominent officials will attend the ceremony over which Bishop James E. Freeman will officiate.

15,000 HOMELESS IN ALABAMA FLOOD; $250,000 NEEDED

situations at Elba and Geneva, particularly. They said 100 automobiles were moving toward the Elba region to take some 2000 refugees from Cemetery Hill, on order of the Governor. Sanitary conditions were rapidly becoming dangerous there, and an outbreak of measles among the refugee children threatened to spread.

State Health Department physicians, working with National Guardsmen under Col. W. A. Gayle and local Red Cross workers, were inoculating refugees against measles and typhoid.

Thrilling Rescues Reported.

Stories of thrilling rescues and pitiful refugee conditions were plentiful today, as correspondents began to return to Montgomery and Birmingham. Apparently most of the refugees escaped the rising flood waters without anything but the clothing they wore. Wire communications were so disrupted that reports were lacking from many communities known to be endangered by the high water. The first train from Flomaton, one of the flooded towns, reached Mobile this afternoon.

S. J. Martin of Mobile, conductor of the train, C. J. Brown, flagman, and R. M. Nelson, Jr., baggage master, told of having spent two sleepless days and two nights in rescue work, taking scores of refugees into the coaches.

Our cars were packed and jammed with people, many of them who had not eaten for hours," said Martin. "We turned on the steam heat and some of the people, although they had to sit upright all night, said they were comfortable for the first time in many hours."

Lightning Strikes Store.

In the midst of the flood, the crew said, lightning struck a store at Flomaton and it was burned to the water level.

It was impossible to determine, according to the train, whether there has been any loss of life in Flomaton. They had been told bodies of 10 Negroes had been recovered at Brewton, but they could not verify the report.

Nelson, who lives at Flomaton, said 20 persons had sought refuge in his home, which was situated a bit higher than some of the other houses. Water kept rising slowly, and as it crept higher they retreated to the attic, thinking momentarily the rise would cease. Finally they were compelled to chop a hole in the roof through which they escaped, to be rescued from their perch by a motorboat.

At Brown's home in Flomaton Thursday night, a cry was heard from a nearby home, where two men were seen trying to hang onto a perch. Mrs. Brown pushed a skiff from her home in their direction. Neither the men or boat have been seen, Brown said.

Red Cross Officer, Tents and Supplies Sent From St. Louis.

The Midwestern branch office of the American Red Cross with headquarters in St. Louis took steps yesterday to aid local chapters in flood relief work throughout the Middle West.

Albert Evans, assistant national director of disaster relief, was dispatched to Marianna, Ark., with 100 tents for flood refugees and smaller shipments of tents were sent to Forrest City, Ark., and Mounds, Ill. The tents were supplied from the United States Army stores at Jefferson Barracks through the co-operation of Maj. Louis P. Ford, acting commanding officer. They were rushed to their destinations free of charge by the Illinois Central and Missouri Pacific railroads.

Walter Over, field representative for Southern Illinois, was sent to Cairo to aid in preparing for an emergency that may arise Tuesday when a threatening flood crest is expected there. Miss Kathryn B. Monroe, disaster expert attached to the St. Louis office, has been dispatched to Greybull, Wyo., to take charge of relief work there.

The St. Louis office was notified that 17 airplanes loaded with Red Cross food and medical supplies had been sent from Montgomery, Ala., to relieve suffering at Elba in the same state.

Florida Town Being Swept Away by Record High Water.

By the Associated Press.

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 16.—Reports made here by relief workers in the northwest Florida flood zone tonight, said that the town of Milligan, Flordia, was being swept away by the highest stage ever recorded on the Yellow River.

Inhabitants of the town, warned of the coming floods, had moved out in advance and were safe in a school house out of the inundated area, Salvation Army workers reported. They said residents of the town expressed the relief that the entire town would be swept away by the river, which although at the highest stage any of them remembers, still was rising tonight.

Only four dwellings were left on the town site, reports said, and these had been swept from their foundations.

Milligan, a town of about 500, is about 60 miles south of Geneva, Ala., and 20 miles from the Alabama line.

TO KEEP SIXTY-THIRD WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

G. W. Reitz, 88, and His Wife, 84, of 5125 Wabada Av., to Celebrate.

Being happily married for 63 years really isn't difficult for those who want happiness badly enough to make an effort to obtain it, according to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Reitz of 5125 Wabada avenue, whose sixty-third wedding anniversary will be observed this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Reitz were married March 21, 1866, in Monroe County, Ill., after he had been discharged from the Union Army, in which he served as a Lieutenant with the Sixty-first Negro Infantry of Illinois. He is 88 years old and Mrs. Reitz 84.

"The way I look at it," he said yesterday, "is that when a man and woman are married they are married for life and they have to make the best of it. Of course, if their temperaments don't agree, or if one of them is ugly and wicked, there's not much one can do about it. A loving and forgiving spirit is needed.

"There are four things we can enjoy even now, and the first is prayer. You know I was a minister for seven years after the war, but I had to give it up on account of throat trouble. The second is reading—I read for about five hours every day—the third is eating and the fourth is sleeping."

Mr. and Mrs. Reitz will be guests at a luncheon in their honor to be given Thursday, on their wedding anniversary, by members of Elmbank —. E. Church. In the evening there will be a reception for friends at their home.

They came to St. Louis in 1877, after Reitz had left the ministry, and he was a mail carrier here until 1911 when he retired.

They had 10 children, six of whom are living. Two sons are in business in Seattle, Wash. One of their married daughters lives in Oklahoma, one in New York, another, Mrs. William Maull, in Overland. They make their home with another daughter, Mrs. Frank H. Hauhart.

OSCEOLA, Mo., March 16.—Ray Kiefer looked through some old, unopened letters the other day. Inside an envelope bearing a 1926 postmark he found a United States Treasury check for $1700, a refund on his income tax.

STUDENTS RALLY TO NINE ACCUSED IN SURVEY ON SEX

Eight Petitions at University of Missouri Express Support of Group Under Threat of Dismissal.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 16.—Eight petitions requesting students at the University of Missouri to support those members of the faculty and of the student body concerned in the circulation of the 1000 sex questionnaires to university students, appeared on the campus today, all originating among various student groups. At noon today the largest of these had 600 signatures.

The chief object appears to be an attempt to avoid the expected dismissal of Dr. H. O. Degraff, assistant professor, who assumed indirect responsibility for the questionnaire. He is considered one of the most popular professors in the university. Four other professors and four students are involved.

One of the petitions circulated by students this afternoon carries a threat of boycott against all Columbia merchants who affixed their signatures to the petition circulated by N. T. Gentry, former Attorney-General of Missouri, in which the immediate dismissal of faculty members and students concerned in the questionnaires, is demanded. Fifty students had signed this particular one by noon. Gentry's petition was signed by the greater number of city merchants, including Mayor W. J. Hetzler and other city and county officials, bearing in all about 300 names.

Gentry Starts New Petition.

Gentry countered the boycott threat with another petition, to be signed by Columbia women.

Thorough investigation of the sociological course, "The Family," developed and taught by Prof. Degraff, will be instituted when the Executive Committee of the Board of Curators meets Tuesday afternoon in a special session called by Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the university.

Classes in "The Family" are divided into four member research committees. Each student must write a 100-page thesis or book drawing conclusions on family life based on the research.

Degraff's lectures in "The Family" were described as ultra-frank. One recent subject was "Sex Compatability."

The committee also will hold hearings for the five faculty members and four students concerned in the distribution of the questionnaires. Gentry will present his petition to the meeting.

Brooks Reverses Statement.

Questioned on last night's statement by Kirk Jones, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee of the Legislature, in which he declared that "unless President Brooks and the members of the Board of Curators summarily dismiss any professor and expel any student or students involved in this sex questionnaire scandal, I very much fear that it will cost the university heavily in necessary appropriations," Dr. Brooks replied that he did not consider it advisable to make statements in regard to the Legislature previous to the meeting scheduled for Tuesday.

He added, however, that all preparations and preliminary investigations had been made for a complete report to the Executive Committee on that day.

The sex questionnaire was sharply denounced today by the local chapter of Chi Omega Sorority, and was termed an insult to every university woman who received one.

Sorority Denounces Plan.

"With the desire to register our part of the student sentiment of the University of Missouri in regard to the recent questionnaire scandal," says the statement issued by the sorority after a unanimous vote, "we hereby express our severe condemnation of it. We regard it as an insult to every university woman who received one.

"We would regret drastic action which would injure any individual or cause the removal of any member of the faculty, but we sincerely hope that a policy will be established which will protect us from such salacious exposure in the future."

Unconfirmed reports said that replies were being received through the regular mails, by the committee, which sent the sex questionnaires. The replies are said to be in personal letter envelopes to avoid their falling into the hands of university administrative officials.

GOVERNMENT OPENS OWN JAIL IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, March 16.—Uncle Sam set himself up in the jail business today.

The city recently informed the Government that after March 15, it no longer could care for Federal prisoners, and so the new Federal House of detention was opened today. It was said to be the first Government Jail to be opened in a State, although there are such institutions in the territories. One hour after opening, 54 transfers of prisoners had been made.

The new jail is at 11th and West street and is in charge of Warden C. L. Nicholson, formerly Warden of the Federal Reformatory at Chillicothe.

GOVERNOR URGES ORRICK TO STAY ON POLICE BOARD

In Letter Asks Him to Remain "at Least Several Months" as "Great Aid to Law Enforcement."

As a "great aid to law enforcement" in St. Louis, Gov. Caulfield has made formal request of Allen C. Orrick, president of the Police Board, that he remain in his position "at least for several months."

Col. Orrick said yesterday that, as he had not received the letter in which the Governor makes the request, he would not comment. The letter will no doubt reach him at his downtown office in tomorrow's mail. The text, as given out by the Governor in Jefferson City yesterday, follows:

> My Dear Colonel: It has been suggested to me that possibly you might change your mind if I wrote you, and I am writing in the earnest hope that you will do so.
> I will be very much gratified if you will withdraw your resignation as a member of the Board of Police Commissioners of St. Louis.
> I realize that this is demanding of you a very great sacrifice and I would not ask it if it were not for the fact that your advice and assistance, at least for several months until the new board shall have had its policies established, would be of great aid to law enforcement.
> It is my intention to appoint as your associates men of the same high character as yourself.

When the Governor was in the city Wednesday, Orrick told him he wished to be relieved of Police Board duties as soon as possible, because of the requirements of his law practice. The term for which he was appointed runs until next January, but he wished to leave with his colleagues of the retiring board, their terms having expired.

TWO PARTIES IN KIRKWOOD NOMINATE CITY CANDIDATES

Both Agree on Nominees for Board of Education; Election to be April 2.

Members of the Harmony and Progressive municipal parties in Kirkwood nominated their candidates for the elections of April 2 last night. Both parties agreed on the three candidates for the Board of Education and each party nominated eight aldermen for the eight offices.

Three hundred members of the Progressive group met in the Kirkwood High School, while 100 members of the Harmony organization met in the City Hall.

ROBBED WHILE PUTTING AUTO IN GARAGE OF THEIR HOME

Isadore Mizes Loses $25 and Watch, Wife's Three Rings Valued at $825 Stolen.

Two men stopped Isadore Mizes and his wife of 5864 Maffitt avenue as they were putting their machine in the garage in the rear of their home last night. While one of the men covered their victims with a pistol, the other robbed Mizes of $25 in cash and a watch valued at $100, and took three rings, valued at $825, from Mrs. Mizes.

They escaped on foot through the alley.

FIREMAN HURT AT $1500 BLAZE

Nickel Plating Plant at Seventh and St. Charles Damaged.

Fire of undetermined origin damaged the nickel plating establishment of August Stockman on the top floor of a five-story brick building at the southwest corner of Seventh and St. Charles streets last night. Fire Chief Alt estimated the damage $500 to the building and $1000 to the contents.

Capt. Brady of Engine Co. No. 12 suffered lacerations of his right hand when a window in the building was broken. He was treated at City Hospital. The first floor of the building is occupied by a Wolff-Wilson drug store.

G. O. P. Women on Par With Men in Campaign

Mrs. W. T. Nardin Credited With Organizing Miller Machine Thinks Political Work Part of Her Civic Duty.

Women in Republican city political campaigns seems to be definitely established on a par with men as a result of the recent primary and the prospect that 2500 women will be engaged in precinct work in the 28 wards of the city in the forthcoming mayorality campaign.

Credit for the successful organization of a strong women's machine under the Miller banner goes in large part to Mrs. William T. Nardin who directed the Women's Division of the primary campaign, organized and supervised a Speakers' Bureau and assisted in the delivery of the Twenty-Eighth Ward of which she is committeewoman.

Acknowledged by Republican leaders as one of the ablest woman organizers that ever turned to political activity, no one is quicker to disclaim credit than Mrs. Nardin.

Gives Chief Credit to Workers.

"The most important persons in a campaign are the precinct workers who go from door to door," Mrs. Nardin said yesterday. "During the primary we had 1500 women doing that work. By the express request of Mayor Miller we got a fifty-fifty break in his campaign, and were treated with as much consideration as the men.

"As the representative of the woman Republicans I was admitted to all the party councils and accorded the greatest courtesy and consideration. But, if I were to step out, there would remain a hundred women who know as much, or as little, about politics as I do."

During the mayoralty campaign, Mrs. Nardin will confine her activity to her own ward and to her Speakers' Bureau. Work in other wards will be handled by the individual committeewomen who will work together under the leadership of Park Commissioner Pape, chairman of the Republican City Central Committee, and Mrs. Kate Kuhnert, vice chairman of the committee.

Woman Speakers' Bureau.

Mrs. Nardin is particularly proud of her Speakers' Bureau. Three years ago in the interest of former Senator George H. Williams, she organized such a bureau on a small scale and improved it during President Hoover's campaign last fall. At present she is conducting regular classes for men and women in the art of campaign speaking.

"But political activity is by no means the absorbing interest of my life as some people would believe," Mrs. Nardin said. "I have my clubs and my home. I know where my two boys are at all times.

"I am interested in politics from a civic point of view. Even before women obtained suffrage I was interested. It was ground into me as a child that interest in Government was a patriotic service.

WOMAN IN POLITICS

—Kandeler Photo.

MRS. W. T. NARDIN.

"My ancestors from my great-great-grandfather, who was a General in the Revolutionary War, have all been deeply interested in politics. My family have always been strong Republicans, but I do not consider Democrats as either knaves or fools.

Woman's Place in Politics.

"I believe that women should take a part in their Government because it means so much to their families and because it is a part of their Christian faith. I have never favored a candidate because I thought he would be a winner. I have always chosen my candidates because I thought they were the logical persons to be in office and I have picked some losers."

Mrs. Nardin, who is the wife of the vice president and general manager of the Pet Milk Co., lives at 6253 Westminster place, with her husband and two sons, 9 and 12 years old. She began her active political life as a precinct worker, advanced to Committeewoman and has served a two-year term as president of the Republican Woman's Club. She is active in the St. Louis Woman's Club, the Wednesday Club, the College Club and the Current Century Circle, the latter a literary club of 25 women. Educated at the University of Missouri, she returns there frequently for post-graduate work and has assisted several orphans in obtaining university education.

W. H. H. HOWE, ARTIST, EX-ST. LOUISAN, DIES

Former Clothing Worker, Aided by Townsmen, Became Famous Painter.

William Henry Harrison Howe, who was enabled to study in Europe by a group of wealthy St. Louisans and became one of the most famous American painters of his period, died of heart disease Friday evening at his home in Lawrence Park, Bronxville, N. Y. He was 83 years old.

Various stories are told of how influential persons with taste became interested in his work when Howe was an employe of a St. Louis clothing manufacturer. One account is that a sketch of a fellow passenger on an elevator won the admiration of its wealthy subject.

The fact that he had talent worth developing was enough for the St. Louisans of financial and social dominance in those days. Several of them got together and sent Howe to Paris, where he studied under Otto de Thoren and Vuillefroy. In 1886 he won honorable mention at the Paris Salon, and almost annually from then on he won some award of international distinction.

He was awarded medals of the Paris Salon in 1888; Exposition Universelle in Paris in 1889; Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, London and Boston, in 1890; Chicago Exposition, 1893; California Midwinter Exposition in 1894, and the Atlanta Exposition in 1895.

The cross of the Legion of Honor was conferred upon him in 1898, and St. Louis friends recall that the comment of Mr. Howe, who specialized in landscapes with cattle, was "pretty good for a cow painter." Two years earlier he had been made an Officer d'Academy in Paris, and he was a member of the National Academy, the National Institute of Arts and Letters and the Salmagundi and Lotos clubs in this country.

Mr. Howe's work is represented in the collection of almost all the older families of wealth in St. Louis. Two of his paintings, "The Norman Bull" and "In a Meadow" are in the City Art Museum. Others are in private and public collections elsewhere in the United States, Germany, Italy and England. He served on the jury of the World's Fair in 1904.

He married Miss Julia May Clark of St. Louis, who survives, in 1876. She is a sister of H. E. Clark of 6945 Delmar boulevard. For about 15 years Mr. and Mrs. Howe resided in France, Germany, England and Italy, returning to make their home at Lawrence Park, where he remained until the last few months.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the residence at Bronxville.

SENATORS DISCUSS FARM RELIEF PLANS

M'Nary (Rep.) and Smith (Dem.) Over Radio Agree Organized Marketing.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Senators McNary (Rep.), Oregon, and Smith (Dem.), South Carolina, who will take prominent parts in the drafting of farm relief legislation at the special session of Congress, gave their views on the subject through the National Radio Forum, a nation-wide hookup arranged by the Washington Evening Star.

Both agreed that organized marketing was one of the most promising methods of curing the farmer's ills.

Both gave the opinion that until farmers were enabled to control production so that they might dictate the price at which they will sell their products, little real betterment of the agricultural situation could be secured.

Beyond this point, however, the Senators offered different, if not opposing suggestions.

Smith said that the whole problem was tied up in orderly marketing, and that by being placed in a position to set his own price, the farmer could include in that price the overhead of his business such as taxes, freight rates and handling charges. He declared that "it is idle to speak of the tariff as beneficial to the farmer so long as he has no power to fix the price of his product so as to benefit by the tariff."

Senator McNary, however, asserted that orderly marketing was only one phase of the question, and urged that "with any program to adjust production to market requirements "should go a plan of reducing production costs where possible through adoption of more efficient methods of farming." The Oregon Senator also suggested the use of crop insurance, a general survey of the freight rate structure, tax revision, increased research work by governmental agricultural organizations, consolidation of distribution agencies, expansion of both domestic and foreign markets and an adequate tariff.

The first of the series of Cabinet talks over the Radio Forum will be made by Secretary Mellon March 30.

GERMAN LOAN OF $36,000,000

BERLIN, March 16.—To tide over the financial strain coming at the quarter's end, the Government has arranged to borrow from eight leading banks 150,000,000 marks (approximately $36,000,000) as from March 28 for a period of four weeks. It is hoped that the influx of revenue from taxation which normally begins by April 10 may enable the Treasury to make an even earlier refund.

The balance of a total of 1,200,000,000 marks ($288,000,000) hard cash required March 31 will be borrowed by the Government from the Reichsbank, the Railways Administration, the Postal Department and the Preussenkasse Institution.

Victor Holm in Basement Studio Tells of Star Pupils

Sculptor Discusses Genius of Mrs. Nancy Cox MacCormack, Walker Hancock and Others.

FAMOUS TEACHER

VICTOR S. HOLM.

Victor S. Holm has been head of the sculpturing department of the School of Fine Arts, Washington University, for 20 years. Seated at a table in his concrete-floored basement studio, where he finds time, between classes, to dabble professionally in clay and plaster, he recounted to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday the achievements of some of his more successful students over this period.

He chewed enthusiastically on a stubby cigar as he told how Mrs. Nancy Cox McCormack, a young widow of 25, came here from Atlanta, Ga., in 1909, with a consuming ambition to make her mark as a sculptor. When she first entered Holm's class, she was accorded no more attention than any other beginner. But she laid the foundation for a notable career and, years later, attained the distinction of being the only American authorized to model a clay portrait of Mussolini from life.

Hour after hour, she would patiently fashion ears, noses, elbows and knees, Holm related, or pore over such fundamentals as bone and tendon formation and surface lines, while Holm, himself a product of Eastern studios and a stern taskmaster, would alternately storm and lecture, criticise and praise.

Either Right or Wrong.

"Bah!" he would exclaim. "There is no middle ground. Either a thing is right or it's wrong. If you go out and make a failure of yourself, don't claim me as your teacher. Don't even talk to me."

Then, almost in the same breath, he would glimpse a particularly well-done hand or thigh and go into ecstacies.

"That's it," he would cry. "You've got it. The divine spark! Ah!" And so, on and on through the difficult, early months.

The young woman lived with friends while in St. Louis. On completing the course, she went to Chicago and installed herself in a studio. She had little money but always retained that supreme faith in her abilities that is an attribute to genius. Soon after, there was an open competition for a monument to a famous Southern statesman. Mrs. MacCormack entered, submitted a model, and won.

She Goes to Italy.

With the $10,000 or so she earned, she sailed for Paris, where she kept on with studio work, and then went to the source of the world's great sculptures, Italy. It was not long before her studio in Rome became famous for the excellence of the delicate yet virile and life-like portraits that she fashioned.

Triumph after triumph followed. Friends persuaded her to go to Spain, where the Dictator posed for her. At Paris, Ambassador Herrick consented to sit. The most exclusive fashionable, political, literary and art circles welcomed the slender young woman whose magic hands created so unerringly.

Mrs. McCormack had just received the consent of the King of Spain to pose for a bronze portrait when she was stricken with a serious heart attack. That was two years ago. She returned to New York and has been under the constant care of physicians since.

"I understand she is slowly recovering," Holm said yesterday, and then: "There was a pupil to be proud of."

Hancock's Rise to Fame.

Others have brought fame to Holm's talent for teaching. Holm, shirt-sleeved and with his piece of a cigar waggling beneath a bristly mustache, gesticulated vigorously and continued to muse aloud:

"A St. Louis boy, Walker Hancock, attended my Saturday morning classes until he graduated from high school, 10 years ago. Then he devoted all his time to the modeling class. Later, he entered the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts. The Eastern schools used to draw the best students, because they offered traveling scholarships.

"Hancock won all the prizes, including the Widener Gold Medal and the Cresson Traveling Scholarship. Four years ago he was awarded the Prix de Rome, giving him three years at the American Academy in Rome. When my wife and I visited him there last summer, he was doing an exquisite little fountain for the city of Philadelphia. He now has a studio in Florence."

Two Traveling Scholarships.

In the last few years, the St. Louis Art Alliance has given two traveling scholarships to the Art School, thereby removing one cause for the exodus of advanced students to other cities.

Holm's eyes lighted up as he mentioned the scholarships. Then, again casting back in his memory, he spoke of another young woman:

"She was badly crippled—the daughter of a farmer in the Missouri sticks." Holm's cigar was forgotten now. "We had a hard time convincing her parents she should continue her studies. Art in those years was regarded as—what do you call it—hooey. But we prevailed and Edith Hethcock stayed with me for several years. She left St. Louis and went to New York, where she did a bust of Rabbi Wise.

"She loved children and her skill in modeling their facial expressions was remarkable. One day, while she was working on a child's head, a certain wealthy man came into her studio. He thought the face was suitable for a doll he was making. When I visited Miss Hethcock, in 1924, she had already collected more than $20,000 in royalties on dolls.

Good Artists Make Living.

"Her parents? Naturally, they are all for art now. It happens that way. At first they object but when they find out a person can make a good living—and all good artists do—they change their tune."

His thoughts turning to a favorite subject, Holm rose and paced back and forth as he went on:

"Art for art's sake is all bosh. It means nothing. Art for a purpose! Art for man's sake! That's what it is. There used to be a saying when I was studying under Philip Martiny, a pupil of Saint-Gaudens, America's greatest sclupter, that a student from the art schools was not worth a dollar a day in a studio. In this school it is different. I teach my people to be professionals, not amateurs, so they can earn a living when they get out.

Insists on Accuracy.

"I drill them in the fundamentals—good drawing with a sense of design, and, above all, accuracy of detail. If they work and follow my instructions and don't look at the clock; if they have even a faint flicker of genius, I nurse them along. I tell them everything I know. And when I worked in the New York studios, to make a mistake meant you were fired at once. You couldn't expect anything else, with a half million dollars' worth of contracts to be filled on schedule."

Robert Cronback, who was reared in cultured surroundings in St. Louis, was his next student to draw Holm's praise. Cronback, now 22, went to Philadelphia, where he has already begun to collect prizes.

"Prophecies are not good—as a rule," Holm remarked. "But I will prophesy this: That young man will be the next Prix de Rome student."

Modeled at the Zoo.

He related how the youth became interested in animal sculpture. Day after day he would go to the zoo in Forest Park, where he made friends with the bear and lion keepers. He kept his "stuff" in a basement there, Holm said, and modeled the tigers and bears in natural positions.

There are wrought-iron workers, ornamental modelers, student architects, even one phyiscian and a railroad engineer in Holm's night class now—his pet group.

"These people want to learn," the instructor said. "Imagine the sacrifices a man of 45 must have made to save his tuition from an engineer's wages, rear his family at the same time and come to my class after his day's work was finished."

Besides teaching the rudiments of sculpturing, Holm allows his advanced students to help him with private work. They follow a piece of modeling from the first stretch through to the time it is cast in bronze and mounted on marble or stone.

LAWYER DENIES HE BOASTED OF INFLUENCE WITH U. S. JUDGE

New Yorker Says His Failure to Produce Second $5000 Was Followed by Incarceration.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Marcus Helfand denied on the witness stand today that he had ever boasted of influence with Federal Judge Francis Winslow. Helfand testified in his own defense at a hearing before Federal Judge John Knox at which it will be decided whether he should be disbarred.

Numerous witnessed called by Charles Tuttle, United States Attorney, testified that Helfand had told them he could get any order signed by Judge Winslow. Meyer Kaplan, the star witness for the Government, said that after he was convicted by Judge Winslow he was put on probation when he gave $5000 to Helfand who, he said, had told him he could "fix" the Judge. He failed to give Helfand a second $5000, he said, and shortly afterward Judge Winslow revoked his parole and sent him to prison.

Helfand said today that Kaplan sought his aid in getting probation because of his known friendship with Judge Winslow but said that he had declined to do anything or to accept any fee.

SHOT IN FIGHT AT GRAFTON, TAKEN TO ALTON BY BOAT

Ben Highfill, 45 years old, a laborer, of Grafton, Ill., is in serious condition in St. Joseph's Hospital at Alton as a result of being shot in the chest in an altercation yesterday in a drug store in Grafton.

Bird Crull, proprietor of the store, shot Highfill after the latter struck him. Crull is being held.

Highfill was taken from Grafton to Alton, 18 miles, in a motorboat, due to the impassable condition of the roads.

ALL-BRITISH STOCK ISSUE CALLED OFF

Protests in England Cause Postponement of General Electric Flotation.

By Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (the New York World and Post-Dispatch).

LONDON, March 16.—Sir Hugo Hirst, German-born "super-British patriot," capitulated tonight in the General Electric controversy, less to protests from the United States against anti-American discrimination, formidable as these were, than to the almost unanimous feeling against his action among financiers and bankers in London.

The issue of 1,500,000 shares of General Electric Ltd., which no foreigner was to be allowed to buy, already has been hugely oversubscribed and is still advertised in tomorrow's morning newspapers, but it was withdrawn tonight by Hirst in reply to a cable from five leading American financiers.

A special meeting of the Stock Exchange Committee is understood to have made the most violent representations to Hirst, against which he could not stand, and there was a general feeling that a crisis had been solved in the only way compatible with British honor and the principles of fair play.

The cable protestng against the disregard of American equity in the stock—of which 60 per cent of 2,300,000 present shares is owned in the United States—was signed by Thomas L. Chadbourne, H. W. Croft, Bernard Baruch, Latham R. Reed and D. C. Dilforth. Hirst in reply requested that the American Committee appoint representatives for a discussion, and announced that the new share issue was being held up.

It is understood that a scheme has been worked out, following intervention by the biggest British financiers, the Stock Exchange Committee and the Bank of England, whereby American holders of the present General Electric stock will participate in whatever bonus value the new issue may have.

PRINCE GEORGE TO GO ON TOUR

Wales' Brother To Inspect Western Foreign Offices.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 16.—The Sunday Times learns that Prince George, youngest son of the King, is to begin a short tour of duty in the western department of the Foreign Office where he will be enabled to acquaint himself with relations with the American continents.

It is expected, however, that the Prince will return to his naval duties afloat in the near future.

"No Friends;" Youth, 20, Kills Self.

Earl Sharp, 20 years old, a farmhand, ended his life with poison yesterday at the home of his brother-in-law, Albert Kosh, on Old road near Fee Fee road, leaving a note which stated: "I have no friends and I don't care to live any more."

suit for Easter?

Better hurry. Easter's early this year—March 31st—in case you have forgotten.

Time enough to give you every attention—and, of course, if you will delay we can rush things through for you — but that's not so good. Better come in this week, and then we'll all be happy.

Just come in and say "What's this GLEN ADDIE WOOLEN you've been talking about so much?" Then, brace yourself for the display of forty-four patterns of this really great Scotch stuff —at only $60 a suit.

We will deliver day before Easter if you like—but get the order in.

(Other Suits, $50 to $70.)

M'DANIEL OPENS CAMPAIGN WITH THREE SPEECHES

Democratic Nominee Makes Bid for Votes of Independents and Anti-Miller Republicans.

SAYS MAYOR OWES KIEL AN APOLOGY

Pledges Himself to Enforce Efficiency if Elected City Executive—Stresses Need for Airport.

In three speeches last night, formally opening his campaign for election as Mayor, former Circuit Attorney Lawrence McDaniel, the Democratic nominee, stressed his desire to give St. Louis a thoroughly business-like administration, without regard to politics and with the sole aim of efficiency.

Some of his declarations, such as one about the current practice of using city employes to get out the Republican vote, were slaps at Mayor Miller, his Republican opponent, and McDaniel asserted that Miller owed former Mayor Kiel, whom Miller defeated for the nomination, a public apology for some of the things he had said about Kiel before the primary election.

McDaniel obviously was extending an invitation to independent voters and Republicans who dislike the Miller administration to cast their ballots for him.

A prepared address was read by McDaniel over radio stations KMOX and KWK and between the first formal meeting in the campaign and his sessions with the microphone he found time to act as toastmaster at a Safety Council banquet at Hotel Jefferson. The meeting was of the Twenty-eighth Ward McDaniel-for-Mayor Club, at Hamilton avenue and Delmar boulevard.

At the meeting in the Twenty-eighth, his home ward, and in his radio talks McDaniel said:

"On April 2 the people of St. Louis will choose a manager for their city. This is not to be a political choice. The principles of the two great political parties are not involved in this election. The only question is under whose administration will St. Louis benefit most. Who can go into the office of Mayor after the election and render to this city the most efficient service? Who will be less hampered by political obligations and entanglements? There is no reason why the business of the city cannot be carried on as is the business of a private corporation, and the same yardstick should be used by the people in choosing a Mayor that stockholders and directors use in choosing a president.

"A business administration and not a political administration is desired by all except those who expect to profit personally by the election of a candidate who is now under obligations to them and who they expect, in the event of his election, to discharge that obligation. Such obligations cannot be discharged except at the expense or disadvantage of the people as a whole.

"A Government inspector asked the president of a manufacturing establishment, 'How many men work in your factory?' 'About half of them,' was the reply. This is too often true in public office.

Declares for Efficiency.

"If I am elected Mayor there will be but one test for employment by the city—that will be the efficiency test. Those employed when I take office and those employed afterward must at all times earn every cent of the salary they receive from the taxpayers or out they go. There will be no work on precinct lists on the city's time. No appointments will be made for display or for decorative purposes—every one must be a worker.

"I will not start a campaign for re-election as soon as I am sworn in as Mayor, but will devote every second of my time to the administration of the affairs of that office and for the upbuilding of St. Louis.

"Take as an example the question of developing St. Louis as an airport. According to an interview in the local press of Feb. 28, Albert Bond Lambert stated that no one in the Miller administration was qualified to supervise the building of St. Louis' new airport, and he advocated the employment of experts by the city for that purpose. This controversy with the administration continued until the day after the primary election, when, we may assume from reports in the public press, the administration agreed to the plans of Maj. Lambert, and evidently only agreed as a matter of political expediency.

Two Horns of a Dilemma.

"Take this one item solely as a business proposition. If the administration was wrong in its position on the airport proposition and continued to be wrong from the time of the passage of the bond issue, and only became right on the proposition for the purpose of avoiding criticism prior to the election, we may expect, in the light of experience in the past, that they will continue right only up to election day and then they will go back to the position taken prior to the time it became good policy

Collector Kidnaped and Robbed.

James D. Morrison, 64 years old, 3719 Belle avenue, collector for a Catholic magazine, reported that two men in an automobile had forced him into the car with them in front of 3600 Delor street, and robbed him of $8.25 in collections last Monday afternoon. One of the men, he said, asked him what he had done with his insurance collections, evidently mistaking his business. After threatening him if he told the police, they forced him out of the car at Kingshighway Park and Pennsylvania avenue.

McDANIEL OPENS CAMPAIGN WITH THREE SPEECHES

to agree with Maj. Lambert. On the other hand, if the administration was right and Maj. Lambert was wrong, the administration's agreeing to his proposition makes a worse situation than the one that now faces us.

"The opportunity for St. Louis to become the leading airport of the United States must not be neglected. It is of vital importance. We can look back over a period of years strewn with the skeletons of neglected opportunities.

"'We'—the 'Spirit of St. Louis' and Lindbergh—gave us a golden opportunity and when one thinks of Lindbergh one thinks of St. Louis.

Quotes Platform on Airport.

"I stand on my platform plank in reference to the airport development, which is as follows. 'St. Louis must take immediate advantage of its great opportunity to become the leading airport of the United States. We pledge the appointment of a regional airport and aviation commission to survey the greater St. Louis district, including St. Louis, East St. Louis, Granite City and St. Louis County, and full co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce, the Air Board, the Industrial Club, the Real Estate Exchange and other civic organizations in the consolidation of one definite and progressive policy to advance the development of aviation in our greater district. The impetus given to aviation by Col. Lindbergh and his wonderful feats in the "Spirit of St Louis" must be conserved and perpetuated in a great airport program.'"

McDaniel said that in the course of the campaign he would discuss other planks of the Democratic platform, which was published yesterday.

Says Miller Owes Kiel Apology.

His reference to former Mayor Kiel was:

"I see that my good friend Henry Kiel, is going to preside at the Miller campaign opening. He is a good man and a good party man. He made a good mayor for St. Louis. I say emphatically that he did not deserve to have said about him the things said by Mayor Miller's supporters in the recent campaign. Before Mayor Miller asks and accepts support he owes it to Henry Kiel and the thousands of loyal men and women who fought for Kiel to make public apology for the things recently said about him. In their zeal to perpetuate the present regime, Mayor Miller and the coterie of favorites about him were willing to revile and denounce one of the most faithful public servants this city ever had."

Calls for a House Cleaning.

There were about 200 men and women filling to capacity the vacant store in which the ward meeting was held. W. S. Specht, a real estate dealer, president of the club, presided. Mrs. C. B. Faris, Democratic national committeewoman, introduced McDaniel. She spoke of women as natural housecleaners with an "irresistible urge" to renovate everything at this time of year and she added: "There is a job of housecleaning awaiting you at City Hall well worth your attention; the dust and cobwebs which have accumulated there during the Miller administration, the rubbish and scandals which fill the corridors and overflow the administration halls, are due for forcible removal on April 2, and we women are ready for the job."

Hay Praises McDaniel.

Charles M. Hay, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Senator last year, followed McDaniel, of whom he spoke as a "magnificent candidate." Hay went on: "In my humble opinion, no party or group of people ever presented a finer man for Mayor than McDaniel. He embodies the finer things of the life of this great city. He has come to be almost an institution because of his spirit. He made an unblemished record as Circuit Attorney, and as a private citizen he has given time unstintedly to civic things. If everybody indebted to him for good cheer and worth-while things voted for him, he'd be elected almost unanimously. In the primary he made one of the finest campaigns we have ever seen, acting as his own manager, his own advertising agent and his own finance committee."

Joseph Kane, a lawyer, opened the meeting with a talk on the ways of getting out the vote. Among those in the audience was F. Happy Day, who was campaign office manager for Kiel.

DEMOCRATIC ALDERMANIC TICKET TO STAY IN CONTEST

Candidates Say They Want to Get Rid of Inferiority Complex; to Invite Reed.

Democratic aldermanic candidates, in a meeting last night at the Marquette Hotel, decided to ignore a report that they intended to withdraw from the race to facilitate the election of Lawrence McDaniel, Democratic candidate for Mayor.

The candidates couldn't see that such an action would help McDaniel and declared that they were in the race to stay. Moreover, they said, they are going to make a lively campaign, get rid of the "inferiority complex" that afflicts the party and "make a noise that will carry over the Republican walls and into the camp of the enemy."

As part of the effort to rouse the voters, the meeting decided to try to obtain the services of former Senator James A. Reed to address a mass meeting at the Coliseum on the Thursday night prior to the election.

RHEUMATISM

Isn't this worth a Penny?

While in France with the American army I obtained a noted French formula. Thousands of Americans suffering with those harrowing (cringing), muscular, aches and pains which are symptoms of rheumatism, have tried this now famous formula with unquestionable results. I want to relieve you of your suffering and make you a satisfied user of the Dr. Beaupre Sunshine Tablets. Send me your name and address on a postal card today and by return mail will go a liberal trial package of these remarkable tablets without any cost to you. Rheumatics, don't be discouraged. You can be helped for a penny. Write me now.

FINAL SETTLING OF REPARATIONS APPARENTLY NEAR

While International Committee Experts Deny This French Press Publishes Details.

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT,
Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (the New York World and Post-Dispatch).

PARIS, March 16.—Final settlement of the German reparations problem is all but agreed upon, according to many French newspapers, including the usually cautious Temps. The experts of the International Committtee, however, deny that any definite decisions have been made.

The American experts insist the principal delegates have never yet discussed annuity figures and that only technical experts have drawn up schemes for payments which may not be adopted. The figures are, in any event, close to those which are considered as the probable outcome and match in many details earlier information on annuities published by the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

How Total is Arrived At.

Le Temps says: "All the experts have agreed in principle that the reparations must cover all war debts due by the Allies to the United States and England and give in addition complete indemnity to France, Belgium, and Italy for devastated regions. On this account the German annuities will be divided into two parts one fixed and unconditional for payment of actual reparations, the other which is for war debt payments, having a safeguard of transfer clause or at least a right to moratorium such as is contained in the war debt agreements made by Washington.

"The first part for actual reparations, will be one billion marks—not quite $250,000,000—annually for 37 years. At 5 per cent interest and 1 per cent for amortization, it will in 37 years represent a capital of 100 billion francs, ($4,000,000,000). The second fraction of annuities for payment of war debts will vary. It will progress in rythm with the war debt agreement. It will cover the same period as the war debts, 62 years from the beginning, now 59.

"First year payments will be 900,000,000 marks ($220,000,000.) The total of the war debts increase until in the terminal years, it will be 1,700,000,000 marks of $400,000,000. A fixed portion of the annuities will be subject to commercalization—recipient countries can realize in advance by selling this class of German reparations bonds through the international bank on the world market.

"A variable portion of the annuity will be paid by Germany into the bank of international payments and transferred to the account of the United States, the bank aiding in the event Germany wishes to avail itself of the safeguard clause."

According to these figures Germany would begin by paying more than $400,000,000 annually and continue with variations for 59 years.

The international bank to handle the reparations is also more nearly agreed upon than is announced, says Le Temps. The paper fixes the capitalization at $100,000,000 divided among the countries which will receive reparations and the United States, each subscribing for stock in its own coin thus avoiding the difficulty of using the money of any country which would, in that case, acquire advantage over the others by becoming an international medium.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE GETS DATA ON NEW YORK AIR MAIL

Survey of Business Houses Would Support Request to Government for Direct Route.

The Air Board of the Chamber of Commerce has begun a survey of St. Louis business concerns to determine what support may be expected for the proposed direct St. Louis to New York air mail line. The figures will be presented to Government officials at Washington in support of the request of the Air Board for direct air mail service to the East.

Letters recently were sent by the board to about 200 firms, asking them to specify the number of pieces of mail destined to New York, Baltimore, Washington, and other Eastern cities, that are being sent by them over the present St. Louis-Chicago leg of the air mail service, and to approximate the number that would be sent if a direct air mail line was inaugurated.

The present survey is an outgrowth of a recent meeting of the Air Mail Committee of the Air Board when plans for a direct air mail line from St. Louis, via Cincinnati and Pittsburgh to New York were discussed.

KING BETTER, DOCTORS REPORT

Steadily Though Slowly Regaining Health, They Announced.

By the Associated Press.

BOGNOR, England, March 16.—King George is steadily though slowly regaining his health. A bulletin issued at Craigwell House tonight and signed by his physicians, Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn, says that the improvement in strength, vigor and appearance is definite. The X-ray therapy treatment is being continued.

DODIER STREET MAN HAD SEVERE TYPE OF SCIATIC RHEUMATISM

Pain and Stiffness Was Extreme—Gives Full Credit to Weldona Tablets for Recovery.

Almost every day some one in St. Louis or vicinity comes forward to tell how Weldona tablets rid them of rheumatism. Among those who consented to talk for publication was Mr. Fred Schaeffer, who resides at 1903 Dodier Street. Mr. Schaeffer said: "For several years I suffered with sciatic rheumatism from the hip to the ankles. If I sat down I would have to have assistance to get up again, and it was impossible for me to go up or down stairs. During my work I would have sharp shooting pains down my leg and sometimes it extended to my ankle.

"Weldona tablets were recommended and after taking them a few weeks the pain and stiffness disappeared. I feel like a new man now, able to kick up like a colt. Rheumatism all gone and can go up and down stairs as well as anyone. I sleep fine and am working every day. If anyone wishes to verify my statement I would be glad to have them call or write me."

$1000 reward to anyone proving this testimonial is not genuine.

Weldona tablets are always put up in a box—never in a bottle. Ask for Weldona tablets, which are recommended for rheumatism and rheumatic conditions only. Weldona tablets are absolutely harmless and will not upset the stomach, affect the heart or any other organ.

The Weldona representative, who now meets the public every day at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Av., St. Louis, gladly explains more about this remedy and gives out the 24-page fully illustrated and interesting books, entitled "Germs of Rheumatism," which are absolutely free of charge to all who call or write for them.

MR. FRED SCHAEFFER.

The POST-DISPATCH Regularly prints MORE WANT ADS than ALL the other St. Louis newspapers COMBINED.

Think This Over!

If you send your laundry "Damp Wash" . . . Flat Work Ironed . . . which means your wearing apparel is washed . . . not dried . . . but your flat work is washed and ironed ready for use, the price would be 8c per lb., at some St. Louis laundries.

At this price a sheet weighing 1¼ lbs. would cost 10c.
Our price for laundering sheets is 8c.

If the same bundle of laundry is sent "Soft Finish" . . . which means your wearing apparel is washed and dried but not ironed, and your flat work washed and ironed ready for use, the price at some St. Louis laundries would be 9c per lb.

At this price one sheet weighing 1¼ lbs. would cost 11¼c.
Our price for laundering sheets is 8c.

If this same bundle of laundry is sent "Rough Dry" which means your wearing apparel is washed and the few pieces that need starching are starched, but not ironed and your flat work is washed and ironed ready for use, the price at some St. Louis laundries would be 11c per lb.

At this price one sheet weighing 1¼ lbs. would cost 13¾c.
Our price for laundering sheets is 8c.

If this same bundle of laundry is sent "Family Finish" which means your wearing apparel is washed and ironed and your flat work washed and ironed ready for use, the price at some St. Louis laundries would be 18c per lb.

At this price one sheet weighing 1¼ lbs. would cost 22½c.
Our price for laundering sheets is 8c.

Now in all fairness to yourself, why must you pay 10c to have one sheet washed and ironed in one service and 22½c for this same sheet in another service?

Our price for laundering sheets is 8c.

One price to everybody is my slogan.

High Blood Pressure Shortens Your Life

It may surprise you to know high blood pressure is so serious that insurance companies refuse to issue policies to those who have it. All because it shortens life.

High blood pressure gives little warning and until certain symptoms take hold, you do not know it. They are head pains, flushed face, hot flashes, dizzy spells, shortness of breath, sleeeplessness, and nervousness.

Often one bottle of Norma will bring reduction in blood pressure and stop the symptoms which distress and worry you.

Norma is a physician's prescription. It worked so wonderfully in his personal practice that it has now been placed in Walgreen drug stores so that people everywhere can obtain it. Check the uncertainty of high blood pressure by reducing it with Norma.

PLANS BROAD SURVEY OF STATE INSTITUTIONS

Gov. Caulfield Contemplates Including Study of Educational System.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 16.—Gov. Caulfield has initiated conferences with Representative Freeland of Forsythe, majority floor leader, Representative Ricketts of St. Louis and other House leaders looking to a broad expansion of his program for survey of the needs of the educational, eleemosynary and penal institutions of the state. As now under consideration of the Governor the proposal is to include, with the study of these institutions, a study of the entire structure of the educational system of the state, the sources of state revenue, and a possible revision of the revenue sources.

The Governor was visited yesterday by five representatives of the boards managing the educational and eleemosynary institutions, and representatives of the State Teachers Association, who requested that the proposed state survey be not limited to the building needs but be extended in an effort to put the educational, eleemosynary and penal activities of the state on a proper service basis.

While it is probable that such a survey would lead to a recommendation by the Governor that the legislature submit to a vote a bond issue proposal, he said today that he was by no means committed to a bond issue plan. He said that although it might appear now that it would be impossible to obtain funds from current revenues, a complete survey might disclose that reorganization of the revenue and the spending agencies could take care of the situation in some way besides a bond issue.

Those who called on the Governor yesterday were E. Suybey Stephens of Columbia, a member of the Board of School for the Deaf, Dean M. G. Neale of the University of Missouri, President of the State Teachers Association; Thomas J. Walker, editor of School and Community; Judge J. A. Cooley of Kirksville, member of the Board of the North East Missouri Teachers College, and Walter P. Fulkerson, president of the State Eleemosynary Board.

The Governor talked to House leaders on the advisability of providing for one big survey to be made by men of the highest standing in the fields covered.

It is proposed that a commission of six be appointed by the Governor and that he be given a free hand by the Legislature in his selection of the members, who would serve without pay. The commission would be provided with ample funds, probably $100,000, with which to employ experts. The Governor said that he believed the survey could be completed late in the fall.

The specific plan for carrying out the revised ideas as to the extent of the survey is to attempt to have amended on the floor of the House one of the several survey bills now pending. Two of the bills, the Governor's plan introduced by Representative Ricketts of St. Louis and the educational plan, introduced by Representative Williams of St. Louis, are on the House informal calendar of bills for engrossment. Either could be called up at any time, and it is probable one will be called early in the week and the amendment offered.

The Governor today requested Attorney-General Shartel to prepare the amendment.

PADFIELD'S METHODS AS DRY AGENT HELD TO BE PROPER

Prohibition Authorities So Inform Cochran When He Seeks Redress for Constituent.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 16. — Federal prohibition authorities today informed Representative Cochran of St. Louis that their investigation of charges against Prohibition Agent Merritt D. Padfield had disclosed that Padfield had not been guilty of misconduct in securing evidence of prohibition law violations by his former customers.

Padfield's former employer, in a letter to Cochran, charged that Padfield had posed as a paper salesman when in reality he was a prohibition agent.

The employer said his business had been injured by Padfield's representation and asked if the Federal Government could not be made to indemnify him for his loss. Cochran called for an explanation from the prohibition enforcement unit. Federal authorities said today that in their investigation they had found that Padfield had taken only one order for the paper house while he was serving as a dry agent and that this had been forced on him. They declared that the press had vastly over-emphasized Padfield's activities and that an examination of his expense accounts showed that he had not bought large quantities of whisky and beer from his former customers. Cochran said today that as there was no way to go behind the investigators' report, he would let the MADAM—this is the new Thor Speed-Iron—the machine that does more to bring you freedom from household drudgery than any appliance ever invented.

It ends for all time the thankless, health-ruining task of ironing by hand. It irons faster and better than any machine you've seen. And it cuts the time required for ironing from 8 hours of hard, irritating labor to 2 hours of restful employment. Read this amazing story. Act on its suggestion today.

8 hours of ironing in the average home

Drudgery—if ever a job could be called that. Every woman knows it—knows the back-aches, the exhaustion that result. No woman can do it week after week and retain her youthful vigor.

Take your own case, madam. Do you know that hand ironing ages women faster than any remaining household task? Actual tests show that a 6½-pound iron is raised on an average of twice a minute when ironing clothes. The pressure downward requires as much, if not more, effort. This energy expended over a period of 8 hours (the time it takes to do the average family ironing by hand) would unload from a truck over six tons of brick. Yet—you perhaps wonder why hand-ironing leaves you fatigued—dragged out.

Science has found a remedy

An utterly new type electric ironing machine is now on the market. It operates on a wholly new speed principle. There is nothing else on the market as fast or as economical to buy and operate.

Note first its amazing simplicity. With ten minutes' practice anyone can operate it. Note, too, its compact size—its roll of generous length—the comfortable position of the operator. This machine has an ironing surface equal to ten flatirons. It heats in 4 minutes. It irons everything, from the stacks of flat work, that make up 90% of the average laundry, to the fine dainty things that take so long by hand. It is portable—can be placed in any pleasant room—and removed to corner or closet out of the way when not in use.

Presses men's trousers—women's skirts

And does them with an efficiency equalled only by skilled hand pressmen. Many tell us it pays for itself in a few months in this work alone.

This machine is a Thor. For 23 years women have accepted the Thor name on a washer or ironer as the highest guarantee of superior quality and service. The world knows nothing finer. Yet because we are selling thousands of these new speed-ironers where hundreds were sold before, the price is less than half that of any ironer of comparable quality and features.

Madam—make your decision! 8 hours of drudgery or 2 hours of pleasant relaxation with six hours to call your own. Your Thor dealer is ready to demonstrate this amazing time saver in your home. Try it yourself. See how easy it operates. Phone him, please, for home showing. The Hurley Machine Company, 22nd Street and 54th Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

MAYOR OF JOHNSTOWN, PA., CONVICTED OF EXTORTION

Also on Other Charges Growing Out of Protection of Gambling in His City.

EBENSBURG, Pa., March 16.—Joseph Cauffiel, mayor of Johnstown, Pa., was convicted today of misdemeanor in office, extortion, perjury, conspiracy and keeping a gambling house, by a jury in criminal court here. He was acquitted on a charge of failing to properly file an election expense account. The defendant was admitted to bail pending dispostion of a motion for a new trial and arrest of judgment.

Cauffiel's trial began last Tuesday. The charges against him were the outgrowth of his alleged protection of gambling in Johnstown.

210 BARS HAVE CLOSED IN CITY SINCE MARCH 1

Police Department Completes Survey of Effect of Jones Law.

The Police Department last night completed its canvass of saloons, begun last Tuesday to determine the effect in St. Louis of the Jones amendment to the Volstead act, and reported that 210 proprietors had closed their doors since the first of the month, when the maximum punishment for first violations was increased to five years in prison or a $10,000 fine or both.

The list of closed saloons in Central District, which embraces the downtown area, was increased to 30 yesterday with the closing of two more bars. Wyoming Street District reported 25 saloons closed and Laclede Avenue District, 24, while Mounted District, which includes the Italian colony known as "The Hill," reported only seven closings.

With the falling away of competition, it was reported that a number of the saloonkeepers who remained in business had increased the price of highballs and rickeys from 50 to 75 cents, attributing the increase to higher wholesale prices and delivery difficulties.

Moonshine alcohol which formerly cost $18 to $20 for a five-gallon can, delivered, now sells in the neighborhood of $40, it is said, and bootleggers insist that saloonkeepers transport it themselves. Inasmuch as five gallons of alcohol is said to make from 10 to 15 gallons of whisky or gin, the wholesale cost to the saloonkeeper would average almost $1 a quart.

LIQUOR CHARGES AGAINST STATE LEGISLATOR DROPPED

Representative Schwartz Freed When Bartenders in Hall He Manages Plead Guilty.

Charges of violating the Federal prohibition laws against State Representative William Schwartz growing out of his arrest last January at Gambrinus Hall, of which he is manager, were dismissed yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Hapke, when Frank Brueggeman and Otto Kopp, bartenders, arrested at the same time, pleaded guilty to charges of sale and possession of liquor at the hall.

Hapke said the charges against Schwartz and Joseph Eicks, ticket seller at the hall, were dropped because it was felt there was not sufficient evidence against them. They were in the hall when prohibition agents seized home brew there.

ENTERS SCHOOL BOARD RACE

Dr. A. V. Marquardt Is Eighth Candidate to File.

Dr. A. V. Marquardt, a surgeon, of 3678 Clark avenue, filed nominating petitions for his candidacy for the Board of Education with the Election Board yesterday.

Four places on the Board of Education are to be filled in the election of April 2. Dr. Marquardt is the eighth candidate to file. The time for submitting nominating petitions will expire tomorrow night. A minimum of about 7000 voters' signatures is required to place a name on the ballot.

Stories from the Training Camps

Every Day in the Post-Dispatch

With the opening game of the season less than a month away, St. Louis baseball fans are eager to keep in touch with the training progress of the Cards and Browns and learn what the pre-season 'dope' indicates about pennant possibilities.

To keep fans informed on how the two teams are progressing, the Post-Dispatch has an expert correspondent stationed at each camp. J. E. Wray, Sports Editor, is with the Browns and L. A. McMaster follows the Cards in Florida.

These correspondents study the teams from every angle. They watch the practice sessions . . . talk with players, coaches and managers . . . size up the recruits. Each day they give you their observations in sparkling stories that tell you just how every man on the team is developing.

You will want to follow the day by day progress of the home teams by reading these bright, informing stories in the Sports Section. And when the season opens, you can get the results of all games and the box score of the home game right after the last out is made—in the Sport Final of the Post-Dispatch every day.

Just as soon as the season opens, Babe Ruth, baseball's most popular star, and John McGraw, the greatest manager in the game, will begin giving you their viewpoints on the pennant races.

Ruth will write from the standpoint of the player on the field. From his intimate contact with the game and its players, he gives you an angle on baseball you can get in no other way.

The veteran John McGraw will give you the benefit of his 35 years' experience in a weekly article which will analyze the changing status of the races in both major leagues.

These articles will have more than ordinary interest for all fans. You will want to read them regularly in the Sports Section of the

FUNERAL OF S. E. WAGGONER

Funeral services for Sol E. Waggoner, for 16 years president of the Masonic Home of Missouri, 5351 Delmar boulevard, who died Friday of heart disease, will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday afternoon from the Masonic Temple to Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mr. Waggoner, who was 78 years old, was one of the organizers of the home, established about 40 years ago to care for orphans and aged Masons and their families. He was the oldest Past Commander of Knights Templar in Missouri. Before becoming head of the institution he was president of the Citizens' Insurance Co. He is survived by two daughters.

BOY THREE MONTHS OLD GETS AIR RIDE TO CHICAGO

Son of "Bud" Gurney, Former Roommate of Lindbergh, Goes With 10 Other Passengers.

The regular St. Louis-to-Chicago passenger plane on the Robertson division of Universal Aviation Corporation yesterday carried the youngest person ever to make such an extended cross country flight in the person of Harlan Leslie Gurney, three months old.

The infant air rider is the son of "Bud" Gurney, Universal's chief of operations at Lambert Field and pal and former roommate of Lindbergh. Accompanying the baby were his parents and ten other passengers in the big tri-motored Ford plane. They left at 12:45 p. m. and were in Chicago less than three hours later.

Young Gurney had his first taste of aviation a few days ago when "Bud" took him and Mrs. Gurney for a trip around the field. When they came down the baby was chuckling and chortling in glee.

NEW CATHEDRAL ANNOUNCES SERVICES FOR HOLY WEEK

Holy Week observances at the New Cathedral, Lindell boulevard and Newstead avenue, will include blessing of the palms a week from today, special masses on Holy Thursday, Good Friday and Holy Saturday with Archbishop Glennon celebrating a Pontifical Mass on Easter morning at 11 o'clock.

The Tenebrae will be chanted Wednesday evening of Holy Week and seminarians from Kenrick Seminary and priests from St. Louis University will assist the Archbishop at all services. The Tre Ore service will take place from noon to 3 o'clock Friday. Monsignor Tannrath will preach the Easter sermon at the Pontifical Mass.

Leaves Less Water in the Clothes

New Easy Washer can't break buttons or put deep wrinkles in garments

THE Easy's marvelous new drying tub removes so much water from clothes that you can hang them up indoors in bad weather without danger of water dripping on the floor from the seams or hems.

The dryer cannot break buttons or put hard-to-iron wrinkles in the clothes. When you're all through, just move a lever and all the water is automatically lifted and emptied. The new Easy is entirely safe, even with small children about. The Easy's three Vacuum Cups get the clothes as clean and handle them as gently as your own careful hands, and a special gas heater keeps the water constantly hot. ## 1929 INCOME TAX RETURNS EXPECTED TO EXCEED 1928

Total for First Quarter Year Ago Was $518,000,000; Report Not Completed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Although they were unable to tell exactly the stream of income tax payments entering Government coffers, Treasury officials were optimistic today that the total for the quarter ended yesterday would exceed the $518,000,000 collected on the same date last year and point the way to a Treasury surplus for the year.

The latest official record of the tax payments as made public today showed that the Treasury had received at the close of business on March 14, $56,804,350 as against $51,419,431 on the same day last year. The statement for March 15—ordinarily the largest single day of tax receiving in the year—will not be made up until later.

If the rate to March 14 continues to guide the inflow for the balance of the month, the Treasury may receive for this quarter as much as $50,000,000 more than it received last year in the same quarter and will find its actual returns from income taxation this year considerably ahead of estimates.

YOUTH DRINKS POISON IN HOME AS MOTHER AND SISTER LOOK ON

While his mother and sister looked on, Andrew Earl Sharpe, 20 years old, a farmer, ended his life by swallowing poison in the living room of the farmhouse on Gist road, north of Anglum, yesterday.

Sharpe was writing at a desk when suddenly his sister, Mrs. A. L Cosa, saw his raise a bottle to his lips. She knocked it out of his hand, but not before he had taken half an ounce of the contents.

On the desk lay a note which said: "I am killing myself. No friends. Earl."

Mrs. Cosa's infant child, playing nearby, was burned on one cheek by acid. Sharpe was dead when Dr. John O'Connell, Overland, Coroner, arrived. An inquest will be held tomorrow. Sharpe's father died two months ago, and relatives said he had suffered from hysteria for the past year.

In St. Charles Mayoralty Race.

Frank May, monument dealer of St. Charles, officially entered the race for Mayor yesterday when circulation of a petition in support of his candidacy was begun. He will oppose Mayor Henry Broeker who will seek re-election April 2. A petition in support of Broeker also is being circulated. May already has served two 2-year terms as Mayor, having completed his second term six years ago.

WHEAT PRICE DOWN IN LOCAL MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 16.—Absence of foreign demand was called a prominent bear influence in the wheat market and local prices closed lower. The market received comments from crop observers in winter wheat belt. Corn closed higher.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady, considering quality. Offerings were light. There was a limited local demand. Hard wheat was ½c down. Offerings were light. There was some inquiry from mills. Nebraska No. 1 hard was offered late at $1.27. Kansas No. 2 hard brought $1.26 at the close. Corn was steady to ½c off. Mills, shippers, industries and elevators bought sparingly, and the movement was slow. Supply was heavier than what was required. Oats were steady to ½c lower. Offerings were moderate and there was a fair local and shipping demand.

Opening unchanged, May and July wheat ranged between a fraction under to fraction over previous close in early period. Liverpool wheat closed ¼d lower on March and July and ⅜d on May. Winnipeg was up some after the opening. May corn sold up fractionally in the early market.

May wheat opened at $1.28¼. July wheat $1.30¾. September wheat $1.32. May corn $1.01¼ and July corn $1.04¼.

Local wheat receipts, which were 60,200 bushels, compared with 123,200 a week ago and 126,000 a year ago, included 18 cars local and 25 through. Corn receipts, which were 93,800 bushels, compared with 86,800 a week ago and 98,000 a year ago, included 41 cars local and 26 through. Oats receipts, which were 77,000 bushels, compared with 59,400 a week ago and 54,000 a year ago, included 28 cars local and 7 through. Hay receipts were 20 cars local and 1 through.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators amounted to 2,997,240 bushels of wheat; 1,344,209 bushels of corn and 255,608 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 25,917 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat; 243,824 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat; 604,580 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat; 1,078,166 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat; 10,871 bushels of No. 2 corn; 54,996 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn; 12,241 bushels of No. 2 oats; 32,640 bushels of No. 2 white oats; 177,572 bushels of No. 3 white oats.

WHEAT PRICES FAIL TO HOLD ADVANCES RECORDED

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 16.—Despite somewhat adverse crop prospects reported in leading districts of Kansas, the banner wheat State of the country, wheat prices today failed to hold advances. Reactions from upturns in the wheat market came about chiefly in the late dealings, and went hand in hand with general selling largely to realize profits for previous buyers.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ½c to 1c net lower. Corn finished at ¼@⅜c decline to ⅝c advance, oats a shade off to ⅛c up and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

Kansas wheat crop complaints as outlined today by one of the foremost unofficial experts in the United States telegraphing observations made around Wellington, Kan., were summed up as "rather bad," owing to a mixture of winter-killing, dust blowing and poor top and root growth. He added, however, that, in general, there is plenty of moisture at present. Supplementing the bullish effect of other Kansas advices of similar character, the market was also influenced by comment as to estimates of winter killing of wheat in France, Belgium, Holland and Western Germany. Meanwhile, too, dry weather continues in the big wheat districts of Canada.

Nevertheless, the wheat market here ran into free selling today on the price bulges that developed, and especially in the final half hour underwent a sinking spell. One of the reasons for the increase of selling pressure which at times was witnessed appeared to be the fact that export call today for wheat from North America amounted to hardly more than zero. Under such circumstances future deliveries in Chicago closed at practically the day's bottom figures.

Judging from today's Kansas advices, the winter wheat crop outcome this season depends largely on whether the present stand of wheat turns out well as to stooling. This can hardly be determined for 10 days yet or a fortnight.

For the most part, corn as well as wheat was firmer today, but did not hold gains well. About 25,000 bushels of No. 2 mixed corn was booked to come here from Kansas City. Country offerings, though, to arrive in Chicago were small.

Oats prices kept within narrow limits. Weather was more favorable for field work in the Southwest.

Provisions had an upward slant, owing to the fact that hogs today sold at equal to the best price of the year.

COTTON FUTURES LOWER IN WEEK-END SESSION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Reports of better weather in the South counteracted the influence of relatively firm Liverpool cables and cotton was generally lower today, under realizing or liquidation combined with some local and Southern selling. May sold off to 21.06c, or 18 points net lower, and closed at that level. The general market closed easy at net declines of 12 to 19 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 3 points. There was some buying promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables and reports of overflows in eastern belt sections. It was soon supplied, however, and the market eased off later in the morning under renewed liquidation or realizing.

Evidently the trade doubted whether overflows reported in the South had done any damage of consequence to coming crop prospects. It seemed to be more influenced by clearing conditions reported in the South than by bullish features.

The decline brought in some trade buying and considerable covering, but it was not sufficiently active or aggressive to cause more than momentary bulges. Closing prices were the lowest of the day, March sold off to 21.06c and the new October contract to 20.43c, and closed at these figures.

Trading was moderately active, with much of it attributed to week-end evening-up, which some thought might have been promoted by uncertainty over the probably showing of the final ginning figures for the season next Wednesday. Part of the buying on the decline was believed to be based on the theory that reactions from recent high levels had been sufficient to improve the technical position of the market and render prices sensitive to any early renewal of unfavorable weather in the South.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 111,000 bales, against 121,000 last year and 185,000 two years ago. Private cable said some Bombay selling had been absorbed by trade calling and covering in Liverpool, combined with more general buying on reports of a rise in the Mississippi River. There was also reported more sales of cotton cloths to Inda and the Near East and said there had been good buying for Australia.

Spot quiet; middling, 21.35c.

FINANCIAL NOTES

NEW YORK, March 16.—New financing through bonds far outstripped stocks this week, so that the total since Jan. 1 overtook stocks. Total bond financing for the week, including several large railroad issues, was $190,478,000, against $75,245,000 in stocks. The stock total compares with $20,519,000 issued last week. New stock financing since Jan. 1 totals $884,093,000, against $919,216,000 in bonds. Stocks still maintain a big lead over the corresponding 1928 period total of $180,505,000.

Domestic silver production decreased in February to 4,790,000 fine ounces, compared with 5,023,000 ounces in January. Canada produced 1,211,000 ounces, against 11,747,000; Peru 1,639,000, against 1,845,000, and Australia 550,000, against 732,000.

Foreign consumers were said to have taken all the copper that leading producers were willing to sell at 21⅛c a pound today. This was ⅜c above yesterday's price quoted at the market opening today. Another ½c advance is expected to occur early next week.

United Biscuit Co. of America and subsidiaries earned net income of $1,295,856, equal to $2.41 a share last year against $1,017,629 in 1927.

Stockholders of the American Cyanamid Company will vote March 27 on a recapitalization plan providing for an offering of rights to stockholders on basis of one class B common share at $20 for every three Class A or B common shares held May 14. Preferred stockholders would be offered the right to exchange each share for two class B common shares.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Cotton goods closed very steady today. Percales have been advanced ¼c a yard and the advance of ¼c a yard on flannels has become general.

Denims were stronger. Yarns sold more freely this week. Silk mills increased their output to all-rayon materials. Silk crepes and printed silks were active. Rayon producers were active. Demand for lusterless rayon has been growing. Moderate trading was reported in worsted lines of men's wear and dress fabrics. Burlaps were quiet and steady.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Raw sugar was quiet today and in absence of business prices were unchanged at 3.74 for spots duty paid. Both Cuban and duty free sugars in nearby positions were available at this level, but refiners were showing no interest above 3.71.

Raw futures were quiet, trading consisting mostly of evening-up for over the week-end adjournment. The market opened unchanged to one point lower with some trade selling, promoted probably by increased spot offerings. But there was enough covering or commission house buying to absorb offerings and the undertone held steady. Final prices were unchanged from last night.

Sales were only 7100 tons. March closed 1.93, May 2.00; July 2.10; Sept. 2.18; Dec. 2.23; Jan. 2.24; March 2.29.

Refined was unchanged at 4.90 for fine granulated, with second hand sugars still available at concessions. Withdrawals were moderate, but new business was light and supplied through second hands.

AVERAGE PRICE OF 50 INDUSTRIALS IS UP 9 POINTS

Revival of Bullish Activity in Stock Market Sends Index Figure to Record Level.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Revival of bullish activity in the stock market, which sent the Associated Press index of 50 leading industrials to a new high record for all time; a further stiffening in time money rates to the highest levels since the war; and relatively easy call money rates, due to the heavy accumulation of funds here in anticipation of mid-month dividend and interest disbursements and Federal income tax payments, were the high lights in this week's financial markets. The average of 50 industrials made a gain of over 9 points for the week, reaching 223½.

The buying movement in the stock market received its chief stimulus from the retention of the 5 per cent rediscount rate by the New York Federal Reserve Bank, the drop of $20,000,000 in brokers' loans, and another unusually large quota of favorable trade news, two of the chief items of which were an excellent February foreign trade report and a further sharp advance in the price of copper.

Radio shares were the spectacular feature of the market. As the time drew near for the elimination of radio old stock from the stock exchange list, that issue was marked up in spectacular fashion to a new high record for all time at $549 a share, which contrasts with a low of $85.25 last year, and a low of $368 last week. The stock has never paid a dividend. Radio new stock, five shares of which exchanged for each share of old, was marked up to a new high record at $109.75 on a tremendous turnover.

Wall Street News and Comment

NEW YORK, March 16—The advance in copper prices is reflected in the market for electrical equipment in that orders for apparatus and material in which the red metal figures to a large extent have increased in anticipation of a possible advance in quotations, says Electrical World. Motors particularly have been in active demand. With no slackening in heavy construction operations, the general outlook is satisfactory.

Sugar meltings of 15 United States refiners increased from Jan. 1 to March 9 to 865,000 long tons compared with 760,000 long tons in the corresponding 1928 period. Deliveries were 755,000 tons against 720,000.

The American Bureau of Metal Statistics estimates world production of copper in February as 164,254 short tons compared with 178,783 tons in January and 179,240 tons in December.

Cable advices have been received in Wall Street that a public offering of stock in the Ford Company of Belgium, which has been set for next Tuesday, has been postponed temporarily. This is interpreted here as a move to hold down speculation in the stock. Brokers already have received many orders for the stock from American investors.

CORPORATION REPORTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The long list of corporations showing improved earnings last year over 1927 increased today as additional annual statements were issued.

Calumet and Arizona Mining Co. reported net profit of $5,221,640, equivalent to $8.12 a share, compared with $3,725,596 or $5.79 a share in 1927.

New Cornelia Copper Co., controlled by Calumet and Arizona, showed net profit of $5,008,195, equal to $2.78 a share, against $3,138,771, or $1.74 a share in 1927.

Net income of American Super-Power Corporation increased to $6,666,640 from $3,680,852 in 1927.

National Sugar Refining Co. of New Jersey earned net income of $3,372,986, against $292,485 the previous year. Profit was equivalent to $5.62 a share, against 48 cents in 1927.

Columbia Carbon Co. and subsidiaries cleared net profit of $2,991,262. This compares with $2,032,962 in 1927.

Standard Oil Co. of Ohio's report disclosed net profit of $2,896,548, equal to $6.08 a share, compared with $2,335,042 or $3.39 a share in 1927.

Net profit of Wright Aeronautical Corporation more than doubled. The total was $2,433,771, equivalent to $8.11 a share, against $932,899 or $3.73 a share in 1927. At the end of the year, Wright's unfilled orders amounted to $2,592,025.

Cottonseed Oil Market.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Cottonseed oil continued dull and featureless today, closing 3 points higher to 3 lower. As on Friday only two positions were dealt in, March selling at 10.78 and July fluctuating between 10.90 and 10.96. Trade was mostly among locals, consisting of week-end evening-up. Sales 600 barrels. Prime crude 9.00; prime summer yellow spot, 10.75; March closed 10.78, May 10.75, July 10.96, September 11.10, October 10.96.

WEEK'S METAL MARKET REVIEW

NEW YORK, March 16.—Steel mills the past week were again reported to be operating at practically capacity and the consuming demand remained very heavy for various materials against contracts. The mills are finding it difficult to proceed further in the matter of turning out finished product owing to the shortage of semi-finished steel. The railroads were inquiring for additional equipments, while the demand from automobile interests continued heavy. There was also improvement in the inquiry for structural steel. Pig iron demand was more acitve and the market here was firm.

Further sharp advances in copper carried prices 1½ cent higher for the week to 21 cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley. Publication of the February statistics showing a continued decline in stocks in face of heavy production, led to a renewal of foreign consumers whose needs of the next few months are believed to be heavy. Domestic buying has been already for July delivery and the policy of covering so far in advance is said to have removed substantial quantities of metal from the market.

Tin price fluctuations were irregular with some steadiness prevailing at the end of the week.

Lead was strong and the demand good, covering carload qualities for March, April and early May shipment. Refined stocks increased during February but the production decreased.

Zinc was steady. The demand for prompt shipment was moderate but for future delivery a fair inquiry prevailed with prices as hade firmer.

Antimony was firmer for spot shipment positions as a result of an increased demand. Far Eastern markets were firm.

FRUIT MARKET

NEW YORK, March 16.—Steel unchanged.

IRREGULARLY HIGHER RANGE TO BOND LIST

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Prices in the bond market today wound up the week irregularly higher, but trading was practically restricted to the issues in which there were special news developments. Sales of $4,003,000 were the smallest for a Saturday this year. The rails were under pressure in sympathy with declines in the stocks.

The advance in copper prices to 21 cents a pound for domestic carried Anaconda 7s up 4 points to a new high for all time at 250½, which compares with a low of 235 for the week and 187 for the year, established on Jan. 7. The 7s "A" of Silesian American Corporation, an Anaconda subsidiary, changed hands in large blocks at yesterday's closing level of 98.

American Chain 6s rose 2½ points, Certain-teed 5½s rallied 1½, Indiana Limestone 6s a point, and the 7s of the reorganized Wickwire-Spencer Steel 1⅞. Walworth 6½s touched a new high for the year at 100 and Dodge 6s rebounded to above 100.

The gold 5s of Philadelphia Co., which turned in an excellent earnings report, led the advance in the utilities. Postal 5s recovered some of its recent lost ground. International Telephone convertible 4½s lost ground on profit-taking, and Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s, which are now convertible into stock, declined 15½ points on a small turnover.

New Haven debenture 4s of 1956 declined more than a point and National Railway of Mexico 4½s ranged down 1½ points to a new low for the year at 9½, but the National Railway 4s advanced 1½ points. Seaboard Air Line convertible 6s were a strong feature.

U. S. Government securities, except the Liberty first 4½s, continued to advance.

The foreign list was dull. Rhine Westphalia 6s of 1953 tallied a gain of 2 points.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, March 16.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly foreign exchange market review, says:

"The market for European exchange was irregular all through the week, but after mixed movements in the first two days sterling displayed strength moving up ½ cent on an expectation that the Bank of England would alter its discount rate on Thursday. This expectation was not realized and after the Bank of England rate was announced as unchanged sterling fell back to about the level prevailing the first two days. Continental rates followed sterling closely moving up in the first half of the week and then reacting.

"Spanish exchange moved without reference to the other European documents. It was still under pressure at the beginning of the week but steadily improved, making sharp advances on both Thursday and Friday when it was up to 15.40 after selling at 14.64 a week ago. It turned reactionary again, however, at week-end.

"Canadian exchange was under steady pressure being offered in large volume and declining every day of the week, being quoted yesterday at 98.75, a new low for recent years. This rate brings exchange on Montreal over 1 cent below the gold import point but without attracting gold from Canada. Banking interests here do not regard this situation as unfavorable and they agree in the view that financial interests will pursue a waiting policy with the expectation that the Canadian exchange market will right itself immediately after the opening of navigation. Some of the Southern American exchanges were weak, Uruguay dropping over a cent to 102.37.

"French and Italian showed a firm tone, lire advancing to 5.24 but turning at that level. Far Easterns were quiet and without importance in changes."

RECENT SPECULATIVE FAVORITES IN DROP

Londoners Also Hit by Recent Sharp Fall in Gilt Edged Stocks.

By ARTHUR W. KIDDY.

(Copyright by New York Evening Post, Inc.)

LONDON, March 16.—Betting was 3 to 1 last Monday on gold going to the United States on Tuesday and the bank rate rising on Thursday. Therefore, when on Tuesday and Wednesday American exchange rallied sharply and gold was announced as going from Germany to the United States, it was not altogether surprising that rumors were circulated that the recovery was associated with some co-operative movement among the Banks of England, France and Germany.

We have good reason to suppose, however, that the developments are in no way connected with such suggested special co-operation, though apprehensions have risen that the English bank rate may have been affected by the policy at other centers.

Germany has been steadily selling her foreign balances for a considerable time and the release of a moderate amount of gold was becoming necessary if exchange was to be protected. In addition the United States had special remittances to make in England this week connected with the recent acquirement of certain financial interests, while the anticipation of higher rates in London prompted some withdrawals of British money temporarily lent in America.

It is hoped also that the quieter tendency of Americans markets with the continuance of firm money rates may discourage gambling on the part of the public. Some quarters are strongly emphasizing the idea that brokers' loans do not now necessarily reflect the stock exchange operations, but advances to big industries.

That argument is not, however, very clear and Capel Court is generally inclined to regard Paul Warburg's statement as the clearest and truest exposition of the position that has as yet appeared. Meanwhile it is not surprising that there should be special apprehensions concerning any possible large gold drain to the United States, as it has power to sterilize gold receipts so that they would have no effect on exchange.

Some people were hit by the recent sharp fall in gilt-edged stocks, while probably there is insufficient recognition abroad of the extent of the drop in the recent speculative favorites. For instance, Duophone 10 shilling shares which last year touched 90 shillings, is now 4 shillings and Duophone Foreign has fallen from 24 shillings to 1 shilling. Blue Bird Petrol's 1 shilling shares have fallen from 3 shillings to 4 pence. Numerous similar cases could be given of declines to prices.

Considerable interest is aroused in London by the review of American foreign trade, just published by the British department of overseas trade review. It was prepared by the English Commercial Secretary in Washington.

The points that attract particular attention include the changing character of American exports. Formerly these were made up of raw materials and foodstuffs, but recent exports have comprised over 41 per cent of finished manufactures and 14 per cent of semi-manufactured articles. For the last fiscal year the exported manufactures were valued at nearly 43 per cent of all exports. These figures made the greater impression by reason of the unsatisfactory character of the British statement for February.

FORD OF CANADA UP 349 POINTS AT 1150

Skyrocketing of Stock Follows Split-Up Plan — Close Is 1105.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Ford Motors of Canada was the sensational feature in today's curb market, soaring 349 points to a new high record at 1150 and then dropping back to 1101 on buying influenced by the announcement of a 20-for-1 stock split-up. The general list was irregular because of a heavy volume of week-end profit taking, but major speculative activity was again on the upside.

Liquidation of many stocks was influenced by the belief that a credit stringency was likely next week. Others sold stocks on the theory that the recent rapid advance in many issues had weakened their technical position. Mining shares responded to the announcement of a further increase in copper prices, Anaconda "rights" selling as high as 33¼.

Oils were again in brisk demand. Expectation are of favorable developments at the crude oil curtailment conference in Houston, Tex. Humble advanced 3½ points to a new high at 106½, but lost nearly half its gain. Vacuum, Illinois Pipe Line, Imperial Oil and Gulf of Pennsylvania closed 1 to 2⅝ points higher.

Goldman Sachs was one of the strong spots of the industrial list, climbing 6 points to a new high record at 120¼. Other issues to move into new high ground were Lehigh Valley Coal sales, Midvale Co. of Delaware, National Aviation, Pond Creek Coal and Trans Lux.

American Super Power B broke 5¼ points on one sale and Safety Car Heating and Lighting sold down 13 points on odd lot transactions. Consolidated Instrument, Tubize Artificial Silk and United Gas Improvement also were heavy.

CREDIT VIEW CHANGES AND STOCKS RISE

Sentiment Shifts to Bull Side on Indications That Traders Might Reasonably Expect Another Breathing Spell Free From Fund Complications.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"Market sentiment shifted emphatically to the bull side late this week on indications that traders might reasonably expect another breathing spell free from credit complications. Yesterday's trading brought the first five million share session since Feb. 7, when the Federal Reserve's warning was published. It was the first reminder of the active 1928 and early 1929 sessions that the market has seen lately. Explanation for this week's demonstration lies partly in the credit structure's failure to develop fresh complications, and in the public's expression after suppression of its faith in stocks. Those who had waited five weeks for a sharp market setback concluded they could not safely postpone purchases any longer. Early in the week the financial district was filled with rumors of pending rediscount rate changes. Secretary Mellon's statement that the time was ripe to buy bonds, a $20,000,000 drop in broker's loans and the Reserve's decision to maintain present rates swept aside this cloud of gloom quickly.

No Fundamental Change.

"Fundamentally the credit position has undergone no change in the last week, but the feeling grows that the reserve authorities look upon the market's action in the last five weeks as its admission of dependence on the Reserve in the long run. Since what the Reserve sought was not a collapse in market values but a cessation of wild speculative activity, and a check to the expansion in market credit, it is possible that the central bank authorities will feel content to let matters take their own course for a time. At least that was the interpretation read from recent developments by a market that deep down still has bullish proclivities. What confuses the market is the different impressions on credit it gets from the weekly Reserve statements and from the periodic Reserve warnings. With the ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal Reserve note liabilities at 80.6, as against 80.7 a year ago, and a minimum legal requirement of 40, the market is impressed by the New York Reserve Bank's excellent position.

Views on the "Loans for Others."

"Even the ratio for the system as a whole stands at 70.7, as against 74.3 a year ago, and reflects a position stronger than might be supposed from the published comments on conditions by reserve authorities. The distinction comes of course in reserve policy. Notwithstanding the high ratios still maintained at New York and by the system os a whole, Reserve officials look with concern on the rapid expansion in credit based on demands from the market. Even the tremendous growth in brokers loans perhaps would not puzzle the Reserve so much if it were in full control. Its fear lies in the fact that the market is taking funds now largely from private lenders directly. For effective reserve control over money obviously these funds should be routed through member banks. Unfortunately we have no past experience with brokers loans by "others" from which to judge whether the reserve's fears are wholly warranted or whether the market is right in its belief that they are not.

Firm Money and Business.

"It seems difficult to reconcile firm conditions in the money market with improving business, but as yet no evidence is at hand of any substantial recession in industry from the record pace that has been maintained to date in 1929. Speculative residential building has fallen off but those close to the situation see signs of an improvement later in the year in big construction projects destined to contribute more to the general prosperity than activity on residences. Such other key industries as the motor and steel groups continue operations virtually at capacity. It is of course too early to comment on the outlook in agriculture, although developments on the farm bear vitally on general business. Commodity prices continue firm with impressive gains over 1928 exhibited in lead, steel, lumber, copper, cotton and hogs. Whether the early 1929 improvement in commodity prices is a forerunner of a broad forward movement remains to be seen. At any rate there is no indication to date of inflation, although some prophets look upon the spirited advance in copper, cotton and rubber as the beginning of what may develop into inflation.

TWO-HOUR STOCK TRADE LARGEST SINCE JANUARY

Vigorous Pool Operations in Radio and Other Shares—Heavy Selling in Anticipation of Tighter Money.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The stock market encountered heavy selling today in anticipation of tighter money next week, but offerings were absorbed with remarkable ease, and vigorous pool operations in the Radio and other shares imparted renewed strength to the general list before the close.

Trading was again carried on at breakneck speed, 2,718,260 shares changing hands in the two-hour session, the largest Saturday business since Jan. 5. The Associated Press index of 50 industrials was elevated ½ of a point to another new high at 223½, making a gain of over 9 points for the week.

Although Friday's call loan rate of 7 per cent held over the weekend, bankers pointed out that the Government will begin sending in its income tax checks for payment next week, which will cut down bank balances, and at the same time will begin to pay off its overdraft at the Reserve banks, which has had the effect of easing credit this week. The fact that time money has reached 8 per cent even for longer maturities, the highest rate in years, is indicated as a barometer of the credit situation.

Copper Price Advanced.

The day's business news included still another increase in copper metal prices, carrying the price for domestic shipment to 21 cents, and still higher prices were talked of in the trade. It was pointed out, however, that consumption of the red metal will soon reach its seasonal peak, and much of the recent feverish buying has been regarded as an effort to "beat" price advances rather than for current requirements.

Another assortment of good earnings statements for 1928 were published. Wright Aero reported net equal to $8.11 per share, against $3.73 in 1927, and National Sugar Refining reported $5.62 per share, against 48 cents, following upon American Sugar's excellent statement. In the oils, Standard of Ohio reported $6.08 per share, in contrast to $3.29.

Coppers and oils displayed outstanding group strength. Anaconda, Chile and Kennecott reached new high ground, while Greene Cananea sold up over eight points, nearly duplicating its previous top, and Calumet and Arizona mounted nearly seven points. In the oils which have been stimulated by production control developments Standard of California mounted more than three points to a new top.

New Peak on Radio.

The old radio shares slipped back eight points to 530, only to rebound to 549, another new peak, while the new shares climbed to a new top at 109¾. Among the more volatile issues, Otis Elevator jumped 20 points and Rossia Insurance sold up 15. Case Threshing mounted 15 points and Advance Rumely shares reached new tops. Goodyear Tire was lifted about 10 points to a new top at 151.

American Locomotive touched a new high for the year, while Baldwin and Lima improved. Curtiss Publishing, Lambert, Motion Picture Capital, Inland Steel, and First National Stores reached new high ground.

U. S. Steel sagged about two points, but rallied to close steady. General Motors lost about a point, and Packard two. Allied Chemical, Columbia Carbon, Electric Auto Lite, Mathieson Alkal, Hudson & Manhattan Railroad and Wright Aero closed about two to five points lower.

Foreign exchanges eased slightly, but sterling held fairly steady, and it was rumored that it was being supported to prevent further gold imports from London. The Spanish peseta again turned weak, dropping about one-fourth of a cent.

SPECIAL $1 DIVIDEND ON CERTO BEFORE MERGER, PLAN

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 16.—A special dividend of one dollar in cash will be paid to stockholders of Certo Corporation before the consummation of the merger with Postum Company, it was announced today. This will be in addition to the 75 cent payment, recently authorize by the Board of Directors, April 1.

A special meeting of shareholders has been called for April 4 at which time the special payment and the merger with Postum will be voted on. It is the intention of Postum to give 87.75 shares of Postum for each 100 shares of Certo outstanding.

Spain Reduces Bank Rate.

MADRID, March 16.—The Bank of Spain today announced a reduction in the discount rate from 5½ to 5 per cent beginning Monday.

Extra 60c on Sieloff Packing.

Sieloff Packing Co. has declared a special dividend of 60c in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 60c, both payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 20.

TRANSACTIONS ON NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Total transactions in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today amounted to $4,003,000; previous day's sales, $9,751,00; week ago, $5,407,000; year ago, $7,511,000. Total transactions from Jan. 1 to date were $544,971,000, compared with $878,877,000 a year ago and $894,820,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty Bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar, that is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar and not $99.24.

The following is a complete list of transactions, giving sales, highest, lowest and closing prices (in bond sales 000 omitted):

G. B. SHAW CONSIDERS HAVING HEAD CUT OF.

Russian's Experiment With a Dog Leads Playwright Into Humorous Speculation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, March 16.—The newspaper Tageblatt will say tomorrow that George Bernard Shaw has acknowledged that he is greatly tempted to have his head cut off. A German friend recently asked the Irish dramatist and wit his opinion of the recently announced invention of the Russian professor Brjuchenenko who kept alive the severed head of a dog for more than three hours by means of a pumping arrangement. Shaw replied:

"I find the Brjuchenenko experiment frightfully interesting, but cannot imagine anything sillier than the suggestion to try it on a criminal sentenced to death. To prolong the life of such a person is undesirable.

"The experiment should be tried on a scientist whose life is endangered by an incurable organic disease, say cancer of the stomach, whereby humanity is threatened with the loss of services of his brain. What is easier than to save such genius from the death bed by cutting off the head, thereby freeing the brain from disease and keeping up artificial circulation in the arteries and veins so that the great man may continue to lecture and advise us without being impeded by bodily infirmities.

"I am greatly tempted to have my head cut off so that I may continue to dictate plays and books independently of any illness, without having to dress and undress, or eat, or do anything at all except to produce masterpieces of dramatic art and literature. I would, of course, expect one or two vivisectionists to submit themselves to the experiment to prove to my satisfaction that it is practicable and not dangerous, but I assume that would not mean any serious difficulty.

"I am deeply obliged to you for bringing to my attention this highly satisfactory possibility. A university in which all chairs were occupied by a row of the finest brains in the country with nothing but pumps attached to them—briefly, where the whole system of teaching was purely cerebral—would be an enormous improvement on the present state of things.

"I would furthermore be obliged if you make the enthusiasm with which I learned of this last triumph of physiological research most widely known."

HAINES TO MAKE SPRING DEBUT ON HILL TODAY AGAINST PHILS

By L. A. McMaster.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 16.—Another of the "Big Four" of the Cardinals pitching staff has been pronounced ready. He is Jesse Joseph Haines, husky Ohioan, who will test his fast right hand shoots, possibly even his baffling knuckle ball in the Red Bird's game with Burt Shotton's Phillies at Winter Haven, Fla., tomorrow.

Haines has been picked by Manager Southworth along with Hal Haid and Bill Hallahan to work in the box in this eighth spring exhibition contest for the National League champions.

These three hurlers are slated to bear a big share of the pitching burden for Sam Breadon's outfit in the 1929 pennant campaign, and tomorrow's contest will give the fans their first chance to see how the strenuous training grind at Avon Park has been affecting two of them. Haid alone of the three has seen service in combat up to date, and if the two others show as much stuff as Hal has exhibited, the Phillies are in for a battle in this engagement which really doesn't mean any more than so many runs for one side and so many for the other.

Another Day of Toil.

Today brought another long nonstop grind for the athletes. Heavy rain in the morning made the usual 10 o'clock start impossible, and Pilot Billy put his big squad through another "double session." They began work at 11 a. m., and continued without a break until after two. Southworth believes in sticking to his policy of hard driving and when the thermometer began to climb after the storm, it meant only harder labor.

They had batting practice, they had fielding practice, they had bunting practice, they had skull practice, and they had everything over again a few times. When the clock showed it was past the hour of two, Billy still had the regular infield whipping the ball about to make imaginary double plays on grounders from the bat of Greasy Neale, the outfielders chasing fungoes from the bludgeons of Gabby Streett and Chick Hafey, and four or five squads jumping about in bunting games.

Coach Worn Out.

"Whew, I've never seen anything like this. Eighteen or 19 pitchers to get going every day. Look at these blisters from swinging that old fungo stick. I'm going to be in good enough shape myself to catch 154 straight games," gasped Gabby Street, stumbling toward the clubhouse. And Gabby is only a coach; he doesn't have to develop the fine edge of condition that is required of the regular ball players.

But that's what everybody is getting in Camp Cardinal this spring, more hard conditioning work than any of them ever saw before. Today Billy Southworth had to take his squad to town for a late afternoon meal, to keep them standing.

"Next week we'll be pretty certain about just what's going to come of all this work," said the manager, after the long grind. "We're getting everybody into good shape.

"Two weeks of hustling like these fellows have gone through has given me a pretty good idea of what all can do. There's one man in particulars who has impressed us all.

Meet George Watkins.

"George Watkins, that ball hawk who's been playing center field, seems to have earned a trip North. No, that's not final. But we're pretty sweet on him. He gets those flies, he meets the ball hard, and so far he hasn't done anything wrong. Hard to keep a fellow like him out of there. Next week we'll probably decide about him and a lot of others."

The line-up of the infield each day in the intensive fielding drill seems to put finis on the combination of Bottomley at first, [illegible] at second, Gelbert at short

Speedy St. Louisans Have Good Chance to Defeat Foreign Stars

By Dent McSkimming

It has been three years since a St. Louis team played in the national soccer final. Today, at Sportsman's Park, the Madison Club of this city will attempt to re-establish St. Louis' Western supremacy by eliminating the Sparta Club of Chicago. The winner of today's match will receive the Western championship cup and will enter the final of the national cup competition.

In the East, the Hakoah team of New York, composed entirely of imported Jewish players, will oppose the Portuguese Club of Newark in a sectional semifinal. The winner of that match will oppose the New York Giants in the Eastern final, the victor to oppose the Western champions in the grand final. The Giants defeated Bethlehem a week ago, 6 to 3 and are favorites to survive in the East.

The single hurdle which stands between St. Louis and the national final is a high one. Sparta is strictly a recruited team. Every player on the club came from Europe, several of them for the purpose of playing soccer. In qualifying for today's game the Czecho-Slovaks defeated among other clubs the All-Scots of Detroit, 7 to 0, and the Bricklayers of Chicago, 3 to 1. Those results, alone, are sufficient to stamp the club as one of the best in the country but St. Louis fans have already had ample proof that Sparta is a worthy foe.

Steadily Improved.

For the past several years, Sparta has been a consistent winner but it was not until the management added Halfback Mink and Inside Right Forward Mattus to the line-up that the club reached its highest point of efficiency. In two games here at New Year's time, Sparta displayed a remarkable passing game, winning from the Tablers, 8 to 4, and holding an All-Star team to a tie score. In its machine-like accuracy, the combination play of the Czechs on that occasion was strikingly reminiscent of the great European team, Sparta of Prague which visited here two years ago.

Sparta is a stronger club than the Holleys of Detroit who were beaten by the Madisons last Sunday. Whereas the Hollys relied almost solely upon the scoring power of one man—Visser, the Sparta attack is varied. The wing men, Tobek on the left and Krabec on the right are not especially brilliant, but the inside trio, Kratochvil, Burger and Vlcek, are very dangerous before the goal and there is no telling which of the three will strike.

Matus, the accomplished inside right forward, is a doubtful starter. He figured in a collision with Goaltender Vic Neate in a cup game two weeks ago. Neate's leg was broken and Matus came out with a badly bruised leg. He was unable to play last Sunday and may be replaced today by Jerry Vlcek.

In the backfield, too, Sparta is better able to cope with the Madisons' speedy attack. Ike Walker is a far better center halfback than Rutherford of Detroit, and the fullbacks, Gardiner and Zenisek, are stronger kickers and better Victory for South Sides gives them Municipal title; victory for Angelicas ties series at one each.

Brian Norton Turns "Pro" and Beats Richards

By the Associated Press.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 16.—Brian I. C. Norton, former South African amateur net star, sprang an upset in the annual Southern professional tennis tournament here today when he defeated Vincent Richards, present national professional champion, in the finals in straight sets, 8—6, 7—5 and 6—1.

Norton deserted the amateur ranks last Monday to enter the tournament for cash prizes. Having played no competitive tennis in two years, he was not even seeded as a favorite.

His first round saw him eliminating Paul Heston, runnerup to Richards last year and in the semifinals Norton downed Charles Woods, another seeded star. Norton or Richards neither rushed the net very often and Norton's baseline game was much stronger.

EAST HIGH FIVE WINS MISSOURI STATE HONORS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 16.—East and Southwest Highs of Kansas City tonight made a closed Kansas City affair of the battle for the championship and runner-up positions in the Missouri State High School Athletic Association Tournament, East coming through with a 30 to 18 victory and a State title.

The victory came as an upset, East High avenging an early season defeat at the hands of Southeast early in the season.

The East High five, with a 16 to 8 advantage at the end of the first half, continued to widen the gap as the game progressed, leading 24 to 14.

By winning the State championship tonight, East High became eligible to enter the national tournament at Chicago.

Landis Rules Nine Players Free Agents; Browns Fined $500

CHICAGO, March 16.—Nine major and minor league baseball players were declared free agents today by Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis. The players are Guy Cantrel and Melburn Simons, Washington; Ernest Wingard, Philadelphia Athletics; Claude Jonnard, St. Louis Browns; Roy Spencer of Indianapolis; Kyle Anderson of Columbia and Charles Glazner, J. B. Partridge and Ralph Judd of Birmingham, Ala.

Commissioner Landis' wholesale edict involves several of the leading first year men up for trial in the major leagues. Both Wingard and Jonnard, who pitched winning ball with the Milwaukee Club of the American Association last season, were rated as ready for big league competition. Both formerly played with the Browns.

In naming Wingard a free agent Commissioner Landis ruled no right of return was stipulated when Milwaukee filed an agreement transferring the pitcher to the Athletics. An initial payment of $5000 was made by Philadelphia to Milwaukee but this check was never cashed. Later the same amount was refunded to the order of Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Culb. Meanwhile Philadelphia sought to transfer Wingard back to the American Association Club but Commissioner Landis withheld his approval, making an investigation that brought out the foregoing facts.

Jonnard was made a free agent on the grounds that in the Milwaukee-St. Louis relations the transfer of Jonnard to and his reservation by St. Louis were not genuine.

Wingard's free agency prohibited him from negotiating with the Browns, the Athletics, Milwaukee, Tulsa or Springfield, Mo. clubs.

Rule on Reservations.

Both Roy Spencer, who was on the Pittsburgh payroll last season, and Anderson were ruled free because the major-minor league agreement forbids one club reserving a player for another club. Commissioner Landis ruled that Anderson was reserved by Indianapolis and Spencer by Pittsburgh.

Cantrell came up to the Washington Senators after winning 20 and losing 17 games with the Baltimore club of the International League. Commissioner Landis ruled that Cantrell was reserved by Washington and not by Baltimore and hence was a free agent because the inter-league agreement requires each to file a "reserve list" of all its players.

In investigating the Cantrell transaction, Landis discovered that Washington's initial payment to Birmingham for Melborn Simons was secretly refunded by the Southern Association club last April following the Senators reserving and subsequently returning the player to Birmingham. The transfer violated the rule forbidding "arrangement between clubs for the loan or transfer of a player other than by an approved optional agreement," according to Commissioner Landis.

$500 For Each Violation.

HORTON SMITH WINS FLORIDA CHAMPIONSHIP

By the Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 16.—Young Horton Smith from the Ozarks of Missouri packed away in his bag of clubs tonight the third golf title of the Florida winter season leaving a heavy field in his wake to win the Florida open with 284.

With his steady cards of 70-72-70-72 the Joplin professional claimed $1000 prize money, but not until after Frank Walsh of Appleton, Wis., had made the last stroke on a scintilating round of 67 this afternoon to hoist himself from fifth place to second, one stroke behind the Missourian.

Johnny Farrell, the American open champion, required two strokes over par on both rounds today and watched Smith, with whom he was tied at the halfway mark, gain a two-stroke advantage, finishing third with a 70-72-72-72—286.

Densmore Shute, Youngstown, O., slipped from third place in the final round this afternoon, bringing up a 73 to add to his 215 for a tie in fifth place with Tommy Armour, Washington, at 288.

Sixth came Ed Dudley, Los Angeles, professional, with 290, and next ranked Craig Wood, Bloomsfield, N. J., who got off to a bad start in the initial round yesterday with a 77 and was forced to take 291 for the 72-hole route. Henry Ciuci, Bridgeport, Conn., defending champion, with 293 was one stroke ahead of a bracket composed of George Waggaman, Tampa, and Geogre Christ, Davenport, Fla., who required 294 to tie for tenth place in the money.

KRESS DRIVES TWO RUNNERS OVER PLATE WITH DOUBLE

McGowan, Only Brown Holdout, Accepts Terms

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Mar. 16.—PROBABLY the best news of the day at Camp Howley was not the showing of the ball club, but the announcement from headquarters that the club owners had come to terms with outfielder Frank McGowan. It was announced that McGowan would join the club at once.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 16.—Playing their first real game of their training camp exhibition series, after nearly three weeks of preparatory work, the St. Louis Brownie regulars, practically the team which Manager Dan hopes will represent the club throughout the season, barely nosed out the tail end Columbus club of the American Association today, score 4 to 3. A few hundred fans viewed the exhibition.

Considering their lack of practice games, the Browns displayed commendable form, the playing of third baseman Grimes and the spectacular throwing of outfielder Jenkins being two interesting features.

Stewart and Blaeholder Pitch.

Stewart and Blaeholder hurled for the Browns, while Jablonowski, Harris and Lloyd carried the burden for Columbus. Jablonowski, a former Cincinnati pitcher, started out like a lion tamer by fanning Blue, in the first inning; but there he lost his medicine. Singles by Frank O'Rourke and Schulte, followed by a smashing double by Kress, sent two runners scurrying across the plate. In the second inning, two more runs were scored off Jablonowski when four singles were grouped, three of them coming in succession.

Two runs were scored off Walter Stewart, in the five innings he labored. The first was earned. It came in the second inning when Columbus players grouped three singles to push one count across the plate. Another tally off Stew-

POLE VAULT MARK AGAIN BROKEN AT ILLINOIS INDOOR TRACK MEET

BERLINGER OF PENNSYLVANIA WINS ALL AROUND CHAMPIONSHIP

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 16.—Climaxing six record-breaking performances, Tommy Warne, black-haired youth from Kokomo, Ind., soared to a new world's indoor pole vault record in the University of Illinois relay carnival tonight.

Warne, competing under the colors of Northwestern University, pulled himself over the bar at a height of 13 feet, 7¾ inches, eclipsing the performance of Henry Canby of Iowa, who cleared 13 feet, 7½ inches in the Western Conference indoor championship at Iowa City a week ago.

Warne's mark was made off a dirt floor and is distinct from the record of 14 feet, 1 inch made by Sabin Carr, Yale vaulter, off a board floor.

After Warne made his record smashing leap, he vainly tried to shatter Carr's mark. The bar was raised to 14 feet, 2 inches, an inch higher than the height Carr cleared. Warne made three attempts to clear it. He came within an eyelash of doing it on his third attempt, but his pole knocked the crossbar off and his final effort resulted in failure.

Surpasses Norton's Record.

With 800 athletes from 80 universities, colleges and high schools in the competition, the record smashing started this afternoon, finishing tonight with the pole value. A super-athlete named Barney Berlinger, competing under the colors of the University of Pennsylvania, opened the carnival by shattering the record in the all-around championship event. This strapping youth, six feet, 1 inch in height, and weighing 197 pounds, scored 6070 points in the seven events comprising the all-around, beating the performance of Emmerson Norton of Georgetown University, who, in 1925 hung up a total of 5603 points.

The other carnival records to fall were in the 1500 meters run, university medley relay, four-mile university relay and the two-mile university relay. Orval Martin, Purdue's flashy distance runner, cracked the mark for the 1500 meters run by taking the lead on the first lap and gradually lengthening it until the event ceased to be a race. He crossed the tape in 4:05 1-10, three and three tenths seconds faster than the mark set by brown of Minnesota in 1924.

Jack Elder Beaten.

One if the sensations of the meet was the defeat of Jack Elder, Ntre Dame's Seagrave of the cinder path, in the 75-yard dash. Elder bowed to George Simpson of Ohio State, ace of the Big Ten sprinters, who broke the tap in :07 6-10, with Elder finishing second and Eddie Tolan, Michigan Negro sophomore, third. Elder's defeat was his first this year. The Irish speedster, only conqueror of Percy Williams, got away to a poor start, with Simpson breaking like a scared rabbit.

Illinois captured two of the major relays, smashing records in both. The Illini quartet first cracked the mark for the two-mile university relay, knocking 1 2-10 seconds off the record of 7:56 hung up by Georgetown in 1925.

Then through the sensational racing of David Abbott, anchor man, the Illinois team broke the record in the four-mile event, reeling it off in 17:53 3-10. Abbott picked up at least 35 yards in a desperate race with Shields of Indiana. They ran neck and neck to the tape, Abbott winning by the breadth of an expanded chest..

Harold Hayden of the University of Chicago, Western Conference hurdling champion and record holder for indoor competition, was twice defeated tonight. He lost both the 75-yard low and high hurdles. Dick Rockaway of Ohio State captured the high hurdles in :09 5-10, with Jimmy Cave, an Illinois sophomore, taking the low in :08 3-10.

Berlinger competed in both the shot put and high jump tonight, but was unable to equal his performance hung up in his all-round competition. He tossed the shot 46 feet, 1½ inches to win the all-around, but could do no better than 45 feet, 3 inches tonight. He tied for fourth in the jump.

Up the Ladder.

THE life of Mr. Hoover lends a moral to a tale
For all ambitious children who intend the heights to scale;
So, if you would be President,
remember, children, dear,
You first must be a fireman and then an engineer.

Now, take Al Smith, who figured in the late lamented flop;
He started from the bottom and had nearly reached the top;
Constituents were cheering till they strained their vocal glands
When Al let go the ladder while he spit upon his hands.

To reach the top, however, isn't such a clever trick;
The big idea, children, is to reach the top and stick.
Don't look down on your neighbor when at last you reach the top,
Or, Vertigo will get you and you'll take an awful drop!

The Detour.

The State Fish and Game Warden of Oklahoma has declared a bounty of 25 cents a head on "road runners." Indicating that Mr. Pyle will not route his bunion derby through Oklahoma this year.

It is said that the solid South is peeved over not getting in on Hoover's Cabinet. Do these rookie states expect to break into the major lineup right off the bat?

Can you imagine Texas pinch hitting for Ohio or Illinois in a Republican Cabinet? Well, then Babe Ruth says the life of a recruit is easier than in the past. With the Yankees yes. All he has to do is wait for a Yankee to die or break a leg.

Outfielders Who Can Throw Great Need in Baseball At Present, McGraw Says

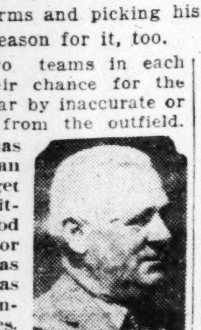
By John J. McGraw,
Manager, New York Giants.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 16.—If a fan from any of the northern cities were in the training camps of the South and Southwest, he would see every manager in both leagues paying particular stress on throwing arms and picking his outfielders accordingly. There's mighty good reason for it, too.



John McGraw.

At least two teams in each league lost their chance for the pennant last year by inaccurate or poor throwing from the outfield. The time has passed when an outfielder can get by on hard hitting and good fielding. A poor arm will cost as many games as he saves by wonderful catches. Goose Goslin managed to stay in the game all season on account of his great hitting, but with a strong arm he might have saved the Senators at least a dozen games.

A good arm is even more important in left field than in center or right. The geography of the diamond makes a cut-off almost impossible on a throw from left. A fielder out there should never make a throw to third or home unless he has a real chance of getting somebody.

Last season the Giants, for example, lost several important games on inaccurate throws or throwing with poor judgment. In fact our weak spot for the past few years has been a lack of good throwing arms in left field. On a single with a man on base, the throw should always be to second unless there is more than an even chance of nailing the front runner at third or home. Otherwise the batter will take second nine times out of ten. Many games are lost by fielders allowing the runner to take the extra base.

Reason for Several Trades.

Other managers have complained of the same weakness in their outfields. The trouble has grown worse with the fielders backing up against the fence to head off the long hits with the lively ball. The ned for accurate throwing is greater.

This necessity of good throwing left fielders may partly explain my trade of O'Doul for Fred Leach. Look over the other teams in both major leagues and you will understand several trades that otherwise may have puzzled you. Managers usually trade for a definite purpose.

It is just as bad for runners to take chances on good arms as it is good to run on poor ones. In one series in Chicago last summer, I called a meeting and warned the players against taking chances on Cuyler's arm. He was playing in right fiel and the throw was short. Despite this warning, several runners failed to heed it and enough of them were thrown out to lose the series for us.

The correct principle of playing the outfield is never to throw a ball to third or home unless there is an actual chance of nailing the runner. A throw to second saves many a game. That is why Goose Goslin got by. From center he could play safe by getting the ball that far. From center and right there is always a chance of the shortstop or second baseman or some infielder running in and making a cut-off of the ball so as to hold the batter at first. The left fielder never gets a break like that. Useless throws are always dangerous.

Throwing Arms Needed.

So, these first few weeks of training most managers are centering their work on developing throwing arms. Believe me, we will need them.

Most baseball men are keenly interested this spring in the progress of the Cleveland and the Detroit teams in the American League and the Phillies in the National.

Peckinpaugh and Bucky Harris have practically new teams and there is no way of telling how they will go. Either may step out like the Browns did last year. That spurt by the Browns has made them pennant possibilities this year.

Those Phillies are no longer a joke. The way Shotten has knitted that club together in one year ought to be a pretty good indication of what he will do in another. He has easily one of the best defensive infields in the country. What is more important, the players no longer consider themselves a poor ball club. In my opinion they will make a great showing. Their enthusiasm is already showing in the training.

Three Infield Stars.

Here at San Antonio we are having wonderful weather and our club, the first to start training, is in excellent shape. Our pitchers are making it tough for the batters already. So far we seem to have picked up three excellent young infielders in Crawford, Jordan and Marshall. Casey Stengel and Mickey O'Neill have told me repeatedly that Crawford is the best natural hitter they've seen in years and I'm beginning to believe they may be right. Jordan also is going good and Fred Leach, in wonderful shape, has impressed everybody as a real ballplayer.

We were all sorry to hear that Lazzeri's arm still bothers him at St. Petersburg. The chances of the Yankees to win a fourth pennant will depend largely, in my opinion, on the physical condition of Lazzeri.

and Frisch at third as the regular first defense.

Andy High puts in a lot of time grabbing the hot shots down the left-field foul line, but when Frisch is in the infield, he works at third base and his excellent physical condition has the management thinking he is ready to go in and defend the "difficult corner."

Satisfied With Infield.

So it looks as if Southworth and his advisers are satisfied that their two so-called infield experiments will deliver up to expectations, and that the worry about the 1929 National League pennant will rest with the other clubs.

Chick Hafey, of the spectacles, seems set for a big year. Of course, in other years, whenever Chick reported that his eyes were bothering him, fans and a lot of National League pitchers wondered what Chick would do if he only could see. He just two-based 'em to death with drives to left and center, and even to right. Chick has been exercising all his power of propulsion with regularity since his arrival in camp, and he now says that his eyes are much better than for several seasons. Sinus trouble, yes—but fence trouble also for National League flingers.

Pepper Goes to Houston.

The work of Watkins, which is drawing so much praise from Manager Southworth, brought the first shipping of a rookie to other parts, causing the sending of Ray Pepper to Houston. Pepper is a natural slugger, looked upon by Southworth as a sure major league regular with some seasoning, and he has been sent to the Texas League for that. He has to learn to bunt, and a few other things.

Branch Rickey, vice president of the club spent the day in Plant City where he visited his parents who drove down. It is possible also that he might have some business with Manager Bill McKechnie of the Rochester Club, which is training at Plant City.

Webster Wins Consolation in State Tourney

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 15.—Opening up with the most powerful attack they had shown in the tournament, Webster Groves High of St. Louis tonight wrote its name in Missouri basketball history by defeating Kirksville High, runner-up in Northeast Missouri, 27 to 10. The victory gave the St. Loius school the consolation championship of the Missouri State High School Athletic Association tournament.

It was 13 minutes after the game had started before the Kirksville quintet was able to break through a five-man defense, the St. Louisans presented, to score, and meanwhile, Webster Groves' offensive had been busy collecting 11 points to give them a lead that was never overcome. The Kirksville five, which had played a veteran brand of basketball in eliminating North Kansas City this morning, found the going harder when pitted against the St. Louisans.

CONGER WINS CENTURY MILE; WIDE IS FOURTH

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Ray Conger won the "mile of the century" from a hand-picked field of international stars at the Knights of Columbus games in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Leo Lermond was second for a great American sweep, while Eino Purje of Finland and Edvin Wide of Sweden, the favorite, were third and fourth.

The winner's time of 4 minutes 13 2-5 seconds was by far the finest mile of the season. The best Conger ever ran and only 1 2-5 seconds slower than the world's indoor record, held jointly by Paavo Nurmi and Joie Ray.

How Race Was Run.

The slim Iowa youth who conquered Nurmi at the same distance earlier in the season in several seconds slower time won tonight with a dazzling sprint that carried him up from the ruck in the last two laps and swept him past his struggling rivals.

It was just in this spectacular manner that Conger beat Nurmi in the Millrose games a little more than a month ago on the same track.

Conger won by a good 10 yards over Lermond, big Boston A. A. star, with Purje another 10 yards back and Wide five yards behind him. Joe Hickey of New York University, the Eastern inter-collegiate champio at a mile, was distanced, trailing Wide by an eighth of a lap. Galen Elliott, Southern intercollegiate mile champion from the University of North Carolina, was forced to drop out two laps from home after running last throughout the later stages of the race.

In the new world record time, the Newark A. C. won a special invitation half-mile relay from the New York Stock Exchange and a home town rival, Newark Prep., with Chet Bowman, Walter Reich, Bob Talbot and Oliver Proudlock running the 220-yard legs. In that order the 'nags" covered the route in 1:33 2-5, a full second faster than New York University made earlier in the season in beating the previous record.

Johnny Gibson, Bloomfield (N. J. Catholic Lyceum, sprang a big surprise by winning the Casey 600 special run while the internationalist, Phil Edwards, could do no better than third. Eddie Blake of the Boston A. A. was second. Gibson and Blake closed in on Edwards on the last two laps, and nipped him just at the wire.

Gibson's winning time was 1 minute 12 2-5 seconds, four-fifths of a second slower than the world's indoor record, but Edwards, although losing, set a new mark for 500 meters of 1:05 flat, four-fifths of a second better than Alan Helffrich's former standard. Edwards had planned to go on to the 660-yard mark, but he abandoned the latter idea when beaten.

The race was between Edwards, Gibson and Blake from the start, with Oliver Proudlock of the Newark A. C., Norman St. Clair of Syracuse and Reggie Bowen of Pittsburg never threatening seriously, and trailing in that order.

Despite a record-breaking performance of 7 2-5 seconds by Harry Flippin of the University of Virginia in a heat, he was beaten in the final of the 60-yard high hurdles by Monty Wells, the national champion and former Dartmouth timber-topper. Sol Furth of New York University was third. To win Wells was forced to equal the record now on the books of 7 3-5 seconds.

Paavo Nurmi, who turned down an invitation to run in the featured mile because he did not think he was fast enough to win, set four new records in a handicap four-mile run, although Ove Anderson, a fellow Finn, with a handicap of 200 yards, led him across the line.

La Barba Scores Kayo Over Smith

By the Associated Press.

SYDNEY, New South Wales, March 16.—Fidel La Barba of Los Angeles, former world's flyweight champion, knocked out Willie Smith, South African boxer, in the twelfth round of a bout here today.

It was La Barba's second victory over Smith, the American boxer having won a decision over the South African in a 15-round bout in Sydney, Feb. 9.

Twelve thousand spectators gave the contestants a great ovation as they entered the ring for their scheduled 15-round bout. La Barba weighed 121¼ and Smith 122¼.

Smith made a good showing in the early rounds with left leads and hooks to the jaw. La Barba confined himself to body punches at close quarters.

From the sixth round on La Barba became more aggressive, forcing the fighting to the ropes, which frequently saved Smith. The South African went down twice in the seventh, and for a count of nine in the eleventh.

Near the end of the twelfth round the American boxer rushed in with a heavy rip to the body and knocked Smith out.

La Barba will start back to the United States on March 23.

Browns Defeat Columbus, 4-3 In First Spring Exhibition

art came in the fifth when Kress, too eager in his try for a double play, threw over Blue's head and the extra base given the runner then resulted in a score with only one hit being registered during the session.

The other Columbus tally was made off Blaeholder in the seventh inning when three singles were bunched.

Kress the Big Shot.

Kress was the big hero of the afternoon making a single and a double and a safe bunt in four trips to the plate. On his other time up he struck out. He played a fine game afield with the exception of the wild throw.

The day was a pleasant one to Manager Howley, who saw three of his new men make their debut with considerable eclat. Grimes played a fine defensive third base and looked every inch a real star. At the plate he came through with a single and himself scored a run. Ferrel did a good job behind the bat and Jenkins revealed both a powerful hitting punch and good defensive work. His throw from right field to third base on a line disclosed a hitherto unknown arm. Jenkins made one hit and on two other times at bat socked the ball to center field.

Kress' double was the best hit of the day and with a little bit more speed would have gone for a triple. As it was, Red missed his slide into base by an eyelash.

Manager Howley injected a number of replacements into the fray in the sixth when he sent Blaeholder in to pitch, Schang behind the bat, Badgro to the outfield and Melillo to second base. Roetz later relieved Lu Blue at first base. McNeely replaced Heine Manush after three innings. Neither Blue nor Manush is sufficiently seasoned as yet for a long game and Manager Howley declined to risk injuring his stars.

Notwithstanding the Browns faced their first real game of the season, Manager Dan Howley sent out his squad for practice in the morning. All the youngsters and the battery men who were not scheduled for afternoon duty went through the regular practice session from 10 o'clock until 1 p. m.

The regulars did not escape and took the field at 1:30 and continued their work right up to game time.

Manager Howley took particular pains with Eddie Grimes in batting practice, instructing him as to his stance and offering suggestions to improve his hitting.

The Browns will play another game with Columbus tomorrow afternoon starting at 2:30 p. m.

JOHN FALCARO OF NEW YORK TAKES ALL-EVENTS LEAD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 16. — Maple Trundlers from New York, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Peoria, Ill., laid down such a heavy barrage on the wood at the American Bowling Congress tournament today that they juggled standings in three events. It was the best day of performances since the turney started two weeks ago.

Joe Falcaro, New York ,blasted his way into the lead in the all events competition with a score of 1876. Falgaro bagged 531 in his doubles event, 644 in the singles and 701 in the five-man event. His feat in the latter competition was largely responsible for the showing of his team, the Cordes Nets, which landed in first place in the five-man event last night.

His teammate, C. Stubing, landed in second place in the all events with 1874 pins, shoving P. Green, Chicago, and Jeff Davis, Chicago, the former leaders, into a tie for third and fourth places with 1871 pins each. Mort Lindsey, another New York pin crasher, toppled 1849 maples to get fifth place today, while W. Wichman, New York, got sixth with 1840.

F. Schrieber and W. Meyer of Cincinnati hung up a total of 1246 to grab the lead in the doubles in another scoring splurge today, sinking the former leaders, W. Thusen and R. Phillips, Chicago, into second with 1234. Other new leaders in the doubles were C. Garrison and C. Cushing, Peoria, Ill., who placed third with 1230; G. Geldreich and L. Reiner, Cincinnati, who landed in fifth place with 1226, and J. Teli and J. Cushman of Cleveland, who went into fifth with 1221.

The only change among the 10 singles leaders was made by Lindsey who rolled into eighth place tie with a 658 total with J. Burns of Chicago. Jeff Davis, Chicago, was still high in the event with 723, a mark far above the winning total last year.

The Cordes Nets of New York still had a good margin in the five-man with 2932.

St. Louisan in 10th Place.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 16. — J. Witzke, of St. Louis, rolled into a tie for tenth place of the singles event in the American Bowling Congress tourney here this afternoon. The Mound City bowler toppled 657 pins in his three games with counts of 220, 243 and 194. G. Frederich, also of St. Louis, landed in the money with 631.

Witzke with Stanley Malachowski as a partner also led the St. Louis boys in the doubles with score of 1,163. The former carried most of the attack on the pins with 626 total.

The Maas Plumbing team of St. Louis rolled into the prize money of the main event tonight with a total of 2798. The plumbers had a high game of 1021 in their middle effort, but a slow start and a slightly better finish kept the Mound City entry from taking a berth among the leaders.

MICHIGAN WINS SWIMMING TITLE WITH 44 POINTS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 16.—One national intercollegiate and two conference records were shattered tonight as Michigan won the Big Ten indoor swimming championship. The Wolverines scored 44 points, while Northwestern was second with 34.

All the new marks fell to Northwestern's swimmers, who failed to beat Michigan for the championship because of lack of balance.

Dick Hinch, Northwestern junior, cracked his old national collegiate mark in the 150-yard back stroke, swimming the distance in 1:40.4. His old mark, established in 1928, was 1:42.

Northwestern's medley team, composed of Minch, Peterson and Covode, established a new conference mark in the 300-yard event with the time of 3:10.6. The old mark was 3:12, established by Michigan last year.

The second conference record to fall was the 200-yard backstroke. Don Peterson of Northwestern splashed that distance in 2:37.4. Johnny Faricy of Minnesota established the old mark, 2:38.2, in 1922.

Walker of Michigan, one of the chief point getters for the victorious Wolverines, equalled the conference mark of :18.4 in the 40-yard free style.

Illinois finished third in the team championship with 15 points, while Wisconsin was fourth with 11. Other teams scored as follows: Chicago, 7; Minnesota, 4; Purdue, 1; Iowa, 1. Indiana was the only entry which failed to tally.

Final summaries:

440-yard swim: Won by Ault, Michigan; second, Watson, Michigan; third, Kieding, Illinois; fourth, Liddle, Iowa. Time, 5:15.4.

150-yard backstroke: Won by Hinch, Northwestern; second, Marsh, Minnesota; third, Hubbell, Michigan; fourth, Spindle, Michigan. Time, 1:40.4 (new national collegiate record.)

100-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Schwart, Northwestern; second, Walker, Michigan; third, Seager, Michigan; fourth, Crocker, Minnesota. Time—:53.6.

FANCY DIVING—Won by Groh, Illinois, 102 points; Colbath, Northwestern, defending champion, 101.7; Walaitis, Michigan, 90.5; O'Keefe, Northwestern, 82.2.

200-YARD FREE STYLE — Won by Schwartz, Northwestern; second, Ault, Michigan; third, Kieding, Illinois; fourth Watson, Michigan. Time—2:19.8.

300-YARD MEDLEY—Won by Northwestern (Hinch, Peterson, Covode); second, Michigan; third, Chicago; fourth, Wisconsin. Time—3:10.6 (New conference record.)

160-YARD RELAY—Won by Michigan, (Walker, Walaitis, Seager, Ault); second, Wisconsin; third, Illinois; fourth, Northwestern. Time—1:15.4.

200-YARD BACKSTROKE—Won by Peterson, Northwestern; second, Meyer, Wisconsin; third, Schroeder, Illinois; fourth, Goldsmith, Michigan. Time—2.37 (New conference record.)

40-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Walker, Michigan; second, Oker, Chicago; third, Seager, Michigan; fourth, Nickerson, Purdue. Time—:18.4. Equals conference record.)

JOAN McSHEEHY BREAKS WOMEN'S SWIM MARK

By the Associated Press.

WHITINSVILLE, Mass., March 16.—Joan McSheehy, national women's 100-yard backstroke swimming champion, broke the national record for that event here tonight in a New England A. A. U. meet, when she was timed in one minute, 12 3-5 seconds. The old record, a fifth of a second slower, was held by Sybil Bauer of Chicago.

BASS AND ABAD BOUT TO DRAW CAPACITY CROWD

With the advance sale surpassing all previous records for the season Matchmaker Jack Tippett and officials of the Fred W. Stockham American Legion Post are confidently anticipating a capacity attendance at Tuesday night's New Coliseum boxing show. The early sale of reservations amounted to approximately $500 late yesterday afternoon, according to Tippett.

Interest in the card centers about a return match between Benny Bass, the Philadelphia featheweight contender, and Davey Abad of Panama, scheduled as the main event of a program calling for three 10-round contests and supporting prelims of four and six rounds each.

Bass won a popular decision over Abad in a keenly contested 10-round battle at the New Coliseum on the night of Feb. 27 but the socking Philadelphia Hebrew had to extend himself throughout the bout to carry off point honors in spite of a distinct early advantage he gained by flooring Abad for a count of 'nine' in the initial session.

Their Third Meeting.

Tuesday night's bout will mark the third meeting between the speedy featherweight rivals. Their first encounter, held at Philadelphia, about two months ago, also went the full ten rounds, Bass earning the referee's decision by a slender margin. Abad qualified for the Philadelphia match by boxing Eddie Shea 10 rounds to a draw and by decisively outpointing Pete Nebo, the Seminole Indian, who previously had earned a refere's decision over Bass.

Abad has been training here since last Wednesday and has given observers the impression that he is in splendid physical trim by the manner in which he has stepped through sparring workout at the National Gymnasium with Ray Alfano, the East Side welterweight, and Lou Terry, local junior-lightweight. The Panamanian is a weaving, bobbing boxer, very fast on his feet and an extremely elusive target.

Bass is scheduled to arrive here today. The Hebrew ringster rested at Atlantic City for approximately 10 days after his last setto with Abad and resumed training last Tuesday, according to word from Manager Phil Glassman.

The coming encounter will mark Bass' fourth appearance in the local ring. He knocked out Mexican Joey Rivers in his introductory battle and lost on a foul to Henry Lenard, the Chicago southpaw, in his next New Coliseum setto. Lenard was floored twice in the first round and once in the second before he ran into an unintentional low blow which terminated the contest.

Lost the Title a Year Ago.

Since his return to the ring last June after an enforced absence of four months following his championship battle with Tony Canzoneri, to whom he lost the title in February of last year, Bass has established himself as the foremost contender for the title now worn by Andre Routis of France, by defeating such rivals as Harry Blitman, Dominick Petrone and Red Chapman on knockouts, Harry Forbes, Gaston Charles, Steve Smith and Tommy Liberto on points.

Johnny "Peewee" Kaiser, local featherweight candidate, and Mike Esposito, a flashy New York Italian, are paired for the premier 10-round event supporting Tuesday night's headliner. Esposito gave a fine account of himself in his local debut two weeks ago by decisively outpointing Paul Steadman. He also holds decisions over Lew Perfetti, Scotty McKeon, Phil Verdi, Frankie Garcia, Ray Ryschell and other first-rate scrappers and has boxed Tony Canzoneri a six-round draw.

The third 10-round event will bring Tom Pivac, local 175-pounder, against Jim Bean, the lanky Oklahoma Indian, who fought Pivac 10 rounds to a draw in a local ring three years ago. Bean reported to Matchmaker Tippett yesterday and looked to be in excellent physical condition when he stepped through a brisk sparring workout during the afternoon with Bobby Cox, a Florida middleweight, who is slated to oppose Percy Williams of Chicago, in a six-round preliminary of the New Coliseum show.

Alfano vs. Schlereth.

Matchmaker Tippett announced last night that he has signed Ray Alfano and Buddy Schlereth, to box four rounds at 140 pounds in the curtain-raiser of his program. Schlereth is a graduate of the South Broadway amateur team. He has won six straight bouts since he entered the pro ranks, knocking out Eddie Burke and outpointing Jimmy Little in his most recent encounters. Alfano, a former National A. A. U. featherweight champion, defeated Tommy Milton of Peoria, and Nick Broglio of West Frankfort, Ill., in recent bouts.

GOULD AND WRIGHT RETAIN COURT TENNIS TITLE FOR 3RD YEAR

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—For the third straight year, Jay Gould and W. C. Wright, Philadelphia, today won the National Court Tennis doubles championship. They defeated E. M. Edwards and John C. Bell Jr., Philadelphia, 4—6, 6—1, 6—2, 6—4.

SECOND MATCH OF MUNICIPAL SERIES TODAY AT FAIRGROUNDS

In the 16 years of Municipal Soccer history, only one team representing Carondelet Park has succeeded in winning the championship. Now, in the seventeenth season, the South Side Radio team is in a fair way to accomplish what only the Schumachers of 1924 have been able to do. At Fairground Park this afternoon the South Sides oppose the Angelicas in the second game of the final series and a victory for the South Sides will take the championship to Carondelet Park.

Year after year teams representing Fairground Park in North St. Louis have dominated Municipal Soccer League title play. They have not always won the championship but they have never failed to figure prominently in the finals.

Following is the list of champions:

Season of Champions.
1912-13—Aldines.
1913-14—St. Matthews.
1914-15—Christian Brothers College.
1915-16—Missouri Athletic Association.
1916-17—Keen Kutters.
1917-18—Lenox Club.
1918-19—Trumbulls.
1919-20—St. Leos.
1920-21—Keen Kutters.
1919-20—St. Loes.
1922-23—St. Matthews.
1923-24—Schumachers.
1924-25—St. Matthews.
1925-26—Fairmount Democrats.
1926-27—Killarney Rose.
1927-28—Angelicas.

Having beaten the Angelicas last Sunday in the first game of the series, the advantage appears to be in favor of the South Sides. In winning by a 2-1 score, the Carondelet Park champions played good football, effectively smashing the Angelica attack and maintaining themselves a well ordered passing game which led to repeated scoring opportunities. Joe Hennessy, former center forward of the Ben Miller club of the professional league, scored both goals, one on a penalty kick.

A change will be made in the Angelica lineup but the South Sides will stand pat. Spindler, who has been playing outside left all season, will be switched to outside right to make room for Hilker, a wing man who starred for the St. Louis team in the Olympic test matches last spring. It was the inability of the forwards to function that hurt the Angelica club last Sunday. The backfield stood up well under pressure but the entire team is capable of better football.

In deference to the National Challenge Cup series, Municipal Soccer League officials put their game forward 45 minutes, ordering the kickoff at 1:45 p. m. instead of 2:30. This will permit spectators to view the Municipal game to its conclusion, which will be about 3:25, and then go to the cup game at Sportsman's Park, a few blocks south, where the Madison Club of St. Louis will oppose the Sparta Club of Chicago in the western final. Kick-off in the cup game is scheduled for 3:30 p. m.

Following is the probable line-up for the Angelica-South Side game:

| Angelicas. | Pos. | South Sides. |
|---|---|---|
| Reidy | Goal | Jasorka |
| Kelly | L. F. | Heidell |
| Rich | R. F. | Bochnicek |
| Barnard | L. H. | Rodriguez |
| Hartigan | C. H. | Heidenry |
| McManus | R. H. | Egan |
| Hilker | O. L. | Luckett |
| McAuliffe | I. L. | Diaz |
| Sullivan | C. | B. Hennessy |
| Berger | I. R. | J. Hennessy |
| Spindler | O. R. | Long |

Place — Fairground Park, Grounds Two, near Kossuth and Prairie avenue.

Starting time—1:45 p. m. Time of halves, 45 minutes.

Admission charge 25 cents.

McBride Quintet Departs Tuesday For Windy City

Coach Toddy Kamp's McBride High basketball team, winner of the Prep League and the St. Louis District championships, will depart for Chicago Tuesday to participate in the National Catholic tournament, March 20 to 24. The team has been going through daily workouts at the St. Louis U. gym.

Kamp has been working to perfect the team's attack against both the man-to-man and zone type of defense. The only doubtful part of the five's make-up has been the offensive, for the defense has been sufficient to stop the most formidable foes. Workouts are for the express purpose of building up an attack on a par with the defense.

The eight men selected to make the trip are: Capt. Gorman and Thomson, centers; Stephens, Well and Skinner, forwards; and Ruff, Durbin and Boyle, guards.

These players have been the mainstays of the team all season, and succeeded in piling up a good record. The five won 15 and dropped only four games for a winning percentage of .789. Three of the four defeats came on the McBride floor.

BASS AND ABAD BOUT TO DRAW CAPACITY CROWD

With the advance sale surpassing all previous records for the season Matchmaker Jack Tippett and officials of the Fred W. Stockham American Legion Post are confidently anticipating a capacity attendance at Tuesday night's New Coliseum boxing show. The early sale of reservations amounted to approximately $500 late yesterday afternoon, according to Tippett.

Interest in the card centers about a return match between Benny Bass, the Philadelphia featheweight contender, and Davey Abad of Panama, scheduled as the main event of a program calling for three 10-round contests and supporting prelims of four and six rounds each.

Bass won a popular decision over Abad in a keenly contested 10-round battle at the New Coliseum on the night of Feb. 27 but the socking Philadelphia Hebrew had to extend himself throughout the bout to carry off point honors in spite of a distinct early advantage he gained by flooring Abad for a count of 'nine' in the initial session.

Their Third Meeting.

Tuesday night's bout will mark the third meeting between the speedy featherweight rivals. Their first encounter, held at Philadelphia, about two months ago, also went the full ten rounds, Bass earning the referee's decision by a slender margin. Abad qualified for the Philadelphia match by boxing Eddie Shea 10 rounds to a draw and by decisively outpointing Pete Nebo, the Seminole Indian, who previously had earned a refere's decision over Bass.

Abad has been training here since last Wednesday and has given observers the impression that he is in splendid physical trim by the manner in which he has stepped through sparring workout at the National Gymnasium with Ray Alfano, the East Side welterweight, and Lou Terry, local junior-lightweight. The Panamanian is a weaving, bobbing boxer, very fast on his feet and an extremely elusive target.

Bass is scheduled to arrive here today. The Hebrew ringster rested at Atlantic City for approximately 10 days after his last setto with Abad and resumed training last Tuesday, according to word from Manager Phil Glassman.

The coming encounter will mark Bass' fourth appearance in the local ring. He knocked out Mexican Joey Rivers in his introductory battle and lost on a foul to Henry Lenard, the Chicago southpaw, in his next New Coliseum setto. Lenard was floored twice in the first round and once in the second before he ran into an unintentional low blow which terminated the contest.

Lost the Title a Year Ago.

Since his return to the ring last June after an enforced absence of four months following his championship battle with Tony Canzoneri, to whom he lost the title in February of last year, Bass has established himself as the foremost contender for the title now worn by Andre Routis of France, by defeating such rivals as Harry Blitman, Dominick Petrone and Red Chapman on knockouts, Harry Forbes, Gaston Charles, Steve Smith and Tommy Liberto on points.

Johnny "Peewee" Kaiser, local featherweight candidate, and Mike Esposito, a flashy New York Italian, are paired for the premier 10-round event supporting Tuesday night's headliner. Esposito gave a fine account of himself in his local debut two weeks ago by decisively outpointing Paul Steadman. He also holds decisions over Lew Perfetti, Scotty McKeon, Phil Verdi, Frankie Garcia, Ray Ryschell and other first-rate scrappers and has boxed Tony Cansoneri a six-round draw.

The third 10-round event will bring Tom Pivac, local 175-pounder, against Jim Bean, the lanky Oklahoma Indian, who fought Pivac 10 rounds to a draw in a local ring three years ago. Bean reported to Matchmaker Tippett yesterday and looked to be in excellent physical condition when he stepped through a brisk sparring workout during the afternoon with Bobby Cox, a Florida middleweight, who is slated to oppose Percy Williams of Chicago in a six-round preliminary of the New Coliseum show.

Alfano vs. Schlereth.

Matchmaker Tippett announced last night that he has signed Ray Alfano and Buddy Schlereth, to box four rounds at 140 pounds in the curtain-raiser of his program. Schlereth is a graduate of the South Broadway amateur team. He has won six straight bouts since he entered the pro ranks, knocking out Eddie Burke and outpointing Jimmy Little in his most recent encounters. Alfano, a former National A. A. U. featherweight champion, defeated Tommy Milton of Peoria, and Nick Broglio of West Frankfort, Ill., in recent bouts.

GOULD AND WRIGHT RETAIN COURT TENNIS TITLE FOR 3RD YEAR

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—For the third straight year, Jay Gould and W. C. Wright, Philadelphia, today won the National Court Tennis doubles championship. They defeated E. M. Edwards and John C. Bell Jr., Philadelphia, 6—6, 6—1, 6—2, 6—4.

VICTORY OVER ANGELICAS WOULD GIVE SOUTH SIDES SOCCER TITLE

SECOND MATCH OF MUNICIPAL SERIES TODAY AT FAIRGROUNDS

In the 16 years of Municipal Soccer history, only one team representing Carondelet Park has succeeded in winning the championship. Now, in the seventeenth season, the South Side Radio team is in a fair way to accomplish what only the Schumachers of 1924 have been able to do. At Fairground Park this afternoon the South Sides oppose the Angelicas in the second game of the final series and a victory for the South Sides will take the championship to Carondelet Park.

Year after year teams representing Fairground Park in North St. Louis have dominated Municipal Soccer League title play. They have not always won the championship but they have never failed to figure prominently in the finals.

Following is the list of champions:

Season of Champions.
1912-13—Aldines.
1913-14—St. Matthews.
1914-15—Christian Brothers College.
1915-16—Missouri Athletic Association.

1917-18—Lenox Club.
1918-19—Trumbulls.
1919-20—St. Leos.
1920-21—Keen Kutters.
1919-20—St. Loes.
1922-23—St. Matthews.
1923-24—Schumachers.
1924-25—St. Matthews.
1925-26—Fairmount Democrats.
1926-27—Killarney Rose.
1927-28—Angelicas.

McBride's Interscholastic Hockey Champions

Hall Defeats Layton Again; Score, 600-583

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.

ALLEN HALL, St. Louis three-cushion billiard star, scored his second successive victory over the world's champion, Johnny Layton, by winning their match which ended tonight by a score of 600 to 583. Last week Hall defeated Layton, 600 to 583.

After trailing at the halfway point of the match, 283 to 300, Hall won all of the last six blocks. He took the afternoon block today, 50 to 42, in 39 innings. His high run was six, Layton's five.

Tonight Hall completed the match by winning the last block, 50 to 23, in 34 innings. He had a run of nine while the champion's best was three.

EIGHT ILLINOIS SCHOOLS REMAIN IN TITLE SERIES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 16.—Eight high school basketball teams were named tonight to compete in the championship round for the state title at the University of Illinois next week as the finals of eight sectional tournaments were played.

The eight winners are the survivors of 739 teams that started competition in 55 district tournaments last week. The district title holders opened play in the sectional meets Thursday.

Results of the sectional championship tournaments:

At Jacksonville—Lincoln 30; Ashland 15.

At Joliet—Wheaton 25; Sycamore 20.

At Danville—Champaign 32; Penfield 20.

At Peoria—Peoria Central 23; Galesburg 15.

At Moline—Freeport 27; Orion 21.

At Salem—Mt. Carmel 33; Granite City 24.

At Centralia—Johnson City 29; Benton 28.

At Pana—Witt 20; Shelbyville 10.

Hyde Parks of St. Louis Defeat Chicago Five

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 16.—The Hyde Park basketball team, champion of the St. Louis Sunday School League, defeated the Bethany Church quintet of Chicago here tonight by a score of 26 to 15.

The score at the end of the first half was 7 to 7.

Ross, star guard of the visiting five counted four field goals in the final half to clinch the verdict Ruff, forward, also counted eight points for his team. The Chicago team will play a return game at St. Louis next Saturday night.

BEAR FRESHMEN BEAT BILLIKEN FIRST YEAR MEN

Washington and St. Louis University Freshman basketball teams played a typical Washington-St. Louis game at the Field House last night, the Bear cubs winning in the last 10 seconds of play. The score was 30 to 29.

Good basketball was the rule although the young Billikens jeopardized their chances of victory in the second half by getting rough.

At the conclusion of the first half, Washington led, 16 to 14. After battling within a point or two of each other for 16 minutes, the teams were tied at 26. Then McCoole, Billiken guard, sank a free throw and Kern followed with a one-hand flip shot from the side of the court to make it 29-26. Sauselle sank a field goal for Washington and the Bears took time out and Coach White sent Landworth in to replace Laughlin. Just 10 seconds before the final gun, this substitute forward darted under the Billiken basket and sank the winning basket.

Bert Springer and Ted Sauselle, stars of the Washington team, showed the sort of class that indicates they will make good varsity material. Lichtenfeld was a big defensive aid.

"Nippy" Kern and Jimmy Shea were prominent in the St. Louis U. side.

Bert Fenenga was the referee. About 500 persons witnessed the game.

The box score:

WASHINGTON (30)

| Name. | F.G. | F.T. | F. | Pts. |

BROTHERS TOURNEY TO BE HELD AT CONGRESS

The Congress Alleys will stage a "brothers" handicap tournament on Saturday and Sunday, April 13 and 14. This event will be open to any pair of brothers with a league average. Each pair will roll four games across the eight alleys and the handicap will be 60 per cent of the difference between their combined averages and 400. The entry fee will be $1 per man with bowling extra. A tournament of this kind has just been completed in Peoria where it drew 543 pairs. This will be the first effort to stage an event of this kind here. The following brothers have already entered. Dr. L. Bernal and Dr. S. Bernal. Joe and Elmer Sieckman, George and Charles Simpson and Tony and Herman Spoeneman.

Dartmouth to Use Harvard's Stadium For Stanford Game

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HANOVER, N. H., March 16.

THE Harvard Corporation has granted Dartmouth permission to use the Harvard Stadium for the game on Nov. 28, 1931, it was learned today.

Never before has Harvard granted the privilege to outside teams for a big game.

OFFICIALS IN STATE TOURNEY CHOOSE STARS

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 16.—All-star State high school first and second team selections made by officials and newspaper men were announced here tonight following the finals in the Missouri State High School Athletic Association basketball tourney. The selections are unofficial.

Dell Scroggins, Pleasant Hope forward, although handicapped in his basketball education by coming from a school with an enrollment of 85, was given the honor of captaining the first mythical all-star quintet.

Three other berths on the first all-star's were given by a virtually unanimous vote. Parks of Smith-Cotton High, of Sedalia, forward, Wallenstrom of Kansas City Southwest High and Petre of Independence, guards, were in that trio.

Carl Yeckel, Webster Groves, and Zinn, Kansas City Southwest, were rated as nearly equal in ability at the center position. The honor of the first team selection for the pivot position, however, went to Zinn because the Kansas City team went to the finals, while Webster Groves went into the consolation flight by a defeat in the first round.

The selections:

FIRST TEAM.

Scroggins, Pleasant Hope (captain), forward.

Parks, Sedalia, forward.

Zinn, Kansas City Southwest, center.

Wallenstrom, Kansas City Southwest, guard.

Petre, Independence, guard.

SECOND TEAM.

Morgan, Pleasant Hope, forward.

Light, Kansas City East, forward.

Yeckel, Webster Groves, center.

Henry, Kansas City Southwest, guard.

Taliaferro, Kansas City East, guard.

FRANKFORT HIGH IS NEW INDIANA STATE BASKET CHAMPION

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 16.—Frankfort High School, playing as smart a brand of basketball as has been witnessed in the State this season, tonight won the eighteenth annual State championship tournament by defeating Technical of Indianapolis, 29 to 23, in the final game of the series at the Butler University field house. Frankfort has been a previous contender for the championship, which it won in 1925.

GORDON RETAINS SQUASH TITLES IN CITY PLAY

Jack Gordon surprised a capacity gallery at the University Club yesterday afternoon by retaining both of his city squash championships. Gordon defeated Paul Goessling in straight games at tennis, 15-12, 15-10, 15-8, and after that strenuous workout, rallied to beat Truman Walker at racquets, 7-15, 6-15, 15-11, 17-16, 15-11.

Gordon's remarkable court coverage was the deciding factor in his match with Goessling. The latter opened well and took a lead of 4-0 before Gordon tallied and then spurted to tie the score at 10 all. Gordon went into the lead at 11-10 and held it from that point while his opponent tired after the first game.

After an hour's intermission, Gordon tackled Walker at racquets. Walker took the first two games easily and looked like an easy victor before Gordon hit his stride to win the third game and continue in his best form to win the next two in succession.

Gordon is the only St. Louisan to win both championships in a single season. He first performed that feat last season by defeating Ham Farish at tennis and Paul Goessling at racquets. Yesterday's matches indicated he is likely to retain his titles until some new star is developed who can match his coverage of the courts. His performance in retaining his titles was especially remarkable because of the fact that he adapted himself to racquets admirably after leaving the much faster game of squash tennis.

In the Class B divisions, G. F. Newhard won the tennis title from Walter Muckerman, 10-15, 15-8, 15-9, 15-10, and W. M. Martin defeated H. B. Hall at racquets, 15-10, 15-11, 15-9.

Lutze to Report Here Tuesday

Nick Lutze, the Chicago heavyweight, who meets Ed 'Strangler' Lewis, former champion of the world, in a return bout billed as the main event of a New Coliseum wrestling card for next Friday night, will report here Tuesday morning and finish training at the National Gymnasium, it was announced last night.

Jim Clinstock, the rangy Oklahoma Indian, will match grips with Moose Norbeck, a 220-pound Canadian grappler, in the semi-final of the show.

Jim McMillan, former Illinois University athlete, and Firpo Wilcox, a former Oklahoma University mat and gridiron star, will meet in another heavyweight event carded as the second preliminary while George Tragos and George McDowell, light-heavyweights are booked to clash in the curtain-raiser.

Lewis and Lutze are to wrestle to a one-fall finish. The preliminary events will be governed by time restrictions, the semi-windup being limited to one hour, the second event to 45 minutes and the opening bout to 30 minutes.

MICHIGAN AND ILLINOIS LEAD BIG 10 MATMEN

By the Associated Press.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 16.—Michigan and Illinois led the field in the big ten wrestling championships here this afternoon, two grapplers, from each school winning titles. Saparo and Minot of Illinois are the champions in the 115 and 135-pound classes, and George and Daugovito of Michigan in the heavyweight and 175-pound division. Wrestlers from Purdue, Wisconsin, Iowa and Northwestern grabbed one championship each.

Two matmen won their titles by falls, Hammer of Wisconsin and Hooker of Purdue. The Badger threw Walsmith of Purdue in the 155-pound finals in 7 minutes and 14 seconds. Hooker and Scott of Indiana staged an aggressive battle, the former pinning the Hoosier in 4 minutes and 43 seconds.

Ralph Lupton of Northwestern finished his college career undefeated by easily taking the decision from Connor of Indiana in the 125-pound finals.

Summary:

115-pound class—Saparo (Illinois) won decision over Lefavour (Northwest). Time advantage: 4 minutes 54 seconds.

125-pound class—Lupton (Northwestern) won decision over Connor (Indiana). Time advantage: 4 minutes 21 seconds.

135-pound class—Minot (Illinois) won decision over Jessup (Indiana). Time advantage: 7 minutes 25 seconds.

145-pound class — Montgomery (Iowa) won decision over Hall (Ohio.) Time advantage: 6 minutes 45 seconds.

155-pound class—Hammer (Wisconsin) threw Walsmith (Purdue). Time: 7 minutes 14 seconds.

165-pound class—Hooker (Purdue) threw Scott (Indiana). Time: 4 minutes 43 seconds.

175-pound class — Daugivito (Michigan) won decision over Heywood (Wisconsin). Time advantage: 7 minutes 8 seconds.

Heavyweights class — George (Michigan) won decision over Swenson (Wisconsin). Time advantage: 6 minutes 7 seconds.

MADISONS OPPOSE CHICAGO SPARTAS IN WESTERN CUP FINAL

tacklers than Kemp and Harris. Hjulian, the Swedish goaltender, appears to be cooler and more resourceful than Sprott, who was between the uprights for Holley. The Sparta wing halfbacks, Minka and Turek, are not likely to give the Madisons any more trouble than did the Holley wing halves.

Vleck Plays for Matus.

Jerry Vlcek, the tall blond inside right forward who will replace the injured Matus for Sparta, has just returned from a six months' visit to his native land, Czecho-Slovakia. He is a player of unusual natural ability but the fact that he has played only one game with Sparta this season will make him far less valuable than Matus. Vlcek has played here several times and never failed to look impressive.

But, with all their European experience, their superior ball control and knowledge of combination play, it is doubtful if Sparta can break up the Madison attack for any great length of time. The local club scored 5 goals against Holley last Sunday but there is even better football in the lads. Hanson, Moore and Flavin, especially, are capable of better things. The backfield cannot function better than it did against Detroit, but if it does as well it will hold Sparta even. On the attack the Madisons are capable of a fast although not polished combination. It will take some sensational work on the part of Fullback Zenisek to hold Eddie Hanson in check if that youngster gets off on the right foot. Flavin has a terrific shot in either foot and he is long overdue for a bit of good long shooting. Worden and Moore are a hustling pair of inside men who keep drilling at the goal from every angle Grenon, the boy with the goal scoring complex, can play very effective football, especially if he is in good physical condition. He has a failing for getting tired.

It is hardly probable that the Madisons will attempt any pretty combination or dribbling of the ball against Sparta. The European trained players are too familiar with this type of game to be fooled by mediocre talent. Speed and more speed is the only thing that will beat the Czecho-Slovak-Scotch-Swedish team.

The National Challenge Cup committee has appointed a Cleveland man, Jock MacFarlane, referee. He is a native of Scotland.

Wray's COLUMN

Battle of Third Base.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 16.

THE orbs of the side-line intelligentsia at the Browns' workouts are all focused on third base, for the present. At this corner alternately the eye rests on Leonard Dondero and Eddie Grimes, candidates for the regular job there.

Both are personable young men, and pretty good ball players; the guessing as to the survivor is keen.

Eddie Grimes still has first call. His arm, after being baked and iodexed until Edward scarcely knows that he has an elbow, is now "in the pink" and his throwing is satisfactory.

Grimes is a good fielder and on defense is not worrying Dan Howley. It is when Edward goes to bat that the tension develops. Although Grimes hit .334 last year, there seems to be some doubt as to his natural hitting prowess. Evidently this doubt has reached Grimes, for he is pressing and over-trying. Observers who watched Grimes at Tulsa, last year, say that he is a "dead right-field hitter." The fact is, he is a very LIVE right-field swatter. An endeavor to change his style and get him to hit to other localities has for the present cramped his style and confused him. When he snaps out of it he will probably be satisfactory at bat.

Dondero is not being given first chance at the third base job but is doing his stuff in practice. He is threat enough to keep the regular candidate on his toes.

Grimes will be worked at third base regularly as long as he is able to hold to the job. Howley wants to have O'Rourke alongside Kress at second base, and will let go of this plan only when all else fails.

Ty Cobb Needed.

HOWLEY has been disappointed at Ty Cobb's failure to report sooner. "My youngsters will take advice from Ty like Gospel. I know all this stuff but it wouldn't be received the same. If I try to coach my hitters some of them might have heard what a punk batter I was myself, when I was playing ball," Howley observed.

"That reminds me of the time George Moriarty tried to tell Heine Manush what was wrong with his batting style. Heine came back at him:

"What a fine piece of cheese you are to be telling me how to bat. You hit .250 and I'm hitting .350."

About the Discards.

WITH Business Manager Bill Friel on the ground, the rookie players on the Browns' squad are beginning to wonder when and on whom the ax will fall. While no announcements have been made as to where the discards will go, Friel declared that they would all be placed. "There is more demand for players than we have extras to let go," Friel said.

Tulsa will get several of them, Kimsey being one, of course, unless he should show surprising form.

The scene is in the shower room. In the foreground one of the squad is drenching himself. Strapped to his wrist is a watch which he has forgotten to remove.

"Hey," called a sideline observer, "better take off that watch before the works get soaked."

"That's all right" was the rejoinder. "Can't hurt it—it's a "Waterbury."

Indicating that with repartee, as with pitching, there's a lot in the windup.

Strong on the Etiquette.

THE Brownie squad is very nice mannered. It knows its oyster and salad forks, and on which side of the plate the knives belong There are no two-fisted trenchermen of the old school, like Frank Bowerman, who balanced two fried eggs on his knife, when stoking up the old mouthpiece, and then stirred his coffee with the knife blade.

The passing of the sword swallowers from the baseball dining rooms, hasn't affected the quality of the baseball or the red blood of the players, however.

The fanning bee was on and the subject was the recent effort of Gelbert of the Cardinals who swung and missed 15 successive pitches. "Can't prove anything by that. "Dan Howley commented. "I saw Cobb do the same thing five times in a row, then throw away his bat and quit the field for the day."

"Babe Ruth did the same trick 10 times," Bill Friel cut in. "It only means they haven't got their batting eyes on the ball on some days."

The catching department of the Browns will not cause the management much concern, unless physical accidents intervene. At least one gathers as much from a talk with Assistant Manager Bill Killefer. Himself a former catcher of first water, receiver general for the great Alexander in the days when Alex was at his best, Killefer today declared that Rick Ferrel, for whom the Browns paid $25,000, was the best catching prospect he has seen in the last five years.

"I am satisfied that Ferrell has everything needed to make a first string catcher," Killefer told the writer.

All of which means that the Browns will have two proved regular receivers and the best youngster now trying for a major league job behind the bat. Only an accident can weaken the team in this vital spot. Schang, despite the broken ankle which put him out late last season, is in good shape, while Manion is at his peak.

When figuring the Browns' hopes for next year, it is the pitching that is causing all the prognosticators to mark time. One reason is that the men of experience in baseball affairs hesitate to predict that Gray and Crowder will rise to the heights they attained last year.

The previous record of neither bears out the belief that he will come through as wonderfully as last season, although it may happen.

On the other hand there is reason to argue that both will be better since Gray, last year, undoubtedly would have won three or four more victories but for his injury; while Crowder, who always had the stuff, now has acquired confidence in his own ability.

The club will be fortunate to have both continue in their last year's form or to better it.

What the other hurlers will do is guesswork but there is better than even chance that Ogden, Blaeholder and Stewart will do better than last season. The work of the others is in the laps of the Gods.

COOKS RETAIN NATIONAL A. A. U. BASKET TITLE

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, March 16.—A driving, fighting Cook Quintet of Kansas City retained its national amateur basketball crown with a brilliant 51-35 victory over the Wichita Kansas Henrys here tonight.

The Cooks took the lead from the start and unleashed a barrage of baskets which smothered the strong Wichita team. A near impregnable man-for-man defense of the champions gave the Henrys few shots at the hoop during the entire first half, which ended with the Cooks ahead 24 to 15.

Victor Holt, star center who had not shown his usual ability in previous tournament games, tonight was a tower of strength. Not only did he perform accurately under the basket with his famous tip-in shots but he scored from all angles of the court, obtained the tip at center nearly every time and also played well on defense. He was high point man with 19 points.

Crystal City And Peetz Girls Tie for Lead

The second half of the Greater St. Louis Girls Basketball league ended last night with Crystal City and Peetz, the winners of the first half of the schedule, tied for the championship with three victories and one defeat each. The tie will be played off next week unless Crystal City's protest of their defeat by the Headlights is allowed.

The Peetz five defeated the Bachelors by a 22-11 score last night while the Crystal City quintet won from the Schenbergs by a 23-3 score, the Schenbergs failed to score a field goal.

$100,000 COFFROTH HANDICAP TO BE RUN AT TIJUANA TODA

GENIE IS LIKELY TO BE FAVORED; 20 HORSES MAY FACE BARRIER

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 16.—Sunny skies with a lightning fast track and a big field of about 20 of the fastest horses now in training in America seem to be the outlook for the running tomorrow of the tenth renewal of the Coffroth Handicap at the Tijuana Jockey Club's course across the line in Mexico. A crowd which already has filled hotels and emergency sleeping places, such as ocean liners to overflowing has assembled for the running of the big race, the prize for which is a purse of more than $100,000.

Reports of trouble in Mexico appear to have had no effect on keeping the crowds away. They came by train, automobile and boat, many arriving from far off cities for the big event.

While the big attraction on tomorrow's program is the Coffroth, to be run over a mile and a quarter, a novel incentive for the crowds has been provided by the Jockey Club, which has arranged a program of 14 races, starting in the morning with four events. After luncheon, for which an intermission of an hour and a half has been provided, there will be ten more races with the Coffroth coming off at about 4 o'clock.

Twenty-five thoroughbreds have been listed in the overnight entries. Several of them are considered as unlikely starters unless there should be rain making the muddy going for which they have a decided preference.

But no matter what the track conditions are there will be a brilliant field.

Genie Shows His Speed.

There seems little doubt that Man O' War's son, Genie, sent here from New York, by Gifford A. Cochran of Mount Kisco will rule favorite. He was assigned top weight of 126 pounds or nine more than his nearest competitor, Hydromel of the J. N. Camden stable. Genie had not shown much at Tijuana since his arrival some weeks ago until yesterday, when his trainer, "Uncle Henry" McDaniel, sent him the Coffroth distance with his full weight of 126 pounds on in a workout. Genie responded to Jockey Willie Kelsay, who will be his rider tomorrow, to such an extent that he whizzed around the oval in fast time, making the first mile in 1:37, better time than the track record. After the mile Kelsay pulled the big fellow up hard, so the time for the full distance was not so remarkable, except that it contained that wonderfully fast mile.

Genie's effort, however, has not discouraged supporters of his competitors. For instance, there are those who believe that Golden Prince, not long ago a selling plater, now a member of the front rank of runners, will be first at the finish. Harry Unna, his trainer and owner, is one of that number.

William R. Coe, here to see his colt, Algernon, run, believes Algernon will be "there or thereabouts."

Much consideration has been given to Genie's stable mate, the Mare Valkyr, which has shown sterling speed here. Then there is Voltear, from George Wingfield's Nevada stock farm. Voltear has shown himself a runner of real merit in any horse race. Some experts are sure the heavily charging Hydromel will come thundering down the stretch for the eyes of the judges.

Doctor Wilson Liked.

Another favored by many is Doctor Wilson, Sterling colt from the Canyon stable of the Coburn Brothers. Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, is said to have an interest in this runner.

Other entries which have won support are: Vermajo, winner of the New Orleans handicap a few weeks ago; Soother, from the stable of Rudolph Sprecyels of San Francisco, and Alexander Pantages, winner of the speed handicap here recently.

Rail position in the big race fell by lot to Scimitar of the Agua Caliente Stable. Valkyr is third from the rail, Golden Prince and Hydromel are in the middle of the bunch and Genie, Algernon, Soother and Alexander Pantages near the oustide.

The horses, jockeys and odds are as follows:

CAB STARTER LEAVES ESTATE TO HIS OLD FRIEND, JIM CORBETT

CHICAGO, March 16.—Jim Corbett in the old days in San Francisco while he was heavyweight champion of the world, had a kid friend and admirer, Michael McDonald.

Both Corbett and McDonald later took to the stage. Time passed and McDonald left the theater to become a starter for taxi cabs at the Sheridan Plaza Hotel here.

He died yesterday and when the Yellow Cab Company sought information as to the assignment of his $1000 insurance, which the company carries on all employes, it found Mike's will left his estate to James J. Corbett of New York City.

LEE TO BOX VOLMER IN SPECIAL BOUT AT SOUTH BROADWAY A. C.

Kenneth Lee, the Missouri-Pacific A. C. boxer who won the Western A. A. U. senior welterweight title in the annual district championships at the New Coliseum on March 7, will meet Louis Volmer of the Business Men's A. C., in a special bout announced last night by Matchmaker Willie Miller as one of the interclub features of an amateur boxing tourney to be held Thursday night at the South Broadway A. C.

Officials of the South Side club have also enrolled Clifford Doetzel, former Western A. A. U. flyweight champion, Joe Bokor, flashy South Broadway bantam, and Carl Holst, a light-heavyweight member of the Motorbus A. C. team, as candidates for other specials on Thursday night's card.

They are trying to pair Doetzel with either Gilbert "Peewee" Terry, the newly crowned champion of his class, or with Woodrow Williams, who lost a close decision to Terry in the titular finals. Joe Lamay of the Business Men's A. C., is the fighter sought for a match with Bokor. Holst is ready to take on any local challenger.

The open events of Thursday night's card have drawn 15 entries to date.

ADAMAS WINS 'THE ST. PATRICK' AT NEW ORLEANS

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—Before a crowd estimated at 10,000 the Bell Farm Stable's Adamas, ridden by C. Yates, scored in a romp in the St. Patrick's Purse, a gallop over the mile and a sixteenth route here today. The Four Oaks Stable's Sister Zoe was second and Genial Host third. The time was 1:49 1-5. The track was in improved shape, but a high wind blew over the course, making fast time impossible. Seven horses paraded for the fourth race.

The start was good and Adamas jumped away to the lead. Yates, who had the mount, hustled him along, and at one time was leading by three lengths. Adamas was going very easy, seemed able to draw away at any moment. In the stretch Adamas began to tire and Yates used the whip freely on the horse. Adamas responded to the whipping and drew away. In the last furlong he had increased his advantage to four lengths and in the end won by two lengths. Sister Zoe took the place by a length from Genial Host, third. Adamas returned $8.60.

Favorite players began the day well by putting over George Groom in the first race, a six furlong sprint. George Groom was under restraint to the final furlong, where he ran into the lead and won easily by two lengths. Matthew showing more speed than usual in the soft going held on gamely to save the place by half a length from Roycrofter. Watson was up and the return was $5.90.

| Honeyfish | 115 | 5 | 7 | $3^{nk}$ | $3^{1/2}$ | $4^{1/2}$ | $4^{h}$ | E. Gianelloni | 16.85 |
| Pipestem | 108 | 8 | 10 | 10 | $7^{h}$ | $5^{3}$ | $5^{2}$ | W. Fisher | 14.60 |
| Nevermore | 115 | 9 | 8 | $7^{1 1/2}$ | $6^{h}$ | $6^{1}$ | $6^{2}$ | F. Moore | 65.70 |
| Muldoon | 115 | 1 | 6 | $4^{1/2}$ | $4^{1/2}$ | $7^{2}$ | $7^{1 1/2}$ | E. Shropshire | 9.85 |
| Voshell | 115 | 2 | 9 | $6^{1/2}$ | $9^{1}$ | $8^{1/2}$ | $8^{1}$ | R. Deprema | 14.10 |
| Flying Torch | 110 | 3 | 4 | $9^{h}$ | 10 | $9^{1 1/2}$ | $9^{1 1/2}$ | J. Cavens | 7.65 |
| Pheasant | 110 | 4 | 5 | $8^{h}$ | $8^{2}$ | 10 | 10 | C. Sanders | 7.40 |

Geo. Groom, never far back, but forced wide, responded well after reaching stretch turn, working his way to the lead, won drawing out. Matthew, hustled, while showing most speed, disposed of Roycrofter after five-eighths, but could not withstand the winner. Roycrofter had speed from start, neared lead after entering stretch, but weakened. Honeyfish had no mishap. Pipestem saved much ground. Muldoon tired.

$2 mutuels paid: Geo. Groom, win $5.90, place $3.30, show $2.70; Mathem, place $8.30, show $5.50; Roycrofter, show $3.80.

SECOND RACE—$1000, 3-year-olds, six furlongs: Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post, 2:30 p. m. At post 1 minute. Winner, ch. c. 3, by Dominant-Daughter Dear. Trainer, E. P. Letellier. Time, :24, :48 2-5, 1:14 2-5. Value to winner, $700; second $175; third, $100; fourth, $25.

| HORSE. | WT. | PP. | ST. | ¼ | ½ | Str. | Fin. | Jockey. | Equivalent Odds to 1. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| My Hobby | 108 | 4 | 1 | $1^{h}$ | $1^{3}$ | $1^{4}$ | $1^{2}$ | R. Deprema. | 8.65 |
| Braggadocio | 108 | 5 | 6 | 6 | $2^{1}$ | $2^{h}$ | $2^{2}$ | C. Sanders. | 4.20 |
| The Padre | 110 | 3 | 2 | $4^{3}$ | $4^{h}$ | $3^{4}$ | $3^{2}$ | E. Shropshire. | 2.95 |
| Nancy Seth | 103 | 6 | 5 | $5^{1/2}$ | 6 | $5^{h}$ | $4^{1/2}$ | K. Watson. | 28.25 |
| Lester W. | 110 | 2 | 4 | $2^{1}$ | $3^{1/2}$ | $4^{1}$ | $5^{4}$ | L. Morris. | 3.25 |
| Pretty Rose | 105 | 1 | 3 | $3^{h}$ | $5^{4}$ | 6 | 6 | L. Jones. | 2.20 |

My Hobby, racing improved race intoa long lead on the turn and under hustling tactics when weakening in final eighth held lead safe. Braggadocio a sufferer at the start, where his rider's feet were knocked out of the stirrups showed a fine performance under the place and probably was best. The Padre began fast, then dropped back and showed an even effort. Nancy Seth was away slowly. Lester W. had early speed and after being headed was outrun. Pretty rose retired after three furlongs.

$2 mutuels paid: My Hobby, win, $19.30; place, $7.80; show, $4.90; Braggadocio, place, $5.40; show, $2.30; The Padre, show, $2.90.

THIRD RACE—$1000, 4-year-olds and up, six furlongs: Start good; won driving; place same. Went to post 2:56 p. m.; at post 5 minutes. Winner, br. c. 4, by Marten-Charley's Sister. Trainer, C. F. Cherry. Time, :24 1-5, :48 4-5, 1:15 1-5. Value to winners, $700, $175, $100, $25.

| HORSE. | WT. | PP. | ST. | ¼ | ½ | Str. | Fin. | Jockey. | Equivalent Odds to 1. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Charmarten | 103 | 5 | 6 | $4^{1}$ | $3^{1}$ | $2^{1 1/2}$ | $1^{no}$ | F. Halbert | 2.70 |
| Smoldering | 110 | 1 | 1 | $3^{2}$ | $1^{h}$ | $1^{1 1/2}$ | $2^{1 1/2}$ | J. Smith | 4.20 |
| Wacker Drive | 108 | 3 | 4 | $5^{5}$ | $5^{2}$ | $4^{3}$ | $3^{3}$ | R. Deprema | 12.40 |
| Hot Time | 112 | 4 | 3 | $1^{h}$ | $2^{h}$ | $3^{1}$ | $4^{2}$ | J. Burke | 1.15 |
| Ruane | 110 | 2 | 5 | 6 | 6 | $5^{1/2}$ | $5^{3}$ | K. Watson | 12.70 |
| Emphatic | 103 | 6 | 2 | $2^{1}$ | $4^{2}$ | 6 | 6 | L. Jones | 17.15 |

Charmarten benefited by saving ground throughout, moved fast after reaching turn and held on stubbornly in drive, headed Smoldering in final strides. Latter lost much ground on the turn, raced into an easy lead after reaching stretch and, weakening in final sixteenth, just failed to last. Wacker Drive began slowly, raced wide and closed fast. Hot Time, much used racing with Emphatic, tired in the drive. Ruane closed gamely. Emphatic had early speed.

$2 mutuels paid: Charmarten, win $7.40, place $5.70, show $3.30; Smoldering, place $4.50, show $3.50; Wacker Drive, show $4.20.

FOURTH RACE—$1200, the St. Patrick, 3-year-olds and up, one and one-sixteenth miles: Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post 3:27 p. m., at post 1 minute. Winner ch. h. 5 by Whigstone-Finery. Trainer, F. Knapp. Time, :25 1-5, :50, 1:16 1:42 2-5, 1:49 1-5. Value to winner $850, second $200, third $00, fourth $50.

Adamas, rated in front, made a fast pace under good riding and continued well after reaching the stretch and won with something left. Sister Zoe showed improved speed after half a mile and getting into nearest pursuit, held on stubbornly and outstayed Genial Host. Latter, allowed to drop far back after first quarter, moved up strongly around the stretch turn but tired in the final stages. Comet also outran in early stages closed well. Grand Prince showed an even effort, under a weak ride. Shasta Orange and Shasta Klan had early speed.

$2 mutuels paid: Adamas win $8.60, place $5.20, show $3.30; Sister Zoe, place $7.80, show $3.00; Genial Host show $2.60.

BOROTRA SEEKS INDOOR HONO FOR THIRD T

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Borotra of the French Davis forces began his attempt to the national indoor tennis championship for the third time afternoon with an easy victory Arthur S. Cragin, New York veteran, who is nearing 50.

Borotra won by scores of 6—0, although his tennis was ragged and careless. bounding Basque was in high its, but not even his gay and showmanship could keep the uneven match from being dull. only game that Cragin was able to win was the second of the first on his own service. After that stalwart New Yorker who was runner-up in the doubles of the tournament as far back as was tiring rapidly and could little opposition.

A better line on Borotra's ability was given in an exhibition set he volunteered to play with Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., nadian indoor champion, immediately afterward.

Speeding up his game perceptibly, the Frenchman won it at in impressive style. His and smashing overhead work in the uncertain light of the big Regiment Armory, where matches are being played, his smiling declaration that "growing old" for tennis at past 30.

Play in the tournament be suspended until Wednesday cause of the death of Gen. Appleton, Colonel of the regiment for 20 years, whose body will lie in state in the armory until Tuesday afternoon. The tournament to have continued daily except Sunday.

Francis T. Hunter, the leading American entrant, postponed opening match and the other ed players who appeared were formly successful. Nearly matches were won in straight

Principia Wins From Kemper In Swim Mee

BOONVILLE, Mo., March 16.—Swimmers of the Principia, of St. Louis, today administered the second defeat in four years to Kemper Military School tankmen here, winning the relay event, two firsts and a total of 30 points to Kemper's 28. Braun, the Principia, won top honors in the 40-yard and 100-yard free events, and individual honors. Kemper won four firsts, but lack of second and third places cost them the meet.

Three Kemper tank records went by the board today, in the relay, in the 100-yard free, won by Braun, and the 100-yard back, won by Callander. This meet gives the St. Louisans an advantage of one meet in the last three years.

The summary:

160-yard relay—Won by the Principia (Braun, Howell, Martin, Gannon). Time, 1:24.7.

40-yard free style—Braun, the Principia, first; Howell, the Principia, second; Johannes, Kemper, third. Time, 21.8.

WARD SCORES 16 POINTS GIVING HIM TOTAL OF 34 FOR TOURNEY

St. Edward's basketball team won the St. Louis Parochial Schools title, defeating St. Marks, 33 to 19 last night in the final match of the tournament at C. B. C. gymnasium.

St. Marks took a slight lead at the start of the contest but St. Edwards soon overtook them and at the end of the first half was leading, 16 to 12.

Ward started a string of scoring shortly after the start of the second half and St. Edwards soon had a commanding lead. Ward was the high point scorer of the game with 16 and also led the scoring in the tournament with a total of 34 points for four games.

NINE PLAYERS RULED FREE AGENTS; BROWNS FINED $500 BY LANDIS

spectively, Commissioner Landis said Washington acted for Birmingham. Money payments were made by Birmingham to Washington, which then issued checks to the two clubs from which the players were purchased.

Likewise the Commissioner ruled Washington acted for Birmingham in purchasing the contract of Ralph Judd from Peoria, of the Three-I League in 1927.

In addition to declaring the players involved free agents Commissioner Landis imposed fines of $500 for each infraction of the rules on each club. Teams fined were Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Columbia, Baltimore, Washington, Birmingham, Philadelphia, Milwaukee and St. Louis.

BROWNS' OFFICIALS STUNNED BY NEWS

By a Staff Correspondent ow the Post-Dispatch.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 16.—Business Manager William Friel today received a telegram from Commissioner Landis notifying him that Pitcher Claud Jonnard and Ernie Wingard had been declared free agents. The telegram was terse and contained no explanatory phrases.

"Jonnard and Wingard are declared free agents." K. M. Landis.

That was all. No mention of the several other players who also were declared free agents was made and no comment on the case was offered.

Friel was stunned at the news. He said:

"Until we get the facts in the case we can't very well say anything about the affair because we don't know anything except what appears on the surface. We bought Jonnard from Milwaukee by purchase outright, and we have not attempted to turn him back or cover him up. We relied upon him to help our pitching staff and our surprise is as great as yours. Jonnard would have had a great chance with us, and I believe could have done us considerable good.

No Connection With Wingard.

"As to Wingard, I do not see how the Browns figure in this matter at all. We long ago lost control of Wingard, who last winter was released to the Athletics by purchase and was later turned back to Milwaukee by Connie Mack. The Browns have no connection with the affair."

Vice President McEvoy was equally at sea. "Landis might at least have explained something about it or told us what clubs were eligible to deal with the players involved," he said.

Jonnard hi self was informed by telegram from Commissioner Landis of his release from obligation to any club. The telegram read:

"You are hereby notified that you have been declared a free agent with the privilege of negotiating with any other club in baseball except the St. Louis American League club, and the Milwaukee, the Tulsa and the Springfield clubs."

"I am naturally pleased to have a chance to sell my services, at the same time I feel that I wanted to be with the Browns. I believe I would have helped them and apparently they felt the same way about it," said Jonnard.

"I believe the Browns acquired me by purchase from Milwaukee, but I am not certain. Of course, I have received no offers from other clubs as yet."

Jonnard was to have pitched against Columbus tomorrow.

Another Setback.

The blow was the second setback the Browns have received, the first coming when the club lost the services of a substitute first baseman, George Etanton.

From the fact that Jonnard is permitted to deal with all other clubs, but the four named, the natural urmise is that Landis believes that the Browns have been participating in some cover-up proceedings. While the Browns do

BOROTRA SEEKS INDOOR HONORS FOR THIRD TIME

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Jean Borotra of the French Davis Cup forces began his attempt to capture the national indoor tennis championship for the third time this afternoon with an easy victory over Arthur S. Cragin, New York veteran, who is nearing 50.

Borotra won by scores of 6—1, 6—0, although his tennis in spots was ragged and careless. The bounding Basque was in high spirits, but not even his gay manner and showmanship could keep the uneven match from being dull. The only game that Cragin was able to win was the second of the first set on his own service. After that, the stalwart New Yorker who was a runner-up in the doubles of this tournament as far back as 1903, was tiring rapidly and could put up little opposition.

A better line on Borotra's true ability was given in an exhibition set he volunteered to play with J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., Canadian indoor champion, immediately afterward.

Speeding up his game perceptibly, the Frenchman won it at love in impressive style. His agility and smashing overhead work in the uncertain light of the big 107th Regiment Armory, where the matches are being played, belied his smiling declaration that he is "growing old" for tennis at just past 30.

Play in the tournament now will be suspended until Wednesday because of the death of Gen. Daniel Appleton, Colonel of the regiment for 20 years, whose body will lie in state in the armory until Tuesday afternoon. The tournamnet was to have continued daily except for Sunday.

Francis T. Hunter, the leading American entrant, postponed his opening match and the other seeded players who appeared were uniformly successful. Nearly all matches were won in straight sets.

Principia Wins From Kemper In Swim Meet

BOONVILLE, Mo., March 16.—Swimmers of the Principia, of St. Louis, today administered the second defeat in four years to Kemper Military School tankmen here, winning the relay event, two firsts and a total of 30 points to Kemper's 28. Braun, the Principia, won top honors in the 40-yard and 100-yard free events, and individual honors. Kemper won four firsts, but lack of second and third places cost them the meet.

Three Kemper tank records went by the board today, in the relay, in the 100-yard free, won by Braun, and the 100-yard back, won by Callander. This meet gives the St. Louisans an advantage of one meet in the last three years.

The summary:

160-yard relay—Won by the Principia (Braun, Howell, Martin, Gannon). Time, 1:24.7.

40-yard free style—Braun, the Principia, first; Howell, the Principia, second; Johannes, Kemper, third. Time, 21.8.

100-yard breast—Upham, Kemper, first; Power, the Principia, second; Schecter, the Principia, third. Time, 1:20.5.

220-yard free—Dent, Kemper, first; Helm, Kemper, second; Hirsch, the Principia, third. Time, 2:50.

100-yard free — Braun, the Principia, first; Callander, Kemper, second; Gannon, the Principia, third. Time, :62.4.

Fancy diving—Leggat, Kemper, first; Martin, the Principia, second; Litt, Kemper, third.

100-yard back—Callander, Kemper, first; Gannon, the Principia, second; Holmes, the Principia, third. Time, 1:14.3.

Referee—Al Fox (Missouri Athletoic Club).

ST. EDWARDS DEFEAT ST. MARKS, 33 TO 19, WIN PAROCHIAL TITLE

WARD SCORES 16 POINTS GIVING HIM TOTAL OF 34 FOR TOURNEY

St. Edward's basketball team won the St. Louis Parochial Schools title, defeating St. Marks, 33 to 19 last night in the final match of the tournament at C. B. C. gymnasium.

St. Marks took a slight lead at the start of the contest but St. Edwards soon overtook them and at the end of the first half was leading, 16 to 12.

Ward started a string of scoring shortly after the start of the second half and St. Edwards soon had a commanding lead. Ward was the high point scorer of the game with 16 and also led the scoring in the tournament with a total of 34 points for four games.

NINE PLAYERS RULED FREE AGENTS; BROWNS FINED $500 BY LANDIS

spectively, Commissioner Landis said Washington acted for Birmingham. Money payments were made by Birmingham to Washington, which then issued checks to the two clubs from which the players were purchased.

Likewise the Commissioner ruled Washington acted for Birmingham in purchasing the contract of Ralph Judd from Peoria, of the Three-I League in 1927.

In addition to declaring the players involved free agents Commissioner Landis imposed fines of $500 for each infraction of the rules on each club. Teams fined were Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Columbia, Baltimore, Washington, Birmingham, Philadelphia, Milwaukee and St. Louis.

BROWNS' OFFICIALS STUNNED BY NEWS

By a Staff Correspondent ow the Post-Dispatch.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 16.—Business Manager William Friel today received a telegram from Commissioner Landis notifying him that Pitcher Claud Jonnard and Ernie Wingard had been declared free agents. The telegram was terse and contained no explanatory phrases.

"Jonnard and Wingard are declared free agents." K. M. Landis.

That was all. No mention of the several other players who also were declared free agents was made and no comment on the case was offered.

Friel was stunned at the news. He said:

"Until we get the facts in the case we can't very well say anything about the affair because we don't know anything except what appears on the surface. We bought Jonnard from Milwaukee by purchase outright, and we have not attempted to turn him back or cover him up. We relied upon him to help our pitching staff and our surprise is as great as yours. Jonnard would have had a great chance with us, and I believe could have done us considerable good.

No Connection With Wingard.

"As to Wingard, I do not see how the Browns figure in this matter at all. We long ago lost control of Wingard, who last winter was released to the Athletics by purchase and was later turned back to Milwaukee by Connie Mack. The Browns have no connection with the affair."

Vice President McEvoy was equally at sea. "Landis might at least have explained something about it or told us what clubs were eligible to deal with the players involved," he said.

Jonnard hi self was informed by telegram from Commissioner Landis of his release from obligation to any club. The telegram read:

"You are hereby notified that you have been declared a free agent with the privilege of negotiating with any other club in baseball except the St. Louis American League club, and the Milwaukee, the Tulso and the Springfield clubs."

"I am naturally pleased to have a chance to sell my services, at the same time I feel that I wanted to be with the Browns. I believe I would have helped them and apparently they felt the same way about it," said Jonnard.

"I believe the Browns acquired me by purchase from Milwaukee, but I am not certain. Of course, I have received no offers from other clubs as yet."

Jonnard was to have pitched against Columbus tomorrow.

Another Setback.

The blow was the second setback the Browns have received, the first coming when the club lost the services of a substitute first baseman, George Etanton.

From the fact that Jonnard is permitted to deal with all other clubs, but the four named, the natural surmise is that Landis believes that the Browns have been participating in some cover-up proceedings. While the Browns do not own any part of any other club, Phil Ball's name has been connected with the ownership of Milwaukee, Tulsa and Springfield franchises.

Wingard and Jonnard were both with Milwaukee last year and prior to that with the Browns.

The Browns were once before disciplined, in a way, by Commissioner Landis in the case of Player Thompson, who was passed along from Milwaukee to Tulsa through the Browns, depriving Louisville of its w[illegible] opportunity Landis turned th[illegible]yer over to Louisville. It was the Thompson case that started the Commissioner on a big drive against cover-up cases.

20 Backfield Candidates In Billiken Spring Squad

By Gerald Holland

If the present status of Heartly Anderson's backfield candidates at St. Louis University is not impaired by the June examinations, the Billiken coach will have no lack of fleet-footed ball carriers when the season opens in September.

There are 20 backs in the squad of 50 men now entering the second week of spring practice. Ten of the players were on last year's Varsity and several of the others come highly recommended. Charley Eaton and Capt. Joe Litzenich remain of last year's regular combination. Dirnberger and Parilla having completed three years of competition.

Eaton was the fastest of last season's backs. Lintzenich's ability as a ground-gainer is well established. Tony Kimmell and Harlan Gazelle, reserves in 1928, are possessed of more than ordinary speed. The Freshman squad will contribute Ray Murphy, a sprinter in high school, Joe Abraham, the acrobatic quarterback from Lacrosse, Wis., and Charley McKinney, who saw service as a Notre Dame reserve.

Other backs available are Jack Joyce, Dave Ennis, Les Hunt, Jim Stringfellow, Joe Maxwell, Saul Naidorgg, from the Varsity squad, and Jack DeChristoferro, Farkis, Buchanan, Pike, McCoole and Salinsky from the freshmen. At the moment, it would appear that Lintzenich, Eaton, McKinney, Murphy, Abraham, DeChristoferro, Salinsky, Gazelle, Kimmell, are likely to be outstanding.

Anderson lost three men from his line of last season—Barney Miller, Morris Tison tackles, and Jewell Browning, an end. New talent will supply a lot of weight and several lads who have impressed the coaching staff as potential stars. The end material, minus only Browning of last season, will be augmented by Syl McIntosh, who was prominent as a back in high school here and who had a year under Lou Little at Georgetown, and Benny Barrett, who has also seen backfield service.

Out of the entire lot, however, Max Newton, a husky guard from California, has drawn the most favorable comment from observers. Perfectly constructed for line duty, he is admirably adapted for instruction by Anderson, who played a guard position for six years in collegiate and professional circles.

Spring practice will continue for at least a month and twice that long if Anderson finds that his squad needs that much work.

KANSAS CITY TO HOLD 1929 STATE GOLF TOURNEY

The Hillcrest Country Club in Kansas City has been awarded the 1929 Missouri amateur golf championship, according to an announcement of Bonner Miller, secretary of the State Association. The tournament will extend from June 18 to 22, inclusive.

Elliott M. Whitbread of St. Louis is the present State champion, having won the title by defeating Chester O'Brien, another St. Louisan, last season at the Riverview Country Club here. Whitbread was finalist in 1927 when he lost to Harold Wilson of Kansas City.

Other tournament dates announced by Miller who is also a director of the Trans-Mississippi Association, are:

Trans-Mississippi men's championship — Field Club, Omaha, Neb., June 24-29.

Western amateur men's championship—Mission Hills Country Club, Kansas City, July 8-13.

Sectional qualifying round for National Open championship — Normandie Country Club, St. Louis, June 10.

AKRON, O., March 16. — Ray Caldwell, former Cleveland Indian and New York Yankee pitcher, signed today with the Akron Central League Club. He will be used as pitching coach and will take his turn in the box.

ANNUAL INDOOR TENNIS TOURNEY TO OPEN APRIL 6

By Davison Obear.

The third annual St. Louis District Indoor tennis tournament will open Saturday, April 6, according to an announcement made last night by Dr. Frank E. Diekneite, chairman of the district tournament committee. All matches will be played on the three courts in the Washington University Field House. There will be competition for men in singles, doubles.

Wray Brown, present district indoor singles champion, is expected to defend his title. Brown and Fred Josties won the men's doubles last year but are not expected to defend this year owing to a change in partners. Melicent Endicott and Charles Barnes, winners of the mixed doubles last year, will defend the title this year.

Entry to Be Limited.

The tournament committee has decided to limit the entry in all three events in order to complete the tournament in seven days. In the men's singles the entry will be limited to 48 players with 16 teams as the limit in the men's doubles. The mixed doubles event will be limited to 12 teams.

Adolph C. Frank, president of the Forest Park Tennis Club, has been named chairman of the entry committee. Players desiring to enter the indoor tournament may do so at 921 Locust street, 1127 Pine street and 823 Locust street, or the entry may be sent by mail to Adolph C. Frank, 421 Security Building. Entry fee must accompany the application. The fees are $1.50 for singles, $3 per team in doubles, also mixed doubles.

Finals April 13.

According to present plans the men's singles event will open at 6 p. m. Saturday, April 6. There will be no Sunday play. The tournament will be resumed Monday, April 8 at 6 p. m. and continued during the week with the finals in all events set for Saturday, April 13. The men's doubles will probably start either Monday or Tuesday with the mixed doubles getting under way Wednesday night.

In order to defray the expenses of the tournament there will be an admission charge each night of the tournament. Series tickets at $2 each, good for all tournament matches, will be sold in advance. Applications will be received by Karl H. Hodge, 421 Security Building. The tickets will be transferable.

JAP CUE STAR TO PLAY SERIES HERE THIS WEEK

Kinrey Matsuyama, greatest billiard player developed by Japan since the days of Yamada, will make a two-day exhibition appearance at Peterson's academy here, Monday and Tuesday. The little man from Nippon recently made a sensational showing in the international balkline championship tournament at Chicago.

C. C. Peterson has announced that leading local amateur balkline and three-cushion players will oppose Matsuyama. Arie Schaap, local balkline champion, will not be available as he will be on his way to Milwaukee to compete in the national amateur title tournament. E. S. Wills, E. F. Gibbons and F. E. Whitney are among those who will face the Japanese.

Earl Agniel, Dr. L. P. Macklin, Gene Deardorff, "Silent" Ed Zamzow and Bud Westhus are in line for three-cushion matches.

At a meeting held at Peterson's rooms, the Marine Corps League was entertained with an exhibition of fancy shots. The league is composed of members of the Marine Corps who fought in the World War. The organization will give a dance this afternoon at the North St. Louis Turner Hall.

Miss Blake Wins Women's National Indoor Net Title

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLINE, Mass., March 16.—Miss Margaret Blake of Lenox became the women's national indoor singles tennis champion today by defeating Mrs. Charles J. Hubbard Jr., of Boston, 6-3, 6-3, in the final match of the championship tournament on the Longwood courts.

Though both players have been finalists in other championship tournaments, their play was far below the usual title round standard. Mrs. Hubbard was a finalist in last year's indoor tournament, when she was defeated by Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston, who did not defend her title this year. Miss Blake reached the championship bracket once before, in 1927, and was downed by Mrs. George W. Wightman of Brookline.

In the women's doubleh, Mrs. Wightman and Miss Sarah Palfrey retained their national indoor title by defeating Mrs. Hubbard and Miss Blake, 6-2 6-2. This victory gave Mrs. Wightman, one of the game's most prominent players, her thirtieth national title.

Miss Blake then played her third match of the day, teaming with Richard Harte, the former Harvard athlete, to win the national mixed doubles final from Miss Palfrey and Malcolm T. Hill of Boston, in a rugged three-set match, 5-7, 6-2, 6-2. Miss Blake and Harte yesterday eliminated the defendin g champions, Mrs. Wightman and Henry L. Johnson Jr. of Boston, in a threeset semifinal match.

A. A. U. Indoor Meet Postponed To March 30

The annual Western A. A. U. indoor field and track championhips to be held at the New Coliseum have been postponed from next Saturday to Saturday night, March 30, according to Robert L. Probst, president of the District organization, who announced last night that the postponement has been made because the original date conflicts with a high school meet at Boonville, Mo.

Several teams scheduled to compete in the Boonville meet are expected to file entries for the prep school events of the New Coliseum carnival as a result of the postponement. The change of dates is also expected to attract a larger field of high school athletes from St. Louis County and from nearby Illinois towns.

Nineteen events make up the program for the District field and track competition this year, with six open championship events for men and four for women, besides the six event for high school athletes. A relay is included in both the women's open championships and the high school events. There will also be a senior college relay, a junior college relay and a military relay

Approximately 150 entries have already been received, according to Probst, who predicts that the competition will draw a field of contestants rivaling the record-breaking enrollment of 460 who participated in last year's championships.

Ruth Says Hits Which Fail to Result in Runs Are Pretty, But Useless

By Babe Ruth.

(Copyright, 1929.)

CHAPTER XIII.

BASE HITS look fine in the batting averages, but they pay off on runs scored.

All the base hits in the world are wasted if the hitter doesn't complete his journey and check in at the home plate with a run. Funny things happen in baseball, proving that hits are just as valuable as you make them.

Back in 1926 in a game against the Cleveland club the Yankees got just two hits off Emil Levsen, the Cleveland pitcher. Only two men got to first base—but both of them scored, and we won the game 2 to 1. A little later in the season, with Tom Zachary of the Browns pitching against us, we accumulated the healthy total of 11 hits together with five bases on balls. Yet we didn't score a single run and were shut out for the first time that season. Every one of those men were left on base.

BABE RUTH.

Look at the left-on-bases figures and you can get a pretty good line on the offensive strength of a club For men left on bases are the tip off on poor batting. Every man left on base is an opportunity lost and any time a club has eight or 10 or more men left it's a pretty sure sign that something's wrong with the team's attacking power.

The real test of hitting greatness is the ability to step up there and hit when a hit will mean runs. "Hitting in the pinches" we call it—and it's the most important part of the batting game. Lou Gehrig, during the 1927 season, drove in 175 runs for a new record. In other words Lou came through when there were men on bases. He did his best hitting when we had runners in scoring position.

I've heard a lot of pitchers say, and they've told me to my face, that they'd rather pitch to me in a pinch than to Gehrig.

"You either knock the cover off the ball or strike out," they say. "We've got a fifty-fifty chance with you. But this Gehrig is dangerous when there are runners on the bases."

One of the chaps I'll remember longest is Eddie Foster, the old Washington third baseman. Eddie never rated as a real star, and there were scores of other players in the league who were considered more dangerous and better men with the stick. But Eddie certainly was my personal poison. He hit everything I ever pitched—and hit it plenty. And when it came to a pinch, with runners on bases and a ball game hanging in the balance, I would rather pitch to Cobb, Speaker and Crawford in a row than throw to Eddie. He ruined many a ball game for me over the period of three or four seasons.

Some Best in Pinch.

I DON'T know why it is, but it's an established fact that some fellows are at their best in a pinch, while others seem to go to pieces at such a time. Take Joe Dugan, for instance. Joe isn't what you'd call a heavy hitter. He seldom hits for extra bases and I suppose most clubs look on him as one of the weaker men in the Yankee batting order. But put Joe in a crucial series, or turn him loose in a world series and he's deadly poison. Joe has played in three world series with the Yankees and he has never yet failed to star out in the field and at bat. He's just a natural born "money player" as the boys say—and plays his best when the going is toughest.

Theoretically, hitting in a pinch is no different than going up there with nobody on and two out. Actually, there's a lot of difference. With nobody on the base, the hitter has a clear and easy mind. He doesn't have to worry about protecting the runner. He doesn't have to keep his eye peeled for signs and signals. And more important than that, he doesn't have anybody to worry about but himself. He can give his whole and undivided attention to hitting.

With runners in scoring position it's very different. There are a dozen things to watch—but more important than all these is the sense of responsibility. The average hitter "tightens up," he stands stiff at the plate, his muscles tighten and his whole motion is jerky. When he does that, he's gone. The batter who stiffens up and loses his easy, free swing is an easy victim for a pitcher.

The same thing happens when a batter goes into a batting slump. And every hitter has them No matter how great a hitter he may be, there will come times when, to use a common baseball expression, "he can't hit a barn door with a bull fiddle."

And ability to get out of a slump is another test of the real hitter. Some fellows claim that a slump doesn't bother them. That they take it as a matter of course, knowing that they will work out of it sooner or later. That's bunk. There never was a ball player lived who could go through a batting slump without worrying. It's simply a question of how much you worry, and whether or not your worry is about the slump or over methods of overcoming it.

The worst part of a batting slump is that it affects a man's play on the field, too As long as the base hits are coming regularly the average ball player is sitting on top of the world. He has pepper and enthusiasm. Everything is fine. But when the old slump comes along everything is upside down.

Nothing Goes Right in Slump; Best "Out" Is Change of Style

THE worst part of a hitting slump is that a fellow will hit the ball all right—but always at somebody. When you're in a hitting streak it seems that everything you hit falls safe. When you're in a slump nothing goes right. You hit 'em on the nose and the ball goes right into some outfielder's hands. You lay down a grounder that nine times out of ten would be a base hit, and some infielder does a Houdini and comes up with the ball for a putout.

I get many letters from amateur players each year, asking what to do to get out of a batting slump.

That's a problem. I guess no two fellows use the same methods.

Personally I change my batting style. I experiment. I change my swing and my stance. I try stepping forward a bit in the batting box. I change to bats of different weight.

With me, I've found that the best method of overcoming a slump is to choke my bat and start "choke hitting" for a while. I reduce my stride to a minimum and stand as flatfooted as possible. Naturally that shortens my stride, and I "push" instead of "pull" the ball, And, most of all, I try to worry as little as possible about it.

When I'm in a batting slump one of the first things I do is start taking that first one. It isn't always easy. When a chap wants a base hit badly it's tough to stand up there and watch one go shooting across the corner and not swing. But it's a wise move—for it curbs that over-anxiety and keeps you from hitting at bad ones. Once a fellow starts swinging wild he's sunk—and his slump will come to an end somewhere in Oshkosh or Cedar Falls.

The business of getting runners around the bases is one of the most scientific departments of the game. And there's no set rule for attack. When I first broke into baseball most of the clubs were using the old-fashioned sacrifice and steal game. In recent years play has switched, and the steal has more or less disappeared. Clubs today depend more on the hit-and-run.

But as I said before, there's no set rule you can follow. It depends on the sort of club you have. Miller Huggins, for instance, has always favored what he likes to call "smart baseball." He likes the sacrifice attack. He likes the steal. But he doesn't use it because he knows such an attack wouldn't work so well with a club like the Yankees. We're sluggers for the most part—and have to score our runs by hitting power. We haven't any great base runners. Meusel and Combs can steal with the best in the business, but they're only two.

The Washington Senators are long on the sacrifice. Most of the men on their club can "lay them down" to perfection, and do it. John McGraw has always favored the "hit and run" as a means of advancing his runners and bringing in scores. But just the same that didn't keep John from changing his tactics to a base stealing game when he had that team of speed boys back in 1912 to 1916. Even yet they talk of the way the Giants "stole the pennant" during those years.

A Very Pretty Play.

THERE'S no play any prettier than the bunt when it's properly executed. But not all ball players can do it. Watching from the stands it looks easy. But it isn't. In the first place smart pitchers have all the good bunters card catalogued. And nine times out of ten when a fellow starts to bunt he finds the pitchings coming through high, fast and inside, which is the toughest spot in the world for a bunter.

To be a bunter a fellow has to have a keen eye. He has to have speed in getting to first, in order that he may beat the ball. And more important than that he not only has to hit the ball, but he has to hit it to certain limited places. The bunted ball that goes direct to the pitcher is worse than a strikeout. The bunt that is hit hard and rolls fast down the line to an infielder; or the one that is hit too easily and lands in front of the plate for the catc[illegible] to grab—these, too, are worse than no bunt at all.

One of the best bunters I've ever seen was Whitey Witt. Whitey has a wonderful way of laying that ball right down the third base line, and being fast getting down to first, he could beat them out. Whitey used to get from 25 to 35 base hits a year on bunts.

I remember a line Whitey pulled in the clubhouse one afternoon toward the end of the 1923 season. Whitey had about 32 hits on bunts to his credit, and some of the newspaper men were talking to him about it.

"Yet," he said, "I'm conservative I believe in saving distance. Those 32 hits, laid end to end, would just about equal one of Babe's shortest home runs. Yet he got only four bases on the distance and and I got 32. Science pays, my boy, science pays.

Charley Jamieson of the Cleveland Indians and Earl Coombs of the Yankees are about the best drag bunters in the business today. Coombs, I think, is even better than Jamey, because he's faster. And speed is a mighty big item in a drag bunt play. Sam Rice, the speedy Washington outfielder, is another batter who can drag the ball down the first base line plenty. But Sam doesn't use the play as much now as he did a few years ago, when he was batting in lead-off or second position in the batting order.

Dugan Great Fielder.

HANDLING bunts is one of the places where Joe Dugan used to shine brightest. Joe is the best third baseman I ever saw at coming in and scooping the ball with one hand, then throwing to first while still off balance. Fellows around the league used to say of Joe that he could throw better and more accurately when he had both feet off the ground than he could when he was all set for a peg.

And that's about right. Joe makes had throws occasionally, but nine times out of ten they come when he has plenty of time and gets all set. He very, very seldom throws wild, on one of those quick "scoop and throw" plays.

The bunt has two purposes. First, it's to upset the infield and get the hitter safely to first. Second, it's used as a sacrifice, in which case the object is to advance a runner even at the cost of sacrificing the hitter. The two plays are entirely different. The fact that a man is a good hitter, doesn't always mean that he is a good sacrificer.

On the sacrifice the idea isn't so much to avoid a play as it is to so place the ball that a play is possible only at first base. If the runner to be advanced is on second, then the bunt must be so placed that the third baseman will have to come in and handle it. If the runner is on first, the best place for the sacrifice bunt is midway down the third base line so the pitcher has to handle the play. Or, in the case of the left handed hitter, a drag bunt that pulls the second baseman in to cover first base is always good.

PINKEY MITCHELL IS BOXING INSTRUCTOR AT MILWAUKEE CHURCH

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 16. "PINKEY" MITCHELL is staging a comeback as boxing instructor for a Milwaukee church.

"Pinkey," former junior welterweight champion, hung up his gloves a few years ago, and declared himself through. But he is back in the ring, teaching boxing to members of the West Allis Presbyterian Church, in a Milwaukee suburb.

Boxing is part of an athletic program fostered by the Rev. W. S. Critchley, pastor.

Excelsior Springs is only 30 miles from Kansas City

The largest institution in the world devoted exclusively to the treatment of rectal and colonic diseases.

Over 16,000 Patients from every State Canada and many Foreign Countries

A Treacherous Affliction Healed Without Surgery

THE old theory that surgery was the only method by which hemorrhoids (piles) could be successfully treated has been wholly disproved. If taken in time, this treacherous affliction, which slowly but surely undermines the health of its victims, can be healed totally and successfully without recourse to surgical aid. As pioneers in the non-surgical treatment of hemorrhoids (piles), Dr. McCleary and his associates have established a wonderful reputation for their skill in treating all curable Colon and Rectal conditions. Their services have been sought by men and women from every state, from Canada, Cuba, Mexico and other foreign countries. Their reference list now contains the names of over 16,000 persons, including business men and women, farmers, bankers, teachers, ministers, in fact those from almost every vocation in life.

These Symptoms Are Warnings

Nature sets up danger signals to warn us. If these warnings are heeded in time, much suffering and often grave danger can be avoided. If you have been troubled with headaches, nervousness, faulty nutrition, stomach and liver troubles, constipation, etc., and have been unable to overcome them, you should write at once for our Free Book and learn if your symptoms are not due to some rectal or colonic trouble.

IF YOU are one of the many hundreds in every community who suffer from hemorrhoids (piles), this deserves your immediate attention. Consult with any of our former patients (we will be pleased to supply a list in your own community) and learn the truth from those who know. Ask them about the mild yet positive treatments that cured them—many after surgery had failed. Our complete reference list will be sent you on request. It is more than likely that it contains the names of some of your friends or acquaintances.

Our reference list includes the names of over eleven hundred residents of Greater Kansas City, and our list of former patients from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa and Arkansas would fill several newspaper pages.

So confident are we of results that we say to one and all alike, "if we treat you for any rectal trouble that we fail to cure, you need not pay us one cent." Send for your copy of our Free Book today and learn the facts.

Illustrated Book FREE!

We have just prepared a new book describing the McCleary treatment, which is fully illustrated, printed in colors and copyrighted. It explains, in a very interesting and instructive manner, the various kinds of hemorrhoids, piles and other rectal troubles and the mild McCleary treatment that has proved so successful. A copy of this book will be sent postpaid, free to anyone. Use the coupon or send name and address in a letter or postal.

Many Suffer Needlessly

Thousands suffer from various ailments without knowing that rectal trouble in some form or other is directly responsible for it. Many men and women who have thus spent years not knowing what was wrong with them have found new health when these troubles were corrected. You can never hope to be well until the cause of your trouble has been removed.

The McCleary treatment finds favor with men and women, young and old, for it entirely does away with harsh surgical methods of treating hemorrhoids or piles. All the discomfort and dangers of ether and chloroform have been eliminated.

Simply use the coupon below, or if you wish you may write us in strictest confidence, describing your case as accurately as possible, and your letter will be answered in detail. In either event, our book and large reference list will be sent free postpaid in plain wrapper.

Cinderella Contest at Junior League Ball

TRUE to the Cinderella tradition, there will be a slipper fitting contest at the Junior League Crystal ball the evening of April 19 at Hotel Jefferson, similar to the one which was a feature of last year's function, except that this year there will be some changes in the procedure for the sake of novelty. Last year the slipper was carried into the ball room on a satin pillow by a page in blue satin who bid for the privilege of finding a dainty foot to fit. The page was soon followed by a long line of young women eager to become Cinderella, and the judging was done by a committee instead of the prince of the fairy tale, in a semi-circular enclosure in the center of the room. The design and size of the slipper will be different this year but just what other features of the event have been changed have been kept a secret.

Another part of the entertainment will be the fashion parade with members of the Junior League as models. The list, announced yesterday, includes Mrs. Warren Temple Chandler, Mrs. Asa Brookings Wallace, Mrs. Dozier L. Gardner, Mrs. Knox Taussig, Miss Margaret

Junior League To Hear Lecture On Gypsy Music

Dr. Walter Starkie, Irish Musician and Critic, to Illustrate His Talk Tomorrow With Violin Music.

ONE of the most interesting of the winter series of Monday morning lectures by the St. Louis Chapter of the Junior League will be given at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning by Dr. Walter Starkie, a picturesque figure in modern Ireland. The speaker will illustrate his lecture with violin music. The subject of the combination lecture-concert is to be "The Gypsies and Their Music."

Dr. Starkie, still in his early thirties, is a Fellow of Trinity College, Dublin; member of the Royal Irish Academy; Professor of Spanish Languages and Literature, University of Dublin; lecturer in Italian Language and Literature, University of Dublin; corresponding member, Royal Spanish Academy, and Knight of the Order of Alfonso XII, conferred on him by King Alfonso of Spain for merit in literature and scholarship. Dr. Starkie also is one of the directors of the Abbey Theater, Dublin, with Yeats, Lady Gregory and Lennox Robinson. He is music critic on the paper "The Irish Statesman," and is chairman of the Reception Committee to welcome distinguished guests to Ireland. He is author of "Luigi Pirandello," "Jacinto Benavente," "The One-Act Play in Spain," and others.

Born and reared in Dublin, Dr. Starkie attended Trinity College, where his father, a noted Greek scholar, was the first Catholic to win a fellowship. He enlisted in the World War and was on the Italian front with the British Expeditionary Forces.

At the close of the war he found himself stranded on the Italian frontier with his violin as the only means of livelihood. For many months he wandered, like a troubadour, from town to town in Southern Europe, playing his violin in small theaters, cafes and in the huts of Italian soldiers. He traveled with a company of gypsy variety artists, learning their folk lore and music.

Dr. Starkie's talk tomorrow morning will be about his experiences with these gypsies. He will play their melodies on his violin, and explain their influence on the music of Rumania, Russia, Hungary, Italy, France and Spain. He will illustrate the lure of gypsy music through his violin.

At the informal luncheon following the lecture-concerit, Dr. Starkie will be the guest of honor, and Mrs. George Kimball Conant, 19 Portland place, will act of official hostess for the Junior League.

Guests at the lecture concert will not be limited to the Junior League members. It will be open to the public for a small fee.

Symphony Society Tea on Tuesday

MRS. HARRY E. SPRAGUE, chairman of the Women's Committee of the St. Louis Symphony Society, will be one of the speakers at the tea which the Women's Committee will give Tuesday at 4 p. m. in the Gold Room of the Hotel Jefferson. Mrs. Charles M. Rice is chairman of the arrangements for the tea, and Mrs. Efirnest R. Kroeger assistant. L. Warrington Baldwin, president of the Symphony Society and Eugene Goossens, guest conductor, are also to talk.

The muscial program presented under the direction of Mrs. M. A. Goldstein will feature Felix Flatkin, the youthful violinist.

The tea is complimentary to officials of the Women's Symphony Society Committee officials and members, guarantors of the 1929 concert season, season ticket holders and members of the orchestra.

Mrs. John Cleveland Talbot, chairman of ushers, announced yesterday that the following had been asked to serve as ushers: Mrs. Benedict Farrar, Mrs. Guy W. Oliver, Mrs. Dudley French, Mrs. Samuel B. McPheeters, Mrs. Morgan Colt Day, Mrs. Charles Galt, Mrs. John Abeles, Mrs. William Hoover, Mrs. Henry Dunn, Mrs. Lindell Gordon Jr., Mrs. Leighton Shields, Mrs. Walter Clarke, Mrs. Allan Wyman, Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter, Mrs. Ralph Foster Bixby, Mrs. Sears Lehmann, Mrs. Thomas Francis, Mrs. Talton Francis, Mrs. Samuel Dozier Conant, Mrs. Charles Claflin Allen Jr., Mrs. Boyle Rodes, Mrs. Archie Lee, Mrs. Lawrence Post, Miss Eleanor Horton, Miss Louise Kroeger, Miss Matilda Moulton and Miss Beatrice Kroeger.

Girls Subject of Tuberculosis Drive

THE "teen age" girl will come in for a large share of attention in the second annual educational campaign for the early diagnosis of tuberculosis now being conducted by the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis, according to Mrs. Alvin Bauman, chairman of the educational committee. Since the progress made in stamping out tuberculosis has not been as extensive with this age group as with the general population, special educational features have been inaugurated.

More than 1000 Girl Reserves are scheduled to see the educational movie, "Consequences," which points out the dangers of improper health habits and teaches a lesson of tuberculosis prevention. Posters appealing particularly to girls will be posted in high schools and gymnasiums. Health speakers will appear before groups of young women in factories and clubs.

Besides a number of events scheduled for schools, churches and social groups, special efforts are being made to reach mothers' clubs and parent-teachers' organizations with the health speakers and movies. Nearly 50 women's groups, including units of the Board of Religious Organizations and the Child Conservation Council, are listed for talks during the campaign. A pamphlet called "Make Sure" and another "Do Chilren Have Tuberculosis" have been prepared for distribution.

New York Society Welcomes Spring

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 16.

ACTIVITIES heralding the approach of a spring occupied New York society this week. Interest centered in charity carnivals, the flower show and the vernal hunt for new wardrobes, although actually, the program was one of preparation rather than execution.

Social affairs are rather at a standstill except for the small exclusive parties that are the delight of the fashionables at this season, but plans for coming events go on apace. Many interesting affairs are scheduled for the brilliant "little season" that follows Easter.

Mexican romance of ages past will furnish the decorative motif for the charity carnival of 1929, which is to be given in Madison square Garden for the benefit of the Hudson Health Center. The historic entrance of Cortez into Mexico and the welcoming fiesta staged by Montezuma will be portrayed in the pageant "Aztec Gold." The title recalls the lavish decorative use made of the metal by the Aztecs and Incas.

The arrival of the Spanish conqueror will be staged in a sumptuous setting. While the sun goddess and her attendants look on, great bells will proclaim the arrival of Cortez, and a chorus of several hundred voices will greet him. Mexican, Spanish and Aztec costumes will be worn by the several hundred participants in the pageant, a score of crimson torches will illuminate the scene and all will be reflected in oblong pools of water setting off the stage at both ends.

A. J. Drexel Biddle, Count Ravell and Henry W. Taft are among those on the advisory board of the carnival. Members of the debutante committee already are at work on the dances and costumes which are to be a feature of the pageant.

In the midst of its plans for charity benefits, society found time to attend the flower show in Grand Central Palace, where many blue ribbons were awarded the exhibits from its own gardens. Many famous suburban estates were represented in the garden contests and the lists of competitions for special plants and flowers was both long and distinguished.

The lillies of the valley exhibited by J. P. Morgan, who was one of the largest private exhibitors at the show, attracted wide attention. So did the King George tulips entered by Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, and the roses displayed by Mrs. Payne Whitney. Percy Chubb, who won the Holland cup for the third time, displayed a tulip garden flanking moss covered steps, while Mrs. Otto Kahn exhibited an old fashioned English garden of sweetpeas, nasturtiums and daffodils banked against a white picket fence.

A program which ranged from Shakspeare to jazz in portraying "love scenes of four centuries" drew a large number of the fashionables to the Ethel Barrymore Theater last Sunday night. Miss Barrymore, Eva Le Gallienne, Basil Sydney and a score of other actors and actresses contributed their services to the entertainment, which was given to raise funds for the Eleonora Duse Fellowship Fund.

A succession of scenes from famous plays dating from the time of the English playwright to the present day were given, the music for the entertainment being furnished by George Barrere and his little symphony orchestra.

Among those who purchased boxes and entertained parties at the benefit were Mrs. Efrem Zimbalist and Walter Damrosch.

"Cat parties" are a new feature of the small informal affairs that are so popular with the fashionables during Lent. The name has been conferred because only ladies attend—and it was bestowed by the ladies themselves.

On the evenings which many men spend in their clubs, their wives meet in groups of four or six, dine at a fashionable hotel and proceed to a box party in one of the theaters. Festivities close with a supper party at the home of one of the matrons. Costumes are just as carefully planned as if the male contingent were present. The smartest evening frock, the most brilliant jewels, the newest wrap, are chosen for the "cat party."

Mrs. Paul Frankl was among recent hostesses at one of the informal Lenten affairs, where costumes were interesting. Mrs. Frankl chose a gown of egg-shell satin marked by an elaborate shoulder scarf of the same material and side drapery which swept the floor. Elise Seeds appeared in a gown of the new dusty blue, cut witha deep V decolletage, while Mrs. Lee Simonson wore a dress of heavy silk patterned in barbaric colors.

Fencing plays a prominent part in the exercise program of fashionable New York women these days. Many social registerites are learning to use the foil with dexterity and grace. The majority of fencers choose the regulation costume of short black satin knickers, white silk blouse marked with a scarlet satin heart on the left side, and low-heeled shoes.

Business Women's Club Dinner.

A buffet dinner will be served at the weekly meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club of St. Louis, which will be held at the Town Club, Tuesday, at 6:30 p. m. Jerome Cook, chairman of the Education Committee of the League of Women Voters, will speak.

Daughters of Colonists Luncheon.

St. Louis Chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists, will meet at the Forest Park Hotel Thursday at 12:30 p. m. The luncheon will be followed by a program with Mrs. Harry E. Wagoner as the speaker.

THE freshman class of Lindenwood College gave a St. Patrick's day dance at the college gymnasium, last Friday evening. The ceiling of the room was covered with shamrocks.

The girls on the Decoration Committee were Bobby Johnson, Mary Mragaret Poorman, Ruth Thompson, Juandel Shook and Alison Platt. The Entertainment Committee consisting of Jo Schull, Agnes McCarthy, Betty Weinert and Elizabeth Higginbotham arranged for the farce, "Fnachonella," which was written by Dorothy Schleicher, a freshman. Mary Margaret Poorman, Evelyn Pierpoint, Agnes McCarthy, Nell Henninger, Natalie Loeb, Jean Carter, Leone Mowberry, and Miriam Runenburger took part in the farce.

For favors everyone received a tiny white pipe. The selection of theses pipes was the work of Hardy Albright, Margaret Bowman, Adeline Martin, and Mary Bragg McDaniel.

Charity Fete by Elks Club Ladies

THE Ladies' Auxiliary of Elks Club No. 9, assisted by the members, announce a charity fete to be held in the clubhouse, 3619 Lindell boulevard, the evenings of March 21, 22 and 23. The purpose of the fete is to raise money for the community welfare fund of the lodge to enable the welfare committee to carry on their work of caring for persons in distress irrespective of race or creed and to continue the regular feature of entertaining orphan children.

The following will act with others as chairmen of the various booths: Mrs. F. L. Bennett, Mrs. E. L. Martt, Mrs. C. K. Summersby, Mrs. E. Morgan, Mrs. G. A. Goerger, Mrs. Jacob Frank, Mrs. A. B. Schneidthorst, Mrs. Max Berman, Mrs. C. C. Peterson, Mrs. H. C. Sperreng, Mrs. M. J. Boulicault, Mrs. Hays Bunting, Mrs. A. R. Allison, Mrs. Homer Calvin, Mrs. William G. Steininger, Mrs. Harry A. Lupton Jr., and Miss Mayme Dickmann.

Last Monday the Auxiliary held its monthly meeting.

After luncheon the following officers were elected: Mrs. H. A. Hamilton, president; Miss Mayme Dickman, first vice president; Mrs. A. Schlich, second vice president; Mrs. A. B. Schneidthorst, treasurer; Mrs. F. Bennett, secretary, and Mrs. Charles C. Peterson, publicity chairman.

Carondelet Clubs Plan Joint Program

THERE will be a Women's Community Fellowship dinner Thursday evening at the Carondelet Y. M. C. A. Building, 600 Loughborough avenue, in which for the first time representatives of all women's clubs and fraternal organizations of this section of the city will unite. Churches, civic organizations and clubs will send members.

Each group will have its own table decorated to illustrate its program and each will give a five minute stunt. The Carondelet Y. W. C. A. will have a program demonstrating its various departments.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. C. R. Hawker, chairman; Mrs. J. J. Maddox, Mrs. W. O. Hill, Mrs. W. R. Luhn, Mrs. W. A. Rohlfing, Mrs. Jennie Crawford, Mrs. T. O. Savage, Mrs. D. S. Pruett, Mrs. David Moodie, Mrs. C. W. Rippstein, Mrs. Louis Thomas and Mrs. Robert Michael.

Programs Broadcast By Federated Clubs

Radio programs of the Eighth District of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs are offered every Saturday afternoon at 5:45 o'clock over Station KWK, and are arranged by Mrs. W. E. Ebert. The district president, Mrs. Charles A. Houts, opened the series two weeks ago. The second program was given by Mrs. Frederick B. Hall, State chairman of Fine Arts, and candidate for the State presidency. The third was heard on March 16, when Mrs. Holmes Wager, district chairman of legislation, spoke on "Statuatory Measures in which Women Are Interested." The music given was "Abide With Me," sung by Hazel Ettling Heiligers. Mrs. John Eggers played the violin obligato and Mrs. Lillie Craig Coffman was at the piano. On March 23 Mrs. Samuel Newman will read Oscar Wilde's "The Happy Prince," accompanied by Mrs. Henry Cohn at the piano. On the Saturday before Easter Dr. B. A. Wilkes, superintendent of Missouri Baptist Hospital, will speak on "The Crippled Children of Missouri."

The speakers' contest for the Eighth District will be held Wednesday in the Wednesday Club auditorium, at 2 p. m. Candidates will be selected for the State contest, to be held during the biennial meeting at Hannibal, Mo., in May, when the winner will receive a silver cup, and will gain the privilege of entering the national contest in 1930. The judges for the local contest are the presidents of the various clubs in the Eighth District. Contestants will speak on the subject, "The Scope of the State Federation — Why Clubs Should Federate." Grading will be made on the excellence of the English, and the number and strength of the arguments. The Committee on Arrangements is made up of Mrs. F. J. Keiser, district vice president; Mrs. H. F. Boettler, recording secretary of the district, and Mrs. D. H. Kremer, chairman of the Literature and Reciprocity Committee. They invite all clubwomen to be present.

Mrs. Elma H. Benton, head of Hosmer Hall, will speak on the subject, "Place of the Private School in the Community," at the meeting of the Applied Education Committee, to be held at 10:30 Thursday morning in the parlors of the First Congregational Church, 6501 Wydown boulevard. Mrs. S. A. Weintraub is the chairman of this committee.

Head of Music Group To Be Clubs' Guest

THE Musical Research Club, of which Mrs. Jesse L. Bowling is president, will entertain Miss Dema Harshbarger, national president of the Civic Music Association at its Tuesday meeting at the Town Club at 2 p. m.

Miss Harshbarger, who is president of the Civic Concert Service of Chicago, will arrive in St. Louis Tuesday morning. She will be honor guest at the luncheon which the St. Louis Civic Music League will give at 12:15 at the American Hotel. F. W. A. Vesper is president of the Civic Music League. Miss Harshbarger is the originator and organizer of the Civic Music Association, which is now represented in 143 cities of this country.

The branches of the association are organized on the plan of women's clubs with membership entitling the holders to attend the concerts and recitals without additional expense.

The Musical Research Club meeting will be attended by the presidents of the music clubs of the Eighth District federation.

Miss Harshbarger will address the guests on the musical outlook and how the work of the Civic Music Association may be supplemented by the federated music clubs.

"Bien-être—how perfectly that describes these shoes!"
"BIEN-ÊTRE says 'well being', 'comfort'—a perfect description for my Cantilever Shoes. . . . I teach French by the direct method—lots of conversation. Personal little talks with every pupil in the class. That means that I am on my feet nearly all through school hours! Comfortable shoes are an absolute necessity to me.
"In that respect, my worries are over since I have been wearing Cantilevers. I had been looking for a pair of shoes that would be comfortable for five hours of classroom work, and then school. Cantilevers are just right. I think, a modern school teacher's shoe!"
MRS. A. ROBISON

"I know what real foot comfort means and where it can be found"
"I have been an enthusiastic wearer of Cantilever Shoes ever since I purchased my first pair six years ago. This particular pair went through two years of solid service in the Chicago streets, which included about twenty blocks a day to and from El stations, up and down numberless steps, together with a year in a Dispensary Laboratory.
"I am on my feet fully two-thirds of the time, so I know what real foot comfort means and where it can be found."
MIRABELLE NETHERWOOD
Can a shoe be both comfortable and smart? Any pair of Cantilevers proves that it can. Cantilevers are smart, graceful and beautiful. Come in and see the new models.
Among the prominent women who are enthusiastic wearers of Cantilever Shoes are: Helen Dryden, noted fashion artist; Marguerite D'Alvarez, famous concert singer; Helen Ufford, Associate Editor, Delineator

Activities of Women's Clubs

THE large amount of work done by the Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, was disclosed to members of the Clotho Club Friday at the Gatesworth Hotel, Mrs. S. Kensie Smith, hostess, when the greater part of the meeting was given to hearing delayed reports of the Eighth District committees. An account of the session of the Music Committee was given by Mrs. F .W. Tarrant, Art; by Mrs. T. C. Rafferty, Public Welfare; the American Homes, and the Education Committees by Mrs. E. Niehaus; Literature, by Mrs. B. F. Burch; Foreign Relations by Mrs. W. P. Diggs, and The Press and the Legislative Committees by Mrs. T. E. Ferguson.

The Federation day of the Wednesday Club was reported by Mrs. L. Schoenfeld.

A paper, "The Book of Job, an Interpretation," was read by Mrs. T. E. Ferguson.

Tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., the Child Study Group of the College Club will meet to discuss "The Mental Health of Children," under the leadership of Mrs. Thomas R. Harney.

Tuesday at 3:30 p. m., Mrs. Elias Michael of the St. Louis Board of Education will speak on the qualifications for a member of the Board of Education. Miss Ella Victoria Dodds, State chairman of education for the American Association of University Women, will discuss the present status of educational measures now pending in the State Legislature. The program for the afternoon is in charge of the Education Committee. Tea will be served at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Leo Shanley and Mrs. Roland R. Bauer will be the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. W. C. Bonsall of the University of Minnesota, Mrs. Wilbur N. Fuller, Mrs. L. A. Harris and Mrs. Walter Kirchner of the University of Michigan. At 6:15, there will be an informal dinner to meet Miss Dobbs.' Reservations for the dinner should be made before Monday evening, March 18, with Miss Roberta McCulloch, Delmar 4413R.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Managers will be held on Tuesday, at 12:30 p. m.

Wednesday, at 3:45 p. m., "Modern Music" will be the subject of the Music Study Group. The discussion will include the most important modern composers and the experiments they have made.

Thursday at 3:30 p. m. the French Study Group will discuss the plays of Sacha Guitry.

Friday at 3:30 there will be a meeting of the Fiction and Drama Study Group with Mrs. F. Ray Liemkuehler as leader. A general review of the plays in New York and Chicago will be given.

The Uandi Literary Club conducted its reciprocity meeting Thursday at Grace Methodist Church in the form of a travelogue in song and story. With Mrs. George N. Bishop announcing in rhyme all the places and people of interest, the audience was taken on an aerial tour, each country visited being represented in costume by a folk tale, a bit of verse or a song. Ireland was represented by Mrs. Louis L. McCormack, Scotland by Mrs. Herbert F. Boettler, France by Mrs. George C. Gephart, Germany by Mrs. Maurine Vredenburgh, a guest from Mu Phi Epsilon; Italy by Mrs. H. Lyle Campbell, Spain by Mrs. Forey Stanford, Japan by Mrs. Clarence Robbins, Russia by Mrs. H. Haywood Hunter, and the American Indian by Miss Marietta Schumacher. Mrs. Frank A. Habig, also a guest from Mu Phi Epsilon, was the accompanist.

"The Quest for Gold" will be the subject of the paper which Mrs. E. B. Watson will present to the St. Louis Bay View Reading Club tomorrow afternoon at the Catherine Springer Home, 220 North Spring avenue, at 12:30 p. m. Miss Anna Aylesworth will give a review of "The Bridge of San Luis Rey." Mrs. A. F. Hazeltine will be hostess.

The Dramatic Art Section of Scottish Rite Woman's Club, Mrs. E. R. Brown, chairman, will meet Tuesday at 1 p. m., in the lounge of Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard. There will be a rehearsal and readings of plays under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Harris.

The Music Section, Miss Dorothy Rapp, chairman, will meet Friday at 10 a. m., for choral rehearsal under the direction of O. Wade Fallert, March 24, at 3 p. m. The Music Section will assist Prof. Fallert in the presentation of Ethelbert Nevin's "Venetian Suite."

On March 8, in the print room of the Art Museum, Miss Mary Powell lectured to the Forethought Club, on "Etchings." Members responded to roll call with names of famous etchers. Mrs. John A. Mackay, president, was hostess. The next meeting will be held March 22; the subject of Miss Powell's lecture will be "Old Silver, Lace and China." Mrs. George H. Owen, 6012 Cates avenue, will be hostess.

The Monroe Parent-Teacher Association will meet Wednesday at 2 p. m. in room 11 of the Monroe School. The annual election of officers will take place. Following the business meeting the child study hour will be held in the kindergarten.

The Contemporary Literature Circle met Tuesday at the library of Sheldon Memorial. Dr. Alfred Neumann of Brooklyn, N. Y., discussed "The Intelligent Woman's Guide for Socialism," by Shaw. Tuesday, March 26, at a meeting of the circle, Mrs. F. Benton Miller of Webster Groves will review, "My Life," by Isadora Duncan.

The Ever Ready Club met at the home of Mrs. M. P. Jackson, 5844 Cabanne place, Monday. Roll call was responded to with the name and significance of a historical

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

GOITRE

A new treatment for goitre has been developed by the W. T. B. Laboratories, 119 Sanborn Bldg., Battle Creek, Michigan, which many believe will prove to be the long-sought specific for this unsightly and dangerous disease. Many of the largest and most hideous goitres begin to recede almost in a day. They gradually get smaller, and in many cases are entirely gone in a few weeks. It is equally efficient in cases of toxic and so-called inside goitre. The treatment is harmless and anyone can use it with perfect safety at home.

A 48-page illustrated booklet on the Causes, Dangers and Non-Surgical Treatment of Goitre, issued by the Laboratories, fully explains the new treatment and will be mailed free to any interested sufferer.

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW FOR DR. FRANK J. WILD

Viennese Dentist in Practice in St. Louis More Than 30 Years Died of Heart Disease

Funeral services for Dr. Frank J. Wild, 75 years old, of 3424 North Fourteenth street, a dentist in North St. Louis for more than 30 years, will be held at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, from the residence to Holy Trinity Church, with burial in Calvary Cemetery. Dr. Wild died Friday night of heart disease, following a paralytic stroke two months ago.

Dr. Wild, who was born in Vienna, Austria, came to St. Louis at the age of 27. Of his children who survive him, two sons, Dr. Frank J. Wild Jr. and Dr. Rudolph Wild, are dentists, and one son Dr. Aloysius Wild, a physician. One of his daughters, Mrs. Henry Zanitsch, is the wife of a dentist, and another, Mrs. Henry Hahn, is the wife of a physician. He is also survived by his widow, Mrs. Julia Wild, and two other daughters, Mrs. John Kiefer and Mrs. Henry Hahn.

Palm Beach Season From Grave to Gay

By the Associated Press.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 16.

WITH the conclusion of the series of concerts sponsored by the Society of Arts and the final lecture in the series presented by the Current Events Class, the social pendulum in Palm Beach has completed the arc from the serious to the completely frivolous. Beginning with the circus with which Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton of New York entertained several hundred guests Monday night, and closing with the boxing tea at the Oasis Club this afternoon, nearly all the events of the last week have been of a lighthearted and informal character.

Tuesday afternoon children and grown-ups alike enjoyed the circus on the lawn of the Hutton home for the benefit of the Animal Rescue League, Mrs. Hutton having contributed the circus and the use of her grounds. Children of the Palm Beach colony mingled with those from the Palm Beach county home who were guests for the occasion of Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld. Mrs. Nettie Livermore of New York was hostess to Girl Scouts of the county. Socially prominent members of the Animal Rescue League also played fairy godmother to a number of children in the community who could not have attended otherwise.

Monday afternoon a number of colony members interrupted affairs of a lighter nature and attended ceremonies at the Town Hall when Mrs. Edward Shearson of New York, Mrs. J. Leonard Replogle of New York and Mrs. Henry R. Rea of Pittsburg presented the town a set of handsome silk flags. Maj. Barclay H. Warburton, Mayor, responded.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus von Glahn were welcomed this week to the Chicago colony, this circle including Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bode, Miss Pauline Bode, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Dings and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Forrester. Mrs. Isabele Case of Chicago also is a recent arrival. Others were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Sills of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Weyerhaeuser of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Wooster Lambert and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Lambert of St. Louis, who are remaining later than usual at their cottages here.

A group of younger girls comprised the Junior Committee in charge of the barn dance Wednesday night at the Palm Beach County charities. Taking the place of diaphanous chiffons, fluttering draperies, bejeweled costumes and glittering cocktail jackets and impeccable masculine evening clothes usually seen at Palm Beach affairs were the rustic garments worn by the guests. Farmerettes and farmers in overalls, country lasses in gingham, Bowery characters and gangsters danced to the strains of an orchestra. The Country Club was decorated to represent a barn. Members of the Junior Committee included Diana Guest, chairman; Edna Brokaw, Frances Gillmore, Peggy Phipps, Genevieve Fox, all of New York; Eleanor Chase, Oshkosh, Wis.; Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia; Mrs. James P. Donohue, Mrs. Finley Peter Dunne and Mrs. Charles Minor Amory were in the list of patronesses. Many private dinner parties prefaced the affair, which was one of the most notable of the season.

Another costume affair which occasioned much mirth was the party given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Belcher of New York at the Oasis Club Tuesday night. Guests came garbed as children under 10 years of age. Dinner was served in the patio preceding the dancing. About 200 representative members of society attended the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Armstrong of Chicago invited their friends from the same city, Mr. and Mrs. Warner Coburn, Tuesday evening and played bridge.

Mrs. Alexander McKay of New York entertained Friday night with a dinner party in honor of Miss Lynn Curtiss of New York, her house guests. Other affairs of last week include the dinner party with which Mr. and Mrs. Earle Perry Charlton of Fall River, Mass., entertained at their ocean front estate in honor of former Gov. Alvin T. Fuller and Mrs. Fuller of Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Fuller also entertained 20 guests at tea Tuesday afternoon at the Everglades Club. Baron and Baroness Bondtetten of Thurn, members of the cottage colony, also entertained with a dinner party Tuesday at the Everglades Club.

Society is chuckling over the coincidence of both Sinclair Lewis and Ambassador Babit (Niles Babit) of Philadelphia at the resort. Moreover, the two were seen together last week on Main street.

Society Women Aid Convent Auxiliary

A NUMBER of women prominent in social life of St. Louis are taking an active part in the card party to be given by the Auxiliary of the Convent of the Good Shepherd, Easter Monday, April 1, at Hotel Chase.

Mrs. Clarence E. Maloy and Mrs. Marguerite R. Hopkins are in charge of the cake table, and their assistants will be Mrs. Joseph Darst, Mrs. Votuntine C. Turner, Mrs. J. R. Baird, Mrs. William Russell Allen Jr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Smith Jr.

Mrs. F. M. Switzer will have charge of the candy table, assisted by Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd, Mrs. Edmond Garesche, Mrs. Charles P. Stanley and Mrs. Harry Hellmuth.

Mrs. T. C. Rafferty of the Gatesworth Hotel is president of the Auxiliary and is in charge of the party.

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS

ANNOUNCEMENT was made of the engagement of Miss Kay Seiter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Seiter of 4348 Wallace avenue and Campbell Alden Scott, son of Mr. Herbert Scott of Carrollton, Mo., at a silver rose tea March 10 at the home of Miss Dorothy Berg of 6246 Magnolia avenue.

Miss Seiter attended Washington University and is a member of Kappa Phi Sorority. Scott is a graduate of Washington University and a member of Scarab, honorary architectural fraternity. Scott is an architect in St. Louis. The wedding will take place within the next few months.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin H. Baumgartner of 1227 Amherst place have announced the engagement of their niece, Shirley Holloway, daughter of Frank Holloway of Hamilton, O., and Charles W. McCann, son of Mrs. Josephine McCann of 4207 Westminster place.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pattiz of East St. Louis announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Pattiz, and George A. Goldstein, 5780 Westminster place. The wedding will take palce in the fall.

Announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Helen Bircher of Edwardsville, Ill., and Donald B. Warnock, also of Edwardsville, by Mr. and Mrs. William McMillan at a bridge party given at their home, 4941 Lindenwood avenue, Monday evening. No date has been set for the wedding.

Dr. W. F. Gephart to Speak.

Dr. William F. Gephart, vice president of the First National Bank, will be the speaker at a dinner-meeting of the Personnel and Production Executives' Club at 6:15 p. m. next Wednesday at the University Club, 3605 Washington boulevard. His subject will be "Personal Problems in Commercial Banking."

To Address Electrical Engineers.

W. F. Callahan, of the Western Union Engineering Department, New York, will address a meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, St. Louis section, Wednesday evening at the Engineers' Club, 4359 Lindell boulevard, on "Electrical Call Systems."

Royal Arcanum Council to Meet.

The forty-sixth annual session of the Grand Council of Missouri, Royal Arcanum, will open at the Hotel Statler next Tuesday. Supreme Sentry Herbert W. Johnson of Omaha, Neb., will install new officers elected for the ensuing year. The organization has a St. Louis membership of 3000.

3 BURGLAR BROTHERS GET TWO YEARS EACH

Joseph, Raleigh and Earl Cavenah Sentenced at Clayton on Guilty Pleas.

Three brothers, Joseph, Raleigh and Earl Cavenah, were senetnced to two years in prison each by Circuit Judge Mulloy at Clayton yesterday when they pleaded guilty of attempted burglary.

The brothers were caught by Deputy Constables on the night of Jan. 22 after Edgar Quinn, a grocer, reported that burglars were trying to jimmy open the door to his store at 6700 Page boulevard. The Cavenahs said they were hungry and were seeking food.

Joseph Cavenah, 25 years old, a cabinet maker, resided at 4607 Delmar boulevard with his wife and four children. Raleigh, also married, lived at 1415 Tower Grove avenue. Earl, who lived with Raleigh, will serve his sentence in the reformatory at Boonville. The older brothers will be sent to the penitentiary.

TOWER GROVE PARK SUNRISE EASTER SERVICE TO BE HELD

The Rev. Norman B. Harrison to Preach; Salvation Army Band Will Play.

"Christ is Risen—What of It?" will be the subject of the Rev. Norman B. Harrison at sunrise praise service which will be held in Tower Grove Park Easter morning, March 31, at 6 a. m.

One hundred and twenty-five members of the Salvation Army will be present and their band will play. The Rev. Ralph Alexander of the Second Christian Church and the Rev. J. C. Kammerer of the Olive Branch Congregational Church will also take part in the service.

Scout Troop of Disabled Girls.

Formation of a Girl Scout troop at the Elias Michael School for Crippled Children is being planned by Miss Ruth Robbins, field captain of the St. Louis Council of Girl Scouts, who visited the school last week. A special scouting program will be worked out because of the physical handicaps under which the children are placed. Boy Scout Troop No. 164 was formally installed at the school recently.

EXTORTION THEORY INVESTIGATED IN BOCCHIERI MURDER

Police Without Any Other Lead in Case of $11 a Day Shoeworker Slain in Wash Street Garage.

The murder of Sam Bocchieri has been added to a long list of unsolved Italian killings, following an open verdict of homicide yesterday by a Coroner's jury.

Bocchieri, a 32-year-old shoeworker, was ambushed and shot to death Thursday night when he drove his automobile into a rented garage at 1507 Wash street, less than a block from his home at 1426A Wash.

Sam Clayburn, Negro, 1536 Wash, who rented the garage to Bocchieri, testified he was awakened by "shooting and hollering" at the garage. He saw a man at the garage wave his hand as if signalling someone, then an automobile was driven away from the curb. He called police.

Police told of finding Bocchieri dead on the sidewalk where he had staggered from the garage. His car and cap, as well as two revolvers thrown away by the assassins, were in the garage.

Pending further investigation by police, Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller ordered the release of Bocchieri's son-in-law, Samuel Lagrasso, 19-year-old shoeworker. Lagrasse offered an alibi when arrested for questioning after the killing. He admitted he and Bocchieri had quarreled several times over his "kidnaping" and marriage of Bocchieri's 17-year-old stepdaughter last October. Bocchieri resented the marriage, and eight days later took the bride away from Lagrasso.

Police are investigating a possibility, considered remote, that Bocchieri was a victim of extortionists. He earned $11 a day, and lived with his wife, their infant child and five children by her previous marriage.

Six alleged extortionists have been arrested by police investigating reports that well-to-do Italian merchants are being intimidated and "taxed" in an effort to raise a $4000 defense fund for a gangster now under sentence of life imprisonment. Fearing for their lives, several merchants have sought police protection.

Belleville "Owl Club" Raided.

A resort known as the "Owl Club," on the second floor of a building at 123 West Main street, Belleville, was raided by St. Clair County deputy sheriffs, yesterday, and 456 pints of beer, 11 gallons of moonshine, and a pint of gin were found.

GOITRE NOT A DISEASE

It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not a disease and is not to be treated as such. Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. L-6, Box 737, Milwaukee, Wis., a prominent goitre specialist for over 24 years, has perfected a different method of treatment for his patients that has proved remarkably successful. This same method is now being used for a home treatment of goitre cases all over the country with astonishing results. The doctor states that goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention, no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations. Dr. Rock is the author of a book that tells in a simple way about treating goitre at home. He has published this book at his own expense and will send a copy free to anyone interested. # BANKS GET FUNDS FROM BECKER AT 2 PCT. INTEREST

State Secretary Delays Sending Auto License Money to Treasurer Who Gets 3.3. Pct. on It.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 16.—An example of the opportunity for introduction of better business methods in the State Government is provided by the existing system of handling State automobile license fees, which permits a considerable part of the collections to lie for varying periods in banks selected by Secretary of State Becker at 2 per cent interest, while the regular State depositories, to which the money ultimately goes, are paying an average of 3.3 per cent.

Inquiry today disclosed that the motor vehicle registration department, which is under Becker's supervision, had collected more than $3,000,000 in license fees since last February, but had sent only $1,622,500 of this amount to the State Treasurer, to be deposited in the State depositories.

The remainder of the funds collected amounting to about $1,400,000, are deposited in 46 banks selected by Becker in various parts of the State. These banks are paying 2 per cent in interest, with the exception of a few that pay no interest on daily balances. The loss in interest to the State, on funds collected so far that have not been remitted to the Treasurer, is approximately $1400 a month, based on the difference in interest rates collected.

Practice Made Legal.

Becker, State Auditor L. D. Thompson and others of the State jobholders have been bitterly opposing proposals in the Legislature for establishment of a budget and instruction of other reforms that would eliminate waste in State government.

Becker's practice of depositing the fees collected in banks selected by him, until they were transmitted to the State Treasurer, was held illegal by Attorney-General Gentry in 1926, when an investigation of the handling of the license fees was in progress.

It was legalized by the 1927 legislature, however, through passage of an act, at the instance of Becker, which authorizes him to deposit such funds in banks where the branch registration offices collecting the fees are situated, pending their transmission to the Treasurer.

This 1927 act abolished a former provision in the law that these fees must be transmitted promptly to the State Treasurer, and substituted provision that the commissioner in charge of the automobile registration department shall forward the funds to the Treasurer when he has compiled his records of registration of automobiles and fees collected.

Former Attorney-General Gentry's ruling that the practice was illegal, under the former law, was sustained by the State Supreme Court in a decision about two weeks ago, holding that Becker had no authority to make such deposits, prior to the enactment of the 1927 law, but was required to transmit the money immediately to the Treasurer.

Interest collected by Becker from the depositories has been turned over to the State Treasurer annually. License fees collected exceed $7,000,000 a year. The State Treasurer's report shows receipt of $39,219 in interest received from Becker in 1928.

Becker's Explanation.

Becker contends delay is inevitable in forwarding the funds, on the ground that extensive records of the issuance of the individual licenses must be made up by the branch offices, before the money collected for those licenses can be turned over to the Treasurer.

State Treasurer Larry Brunk has eliminated former delays in handling the automobile money in the Treasurer's office, by immediately depositing the funds in a State depository, when the money reaches his office, making a memorandum credit on the road fund books and issuing the individual Treasurer's receipts to the persons who bought the licenses represented by the amount in fees transmitted, as fast as his clerks can check them. The receipts issued then are balanced against the memorandum credit.

GIVES BOND ON CHARGE OF THIRD-DEGREE FORGERY

Walter F. Wilsdorf Indicted on Complaint of Central Credit Corporation.

Walter F. Wilsdorf, a hardwood floor contractor, 5519 Kansas street, appeared before Circuit Judge Hartmann yesterday and gave bond to answer an indictment for third-degree forgery.

The complainant is the Central Credit Corporation, 3407 South Jefferson avenue, with which Wilsdorf did business. According to the Circuit Attorney's office, it was Wilsdorf's practice to discount bills due him for work with the company. Some of the bills were later turned back to Wilsdorf for collection, with the result that he got in arrears, it is said. Then notes were given, it is alleged, upon which the indorsements were found to be forged.

Wilsdorf declined to discuss the indictment.

President of Auto C. of C. Condemns Car Sale Methods

Macauley Says They Are Unscientific and Unduly Costly as Compared With Factory Production.

DETROIT, Mich., March 16.—Present car sales methods were condemned by Alvan Macauley, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of that body in Detroit the past week. Macauley in his address to the chamber declared that the selling methods now in force are unscientific and that they cost too much.

In beginning his remarks, Macauley referred to the present prosperity of the industry in terms of cars shipped, or in the aggregate of earnings by the successful companies, which he said is now at its maximum.

"I believe," Macauley went on, "it is true that automobile distributers shared fully in the general prosperity and that the calendar year of 1928 was the most remunerative one in their history.

"They have plenty of problems and troubles to report—always have had and always will—but the fact remains that their profits in the year just closed have been greater than ever before and their merchandising ability is constantly improving. Each year finds them better able to meet the difficulties that confront them.

"But there is much to be done as you all know, in improving methods and means of distribution. It is still most unscientifically handled. It is still largely dependent upon the personal skill and industry of the several distributers or dealers.

"Measure for a moment the haphazard methods of distribution of the best of us, against the calculated perfection of our production departments and anyone can see that a vast improvement is possible.

"Distribution is still thinking in terms of dollars whereas production thinks in terms of time.

"Dollars have in modern factories given place to minutes. Our factory managers no longer say they have been able to save a dollar on a given operation—they now report they have been able to cut the standard time by so many minutes or fractions thereof.

"Progressive manufacturing has made it almost impossible for a productive workman to 'soldier' as much as 15 minutes per day without detection. So highly developed has production efficiency become that it is today, as you know, possible to budget production and the months ahead and longer, with almost unerring accuracy.

"In production, ways and means have been found to automatically eliminate the unfit and the laggard. Contrast this scientific precision with the best of our modern distribution methods and you will admit readily enough that our next great advance will come from a better controlled distributing organization.

"There is a good reason to believe that if the selling hours were as intelligently directed and under the same control as now governs production, sales could be increased by a wide margin.

"It costs too much to sell our products. There have been few radical improvements in selling methods in some decades.

"We are all facing severe competition that is intelligent, keen, and I am glad to say, singularly clean. My prediction is that distribution and its great ally, service, will determine who is to survive and prosper. Look out for new methods—they are coming, and the basis for them is facts and the accounting methods necessary to interpret the past in light of the facts, and to forecast the future.

"The fact that distribution efficiency is lagging is not altogether the fault of the distributing organization—it is up to us as organization heads to pioneer the way and illuminate the road.

"The prosperity of the manufacturer and distributer has been most abundantly shared with the public. Our patrons have been sold far better cars than ever before, at lower prices. Our service divisions have reached new high levels of efficiency and courtesy."

The problems confronting the industry Macauley listed as:

1. The high and constantly growing cost of selling.

2. The used car evil, for which he believed there is no panacea, although it can be kept within bounds by intelligent and careful handling.

3. The prosperity of distributors and dealers—they must make money.

4. The growing evil of the bootlegging dealer who has merchandising ability with a scant sense of responsibility.

"I believe this year will show a new high record of prosperity if we continue to deserve it."

THE highway, as planned, would traverse portions of three states—Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky—beginning at Beardstown, Ill., where Abraham Lincoln came into prominence through defending one Armstrong in a famous murder case. Its southern terminus would be at Hodgenville, Ky., where the Great Emancipator was born. An association, recently formed for the purpose, will attempt to have the plan voted favorably on by the Legislatures of the three states in point, and Congress. Favorable action is foreseen since no expense would be incurred.

High Engine Compression Explained by An Engineer

It Gives Greater Power and Performance From the Same Amount of Fuel, Thereby Increasing Engine Efficiency.

HIGH compession increases the ratio of fuel that can be transformed into useful work. It gives greater power and performance from the same amount of fuel, thereby increasing engine efficiency.

Two limiting factors govern any increase in automobile engine compression. These are the engine's structural strength, and knock or detonation. So explains Carl Breer, executive engineer in a recent article.

"As Chrysler pioneered high compression, it is perhaps needless to say that its engines are designed to operate smoothly and without overloading even at extremely high speeds," Breer says. "Their rigid crankcase and cylinder block construction, and the ample bearing areas provided, are assurance that their structure will not be overloaded by any conceivable compression that might be employed. They have been thoroughly tested over long periods under extreme loads and speeds, and also under conditions beyond those possible to encounter on the highways.

"The second limiting factor presents an entirely different problem, variously known as carbon knock, spark knock, ping, fuel knock or detonation. Fuel knock is perhaps the most accurate of these expressions, all of which really mean the same thing.

"Many theories are advanced as to what detonation is. None of them has been universally accepted. We know that if properly mixed fuel is compressed above a certain pressure and temperature, and then ignited, there is a tremendously rapid rise in cylinder pressure and a sharp disagreeable ringing knock. It is this knock which has limited engine compression. Four important factors govern it. They are compression pressure, temperature of the compressed charge, design of the engine and type of fuel.

"Compression pressure differs from compression ratio. One might design two engines with a 6-to-1 compression ratio—one that is efficient and gives full compression pressure, the other inefficient and not giving it. The result will be a marked difference in power and performance. Also, the cooler the fuel mixture can be kept the higher the compression that can be used without detonation, and the greater the power.

"The most important gain in engine design is the shape of the combustion chamber. By this alone, it is now possible to increase the compression ratio 4.3 to 1 to 5 to 1 on ordinary fuels without detonation or objectionable roughness.

"Though the three factors stated above have all contributed, fuel is easily the most important item in raising compression. More than a full compression ratio of difference exists between the best and poorest of present day commercially-marketed gasolines. In other words, if we have reached a 5 to 1 ratio by combustion chamber design, we can attain 6 to 1 by using a better fuel. Many anti-knock gasolines are available today. Some are the result of considerable expensive laboratory research, some are natural products and others, so far as anti-knock values are concerned, are accidental. There is no doubt, however, that by their proper further development we can utilize much higher compression and have much greater efficiency than now, even with our best engines.

"There is a wide variation in anti-knock fuels. This is partly due to the fact that until a short time ago no engines capable of taking full advantage of a good anti-knock fuel were available to the public.

Anti-knock fuels may be roughly divided into four classes. These are:

(1) Natural anti-knock gasolines. Certain crude petroleums produce gasolines of good anti-knock properties, whereas certain other crudes produce gasoline of poor anti-knock properties. Due to this the compression ratio adopted by car manufacturers remains low, being penalized by the poorer gasolines of certain localities.

(2) Other fuels not gasoline, properly speaking, which have excellent anti-knock qualities. Of these benzol is the most familiar and toluol less familiar. Both are products of the distillation of coal in by-product coke ovens. These fuels frequently are blended with gasolines, producing good anti-knock fuels.

(3) The so-called "cracked" gasolines. These are the outcome of recent developments originally planned to obtain more gasoline from a barrel of crude through treatment at high temperatures and pressures. There are many such processes, some better than others. But the significance here is that the petroleum industry has only started to scratch the surface in producing anti-knock gasolines from relatively poor crudes by means of cracking. The possibilities for improving our motor fuels by cracking are tremendous. The high anti-knock value of such gasoline shows that we may look forward to consistently better fuels as this cracking becomes more clearly understood. Several companies already are marketing fuels of good anti-knock properties by this process.

(4) Gasolines treated with various chemicals which reduce the fuel's tendency to knock. One of these, tetra ethyl lead, is widely known and widely marketed. Gasolines containing it from the majority of our best anti-knock fuels today. Other compounds, such as anilline and iron carbonyl, neither marketed in this country at present, have these same properties. Iron carbonyl is now marketed in parts of Europe, but in its present form contains certain properties not desirable. It seems quite possible, however, that further research will overcome these difficulties, and may also disclose other compounds that may even surpass anything now known.

"Every gasoline fuel contains four properties that make it more desirable or less desirable for motor car use. These are its volatility, anti-knock value, sulphur content and gum forming constituents.

"While volatility promotes easy starting and quick warming up, extremely volatile fuels may cause trouble in hot weather through tendency to boil. Ragged engine running is the result. Subject to numerous exceptions, a broad general statement can be made that the more volatile the fuel the better anti-knock rating it will have. Anti-knock offers the possibility of greater power and engine efficiency and is one of the most important properties of any gasoline.

"Sulphur is present in gasoline in two forms. The first causes a corrosive action, particularly with moisture present. Few commercial gasolines offend in this respect. The second is that of combinations not corrosive in the gasoline but which break down and produce corrosive compounds when the gasoline is burned. These compounds pass by the piston rings to the crankcase and condense there, together with some of the water produced by the fuel's combustion, to form highly corrosive acids which attack the engine's working parts and cause serious damage. Such compounds are very common where benzol is blended with gasolines to produce antiknock fuel. They are not necessarily present in benzol blends, since the sulphur can be removed by proper treatment. In fact, a number of such benzol blends are on the market which are among our best anti-knock fuels.

Gum forming constituents are particularly prevalent in cracked gasoline. In considerable qualities they often cause sticky valves, rapid carbon accumulation and even clogging of the carburetor passages. These products are difficult to detect in the fresh gasoline at the refinery, but tend to show themselves after it has been stored for some time. They can be removed or neutralized by proper treatment at the refinery. Many cracked gasolines already are marketed which contain excellent anti-knock properties and have no tendency ot form an excessive amount of gum.

In conclusion, it is desirable to mention that in any progressive line of pioneering much opinion in opposition to such progressive work is found. Most of the aggressive oil companies realize the importance of anti-knock and are spending large sums toward bettering that constituent in their product. It is a fact that an engine designed to operate on any fuel without detonation does not take any advantage of the efficiency possible with the high grade anti-knock fuel.

POST-DISPATCH TRAVEL BUREAU DISTRIBUTING AUTO TRAIL ATLASES

WITH the touring season near at hand, the Resort and Travel Bureau of the Post-Dispatch has procured for distribution an excellent 50-page auto trails atlas of the United States and Eastern Canada. This atlas shows the condition and number of highways, mileage from town to town, contains several pages of valuable touring information and an excellent mileage chart. The price is 50 cents, 60 cents if mailed.

St. Louis and vicinity maps, also procurable, show all towns, highways, rivers, streams, lakes, etc., for a radius of 50 miles around St. Louis. They sell for 20 cents, 24 cents mailed.

Individual State maps are 10 cents or 12 cents mailed.

City guides give location of all streets, what street car or bus line to take to get there, locations of churches, hospitals, office buildings, theaters, and contains a map of St. Louis. The price is 25 cents, or 30 cents by mail.

Maps of St. Louis and suburbs, showing streets of St. Louis, East St. Louis, Madison, Venice, Clayton, Ferguson, Kirkwood, Webster Groves and University City. The price is 40 cents, or 45 cents mailed.

Oil Refiners Hold St. Louis Session

A convention of the Western Petroleum Refiners' Association, which represents 87 per cent of the oil production in Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas and Louisiana, was held at the Hotel Jefferson the past week. Headquarters of the association are at Tulsa, Ok.

Highway as a Memorial To Lincoln Is Proposed

Association Formed to Introduce Measures Into Legislatures of Three States and Congress to Permit Carrying Out of Plan.

An Abraham Lincoln memorial highway which would traverse three states, Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky, will be proposed in a measure to be simultaneously introduced into Congress and the legislatures of the three states shortly by the newly formed Lincoln Memorial Highway Association.

The proposed highway would have as its northern terminus, Beardstown, Ill.—where Lincoln took part in the famous Armstrong murder case—and as its southern, Hodgenville, Ky.—near which the Great Emancipator was born.

Little opposition to the plan is foreseen by officers of the association since virtually no outlay for paving projects or other expenses would be involved in naming and maintaining the route as the Lincoln Memorial Highway. The chief idea of the association in designating the road is to offer a practical memorial to a national hero, the officers declare.

In general, the route would connect up the following points of direct connection to Lincoln history:

From Beardstown it would lead through Chandlerville to Huron, where stands the old home in which Ann Rutledge died, and wherein Lincoln visited many times—the last time being on the afternoon before her death—south past Concord cemetery, where Miss Rutledge was first buried; on through Petersburg and Old Salem, which is the outstanding Lincoln shrine in the State of Illinois, and on to Springfield, the site of Lincoln's tomb, which attracts thousands of visitors from all parts of the world annually.

From Springfield the road would lead to Decatur by way of what is now known as the "Old Circuit Trail," over which Lincoln rode hundreds of times.

Near Decatur, the road would pass within a few rods of the site of the first Illinois home of the Lincolns and what was once known as the "Seven-Mile Tavern," in which Lincoln formerly stayed.

In Decatur proper, the trail would lead to the spot already marked where at a public meeting Lincoln was first mentioned for the Presidency; to Farview Park, where stands the old log cabin courthouse in which Lincoln the lawyer appeared many times—once arguing a case holding one boot in his hands, when he arrived late in court and attempted to dry them and warm his feet while the prosecutor was speaking — to the Lincoln collection, one of the best anywhere, on display at the public library, and other points within the limits of the thriving little city hallowed by Lincoln memories.

To the south the road would follow the general line of proposed Illinois Route 132 through Sullivan to Mattoon.

From Mattoon the road would follow Route 25 south for about six miles, thence east past the second home of the Lincolns in Illinois, past the Shiloh Cemetery, where Thomas and Sarah Bush Lincoln were buried, to the old house in which Honest Abe ate his last meal with his stepmother—this after his election, but before his inaugural.

It is also proposed to establish a branch trail straight east from Mattoon over an existing paved route to Charleston, where Lincoln met Douglas in a debate in 1858, and near which Lincoln's family

Auto Tourists Beginning to Drive to Cuba, A. A. A. Finds

New Overseas Highway Route Makes It Easy for Automobilists to Enter Island by Motor From Florida Mainland.

Motor touring in Cuba, that enchanted island that nestles like a gem in a setting of tropical seas, has now become as simple and easy as moving the car from one state to another.

Moreover, Americans in ever-increasing numbers are being attracted to this minature nation, long famous for its sugar and tobacco, but now one of the focal points for play of Americans from all parts of the United States.

In addition to seeing the playgrounds of Cuba, the American car owner is interested in the historical background. There has been a decided trend of interest toward history, which now ranks with scenery as a lure for tourists, and in this respect, Cuba is virtually a treasure storehouse.

The sinking of the Maine in the harbor of Havana stands out clearly in the memory of the present generation. The Spanish-American War is still in the forefront of modern history. In fact, Cuba offers a subtropical mainland with a background of history that places it in line to become one of the touring meccas of America's motoring millions.

Only recently, realizing the growing interest in motoring in Cuba, the Foreign Travel Division of the American Automobile Association placed A. A. A. port agents at Havana. These representatives of mo-

Double reduction or chain final drive.

International Heavy-Duty Trucks ranging in 2½, 3½, and 5-ton sizes, are supplemented by a full line of International Speed Trucks 4 and 6-cylinder, 1¼, 1½, and 2-ton sizes. Also ¾-ton Special Delivery and the Six-Speed Special.

International Harvester has engineered a remarkable line of Heavy-Duty models—engineered to the most modern truck standards—completely new, and on view now.

Five Forward Speeds in all models, and Four-Wheel Brakes on all models, provide the New International Heavy-Duty Line with the essential triple combination of great pulling power, speed for the straightaway, and the ability to stop!

New engines, new clutches, new transmissions, more comfortable cabs, easier driving, redesigned hood and radiator, improved appearance—all contribute to the success of these new trucks. Their performance is based on 18 months of engineering and test, and backed by 25 years of successful truck building.

See and try the New International Heavy-Duty trucks and put them on your job. You will find them ready for every challenge of road and load. Let us send you a folder describing the new line, or come in and look over the trucks themselves. We are here at your service and will be glad to give you a demonstration at any time.

HUP EXPORTS INCREASED BY 126 PCT. IN 1928

Total of 65,662 Cars Shipped Last Year, Annual Report Says.

Hupp Motor Car Corporation's report for 1928, just made public is the most favorable in its history Besides reflecting in the year's earnings the popularity of the Century six and eight models, it shows plans for expansion and increased production during 1929. These enlarged operations for the current year are being made effective in part through the acquisition of the Chandler-Cleveland Motors plant in Cleveland.

President DuBois Young submitted the report at a directors' meeting in Detroit recently. Young in his foreword to stockholders recalls the stock dividend declared at the January directors' meeting in New York, whereby 2½ per cent in stock is payable each quarter for four quarters, beginning Feb. 1, to stockholders of record at each quarter. This was in addition to the regular cash dividend of 50 cents which was declared at the same meeting.

In addition to the excellent financial condition of the corporation shown in the consolidated balance sheet, Young lays emphasis on Hupmobile's plans to amplify its model coverage by bringing out a more complete line with attendant world-wide expansion in distributer and dealer organization.

Hupp Motor Car Corporation is looking forward to total sales this year which will eclipse the new record established in 1928. Hupmobile shipped 65,662 cars in 1928 —an increase of 45 per cent over its best previous year, and of 60 per cent over 1297. Young pointed out that this sales increase was international in scope, export sales increasing 126 per cent, and Canadian sales 61 per cent.

North and South Americas Are Connected By Automobile After Two Years' Trip

Jose Barone, Italian Race Driver and Aviator, Successfully Completes First Tour of Kind—Drove 20,000 Miles From Rio de Janiero to New York in 1922 Studebaker Six Touring Car.

STILL GOING AFTER TWO YEARS

INTERNATIONAL

SHRIEKING sirens of a motor cycle police escort and congratulations from acting Mayor McKee of New York greeted a wiry little Italian race driver and aviator at the conclusion last week of the first successful automobile trip linking North and South America.

Jose Mario Barone, Pan-American trail blazer, who left Rio de Janeiro more than two years ago in a 1922 Studebaker Light Six touring car, arrived in New York March 1. Nearly 20,000 miles of plain and mountain, jungle and desert lay behind Barone as he drove along Broadway to meet the welcoming committee at the city hall, where he was presented by Judge Francis Mancuso of the Italian Historical Society; Count Roberti, Italian Vice Consul, and Paul Vaccarelli, chairman of the Reception Committee.

The intercontinental trip from Rio de Janeiro to New York by automobile has tempted many daredevil drivers from Latin-America, according to Barone, who states that more than two score cars have started north, with New York as their objective, and failed. Yet Barone and his battered Studebaker, which had seen more than 100,000 miles of "stunt" driving before the start of this journey, came through.

The start of the tour was made in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. With a companion, one Ugo Comelli, Barone started for Buenos Aires, arriving there 23 days later, and incidentally establishing a new record for this trip. To Comelli, Barone had pointed out that the expenses of the trip could be met by racing and stunting en route. The first of his races was entered in Buenos Aires. With it occurred the first tragedy of the trip. Comelli was thrown from the car as it plunged over the rough course, and killed.

Had Barone been able to visualize the hardships that lay ahead the trip would have ended right there. But denied such vision, he struck off with a new mechanic, Casimiro Scuderoni. Heading north from Buenos Aires, they soon reached the end of anything that faintly resembled roads. With nothing more than a compass, a rough map, and the word of natives to guide them, they fought their way toward Bolivia.

They crossed the Andes in the barren, stony region of Tres Cruces where they were held up for two days by a blizzard. Finally they reached the city, but too late. Scuderoni never recovered from his fever. Barone pushed on, alone, toward Lima, Peru.

At length—Lima, and 15 days in hospital before he was again ready to travel.

On again he went with a new mechanic—Eugene Oresci. Slow progress over mountain trails, an occasional stream bed, an infrequent railroad right of way. Guyaquil, Via Flores, Quaranda, Ambata, and at last Quito in Ecuador. Three hundred miles, and another four months.

Near Altaquer death reached again for Barone—and took his mechanic. The edge of a mountain trail gave way and the car plunged down the steep slope. Barone suffered a frightfully maimed hand and lacerations about the face and body. Oresci was crushed so badly that death seemed inevitable. But five miles up the mountain was a village. Blinded by sweat and blood, Barone bore his suffering companion to the cluster of huts. No doctor—only a priest, but by that time the priest alone was needed. Barone and the priest buried the man the next day.

The car was a wreck, crushed by boulders and half buried in the fallen rock. With the help of natives Barone literally took the car apart and carried it to the village. There, with his own kit and the aid of a local blacksmith, he rebuilt the car and went on,—again alone.

Another mechanic, Alesandro de la Torre threw in his lot with this miraculous midget of a man at Cali, Colombia. Together they struggled on. Travel was slower than ever. At length they reached Panama. The only way across the Isthmus was by water—or the tracks of the Panama railroad. Armed with a special running order as an "extra train," and accompanied by R. E. Hopkins, Studebaker's Panama distributor, who is an old-time conductor, Barone took to the ties. After months of the jungle it seemed a boulevard to Barone.

Central America offered more struggle through jungle and swamp. Much of the distance Barone drove a burro ahead of him. If the burro sank in slime to his middle, Barone knew the car could not get through, and either cut a detour, or made a new roadbed in which the car would not sink over the hubs. In spite of these precautions the car many times was mired so deeply that the wheels almost disappeared in muck and water. Punta Arenas and Costa Rica were behind them. Then Nicaragua, bandits and U. S. Marines.

Sandino's bandits caught him first. They took Barone's money, his gun, 10,000 feet of precious motion picture film. The Italian begged the return of some clothing. His car was such a dilapidated wreck that the natives thought it worthless, and finally allowed Barone to proceed.

The Marines gave him food and some clothing—and much advice. They forbade him to continue overland, and after he had cabled for funds, saw him load his car on a boat and start up the coast. Once past the Marine lines, he was soon ashore again.

At San Salvadore he was joined by Alfredo Massi, a boyhood acquaintance. Massi replaced his mechanic, who had had enough. Guatemala City, and then Mexico, where he found roads once again —and more bandits.

In Mexico Barone picked up his last mechanic. Harry Knauff, a Pennsylvanian who had come to seek his fortune in Mexico. But he was homesick for the North. He begged what became the longest hitch-hike in history.

SALES RISE 100 PER CENT, WILLYS SAYS

President of Willys-Overland Visits St. Louis on Way From California.

An increase of virtually 100 per cent in production and sales of Willys-Knight and Whippet cars thus far this year was reported by John N. Willys, president of Willys-Overland, Inc., during an interview as he stopped off in St. Louis Thursday on his way from the Pacific Coast to Toledo. Production in the first two months of 1929, he said, was 65,000 cars, as compared with 32,000 in the corresponding period in 1928.

Willys, who is chairman of the Committee on Exports of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, said that this increase was reflected in the company's business abroad, which was 300 per cent large in January as compared with January, 1928, and 100 per cent in February. This month, he said, Willys-Overland will export fully 7500 cars, while total production in March will be 45,000.

The new four-cylinder Whippet he believed, especially suited to the European market because of its power yet at the same time low taxable cylinder basis. A Whippet that sells for, say $600, in this country, has been selling for $1100 in England. Willys said he had the price in Britain lowered to less than $1000, and hoped to get the price down to £185, or roughly, $925.

Willys was in Los Angeles to see the New Willys-Overland assembly plant go into operation. This factory, which is assembling 70 cars a day and is to go to 100 daily before the end of this month, is the first move in an expansion plan which contemplates eventually assembly plants in important centers of this country. The next move is likely to be erection of an assembly plant in the East, on the Atlantic Coast, but this is not planned for the present. Willys-Overland already has plants in England, Germany and Canada.

An expenditure of $6,000,000 last year on the Toledo plant brought the company to the point where further factory expansion in the Ohio city will be over costly. Willys said, so radial expansion seems a logical development.

The Los Angeles plant has a rush capacity of 200 cars a day, and was built to care for California, Oregon, Washington, Arizona and far Eastern countries, such as Hawaii and China. Thus far this year, Willys stated, Willys-Overland sales in California have shown a 300 per cent increase. It will be relatively easy to enlarge the Los Angeles plant to a capacity of 400 cars a day.

The new policy of merchandising Willys-Knight cars through a separate division is working out finely, according to Willys.

He was accompanied by A. B. Qualy, secretary of Willys-Overland; D. R. Wilson, vice president and general manager of the Wilson Foundry and Machine Co., a subsidiary at Pontiac, Mich., for making automobile castings; H. J. Leonard, president o fthe Stearns-Knight Co., and E. D. Knowles, regional manager with headquarters at Kansas City. The party spent some time with J. F. Beebe, manager of the St. Louis zone.

Cities Service Heads Visit City

Harry D. Frueauff, chairman of the Marketing and Refining Committee of the Cities Service Oil Co., with headquarters at New York, and W. H. Merritt, vice president and general manager of the company, with headquarters at Tulsa, Ok., were in St. Louis the past week to attend the annual meeting of the Western Petroleum Refiners' Association.

Immediately following this meeting, which was held Tuesday, Merritt returned to Tulsa, while Frueauff continued on to Houston to attend the annual meeting of the Export Petroleum Association held there Friday.

While in St. Louis Merritt conferred with W. L. Lund, branch manager of the Cities Service Oil Co., regarding the proposed expansion of the company's operations here.

GOODRICH TO BUILD PLANT IN ATLANTA

Production to Be 5000 Tubes and Tires Daily.

AKRON, O., March 16.—James D. Tew, president of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., made public here today plans for a third Goodrich plant in the United States, to be completed at Atlanta, Ga., by the end of this year. The announcement follows the purchase of 25 acres of land in Atlanta. Construction will be started in the near future. Production will total 5000 tires and 5000 tubes a day.

With the acquisition of the Martha Mills at Thomaston, Ga., the first of this year, Goodrich will have made investments in the South to the total of more than $7,500,000 when the Atlanta plant is completed. The capacity of the cord mills at Thomaston will be more than doubled when the present program of expansion has been completed. The original equipment of 30,000 spindles will be increased to 80,000 making this the largest plant of its kind in the South.

Several hundred acres of land in the vicinity of the mills has been purchased and the building program includes about 500 modern homes for mill employes. The little city has been named "Silvertown."

Atlanta was selected for the site of the southern tire plant following a period of investigation of Southern manufacturing and distributing advantages. "The rapid industrial growth of the South," Tew said, "justifies a plant in that part of the United States." Built only a little more than a year ago, the Los Angeles Goodrich plant has been compelled to expand for greater production.

More Floor Space For Seiberling Co.

With the removal of the St. Louis factory branch of the Seiberling Rubber Co., to 914 South Theresa avenue, the floor space of the branch has been increased by 40 per cent, according to W. T. Melton, manager. Another advantage of the new location over the former on North Union boulevard is that it gives the branch a more centralized location for city distribution, Melton said.

Studebaker Exhibit Comes to a Close

The elaborate display of Studebaker cars which was held the past week at the Coliseum under the auspices of the Lurie Motor Car Co., Studebaker distributer and the St. Louis factory branch, came to a close Friday night. Attendance averaged about 1000 persons daily, it was said. Each evening during the past week a Movietone, featuring all-star radio and movie entertainers drew large crowds. There was no admission charge.

A complete showing of Studebaker commercial cars was held in conjunction with the exhibit. The commercial line is handled here by Brown & Brown, with headquarters in the Eighteenth Street Garage building.

The cars on display at the Coliseum are now being shown on the Lurie Motor Car Co. salesrooms at Grand and Lindell boulevards.

NEW AIRPLANE TO BE BUILT IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis Car Co., Subsidiary Announces Cardinal Cabin Monoplane

The Cardinal, a cabin type monoplane, manufactured by St. Louis Aircraft Corp., a subsidiary of the St. Louis Car Co., will make its official bow to the public at the Detroit All-American Aircraft Show, April 6 to 14 inclusive.

Anticipating the individual needs in air travel the St. Louis Car Co. recently re-entered the aviation field and brought out the Cardinal. The Cardinal is designed to comfortably accommodate two persons. The enclosed cabin has an automobile type seat, well upholstered, and comfortable leg room is provided for both pilot and passenger. Entrance to the cabin is through an unusually wide door. Windows of Charmoid, a non-inflammable synthetic glass, provide wide and easy vision, upward visibility being possible through a skylight in the top of the cabin.

Construction features of the Cardinal make it ideal for training purposes, as well as a means of transportation—there are two sets of rudder pedals, and through a special attachment on the stick the ship may be flown from the right side as readily as from the left, which is normally designated for the pilot. The controls are direct, cables being used only for the rudder. The standard regulation instruments, which are part of the regular equipment, are enclosed under a single glass panel, as is the practice in modern aeronautic designing.

The fuselage is of chrome molybdenum and 10-25 carbon steel, all in accordance with Department of Commerce requirements. The wing is of spruce spars, beam construction, covered, as is the fuselage, with the highest-grade airplane linen. Two aluminum gasoline tanks, each having a capacity of 12½ gallons, are built in the wing, the intakes being conveniently located for refueling. The oil capacity is three gallons.

Tail skid assembly is of micarta wheel design. Split type landing gear is of spring pneumatic construction. Internal expanding brakes are also standard equipment.

Powered with a 65 h. p., five-cylinder, air-cooled Le Blond engine, the Cardinal has a top speed of 105 miles per hour, cruising speed of 85 to 90 miles per hour, and landing speed 35 miles per hour.

The Cardinal wing has a span of 32' 4" and a chord of 60", representing an area of 162 square feet. It has an overall length of 20' and an overall height of 7' 0". The weight empty is 825 pounds and the disposal load is 600 pounds. The wing is wired for navigation lights and tubed for air speed indicator. The stabilizer, which may be adjusted in flight, has a range of from two degrees positive to one degree negative. Hartzell propellers are standard equipment.

Cities Increase Paving to Meet Motor Traffic

CHICAGO, March 16.—American cities are making a determined effort to get the upper hand of motor traffic, according to a statement issued here today by William M. Kinney, general manager of the Portland Cement Association.

During 1928 the 87 cities with populations over 100,000 together constructed 807 miles of hard-surfaced pavements, he said. Smaller cities built an additional 900 miles of concrete. These mileages were reckoned on a street width of 30 feet.

"Los Angeles," Kinney said, "again led in concrete pavement construction by laying approximately 160 miles. Second honors were also carried off by the Pacific Coast with Seattle building 75 miles. Chicago made things easier for the motorist by placing 65 miles. St. Louis reports a new mileage of 40.

Studebaker Leads In Economy Run

That power and brilliant motor performance can be attained without the sacrifice of fuel economy was demonstrated by a recent economy run held in California under the sanction and supervision of the American Automobile Association.

Thirty-seven cars piloted by as many women completed a 170-mile run from Los Angeles to Wrightwood Mountain, climbing from almost sea level to an altitude of 6000 feet. Each car observed the same rules, covered the same course, and ran under the same weather conditions. At the conclusion of the run, the official A. A. A. representatives awarded first place in its class to a Studebaker President Eight, which established the best economy record for eight-cylinder cars priced in excess of $1500 with an average of 33.7 ton miles per gallon.

When all cars had been checked, however, it was found that the Studebaker President had not only led its class, but had also won second place in the grand sweepstakes competition which included every car in the field, regardless of power or price. The President's performance and economy record was bettered by a Ford sedan, which turned in an average of 35.5 ton miles per gallon.

The President's performance and economy record was bettered by a Ford sedan, which turned in an average of 35.5 ton miles per gallon.

At St. Louis Air Fields

AIR mail pilots make substantial salaries, and earn them. Wednesday evening Ray Fortner took off from Lambert Field with the weather clear, but with trouble ahead forecast.

Near Chicago Fortner encountered a dense fog, common to the lake region. He climbed above the fog, finding clear skies at an altitude of 3000 feet—but a billowy mass enshrouding the terrain below. He saw the reflection from the lights of Chicago through a cloud, but could not locate the city, much less a landing field. He circled out over Lake Michigan, then struck inland, and, with fuel for 10 minutes more flying in the gas tanks, found a hole in the fog. He dropped a flare and then beat the flare to the ground, landing in a marshy field. Fortner found that he had landed at Minooka, 12 miles southwest of Joliet, Ill. He sent the mail into Chicago by automobile and spent the greater part of the night getting his plane out of the mud and through two fences, so he could take off next morning.

Upon his return to Lambert Field, Fortner laughed about his experience, his chief concern being how he could get the mud off his boots without ruining the leather. He has the proper background for a mail pilot, having been a speed cop in Evansville, Ind.; an auto racer and a barnstorming pilot before going into the mail service last year.

Fine Days Bring Out Flyers.

Several bright sunny days last week temporarily dried up Lambert Field and brought out a host of students and others. On Wednesday and Thursday planes were in the air continually. Many old-timers took advantage of the pleasant weather to get in the air.

$60,000 Dormitory.

The new $60,000 dormitory being erected at Parks Airport will accommodate 250 students. As a continuous enrollment of about 600 students is expected at Parks Air College, an addition to the dormitory will be started in several months in an effort to provide housing facilities at the field for all students.

Airway Ticket Offices.

Air passenger ticket forms of the Universal Aviation Corporation now number 59 and resemble railroad tickets. Additional ticket selling facilities have been installed both at the downtown office and at Lambert Field.

Greenland Flyer a Visitor.

Parker Cramer who, with Bert Hassel, flew to Greenland last year in the monoplane, "Greater Rockford," and Maj. Freddie Lord, Canadian war ace, were visitors at Lambert Field during the week.

Cramer, Lord and Pilots DeCelles and Sherman of Tulsa, ferried four Waco speedwing ships from Troy, O., to Mexico for the Mexican Government. The planes are to be used in scouting operations against the rebels. Cramer excited some of the Lambert Field contingent by announcing that he understood the Mexican Government was offering $250 a day in gold to pilots owning their own planes, who would engage in the campaign against the revolutionists.

Phil Love Returns.

Phil Love returned home from New York during the week in the "Golden Shell," the tri-motored Fokker belonging to the Shell Oil Co., which is piloted by Milt Girton, veteran Lambert Field pilot.

New Von Hoffmann Students.

Twelve new flying students were enrolled by the Von Hoffmann school during the week, four of the applicants appearing at the field last Sunday to make arrangements. Anticipating the seasonal increase Manager Bouse added William Brewster, a former Royal Flying Corps pilot, to his staff of instructors. Solo students toow advantage of the good weather during the week to get in hours in the air.

"Red" Jackson Stops Over.

"Red" Jackson, former test pilot for the Curtiss-Robertson Co., dropped in at Lambert Field Thursday in a new Cessna, which he is flying to Long Island. Jackson is now demonstration pilot for Curtiss Flying Service and likes the job.

Lieut. Fisher an Instructor.

Lieut. J. F. Fisher, commander of the Naval Reserve air unit, has been appointed chief ground instructor at Parks Air College. He also conducts a night class in aeronautics at Washington University. George B. Manning, a graduate of the army flying school, has been employed as an instructor in Lieut. Fisher's department.

Flew With "Question Mark."

Lieut. Elwood Quesada, a member of the crew of the army plane, "Question Mark," which broke the endurance record, stopped over at Lambert Field during the week on a cross-country trip.

Robertson School Grows.

Since March 1 there was an increase of 54 ground students and 19 flying students in the Robertson Flying School. A night class in welding is to be started April 1. The course covers 10 weeks, two nights a week.

14 Robins Delivered.

Fourteen new Curtiss-Robins were turned out by the Curtiss-Robertson Co. last week and delivered to purchasers.

Barracks Ready April 15.

The frame structure of the new barracks of the Von Hoffmann Co. is nearing completion and stucco is to be applied this week. The barracks will accommodate 100 students and will be ready for occupancy about April 15.

Terhune's Vision Impaired.

Clarence "Red" Terhune, Graf Zeppelin stowaway, took a physical examination Thursday for a student's permit. The sight of his right eye is impaired as the result of an accident years ago and he must obtain a waiver on account of the defect before he can begin taking instruction at the Von Hoffmann Flying School. Terhune made up his mind to become a pilot after deciding that he was not cut out to be an actor.

Old Standards Disposed Of.

The last of the five old Standard training ships placed on sale by the Robertson Aircraft Corporation late in February has been sold. Ben Oonk of Baden bought the last Standard last week.

Capt. Young in California.

Capt. Harry Young, instructor for the National Guard air unit, is in California getting another Douglas 02H observation ship for the unit.

War Pilot Now Salesman.

Joe Read, war time pilot and veteran of Lambert Field, has entered the aviation business as salesmanager for the Universal Aviation Corporation. Read, who has been connected with the Tate Motor Co. since the World War, will have charge of the sale of new and used ships. Joe was the first local pilot to install wireless in his plane and the first to use brakes. The brake idea caused some amusement in 1923, but all modern ships now have them. Joe is one of the select circle of old timers, who knew Lambert-St. Louis Field when it was a meadow.

$8000 for Machinery.

The Von Hoffmann Flying School has ordered $8000 worth of additional machinery to be used in ground school instruction. The order includes woodworking machinery, special stands fpr motor work and 100 tool kits.

Ralph Damon Visits East.

Ralph Damon, factory manager of the Curtiss-Robertson plant, spent the week at the Long Island Curtiss plant.

They Salute Dan Robertson.

Dan Robertson, brother of Maj. William B., and Frank H. Robertson, who is now the personal pilot for a wealthy Mexican, writes friends that the Mexicans salute him since Col. Lindbergh's visit. "Slim" was surprised to see Dan in Mexico and his greeting was unusually effusive, with the result that the natives were duly impressed.

Bandsman Air Student.

L. B. Van Petten, former leader of the "Cornhuskers Band," is taking 50-hour flying course in the Robertson School.

Eddie Peabody Lambert at Field.

Another musical director to put in an appearance at Lambert Field during the week was Eddie Peabody, who formerly was a pilot. He visited Field Manager Scott, who took him on a tour of inspection.

Due From Colorado.

Linton Roberts, instructor at the Von Hoffmann School, and A. P. Firth, a student, are expected in from Colorado Springs with a new Hisso Eaglerock.

To Rebuilt Old Hangar.

Frank H. Robertson, former president of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, has obtained permission to rebuild the old double hangar on the west side of the field. Robertson will conduct a service and storage station for transient planes. He expects to spend $50,000 for brick walls, concrete floors and other improvements for the hangar and may establish similar stations in other cities.

Gets New Plane for Old.

Oscar Johnson is to receive a new Stearsman biplane from the Stearman Co. "Boots" Dempsey, Johnson's pilot, flew to Wichita 10 days ago in the Stearman recently purchased by Johnson to have the paint job renewed. The test pilot for the concern took the plane up and washed it out in landing when the brakes locked.

Free Gas for Racers.

Free gas and oil will be furnished contestants in the Gardner Trophy race, to be held at Parks Airport Memorial day.

Chaudet in Accident.

Having just spent $1000 to have his Travel-Air biplane repaired following a crack-up last fall, Bill Chaudet, president of the General Brake Service Co., and a licensed pilot, damaged the plane again Thursday when the brakes locked in making a landing. Chaudet suffered lacerations of the chin, but was at his office next day. The plane was badly damaged. Bill will fly again, he says.

Joins Guard Air Corps.

"Buddy" Jones, flying sales representative for the Mahoney-Ryan Co., has joined the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service. It is expected that he will be elected a Lieutenant shortly.

Loans to College Air School.

The Curtiss-Robertson Co. lent a fuselage, wing and a Challenger motor to the Washington University engineering school for demonstration purposes.

Guard Airmen to Dance.

The Thirty-fifth Division Air Service will hold a dance at Hotel Statler on the night of April 13. Officers of the Regular Army, Naval Reserve and other National Guard units will be invited.

Visitors at Parks Airport.

Visitors at Parks Airport included C. V. Towns, who made two visits, the first on the way from Detroit, Mich., to Los Angeles, Cal., and the second while flying in his Stinson-Detroiter from Los Angeles to New York. Others stopping over were: J. F. Wilson from Milwaukee, Paul Foster in a Challenger-Robin from Los Angeles to Pittsburg, and L. N. Steward in a Stinson from Chattanooga, Tenn.

Oil Refiners Hold St. Louis Session

A convention of the Western Petroleum Refiners' Association, which represents 87 per cent of the oil production in Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas and Louisiana, was held at the Hotel Jefferson the past week. Headquarters of the association are at Tulsa, Ok.

With Super-Six owners by tens of thousands, repeating on Essex, the most spontaneous welcome ever extended a 6-cylinder car has brought hosts of car owners from every price and size field to Essex the Challenger.

Its acceptance is the talk everywhere. Again and again the largest production ever planned by Essex has had to be increased to meet this remarkable demand.

The results of Challenger Week by nation-wide proofs—in performance, reliability and economy—have extended the advantages of this big, fine car with the force of universal appeal.

With its open challenge, that excepts no car—

—with its 24% greater power and 70-mile-an-hour performance

—with its greater beauty, adult-size capacity, riding ease and economy

—and with its brilliant chassis quality and fine, large bodies—Essex establishes also an outstanding leadership in obvious VALUE. It offers an ensemble of fine car equipment identified only with costly cars, and available, when at all, only as "extras," at extra cost on cars of Essex price. In Essex the Challenger—a complete, fine big "Six"—these items of course are standard.

They represent several hundred visible dollars' worth of additional value, and are another reason for the enormous success which Essex the Challenger has enjoyed from the outset.

PIERCE-ARROW SALES CHIEF VISITS HERE

Prosperity Ahead for Auto Industry, D. J. Willoughby Declares.

D. J. Willoughby, general sales manager of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., who is making a 5000-mile trip through the Central Western States to study automobile distributing conditions was in St. Louis Wednesday of the past week conferring with officials of the Western Automobile Co., Pierce-Arrow distributer.

While here, Willoughby declared that he has found a healthy and profitable activity in every line of business, and gave it as his opinion that 1929 would be the best year in the history of the automobile industry. He declared that at no time has so much optimism regarding Pierce-Arrow prospects been expressed.

"Pierce-Arrow's rise during recent months is one of the most amazing chapters in automobile history, Willoughby said. "Since introducing a new straight eight at the recent national automobile shows, the factory at Buffalo has literally been swamped with orders, reflecting record-breaking sales throughout the country.

"Some idea of the situation may be gained through the fact that the cars shipped during January and February, plus the orders now on hand for March delivery, nearly total the entire 1928 output.

"Although the factory is turning out from 50 to 60 cars a day and is planning on a 1900-car volume in March, we cannot begin to fill our orders. Nearly 3000 unfilled orders, representing a total value of nearly $8,000,000, are on hand today as compared with only 300 years ago.

"During January and February, we added distributors and dealers whose investment in sales and service establishments aggregates more than $3,000,000."

Willoughby, who is one of the most widely-known executives in the industry, numbers most of this city's prominent automobile merchants among his friends.

Highway as a Lincoln Memorial Is Proposed

lived for many years. Charleston would also be connected to the Shiloh Cemetery trail.

This last named section, in Coles and Cumberland Counties, was proposed to Congress recently in similar bills introduced in the House by Congressman Charles Adkins, and in the Senate by Senator Charles Deneen.

From Cumberland County the proposed highway would angle south and east through Diona, near which the Thomas Lincolns forded the Embarrass River on March 10, 1830, on their trip from near Troy, Ind., to Macon County, Illinois, and where the treacherous stream almost claimed all of their possessions; on through Greenup to the site of the old Russelville ford, near Vincennes, Ind., where the Illinois-bound pioneers crossed the Wabash.

The route would follow a general southerly course from Vincennes through Princeton and Rockport, probably with a feeder route to Lincoln City, where Thomas Lincoln built his first home in Indiana and where Abraham's mother died.

According to Rexford Newcomb in his book, "In the Lincoln Country," "it is a beautiful spot in which they buried the mother of the President. It is situated upon a slight knoll about a quarter of a mile south of the Lincoln cabin—Thomas could not put up a permanent memorial and it remained for friends of the family later to mark the spot. Apparently a subscription was taken up for the purpose. This simple marker served until 1879 when Mr. Clement Studebaker Sr. of South Bend, Ind., had erected over the grave a beautiful but unostentatious stone, with this inscription:

'Nancy Hanks Lincoln,
'Mother of President Lincoln,
'Died October 5, A. D. 1818,
'Aged 35 years.
'Erected by a friend of her
'Martyred son.' "

This book, by the way, published by J. B. Lippincott Co., is a complete story of the shrines along Lincoln way, Hodgenville to Beardstown.

Aside from this feeder, another branch road would probably connect the main memorial highway with New Albany, Mt. Vernon and Evansville.

Near Rockport, Ind., the trail would cross the Ohio, and then would come the connections to Kentucky's many Lincoln shrines, with the southern terminal at the Nolin creek farm, near Hodgenville, where Abraham was born.

One of the points of interest in this section is the site of the old Knob Creek school, in which Lincoln learned readin', writin' and arithmetic, to the rule of three, under the guidance of Zachariah Riney and Caleb Hazel.

One quarter of a mile to the south is the old swimming hole, where tradition has it that Austin Gollaher saved the boy Lincoln from drowning.

The advantage of such a highway is obvious. With present day motor-car transportation, an official Lincoln Highway would make a trip to the shrines of Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky almost as simple and as convenient as a trip to the museum.

POLAR FLYER

© UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

CARL B. EIELSON.

WHO flew Capt. Wilkins on the latter's epochal flight over the North Pole, has been awarded the Harmon Trophy, given annually for the best demonstration of the reliability of airplane travel. Col. Lindbergh was the last holder of the trophy, having received it for his flight to Paris.

International Manager Gets A Promotion

F. J. Harmon Goes to Philadelphia—M. F. McCarty Succeeds Him.

F. J. Harmon, who came here two years ago from Chicago to take charge of the International Harvester Co. branch, has been appointed Philadelphia branch manager and will leave tonight to assume his new duties. He is succeeded here by M. F. McCarty, formerly branch manager at Aurora Ill. L. W. Hully assistant manager here, continues in that capacity.

Shortly after Harmon came here construction of the company's large plant at 4010 West Pine boulevard was completed. It is regarded as one of the most complete sales and service buildings in the city. Its erection, according to Harmon, was necessitated by the rapid increase of the International motor truck sales here, as evidence the 108 per cent increase in sales in 1928 over 1927.

Harmon said yesterday that two new buildings for Philadelphia are planned, both to be larger than the St. Louis plant.

Stewart Addresses Jefferson City Auto Dealers

About 20 representatives of St. Louis automobile distributing houses and accessory jobbing houses attended the annual meeting of the Capitol City Automobile Dealers' Association at Jefferson City Tuesday night, March 12. There were present about 300 dealers and salesmen from Jefferson City, Columbia, Fulton, Tipton and Mexico. Maj. Robert E. Lee of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association was toastmaster.

The speakers were Lieutenant-Governor Winters, Jones H. Parker, speaker of the House of Representatives; A. A. Speer, Jefferson City banker; Joseph Holland, assistant Attorney-General; L. M. Stewart of the Midwest Motors Co., St. Louis; A. C. Williams of the Olds Motor Works, St. Louis, and President Davis of the Capitol City Automobile Dealers' Association of Jefferson City.

Other St. Louisans who attended the meeting were Walter T. Mills of the Auto Parts Co., Charles E Lewis of the Authorized Motor Parts Co., George H. Niekamp of the Beck & Corbitt Co., Frank Quan of the Fred Campbell Auto Supply Co., V. D. Sears of the H. & H. Machine Co., George Kincaid of the Weber Implement and Auto Co., Fred Fox of the Fleer-Petty Auto Supply Co. and C. C. Nangle of the Vesper-Buick Auto Co.

The addresses followed a dinner at 6:30 p. m., and a program of music and entertainment came after the addresses.

G.-P. Export Business Shows Big Increase

Graham-Paige, which in its first year attained a record-breaking sales volume of more than $80,000,000 worth of automobiles, is rapidly gaining a place close to the leaders in export business. Not only has the new product of the three Graham brothers taken hold rapidly in foreign countries, but a great increase in the dealer organization abroad assures the company the benefits of world-wide distribution. Graham-Paige cars are now on sale in virtually every country of the world, handled by dealers operating under 115 overseas distributors, of which 11 have been obtained this year.

The remarkable gain in popularity of the Graham-Paige abroad is evidenced by the fact that in the first two months of 1929, export shipments (not including Hawaii Canada and Cuba) totaled 2224, or nearly eight times as many as in the same period last year, according to factory reports.

Buick "Score-Card" Is Being Made to Make Comparisons

For the convenience of Buick owners and future owners, the Buick Motor Co. has produced a "score-card" of important automobile features that the prospective buyer should look for in his car. This score-card shows a list of 13 questions regarding the salient and vital points of a motor car's history, background and features incorporated in its manufacture.

Each of the questions receives an accurate and more or less detailed answer by Buick, while enough blank space is left in order that the individual may jot down the answers that any competitive manufacturer would be obliged to make to the same questions. He then is able to see in his own handwriting just how the car he has in mind compares with Buick—item for item—feature for feature.

In brief, the points covered by this score-card are: The number of years the car has been manufactured; the number built; the number in service today; the distribution of service stations; production during past 12 months; car's design for protection of operating parts; safety provisions for occupants; comfort provisions for driver and passengers; engineering advancements in latest models; aids provided for quick starting and motor warming; builder of bodies; what owners think of automobile; how well manufacturer meets demand for fulfilling buyers' exact needs.

Franklin Output Being Stepped Up

Factory activities at the Franklin Automobile Co. are being directed to a second stepping-up in production since the introduction of the three new models in the 1929 line; one at $600 less than any previous Franklin car has ever sold. Within the past few months the dealer organization, both domestic and export, has been enlarged and improved.

"Expectations have been exceeded by the public acceptance of the new lines and new low prices," said John E. Williams, vice president, in charge of sales. "Dealers' sales were large when the new models first appeared, and the recent sales curve looks even better.

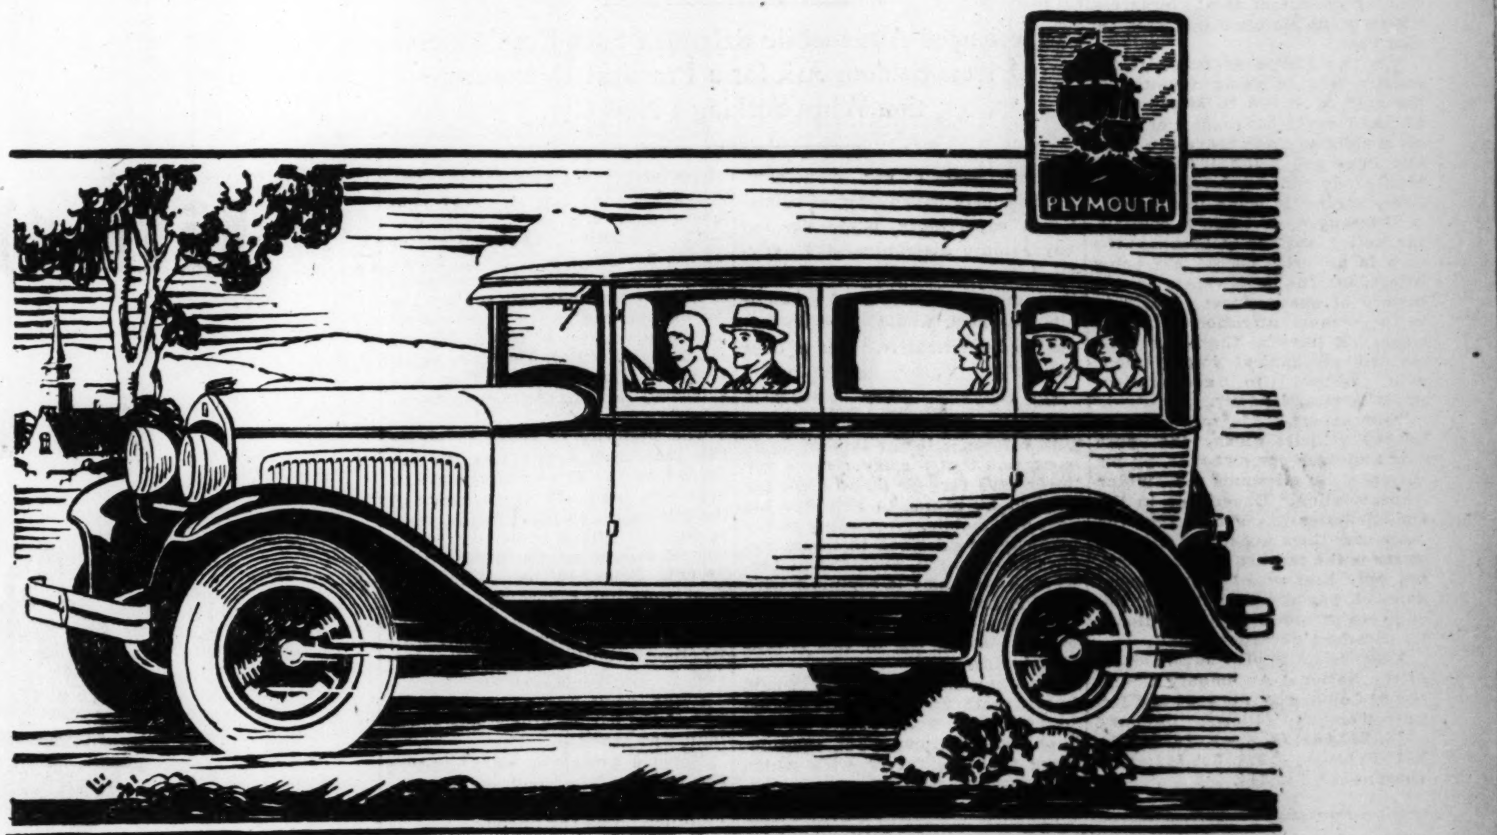
CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT

All talk of Plymouth revolves on Quality

FULL / SIZE



THE FULL-SIZE SEDAN HAS EVERY BIG-CAR COMFORT
Ample Room for Five Large Persons—$695 at factory

ONE of the fine things about owning a FULL-SIZE Plymouth is having a car that doesn't suggest a price tag to all of your friends.

Plymouth can match price with other motor cars in the lowest-priced field, but there all similarity ends—for other cars priced around it cannot begin to match the Plymouth for size, quality, beauty and power.

Therein the full-size Plymouth enjoys a strikingly unique distinction.

People think instantly of style when they see a Plymouth glide by—when their eyes are taken by Plymouth's full-length gracefulness, its slender-profile radiator, its flaring "air-wing" fenders and the many other smart touches of Chrysler designing.

Thoughts of comfort are inevitable when anybody steps inside the Plymouth and contrasts its full-size roominess with the cramped quarters of miniature cars.

And Upwards
F. O. B. Factory

You feel a genuine thrill at the wheel when you sense the flood of power that answers the lightest touch on the accelerator—when you discover the fine smoothness of Plymouth's big high-compression engine which utilizes the Chrysler "Silver-Dome" principle.

You enjoy a wonderful feeling of safety when you touch the brake pedal and note the positive, quick action of the full-size Chrysler weatherproof internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes.

Summing it all up, the full-size Plymouth brings you real fine-car advantages and satisfactions, and at the same time offers utmost economy in first cost as well as remarkable savings in gas, oil and general maintenance.

A small price no longer limits anybody to a small motor car. In creating Plymouth, Chrysler Motors has changed the whole complexion of the lowest-priced field.

CAR OUTPUT 10 PCT. ABOVE LAST YEAR

N. A. C. C. Chief Predicts 1929 Will Be Greatest Auto Year.

DETROIT, Mich., March 16.—Announcing a gain of 10 per cent in automobile production thus far in 1929 compared with the same period in 1928, Alvan Macauley, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, speaking before the members' meeting of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in the Book-Cadillac Hotel yesterday, declared that this year would be the best in motor history.

The February production of Chamber members estimated from shipping statements was reported to the members of 342,344. This total is exclusive of Ford. With the latter figures added, it is clear that the month's total will be the largest February on record and may prove to be the largest month in the history of the business, according to Macauley.

"The gains in business this year as compared with last are gratifying, not only because they show progress but also because they indicate a conservative advance in production operations," Macauley declared.

"The industry may look forward to the best year in its history, based on increases in general prosperity both rere and abroad as well as on a more intensive use of motor transportation in a wide variety of carrying operations.

"Industry is always in the healthiest condition when it is making consistent steady progress, which is the situation indicated for this year.

"In the United States, highway construction is going forward at the rate of 40,000 to 50,000 miles of hard surfaced roads per year. As rapidly as these roads are built, bus lines are being installed and high grade commercial vehicle delivery service is being instituted.

"Passenger car trade is continuing active, especially because the cars in all price classes are being offered at the best values in the history of our business. Not only is there more attention to body work, but likewise there has been marked mechanical improvement with respect to acceleration, smoothness and power.

"Our export trade was close to 850,000 vehicles during the past year and each car owner is, by his example, a salesman for motor transportation. Experience in the United States has shown that the more cars there are in the field the better is the market. That is true, not only because of replacement demand, but also because the convenience of motor transportation is its own best advertisement."

Production figures of members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce this year and last year were as follows: January, 1928, 232,685; January, 1929, 268,261; February, 1928, 320,822; February, 1929, 342,344.

HUDSON SEATS ARE ADJUSTABLE

COACH interiors are now built for beauty and comfort as well as utility. Hudson and Essex cars are featuring fully padded front seats. The passenger seat can be slid forward, even with a pasenger seated, so as to allow free passage through the wide door to the rear seat.

Many Prospective Buyers Don't Use Their Knowledge

Experienced Automobile Salesman Says Even Veteran Drivers Seldom Ask for a Practical Demonstration When Seeking a New Car.

Have years of car ownership, years replete with a host of educational experiences, made the car buyer more discriminating? Offhand, one would think ,this question, put to a number of automobile salesmen, would draw an unqualified affirmative. But it does not.

On virtually every side it is qualified. Particularly is this true with reference to the type of demonstration that the experienced car buyer asks for—or fails to ask for—when he begins to hunt for his next automobile. According to the majority of salesmen to whom the question was put, even the motorist who obviously is equipped with considerable knowledge of motor car value seems entirely indifferent to making use of this educational experience.

The salesmen's answers would imply that car-buying has ceased to be the high adventure of less sophisticated times. Yet, they declare that the fervor with which new cars are used after their purchase belies this assumption. The "kick" is there, they say, but changed in form.

"I am positive that three-fourths of the prospects that I take riding know enough about the mechanics of an automobile to saw for a really testing demonstration of the car," says one veteran of the motor car retail field. "But, they are satisfied with almost anything the salesman cares to call a demonstration."

The majority of those to whom this individual sells a new car ask for about the same demonstration that was made 10 years ago. In the city in which he operates, there is one hill with a somewhat undeserved reputation for difficulty of ascent. Salesmen declare that the first question regarding the performance of the cars they represent invariably concerns itself with whether "she'll climb" the hill just mentioned.

"Why don't you take them to one of the harder hills?" one salesman was asked.

"They'd think you were evading the issue. You can't make them believe there's a nastier hill within 50 miles," was the answer.

Every salesman declares a willingness to give any reasonable demonstration, but such a practice requires more time and generally they are not going to spend it upon a prospect who is satisfied with a cursory display of the car's merits. They hardly are to be blamed for this attitude by anyone conscious of the value of time.

While it is safe to assume that everyone who ever has owned a car knows that it should not be operated at high speeds or forced to pull hard when it is new and tight, too many fail to give the demonstrator credit for being like all other cars in this respect. According to a salesman who sells one of the most powerful cars on the market, many of his prospects think it is fear of failure to prove his point that makes him refuse to force his new car in some freak test. Provided these skeptics would recall the power performances of that make of car such as they must have seen dozens of times in their driving experience, they would not even demand a power test, but concentrate upon some other feature—comfort, acceleration or the like. They need not have owned or even driven such a car, salesmen maintain, but merely to have watched it glide easily up the steepest grades.

However, experience apparently has failed to teach them this lesson, too.

With respect to determining the car's qualities of comfort, acceleration, capacity to run at low throttle, deceleration, noiseless operation and many others, the experienced motorist also is declared to fail to make the most of his opportunities. In the case of comfort, for instance, many are found to be entirely satisfied even when the demonstrator takes them over perfectly smooth streets where even a springless car would ride comfortably and serenely. On the other hand, some will go to the other extreme and insist upon a drive over the roughest possible thoroughfare where even the best of springs and shock smothering devices would fall short of perfection.

It is interesting to note just what the men who sell cars would demand in the way of a demonstration were the situation reversed and they the purchasers instead of sellers. A symposium of the views of quite a number on this subject indicates that they would approach the issue considerably differently than their customers.

TRUCK MAKERS FOREGO PLAN TO HOLD SHOW

National Sales Campaign Is Decided on Instead.

DETROIT, Mich., March 16.—Holding that the more efficient use of the motor truck is the keynote of lower distribution costs to the consumer, the truck members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce decided yesterday to alter their plan of holding a national motor truck show in favor of adopting a program of sales effort which would demonstrate the uses of the truck in various types of delivery effort. The decision was reached at the truck members' meeting of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, held at the Book-Cadillac Hotel here.

The motor truck committee of the Chamber was asked to consider the advisability of a motor truck week throughout the United States, which would include special exhibits by all dealers, with demonstration tests for brake performance, hill climbing and acceleration.

One costly feature of modern distribution, it was pointed out, has been the necessity of local stores carrying high inventories of goods. With efficient economical truck travel, local deliveries can be made promptly from central warehouses, thus permitting local stores to keep a small stock on their shelves.

Better Auto Service Is Foreseen by Nash

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 16.—Perfect equalization of all four brakes is insured in Pierce-Arrow's new straight eight cars through an ingenious testing machine. Each car is submitted to the test at the factory here.

Each car is driven upon a raised platform, where each of the four wheels rest on a geared roller. The brake is set at a position partially on. Then the rollers are turned by motive power, forcing the wheels to revolve. The resistance that each of the four wheels offers is registered on a dial.

Skilled mechanics then adjust both front wheels to register the same degree of resistance, and both rear wheels are adjusted alike. The pair of front wheels is adjusted to carry 50 per cent of the braking effort, and the rear wheels 50 per cent. The calibration is precise and exact.

Driven off the brake-testing machine, the cars are tested on the floor of the factory. Time and again they are speeded up and the brakes applied, at various speeds.

Old Packard Burned In Show Fire

Among the cars destroyed in the fire which last Tuesday night wiped out the Los Angeles Automobile Show was a 1901 Packard. The old car, which was among the first produced by J. W. and W. D. Packard in the original Packard factory at Warren, O., formed a part of the display of Earle C. Anthony, California Packard distributer.

Anthony had obtained the car from the Packard factory, where for several years it had reposed alongside of Old Pacific and Packard Model A. The latter was the first Packard ever built, a vehicle which was completed in 1899. Old Pacific was the first automobile to make a transcontinental trip. The Anthony display included some 10 modern Packard Eights and a 1907 Packard roadster which had long been a well-known vehicle in Los Angeles. These also were destroyed in the fire.

WHO IS GUILTY?

HERE is the outline of a baffling crime. The reader is invited to make his own solution of the mystery, and then compare it with the correct answer which will be published next Sunday.

THE SNOWSTORM

by
and GRETTA PALMER

IT is one of the great advantages of great wealth that it permits one to be as disagreeable as one wishes. All of one's associates sink to the spiritless level, not of paid companions, but of companions living in the hungry expectation of some day being well paid for their present evidences of good nature. The situation, however, is not without its dangers; even the most wormlike of one's servitors may turn.

If there was ever a man of wealth who invited tragedy it was David Hemingway. He had amassed a large fortune by a kind of low cunning and malicious ruthlessness which would have delighted a socialist in search of a dreadful example of the capitalist class. Although well over 70 and reasonably frail he had none of the diseases which his relatives felt they might rightfully expect at such an age, and he had, moreover, a most disconcerting habit of changing his will on the least provocation, usually in some quixotic way which kept the majority of his family in a perpetual state of nervous collapse. After each new draft months of coddling and minor kindnesses were required before the old man would at last relent and make some disposition of his funds more in keeping with the views of his relatives.

One fateful March, Hemingway descended, with all the elaborate demands of a royal visitation, for a week's visit to the family of his nephew, Wilbur Clark, whose small suburban home was hardly up to the demands made on it by such a personage.

It was a small frame house, screened from its neighbors by thick shrubbery which surrounded the lawn, and having, as its sole architectural pride, three unsightly little iron balconies outside the bedrooms of the second floor. It had been the belief of the architect that these excrescences introduced into the sedate neighborhood some of the dashing charm of the Faubourgs of Paris, and none of the inhabitants was in a position to contradict him.

On one side of the house a balcony opened off a small front room occupied by a Victrola, a five-foot shelf of books and a gas grate. In spite of these innocuous objects, it was always referred to by the family as "the den." Next came a small bedroom decorated in the crossed tennis racquet and pennant style which bespoke the taste of the 16-year-old junior. At the rear was the room which was the glory of the house, having a "view over the chicken yard," exposure on two sides and a balcony. It was here that the august uncle was unhesitatingly placed.

Across the hall from his chamber was the bedroom—also with a balcony—occupied, at the moment, by Wilbur's scapegrace of a brother-in-law. Young Phil Hemingway had probably as extensive a knowledge of three-pocket billiards as any man in the State, and he was noted for his prowess in the gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A., without ever showing any spiritual improvement from contact with that organization.

At the age of 26 he was still successfully forcing his brother-in-law to support him on his modest clerk's salary, from sheer terrorization and advance blackmail. For he had threatened, if he were thrown out, to take up a career of hold-up robbery and to disgrace the family, with the result that Uncle David's money would disappear forever from its grasp.

A tentative but successful hold-up of a drug store which netted him $16 was hushed up, and Phil promised that as long as his debts were taken care of and the cuisine did not fall below a reasonable standard, he would behave himself. After all, he stood an excellent chance of sharing equally in the Hemingway money, and had no intention of creating a scandal unnecessarily. None the less, the family knew better than to oppose him outright.

There was naturally an air of tension over the household during the present visitation of old David. Although he had maliciously concealed the fact from his household, his doctor confided to Mrs. Clark that her uncle was suffering from severe attacks of gout and the end seemed less remote. Everyone had been warned to say nothing of the matter, and to flatter the old man as much as possible.

The entire household got up at the inconvenient hour of 5:30 because that was the breakfast time preferred by David, who held that only weaklings lie in bed after 6. Junior's companions had been sternly warned to keep away from the house, and Phil had promised not to appear with liquor on his breath, which, indeed, bore a strong clove flavor throughout the visit.

"I really think we're pleasing him," said Eleanor Clark wearily to her husband, as they were preparing for the night. "He's seemed so much less bitter this time than usual. Of course, it's dreadful for the rest of us to have to eat such cheap meals to show him we're not being extravagant, and I haven't even dared have the snow swept from the front walk, for fear he'll say we're unfit to spend money wisely. There are only three more days before he leaves, and I do believe it's all right. He hasn't threatened once to change his will." She finished braiding her hair for the night with a complacent toss.

The next morning, however, the storm broke, and all their plans seemed fated to come to an ignominious end. Junior, who had caught a bad cold, was not versed in more polite forms of sniffling, and David Hemingway was opposed to all sickness as a perverse form of weakness. At the early breakfast Phil was notably absent, and a tremor of fear came over Eleanor as she heard the front door open and unsteady steps making their way to the dining room. Entered Phil, disgracefully and openly drunk. Before she could hurry him away from the scandalized eyes of the old man, he approached him in a convivial spirit and leaned heavily on his shoulder with what he supposed to be a friendly pat.

"What you got there, old top?" he asked, lifting to his lips the glass of hot water demanded by David's stern regimen. "Hell, there's no kick in that. Lemme fix you up." And from his pocket he produced a bottle of potent rye and poured it into the hygienic glass. He was rushed from the room and put quickly to bed, but neither apologies nor tears could wipe out the disgrace.

David Hemingway announced his intention of changing his will. This time it was to be in the favor of a Frenchwoman who had once been governess to the children of a friend he had visited 10 years before. He immediately got in touch with his solicitors and with breathtaking speed a lawyer arrived accompanied by a quiet little woman who took with a philosophical calm the news that she was to inherit some $10,000,000 from a man she had seen only once.

The three were closeted together for several hours during the afternoon, and when they left Eleanor who had been indulging in the luxury of hysterics, had hardly the spirit left to tell Phil her idea of his conduct. That man, who had sobered up by now, was distinctly thoughtful.

"It must be over now, absolutely over," signed Eleanor. "He's changed his will in favor of that little minx and we're done for. Oh, Phil, how could you ever—?"

"Did anyone go in there with them, or were just the three alone?" asked Phil.

"No, none of us saw them except when the lawyer and that woman arrived, and when I let them out."

Eleanor turned to the task of preparing supper with a melancholy appropriate to baked funeral meats. And dinner that evening was not cheerful, in spite of David's heartless efforts at jocularity. He was feeling in distinctly fine fettle and drove Phil upstairs immediately after the tapioca pudding. At 9 o'clock he glanced out of the window as he started to bed.

"Stopped snowing, I see," he remarked cheerfully. It had stopped snowing that morning at 8 o'clock, but no one had the spirit to answer him.

The next morning when the alarm clock sounded at 5:30, Eleanor gathered together the things for her bath and started to leave her room. She was amazed to find the door locked on the outside. Her husband incredulously discovered she was right and called out. From cries from Junior's room and Phil's, it appeared that they were all in the same fix, although none of them ever locked their doors at night. From David's room came no sound.

Finally Wilbur Clark broke down the flimsy door and released the other captives. The keys of all three doors were in the locks on the outside. David's room was locked from the inside and he could not be aroused, nor could the door be broken down.

In some alarm the family summoned the police. When they arrived they found several interesting developments. The window of David's room, which gave on the small balcony, was open, and from one edge of the balcony hung a double rope, one end of which just reached the grating of the well over the cellar window. The other end was trailing half way across the lawn. From the sidewalk to the grating and back was a trail in the snow of women's galoshes, size three.

One of the policemen climbed the rope, entered the room and found David Hemingway lying undressed in his bed dead. He had been a notably heavy sleeper and had evidently been attacked in his sleep and simply suffocated by means of holding a pillow over his face until he died. There were signs of struggle, but the old man had been too weak to resist as one would have expected.

Further researches showed that both Mr. and Mrs. Clark had noticed that the den was also locked on the outside, indicating that someone unfamiliar with the house had locked it, as there was no one sleeping there. The door of David Hemingway's room was locked and barricaded with a chair on the inside, as was his custom.

The marks of the galoshes puzzled the police. It was apparent that no one of the men could have possibly worn such small overshoes, and Mrs. Clark cleared herself by producing, with some shame, a foot size seven and a half.

The galoshes themselves were found several blocks away, with one of the clips of one of them fastened to the clip of the other, suspended over the trolley wire of a street car line which passed close to the house on the front side, on which only the den and Mr. and Mrs. Clark's room opened. It was found that the French governess who had a perfect alibi, wore shoes size three, and that the will, although drawn up, had not been signed or witnessed.

How did the murderer of David Hemingway accomplish his work?

Who Was Guilty

Solution of "Events Leading to a Revolution," in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch.

GEORGESCO was the villain of the piece. As his name would indicate he was also Balkan, and had come on board with the intention of murdering the Prime Minister and stealing the papers. It was easy enough to obtain the suite next to the Minister's, and a study of the layout of the boat before she sailed revealed that, just as he had expected, there were ventilators in the wall between the Minister's room and the room in the suite adjoining. On modern ships, these ventilators are back to back in adjoining rooms, although separate pipes lead from each into the main pipe. However, it is extremely easy to unscrew the external portion of the ventilator in one room and drill through into the pipe leading to the other room. This is what Georgesco did, naturally drilling when no one was in the next room. He had brought with him the necessary materials for producing the gas he considered best suited to his purpoes. The objects packed in excelsior were a round-bottomed chemical flask, a container of dilute sulphuric acid, glass pipes, connectors and stoppers, as prussic acid eats through rubber. By putting a tiny amount of cyanide of potassium in the bottom of the flask, running a pipe through the ventilator from one opening, and dripping the sulphuric acid through a funnel connected with the other opening of the flask, he generated his fumes very simply.

He had not counted on the secretary receiving a warning of his presence and sleeping in the anteroom, as he had probably planned to steal the papers by using a pass key after the murder had been committed. The secretary might have discovered the murder from fumes stealing under the door, or perhaps the next morning. At any rate, prussic acid fumes are very light and readily dissipated, so if he did not find the body until morning, he could easily have aired the room out.

For the secretary, knowing that it would be fatal to his party's cause for the death of the Prime Minister to be discovered before the papers could be gotten to the capital, decided to risk hiding the death as long as possible. First of all, he could not wait with the papers to explain that he had no connection with the myterious death. He did not dare leave the corpse alone, and he did not dare stay in the cabin where fumes from some unknown source might finish him off at any moment; and at any rate, the Prime Minister's presence on deck would be a furtherance to his daring plan, for the old man would certainly not be disturbed. He had not counted on American autograph hunters.

Georgesco saw that his time had come when the secretary's body lay there, and stole the papers. His method of hiding was one that has actually been successfully employed by jewel smugglers. He hid the papers in the suite de luxe—behind the elaborate wood paneling, which could be unscrewed, would be a good place. Then, when his compatriot sailed in the same cabin, a confederate recovered the papers and took them to the Balkan capital. The revolution followed immediately.

SCOUT CAMPARALL TO BE HELD IN MAY

Instructions for Second Annual Competition Sent Out to Troops.

The second annual Boy Scout Camparall, a form of council-wide scouting competition initiated last year by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, and adopted immediately by councils throughout the country, will be held at the old aviation field in Forest Park May 17, 18 and 19, local headquarters of the organization announce. Instructions for participation in this event have been issued to troops in the St. Louis area.

The Camparall, according to H. T. Swanson, activities directors of the council, is unique among scouting competitions in that the scout works not against other scouts but against time and arbitrary standards. The participant is assigned a particular project, which he must complete in a standard manner in a certain length of time, the time of course depending on the nature of the work. This system eliminates the possibility of personal differences in judges' opinions, as the project will be either entirely right or entirely wrong, instead of being better or poorer than one performed by another boy.

The projects will deal with activities connected with actual camp life. The competing scouts will arrive at 4 o'clock the afternoon of the opening day, and pitch tents in spaces assigned to them. After cooking and eating supper, campfire sessions will be held to inform the competitors fully as to what is expected of them.

Saturday will be devoted to projects in first aid, use of the compass, fire-building, signaling, knot-tying, handicraft, axmanship and similar activities. At noon each scout in camp will be assigned one dish to cook, the nature of which he will not know until the time to prepare it arrives. A general council fire will be held in the evening.

Sunday will be devoted to church in the morning and games in the afternoon, with the camparall concluding that evening.

Last year more than 40,000 persons visited the camparall.

TO ATTEND GIRL SCOUT SESSION IN KANSAS CITY

Twenty-five women and girls, leaders of Girl Scout troops in St. Louis City and County, are planning to attend the annual four-day regional conference of the Girl Scout organization at Kansas City this week. The delegation, headed by Mrs. Guy Oliver, local commissioner, will leave for Kansas City Wednesday, arriving in time for the opening of the conference Thursday.

The conference will take the form of a short training course for leaders of troops throughout the "Covered Wagon Region," embracing the states of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Colorado, and Wyoming.

Miss Margaret Shepley, leader of the Brownie, or junior Girl Scout, activities in St. Louis, will conduct a course in Brownie leadership, while Miss Ruth Sampson, director of the organization here, will be instructor in map-making. Miss Bertha Bennett, also of St. Louis, who is chairman of the regional Educational committee, will demonstrate the ceremony of initiating Lone Captains into the organization. The Lone Captains, a recent addition to Girl Scouting, are women or girls who upon their own initiative have organized individual troops in towns not organized under an official council.

Mrs. Edward J. Walsh and Mrs. Benedict Farrar of St. Louis, and Mrs. Morgan Coggeshall of Webster Groves were elected to the St. Louis district Girl Scout Council last week, at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Louis Burlingham, 4622 Maryland avenue, a member of the National Girl Scout Board of Directors. The St. Louis district council covers all of St. Louis city and county, and part of St. Charles County, and has a membership of 1500 girls.

BOARDS OF REVIEW WILL SIT THIS WEEK

To Examine Candidates for Awards to Be Presented at Court of Honor.

The last District Boards of Review that can pass on applications for awards to be presented to local Boy Scouts at the Spring City Court of Honor will be held in each district this week, according to William Puffer, educational director of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council. These boards will examine candidates for first class rank and for certain merit badges that are specified as "subject to review." Only with the board's approval may a scout receive his award.

Three reviews will be held in the suburban district, one at the Webster Groves High school tomorrow evening, one at the First National Bank, St. Charles, Wednesday, and one at the Overland school Wednesday. The North District board will meet at the Farragut school Tuesday, while the South District review will be held at the Fanning school Wednesday and the West District at the Clark school Thursday. All reviews are scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock.

Candidates for any of the designated merit badges must have applications on file at local headquarters. These applications will be passed on to the proper board. Scouts unable to attend their district board, however, may obtain a transfer of their applications to one of the other boards. They may apply for transfers either by telephone or letter. Candidates for first-class rank do not need to file application for review, but must present a certificate, signed by the scoutmaster, showing that all tests have been properly passed.

In addition to awarding merit badges and first-class degrees, the court, which will be held probably at the Scottish Rite Temple April 15, will also award Star, Life, Eagle and Eagle Palm honors. While it is not necessary that candidates for these appear before a review body, they must file application for the honor not later than April 1. In addition, they must give four references, at the time of filing, from persons in a position to know that they are living up to the tenets of the Scout Oath and Scout Law.

Troop Notes

Headquarters Notes.

The first 1929 issue of the Fieldglass, the official newspaper of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, was mailed to every registered scout in the city and county last Thursday. This publication, carrying announcements of coming council activities, pointers on scout practice, and information on such things as tests and the correct wearing of uniforms, is issued at irregular intervals three or four times year, and sent free to every scout.

Sixteen new members enrolled in the Elementary Class of the St. Louis Scout Leaders' Training Course conducted by the local scout council at the Elias Michael School last week, Field Executive L. L. Hotchkiss, who is acting as scoutmaster, announced Friday. The total enrollment is now 70 men and boys, divided into 10 patrols.

Eugene Stephens is assistant scoutmaster, H. C. Noe junior assistant, and O. W. Seipp senior patrol leader, while the following men are leaders of the patrols; C. J. Gogt, Wolf; O. L. Edwards, Lone Eagle; T. F. Hunt, Bob White; V. H. Chapman, Bear Cat; J. S. Butler, Buffalo; F. Skelly Cuckoo; H. Morisse, Stallion; Ray Voorhis, Crow; J. E. Lantz, Blank patrol; Dick Berger, Owl. This last patrol is composed of men not regular members, who are attending only one or two meetings to make up for meetings missed in other training courses.

Seven patrols have been organized at the first aid class being conducted by Dr. John R. Hall of the Washington University School of Medicine for the local Boy Scout Council. The patrols have been formed under the supervision of Field Executive M. N. Leavitt, who is director of the class, and Deputy Commissioner AuBrey C. Lindsley, assistant instructor. L. M. Hall is patrol leader of the Hound patrol; C. S. Rubey, Bone Setter patrol; W. H. Kroger, Pills; N. H. Burgeheim, Crutches; L. H. Renfrow, Pelvics; C. L. Connell, Microbes, and R. A. Skillington, Bears.

The Handicraft Lodge started by the local scout council in the Missouri Theater building last winter to enable scout leaders to work on handicraft projects, will be open on Tuesday evenings during the remainder of March and April, headquarters announces. As was the case last winter, the lodge will be under the supervision of W. F. Thompson, Ranger Camp Director, who will assist leaders in specialization courses in handicraft subjects.

Twenty-seven new scouts joined the St. Louis organization last week, according to Carl Laemmli of the registration department. They are:

West District: Troop 54, Charles Henning. Troop 60, W. W. Kleeman. Troop 98, Michael Bilgere. Troop 128, Arthur Smith. Troop 132, Jerome Weinberg. Troop 137, Meyer Gershenson.

North District: Troop 22, George Surotich, Jesse Forbeck, Mortimer Steffan, Randall Long and Leroy Knight. Troop 40, D. Hennehoefer. Troop 83, Edward Geistner. Troop 84, Willie Weiss. Troop 100, Clark Frenzel. Troop 189, Remy Stuffel. Troop 202, Koch Russell. Troop 237, Charles Lowry.

South District: Troop 180, Robert Sonders, Walter Remspecher, Virgil Beckerle, and Robert Schroeder. Troop 189, Roy Powell, Philip Finney and Robert Knox.

Suburban District: Maplewood 3, W. E. Bissell Jr., and N. Neel.

South District.

Troop 141 of the Sigel School has been reorganized. Charles Guletz has been commissioned assistant scoutmaster, George Fletcher junior assistant, and Robert Owens senior patrol leader. F. J. Velten, E. H. Beck, R. Tschaumer, A. C. Bunneman and T. R. Trampier have been appointed new committeemen. Two of the newly-formed patrols, under the leadership of Patrol Leader Henry Velten and William Vogel, have already been on hikes.

Eleven scouts of Troop 57 of the American Legion Post No. 3 hiked to Jennings last Sunday. Tests were passed in the course of the day. In the evening a ceremony was held around a council fire and the scout law was explained. The ceremony closed with the Indian call and answer.

Eight tests were passed by three scouts of the Snake patrol of Troop 158 of the Holy Innocents Church on a hike with Scoutmaster Messing last Sunday. Patrol Leader Angelo Calcatelo and Assistant Patrol Leader Cominic Bando passed three each, while Scout Joe Clacatelo, who just joined the patrol, passed two.

Five scouts of Troop 185 of the Kingshighway Methodist Church, passed tests while the troop was on a hike to Benavis a week ago yesterday. They are Scouts Glenn Dreppard, Nicholas Bahne, Elmer Jenne, Albert Schultze and Wesley Farrell. Scout Farrell, with Scouts George Dillman and Russell Gannon attained the rank of second class last week. He was also elected bugler and is planning to organize a troop drum and bugle corps.

Scout Gannon was elected patrol leader of the Eagle patrol, with Farrell as his assistant; Scout Russell Maier became leader of the Pine Tree patrol and Glen Dreppard assistant; Scouts Raymond Dawdy and Tony Ebl were elected patrol leader and assistant, respectively, of the Flying Eagles. The Eagle patrol received the use of a patrol room for winning an interpatrol contest.

West District.

Fifty persons attended a Fathers' and Sons' party given in celebration of the first anniversary of Troop 26 at Delmar Baptist Church last week. After the regular meeting opening exercises in the gymnasium of the church, the fathers were escorted to the dining room by the scouts. After a dinner a motion picture film of last year's tepee camp was shown. Field Executive S. C. Reaves and the troop committeemen spoke. The mothers of the scouts furnished cakes for the dinner.

Awards for contests and an exhibit were made at the party, the Eagles being adjudged to have the best exhibit, with the Panthers second and the Foxes third.

Francis Kline's patrol won an interpatrol contest that has been running in Troop 30 for the last three months. Melvin Hertzman's patrol was second and Elliott Gillerman's patrol third. Prizes will be awarded to these patrols at a banquet to be given by the troop on the roof garden of the Y. M. H. A. within the next two weeks.

North District.

The drum and bugle corps of Troop 108, of the Holy Rosary Church, played at the Women's National Exposition held at the Jefferson Hotel March 4 to 9. The scouts appeared on the entertainment program the second night of the exposition.

Five new recruits joined Troop 22 last week. They are George Surotich, Jesse Forbeck, Mortimer Steffan, Randall Long and Leroy Knight. The troop asserts this is the largest single membership addition in the district since the Scout Circus Roundup last January.

FIRESTONE TIRE CHIEFS MEET WITH DEALERS

Last of Series of National Meetings Held Here Friday.

The last of a long series of Firestone Tire Co., branch meetings at which executives of the company from Akron, O., officiated, was held here Friday at the Statler Hotel. Approximately 250 dealers from Missouri and Illinois attended. St. Louis branch manager W. G. Sabine, presided.

The principal speakers were: W. G. Manley, divisional sales manager, J. W. Shields, development department, M. N. Brady, truck tire department, and M. F. O'Neill, dealers' relations department. The latter three are from Akron.

The principal reason for holding the meeting, as outlined by Sabine, was to impart to the dealers practical information on tire construction and improvements, to promote good will between factory and dealer organization, and to teach the principles of tire merchandising.

Sabine, in opening the meeting, stated that Firestone officials expect 1929 to be the largest year in the history of the company. He said that the company had recently opened a new plant at Los Angeles and another at London, England, which increase the daily output of the company to 45,000 tires.

Auto Tourists Making Cuba Resort Mecca

tordom will be found on the pier with an A. A. A. brassard on their arms and will assume full responsibility for clearing the car through the customs and assist the car owner in getting started on his way under his own power.

There are two ways of reaching this beautiful isle off the coast of Florida. First, you may drive under your own power via Miami, Fla., and the Oversea Highway to Key West, Fla., the very doorway to Cuba, and then make a short run by steamer. Ample facilities have been provided by the Peninsula & Occidental Steamship Co. to transport automobiles between Key West and Havana.

Second, steamship lines now offer fast service to Cuba from all important Atlantic ports. Steamers operated in this service are of the latest type, with ample storage space for cars, which are carried at a moderate rate.

The Oversea Highway, however, is proving exceedingly popular with motorists. This modern roadway, running across the South Florida keys, offers a novel drive. It is completed as far south as Lower Matecumbe, where a ferry transports the motorist and his car over the uncompleted stretch, and then a winding, hard-surfaced highway is used for the remainder of the journey to Key West. Incidentally, Key West is a somewhat unusual city and is one American community with an old world atmosphere. In fact, in many respects, it has more of a foreign color than possibly any other. It is well worth seeing.

The A. A. A. says that the car owner can now enter Cuba for a period of ninety days without any formality other than signing of a sworn statement that he is touring for not more than a period of 90 days. He must pay duty and secure Cuban license plates to remain beyond this time.

The motorist, however, will find it easy to get about. United States money is used everywhere. English is spoken at hotels, cafes and principal stores, garages are convenient and everything makes for a pleasure jaunt. At the same time, all traffic drives to the right as in the United States and the speed laws are somewhat the same. Fifteen miles per hour is the limit for congested districts of Havana; 20 miles for outlying sections and 30 miles per hour on the open road.

It is always advisable to carry your State registration card or driving license as a means of identification. Moreover, cars must be registered with United States customs at the port of debarkation, in order to assure re-entrance duty free. Passports are not required for citizens of the United States, but those who are naturalized should have final papers in their possession.

Highway construction has been steadily going forward in this subtropical country and the American motorist will find adequate roads to make his journey pleasant and interesting. President Machado has taken a decided interest in highway construction and has laid the foundation for a system of roads to touch the important points of the island.

Cuba, somewhat larger than Pennsylvania, has as varied a topography as one could desire—a coastline 2000 miles long, with beaches, rocky headlands, and marshes, and many deep-water harbors. Mountain ranges sprawl iregularly in all directions, with one peak 8320 feet high. Rolling plateaus and high hills are blended beautifully with the vegetation of the tropics.

The climate is delightful. The tropical heat is tempered by ocean breezes and the altitude of the interior mountains and plateaus, and nights are always cool. Even in the rainy season, from mid-May to late October, mornings are always bright and clear.

Space does not permit an extensive glimpse into the storehouse of touring treasures in Cuba. It is sufficient to say that it dates back to Columbus and new chapters are being written into this history each day.

For those who desire historical settings for their motor tours, Cuba is a virtual outdoor museum.

Head of NBC Tells Inside Story of Radio Chain Growth

Aylesworth Declares Telephone Organization Has No Control Over Network—Stations Join System Merely to Get New York Programs.

Considerable inside history of the organization and operation of the National Broadcasting Co. and its connections with the chains, in one of which KSD is a link, is told by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the NBC, in an article in Radio World.

"About two years and two or three months ago, Owen D. Young sent for me and asked me if I was willing to undertake the presidency of an organization that would build programs on the radio, to be offered to leading stations of the country through either a wire hook-up to these stations or by relaying through the air, if the engineers were able to make such a policy possible, so that radio broadcasting might not become a fad and the people of the country no longer use their radio sets, and so that the radio industry could sell sets and tubes, better sets and better tubes, in the years to come," Aylesworth says.

"He said he did not know how this company could pay for itself or how it could be financed, but if I would be willing to undertake the job that he felt I would have the support of the entire radio industry, and he asked me to take it.

"He knew that I was not an engineer. I told him very frankly that I was just learning how to turn on a radio set at that time, and he said it made no difference; that he had some confidence in my ideas of public policy, and would like to have me undertake it.

"Whereupon the National Broadcasting Co. was organized. We purchased Station WEAF from the Radio Corporation of America, which in turn had purchased that station from the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. for $1,000,000 in cash, while the National Broadcasting Co. paid the Radio Corporation for its bill of sale.

"One of the stipulations that I made when I took the office was that no one of the three owners of this company should control the stock. I did that for a purpose, which I am very frank to tell.

"The Westinghouse and the General Electric companies are very bitter competitors in the field of electrical machinery and electrical equipment. I felt that, with active representatives from both of these companies on my board, that my policies, if good, would be followed, and the policies of my company would not be made for the purpose of helping any one company in the radio industry.

"It was not long until the Radio Corporation, which had operated WJZ, with studios in New York, and WRC, in Washington, asked us to manage those stations. They made figures of the cost of the operation of the stations in the past and paid me as president for my company $300,000 the first year to run them for them.

RCA Pays for Its Programs.

"After that first year these stations were given to us to manage without any payment from the Radio Corporation, but the Radio Corporation paid a much larger amount to us for the hours which they sponsor on the air over our system, one of which is the now famous Damrosch hour of lectures in musical appreciation to the schools of this country, on Friday mornings.

"The American Telephone and Telegraph company has no interest in the National Broadcasting company and has no ownership in its stock; It does not sit in our councils, and the only time we hear from it, is at the end of each month when it sends its bills. It may be, at some time in the future, that our engineers will find a way to repeat these programs from station to station through the air.

"When that time comes, we will use no wires, telephones, telegraph, or otherwise; but, until that time does come, we must find a way to pay for this important wire service.

"We never have had a general system of contracting with our stations, but have offered programs to them relying on their confidence in us in the building of good entertainment, features, and notable events which would interest the radio audience.

"The first year of our operation we lost about $800,000.

How NBC Was Financed.

"We were financed originally by the Radio Corporation, the General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Co. paying into our treasury slightly more than $3,000,000, and from that, we built our studios in New York City, in the National Broadcasting Company building, which we do not own but which is named for us, at No. 711 Fifth avenue.

Many Stations Preparing to Use High Power

Many stations on cleared channels are preparing to increase power. It is believed that within a year or two most of the cleared channel stations will be using 25,000 watts or more power.

Cleared channel stations which are installing new transmitters to increase power include:

KFI, Los Angeles, preparing to increase from 5000 to 50,000 watts.

KPO, San Francisco, from 1000 to 5000 watts.

WSB, Atlanta, from 1000 to 10,000 watts.

WBBM-WJBT, Chicago, from 10,000 to 25,000 watts.

WBAP, Fort Worth, from 10,000 to 50,000 watts.

WCCO, Minneapolis, from 7500 to 15,000 watts.

KWKH, Shreveport, from 5000 to 20,000 watts.

Vivid Scenes in Radio Studio During Galapagos Broadcast

Even Musicians and NBC Employes Find "Red" Christiansen's Story and Continuity Acting Catches Their Interest.

"In weather that was filthy enough on land, and must have been unbearable at sea, we waded up to station WEAF to listen to 'Red' Christiansen's tale of the Galapagos," Josephine Hough writes in the New York World, telling about the recent broadcast in the Eveready Hour that thrilled listeners to KSD and allied NBC stations.

"We arrived there before the actual broadcast and sat about during rehearsal.

"The studio is high ceiled with stucco walls, hung with wine-colored curtains, very stately and dark. Musicians are lolling in their chairs clasping assorted instruments, listening attentively to Christiansen's narrative. The attitude of these musicians exemplifies the favor this program has found all over. They may leave the studio if they care to—some do, but the greater part of them stay during the long rehearsal and forego the privilege of smoking.

"Christiansen stands before a microphone adjusted to his short stature and talks into it, paying attention to nothing but the narrative. His forehead wrinkles and is smooth. His nose is contorted when he gropes for words. His hands move but little, remaining for the most part in his pockets or one hand over his heart, as though he were about to bow. He seldom raises his eyes.

"Above him on a low platform is Nathaniel Shilkret, eyes on the script, following Christiansen's words for music cues. Shilkret is short and energetic, in a dark suit and shirt. Only when he raises his arms to direct the orchestra does he look the musician.

Gordon Whyte, program director, with thin, shell-rimmed spectacles and a slightly bald head, is the most electric person in the room. He is accustomed to rehearsals and has almost a genius for getting spontaneous action out of his cast.

"The whole effect, with the stillness and tiptoeing of people in the studio, was very much as we imagine the direction of sound movies must be. Mr. Whyte works almost entirely by motions. His arms and hands are remarkably graphic and articulate. A portion of the script calls for ship's bells* * the bells stand mute in a corner * *and Mr. Whyte, undeterred, murmurs

Gene Austin and Olive Kline Sing On KSD Tomorrow

Gene Austin, tenor, and Olive Kline, who has made herself famous as a radio soprano, will sing in the General Motors party over KSD tomorrow night. Other features will be Pietro, accordionist; Holoua's Hawaiians; Andy Sannella's saxophone sextet; a vocal trio, and a novelty orchestra led by "Bill" Day, director of George Gershwin's musical comedies.

Austin, who is 29 years old, first achieved world-wide popularity as a recording singer at 15. He ran away from his home in Shreveport, La., joined a circus and became a peanut boy. Soon afterward the war started and Austin enlisted. He served as a bugler in France.

After the war Austin entered school in Baltimore. Soon he was running a dance orchestra on the side. Then he made a world tour in an orchestra on an ocean liner.

Irish Music on WEW at 4 O'Clock

The Rev. Michael I. Stritch, S. J., director of the department of philosophy of St. Louis University, will talk on Ireland as a part of the St. Patrick's day program over WEW at 4 p. m. today.

There will also be Irish music. Those taking part will be the Rev. William F. Ryan, S. J., tenor; Mrs. John Flavin, soprano, and Mrs. Murray Cantwell, accompanist.

Radio School Of Citizenship Begins Tuesday

A radio citizenship school, in which four consecutive weekly broadcasts will be devoted to discussion of "Problems of Our Federal Government" is to begin over KSD next Tuesday as a spring feature of the Voters' Service broadcast.

"Tariff and Living Cost" will be the theme of the first program, to be presented from the NBC Washington studios. Subsequent programs on March 26, April 2 and April 9 will deal with "Federal Responsibility for Public Welfare," "Problems of Federal Reorganization," and "The Party System and Legislative Bodies."

The citizenship school is designed to give the radio audience the background of important and ever-present issues in conduct of the Federal Government. Each speaker will be an authority.

This period between the adjournment of the regular session of the Congress and the convening of a special session under a new administration, was selected by the program makers as a particularly appropriate month for consideration of those subjects of interest to all voters, because of their vital bearing on the functioning of the national Government.

The school is modeled on the plan of successful citizenship schools conducted by the League of Women Voters in co-operation

Many Stations Preparing to Use High Power

WWL, New Orleans, from 500 to 50,000 watts.

WFAA, Dallas, from 500 to 50,000 watts.

WTIC, Hartford, from 250 to 50,000 watts.

KVOO, Tulsa, from 1000 to 5000 watts.

WWVA, Wheeling, from 250 to 5000 watts.

WOWO, Fort Wayne, from 5000 to 10,000 watts.

WCAU, Philadelphia, from 1000 to 10,000 watts.

Network Systems Enlarge Facilities

Both the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia System are enlarging facilities in New York City. The NBC is taking over another floor in its building for auditions and rehearsals. The CBS is erecting a 24-story building at Madison and 52d street and will use the five top floors for broadcasting headquarters.

The new CBS building, which is to be ready for occupancy in the fall, will have 15 studios, one large enough to hold 250 entertainers at a time. Lighting and transmission equipment will be installed in anticipation of television broadcasting when this becomes practical. Some of the larger studios will be two stories high.

The NBC has its own building at 711 Fifth avenue, New York, and uses six floors in it for broadcasting purposes.

'Cellist of Ability Plays Over WIL

Emile Simon, a 'cellist of unusual ability, is playing over WIL several afternoons a week.

He was a first prize winner at the Royal Bousch Conservatory and was instructor in the 'cello at the State conservatory at Geneva, Switzerland. He played as first 'cellist with the symphony orchestras at Geneva and Rio de Janiero. Later he played with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. He is now with the St. Louis Symphony.

Filipino Orchestra at 12:30 Noon—Overture to "Oberon" in Chicago Symphony Concert at 6 O'Clock.

A new NBC feature replaces the Peerless concert at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon over KSD. It is the Royal Filipino orchestra, directed by Vincent Fondevilla. Its program is announced as follows:

Medley from "Animal Crackers"
Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna....Von Suppe
El Choclo (tango)
Overture to "Semiramide"........Rossini
Dalagan Bunoc (A Country Girl)

"Naaman's Cloak" is the title of the Biblical drama by William Ford Manley that is to be broadcast over KSD at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The story deals with Elisha, the prophet, who had the power of healing. Naaman, a leper, comes to Elisha to be cured. Naaman offers to pay for his healing, but the prophet refuses to accept. Elisha's servant, Gehazi, however, upon Naaman's departure, follows him, and states that Elisha has changed his mind and desires a reward. Accordingly, Naaman gives the servant his beautiful cloak which Gehazi carries back to Elisha. The prophet is incensed at the action of his servant and the story concludes with the fate which befalls Gehazi.

The Dayton Westminster Choir, recognized as an outstanding choral organization, is to sing over KSD at 4:30 this afternoon. Walter Damrosch will introduce the choir, which consists of 60 men's voices. It is about to sail for a concert tour of Europe. The program for tonight's broadcast follows:

Star Spangled Banner
Steal Away to Jesus.......Arr. by Hal
God Is A Spirit ...............Jones
Benediction . .................Lutkin

With Walter Smith, cornet player, as soloist, the Weymouth Post Band will play marches by Capt. W. J. Stannard, leader of the U. S. Army Band at Washington, D. C., in the Stetson concert over KSD at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The program includes: Capt. Milton O. Boone March, Capt. P. W. Lewis March, Col. John J. Bradley march, National Vaudeville Artists March, Secretary of War March and Trophy of Victory March.

Music by five favorite composers is to be played by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in its 6 to 7 o'clock concert over KSD. Conductor Stock announces this program:

Overture to "Oberon" ..........Weber
Andante and Pizzicato, from "Symphony No. 4"......Tschaikowsky
Adagio Pathetique ..............Godard
Two Slavonic Dances ............Dvorak
Irish Rhapsody ...............Herbert

Fiske O'Hara, the Irish tenor, is to sing in the Dictograph concert over KSD at 5:30. O'Hara starred in musical comedies written by Anne Nichols before she became famous as the author and producer of "Abie's Irish Rose." He is to sing "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Acushla Macree" and "Ireland Is Ireland to Me."

The quartet will sing a medley of Irish songs. The closing number will be selections from Victor Herbert's "Eileen."

Nicholas Vasileff, dramatic tenor, is to sing during the Capitol Family concert over KSD at 7 o'clock. Among his numbers will be some songs in Russian.

Vasilieff was born in Petrograd. His father and seven brothers were all well-known tenors. As a lad of seven or eight he became soprano soloist in the Petrograd Cathedral where 150 opera singers formed the rest of the choir.

His father, who knew the vicissitudes of a professional singer's life, did not wish Nicholas to be a musician, and destined him for the priesthood. But he ran away from his teachers and guardians to listen to concerts and operas. He continued to sing at the cathedral and won the distinction of being presented with a gold medal from Czar Nicholas. His father was killed in the revolution.

When he reached manhood the head of the Russian church sent him to America where his success was assured. He has sung leading tenor roles with opera companies in this country.

Sigrid Onegin, operatic contralto, who is to be soloist in the Atwater Kent concert over KSD at 8:15 tonight, was born in Stockholm, the daughter of an attache of the French Embassy and his German wife. She married a Russian, who died in a military prison during the World War. She made her first great triumph as a singer in a performance of "Carmen" with the late Enrico Caruso.

Her voice is remarkable, ranging from a deep, round toned contralto to the highest range of a mezzo soprano, and capable of coloratura effects in middle and high tones. Her success in concert in America has been unusual. Coupled with her skill in using her voice, her experience of life has given her an understanding of the poetry and romance of song possessed by few of her fellow artists.

The program:

Broadcasts to Byrd Interest Radio Audience

WGY and KDKA Alternating in Putting Special Programs on Air for Antarctic Expedition on Saturday Nights—Short Waves Also Used.

Unique in radio are the broadcasts on alternate Saturday nights by WGY and KDKA on their regular wave lengths, and also by their short wave transmitters, of messages, music and other entertainment to the Byrd Antarctic Expedition. Many St. Louis listeners have been tuning in these programs. Next Saturday night WKY and its short wave transmitters will do the broadcasting, starting at 10 o'clock, St. Louis time. Saturday night, March 30, it will be KDKA'S turn, beginning at 10 o'clock.

WGY's short wave transmitters operate on 21.96 and 31.4 meters, while two of KDKA'S should be tuned in on 25.4 and 62.5 meters.

"KDKA has again demonstrated that there is no spot on this earth where it cannot lay down a signal and furnish service," says C. W. Horn, director of Radio Operation for that station. "Listeners to KDKA during these Saturday night broadcasts to the Byrd Expedition experience a thrill that comes once in a lifetime. They can hear direct conversation with the most distant points on earth and such isolated regions as the great ice cap in the Antarctic.

"KDKA some years ago began furnishing a service to people stationed in remote and isolated localities, particularly in the Arctic regions. These people, shut off from the world for periods of six months to a year at a time, with supplies and material reaching them very infrequently, have realized that the great terror for them was the dreary isolation and lack of communication, especially with their most intimate friends and loved ones. The Westinghouse stations have done away with this, by transmitting on both broadcast waves with high power and on the short waves—messages from those at home to the men guarding the outposts of civilization.

"During the last year a great expedition under Commander Byrd sailed for the Antarctic and carried radio receiving and transmitting equipment which would enable them to remain in touch with civilization. The service which the Westinghouse stations have been furnishing those in the Arctic regions has been supplemented by a special service to Commander Byrd and his men.

These scientists and explorers, after a hard day's work, can gather around their speakers and listen to what is going on in the civilized portions of the world. Any important event or achievement is known to them almost as soon as the public of the cities and towns hears of it.

KDKA and WGY, with their short wave transmitters, have taken upon themselves the task of a more human and closer contact between these men and their friends and relatives. By special arrangements schedules are maintained whereby personal messages and information is forwarded to the men by voice transmission. Frequently friends and relatives speak directly from the studio, in which case the listener on the ice cap can recognize and receive a message as no cold print or letter could give it.

"By means of the telegraphic transmitting equipment which Commander Byrd has erected, acknowledgments of reception and messages are sent back directly to KDKA. Believing that the general listening public would be interested in hearing messages from Commander Byrd's expedition, arrangements were made by means of special revolving stations and circuits to have the listener hear these replies from the Byrd expedition.

"The equipment on the ice cap is not for high-powered speech transmission, so the messages coming back are in the telegraphic dot and dash code. These dots and dashes are transmitted through KDKA so that the listeners who can read the telegraphic signals readily understand the messages. For those who could not do so, the announcer read the translation of the messages.

"Some 15 miles east of Pittsburg is a special short wave receiving station, which has been conducting tests with Europe and other distant points. At this location there are enormous specially constructed receiving antennas, which cover acres of ground. This receiving station is connected to KDKA and the studio by suitable telephone line circuits so that any signal received can be forwarded to any point desired. These facilities are utilized in carrying on communications with Commander Byrd.

"The transmissions from KDKA studio are sent out on several wave lengths, including that of the broadcast band. It is the short wave transmitters which those in the distant parts of the globe receive best and on which they depend for these messages.

"Signals from Commander Byrd's station are picked up at the receiving station and forwarded through to the control station by wire, where H. W. Irving, an experienced telegrapher and broadcast man, handles the communications. It is he who speaks directly to the operator near the South Pole, and also receives their replies almost instantaneously."

Radio-Operated Toy Train Obeys Operator's Commands

Possibility of Practical Use, Such as Ordering Furnace to Start Up or Check Itself Seen by Electrical Engineers.

A voice-controlled toy electric train has been developed by General Electric.

"Casey Jones," a toy electric locomotive, starts forward, reverses or stops the instant it is commanded to perform any of these operations. It never makes a mistake, providing the orders are properly worded.

Orders are issued through an ordinary telephone transmitter and the action of the train is dependent upon voice impulses into the transmitter.

The command, "Go ahead, Casey," is carried through a radio detector tube to a special selector which determines the polarity in the track. Upon this polarity is dependent the direction in which the locomotive moves. Three or more syllables operate the relay and the selector to start forward movement of the engine. An order in two syllables, "Back up," sends the engine backward. The word "stop" breaks the circuit and "Casey" slows to a standstill.

By moving the transmitter from the mouth, operator may talk to "Casey" without affecting the operation of the train. The transmitter is particularly sensitive to sibilants and the operator may direct Casey to travel around the track and stop at a designated point. By blowing into the transmitter the operator is able to check the engine at any point.

The tiny locomotive with an electric headlight is made to pass a light-sensitive cell, known as a photo-electric cell. Every round trip of the locomotive is recorded on a counter similar to that used in the Hudson tube, in New York, to count automobile traffic.

The apparatus in the voice-controlled train has many possible practical applications in addition to its fascinating possibilities as a toy.

By the use of this development a householder may command his furnace to start up or check itself, by speaking into a telephone at his bedside.

Elevators may be vocally controlled, providing always that the correct formula of one, two or three syllables is used.

VIVID SCENES IN BROADCASTING OF GALAPAGOS STORY

'ding dong' and proceeds with the rehearsal.

"The actors who speak for the crew of the ill-fated 'Alexander' sit with their backs to the wall all intent* * *none worried, and there is no conversation among them. As individuals, tilted back against the wall in their chairs, they are startlingly alike. When they rise and talk into the microphone they are transformed.

"They become sailors, an Englishman, an Irishman, a Swede, and the Captain, all speaking a similar language, that of the sea. Their faces are as expressive as their vocal intonations, and immediately they finish their lines back they go to their chairs and become one of a pattern again. This impression may be the result of their coloring and clothing—all are dark and all wear dark clothes. They are much the same height and all young—except, of course, as they become 'Morrison, 'Second Mate' or 'Cook.'

"Carlo de Angelo, who portrays the sailor gone mad, puts on an excellent piece of acting. Even in the highly civilized studio his hysteria in mufti was so realistic as to send shivers up and down our spine. His face becomes red with exertion, his eyes start from his head. Instinctively his fellow actors drew away from him—then the laughter dies down and he is free to go home.

"Christiansen alone remains the same. He doesn't look like the common conception of a sailor. He is a mild little man with pale hair and the same kind of voice. He is no actor. His recital is quiet, regular, delivered in much the same tone as that of a professor of English before a small class. The microphone means little to him other than a point at which to talk. He prefers a visible audience, but since so many people like his story he is content to use the microphone.

"He is not at all conscious that his speech is unusual. All his life he has said 'zhh' for 'j'; his peculiar treatment of 'r' and 'o' will cling to him forever, too. Otherwise there is no marked Danish accent; rather he speaks almost a New Yorkese, gleaned in his experience as a cab driver, no doubt. He is not aware that his experiences are unusual; he sees no heroism in clinging to life and hope under the conditions he and his shipments suffered during their dreary stay on the Galapagos. 'There was nothing else to do' is his attitude.

"His 42 years of life, and he looks slightly older, have been full. Born in Holbak, Denmark, he remained there until his mother's death, when he was 13. Frightened and bewildered at this, he made for Copenhagen and the sea. He shipped as a messroom steward, still in his fourteenth year. Eleven years as a sailor brought him nine shipwrecks. Two were fires at sea; once in the English Channel the schooner broke in two; once he ran into a storm outside of Boston and was picked up off Delaware Bay. The other times 'we wehr (the odd delightful pronunciation of 'r') just lost in storms.' He has spent most of his sea-going life aboard sailing ships and is a bit scornful of newer craft. His last berth was that of second officer 'on a coast-wise steamer off the Chinee coast.'

"Four broken ribs, a leg broken in several places, and a broken arm, all on the left side, which are painful in weather like tonight, help to keep him on land. At sea in the almost continual dampness, the pain is too severe for work. His nerves, too, are bad. The monotony of life at sea would drive him to distraction now, although he is a reticent person by nature. He doesn't care for the speech of his fellowmen particularly, but he wants action. That, coupled with illness and the urgent necessity of a job, turned him to taxi-driving.

"The story of how Christiansen came before the microphone is very interetsing. Reading on the front page of a newspaper that William Beebe had just returned from the Galapagos, he rushed to the pier in his cab. He had lost contact with all of his shipmates from the 'Alexander' and he wanted very much to talk with somebody, anybody who had been to the Galapagos. Prof. Beebe was so interested he included Christiansen's narrative as a chapter in his book. This chapter in turn interested Mr. Furness, creator of the Eveready Hour, and through Beebe he got in touch with Christiansen whom he persuaded to broadcast.

"The present elaborate program is the direct outgrowth of this and was put on for the fourth time Tuesday night over a network of 30 stations. Christiansen's fondest hope is that in this manner he may meet some more of his fellow castaways."

NBC's Bill for Entertainers Was $4,000,000 in 1928

Radio broadcasting has just passed through its greatest stage of development. In spite of this development, the surface of radio's possibilities has scarcely been scratched. These points were brought out in the annual messages of Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Co., and M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., at the third meeting of the advisory council of the NBC.

Among the facts in the annual report were:

Four million dollars were spent for talent and $2,000,000 for wire tolls in 1928. A total of $9,000,000 was expended.

More than 1,500,000 letters from listeners were received by the NBC during the year.

The NBC system has been expanded to include 63 broadcast outlets and permanent wire lines totalling 14,800 circuit miles.

Special attention has been paid to development of religious and agricultural programs with marked success in both fields.

Singing Contest Prizes Increased

Another national radio singing contest is to be conducted next Fall by the Atwater Kent Foundation with considerably larger prizes than in previous years. As before, amateurs between the ages of 18 to 25 years, including choir singers, may compete.

Prizes are to be: first place (for a boy and a girl)—$5000 each, gold decoration and two years tuition in an American conservatory; second, $3000 each and a year's tuition; third, $2000 each and a year's tuition; fourth, $1500 each and a year's tuition; fifth, $1000 each and a year's tuition.

There will be local, state, district and national finals.

with colleges and universities. Plans are being made for "radio classes" with an enrollment of students to follow the entire course of four programs.

Lynn Edminster, of the Institute of Economics at the Brookings Institution, Washington, D. C., is the first speaker in the March 19 program. He is to discuss "Can the Tariff Be Made Scientific?" Edminster has been engaged in tariff research for years. Before joining the economics institute in 1922, he was a staff member of the United States Tariff Commission. He is the author of several books.

QUIET THAT INTERFERENCE WITH A WELLSTON
110-VOLT
INTERFERENCE FILTER
A medium duty Filter for reducing AC line interference

Why put up with snaps and cracks that spoil your reception when a WELLSTON INTERFERENCE FILTER will quiet them? Much of this noise comes to the set over the AC line or is broadcast by appliances in the home.

By simply plugging this wonderful device in the light socket ahead of the set you quiet noises coming over the AC line. This will usually also stop the snap you get when lights are turned on or off.
Much interference is broadcast by household appliances. To eliminate this it is only necessary to plug the Filter in the light socket ahead of the appliance.

PRESIDENT OF NBC TELLS STORY OF CHAIN SYSTEM

in Colorado and Utah. I have always had the feeling, and it has been borne out by my experience in the last two years, that New York is naturally the center of talent. It is not my fault, or yours or the fault of New York that the great talent in this country goes to New York and there centers, even if it does go back to the country at times at a much higher price than it previously sung or played for in the section where it came from.

"There is a concentration of talent in New York and that talent we have made available and tried to bring into the homes of the people, rich and poor alike — for that is one thing which radio does.

Result of Concentration.

"People who have never been to New York, who may have never heard a great symphony, who have never heard a great opera, who may not have wished to hear opera, because they did not know what it was, who never heard great scientist's speech, who never heard the President make an address, or who may have never heard a great statesman in Congress, get those addresses over our net-work.

"People who have never known what great music really meant, unless they heard it on a phonograph record, now have through this national net-work programs 16 hours a day, made up of the great talent centered in New York City. Then we established studios in Chicago, with the idea we would broadcast from that city the best talent produced in Chicago, both musical and cultural.

New York Center for Artists.

"But I found great difficulty in originating programs for my clients in Chicago, because not so much talent was to be found in Chicago as in New York City. The booking agencies are in New York City and they book out of New York City. Consequently the talent flows in there and is there and can be counted on, whereas the talent from Chicago comes to New York for booking. So we have that concentrated development in New York.

"Then coming, as I did, from Denver, and I am very proud of that city, living there most of my life, I always felt we had very great talent in Denver; but I did not realize we did not have enough there until radio started.

In Denver the General Electric Co. created its station KOA, which was first hailed as a blessing and finally as a pest because the people got tired of listening to the church choir and to the same hotel orchestra and demanded something different.

"So, Denver being my home town, I tried to give them a variation of service, and on the opening night of our first program of our Denver station, all of the educators of Denver and leaders in education in the State were present and the next day and for a week, the Denver newspapers, on their front pages, carried the praise by the musical critics of the city, and the heads of the schools of music in the public schools and colleges, of the great cultural development, which I think it was.

"The newspapers, editorially, expressed their appreciation of this service and what they characterized as the bringing of the best things to Denver. That is why a man like Maj. Cohen of the Atlanta Journal, sat in New York for three months until he could get service for his station through the National Broadcasting Co.

"All Want New York Talent."

"They all want the talent from New York. That is because the people who entertain their customers or readers know it is a good investment for them and a good advertisement for their newspapers.

"We have no contract for these stations; we do not demand that they take any particular numbers of our programs. They take them generally as we offer them.

"We went into broadcasting the national political campaign with fear and trembling, because when we came into the campaign three months ago, I knew full well that many of the Democratic newspapers in this country had never printed a Republican speech, and many Republican papers had never printed a Democratic speech.

"I knew that radio was going to reach the whole country over these very stations owned by the newspapers that were going to carry the messages of both parties into every home in this country and I thought that would necessitate the newspaper printing, the next day, the full speech of either party.

"We did not know whether they would accept them. We thought, perhaps, the papers would refuse to take our programs through their radio stations. But every one accepted. There was free speech over the radio for all of the parties. I even had the Communists on one night, after which I received some letters.

When Boys Cut Off Broadcast.

"Now, to go back a little: At the Republican convention in Kansas City, a delegate, a Mr. Murphy, I think, was attacking the Republican platform dealing with agriculture and was in the midst of a bitter speech dealing with his own party, and the wire went out.

"Of course, I was perturbed and very much irritated, because I was positive no one had done it maliciously although I felt some engineer might have made a mistake.

"We immediately investigated and we found that all the radio stations in the Midwestern District had not been cut off, for which I was duly thankful, for that was essentially the heart of the discussion of agriculture. Second, we found it was the stations of the East that had been cut off, and what do you suppose happened?

"Three boys, youngsters over near Pittsburgh, were out hunting for some wire for a cage and they selected the particular one which carried Mr. Murphy's speech and used it for a chicken coop, or whatever it was. They were brought into court the next day and sentence was suspended.

"On the night of Senator Curtis's acceptance speech as candidate for vice-president, a call came into our control room. I constantly have young men changing, coming in and going out of the engineering force. It so happened that our chief engineer was present that night. The call came directly into the control room.

"Important! Rush! it said. 'Inspector So-and-So speaking! Have not you men heard the SOS? As you know we all go off the air when there is an SOS.' 'WEAF is the only station running. Cut off at once.'

"As the youngster reached out his hand to cut off, this engineer said, 'Wait.' He tested all the stations and found every one of them running and that there was no SOS, or otherwise Senator Curtis would have been cut off right in the middle of his speech. So, you see, there are hazards in the business.

On Election Night.

"Most of the time of the political parties for use during the campaign was taken with us when we had the so-called commercial accounts scheduled to go on the air, that is, sponsored programs. We felt, all of us who had control for the National Broadcasting Co., that every commercial account should give way whenever the Democratic Central Committee, or the Republican Central Committee, or the Socialist Central Committee wanted to use the radio for either an outdoor speech or a studio speech.

"It was part of our editorial job, so to speak, to see that our commercial broadcast gave way when the Government was speaking, as we looked at it, when the parties in the campaign were speaking to the people, for the first time, over the air. That meant we turned back to all clients the money they had paid us for the use of the air at that time, and we also had to pay talent which they had contracted for, and which put on their program before a dummy microphone just as though they were broadcasting.

"In some casts we paid back as much as $5000 or $6000 talent costs to some clients. Besides, we had to pay our own talent in every case, and they were paid for services which they never performed.

"On the night of the election we had a most unusual experience. We offered the Associated Press, the United Press and the International News Service, the three great news associations, the opportunity of bringing each of their organizations into our studios with their wires and tabulating machines, to put on a program at no cost to our stations or to the public.

Blamed by All Sides.

"We felt it was their duty to furnish the election news on that evening to the great radio public. I am very glad to say that not one of those services refused, but were very happy to do it. They all took separate rooms, each with a natural suspicion of the others. We set up an organization, handled by David Lawrence, of Washington, to handle the dispatches as they came from the various rooms, and the election returns kept going out to the whole country throughout the night.

"We did get complaints on that evening. We had complaints from the Hoover people asking us to stop, saying that it was all over and to cut it out. We had complaints from the Smith people, who said we were all too favorable to Hoover; we had complaints from Republicans that we were trying to hold up the election of Governor Smith to late in the night. But we knew that they were evenly balanced, from Republicans and Democrats alike."

Elaborate Radio Series for Schools Of U. S. Announced

Columbia Chain to Co-Operate With the National Education Association.

A country-wide educational broadcast service, to be known as the National Radio Assembly, is to be started in the Fall by the Columbia chain in co-operation with the National Education Association.

The broadcasts, according to Sam Pickard, vice president of the CBS, will treat such subjects as the study of history and citizenship as vitalized by inspiring messages given by noted men who are making history.

Music appreciation is another subject which is neglected in many of our public schools through lack of facilities, but which lends itself admirably to treatment by radio. In this type of work the CBS is to present the most celebrated artists of the country.

Health and hygiene will also come in the curriculum of the National Radio Assembly. This subject, of fundamental importance to youthful lives, will be made inspiring by America's most eminent physicians and famous athletes. Geography can be made interesting and realistic by word pictures from the lips of world-renowned travelers. And so on down through the fields of art, dramatics and literature, which will be brought to the pupils in the smallest hamlets by nationally-known leaders in their fields.

"This national radio service marks the first outstanding comprehensive program of its nature made available generally to the school systems of the entire country."

Distance With Crystal Set.

C. E. Hauer, New Orleans, La., reports reception on three successive nights of WENR, the 50,000-watt, Chicago, on a crystal set. He grounds the free or dead end of his coil. WENR is 831 miles from New Orleans.

Sigrid Onegin, Great Operatic Artist, on KSD At 8:15 Tonight

Filipino Orchestra at 12:30 Noon—Overture to "Oberon" in Chicago Symphony Concert at 6 O'Clock.

A new NBC feature replaces the Peerless concert at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon over KSD. It is the Royal Filipino orchestra, directed by Vincent Fondevilla. Its program is announced as follows:

Medley from "Animal Crackers"
Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna.... Von Suppe
El Choclo (tango)
Overture to "Semiramide"........Rossini
Dalagan Bunoc (A Country Girl)

"Naaman's Cloak" is the title of the Biblical drama by William Ford Manley that is to be broadcast over KSD at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The story deals with Elisha, the prophet, who had the power of healing. Naaman, a leper, comes to Elisha to be cured. Naaman offers to pay for his healing, but the prophet refuses to accept. Elisha's servant, Gehazi, however, upon Naaman's departure, follows him, and states that Elisha has changed his mind and desires a reward. Accordingly, Naaman gives the servant his beautiful cloak which Gehazi carries back to Elisha. The prophet is incensed at the action of his servant and the story concludes with the fate which befalls Gehazi.

The Dayton Westminster Choir, recognized as an outstanding choral organization, is to sing over KSD at 4:30 this afternoon. Walter Damrosch will introduce the choir, which consists of 60 men's voices. It is about to sail for a concert tour of Europe. The program for tonight's broadcast follows:

Star Spangled Banner
Steal Away to Jesus.......Arr. by Hall
God Is A Spirit .................Jones
Benediction ...................Lutkin

With Walter Smith, cornet player, as soloist, the Weymouth Post Band will play marches by Capt. W. J. Stannard, leader of the U. S. Army Band at Washington, D. C., in the Stetson concert over KSD at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The program includes: Capt. Milton O. Boone March, Capt. P. W. Lewis March, Col. John J. Bradley march, National Vaudeville Artists March, Secretary of War March and Trophy of Victory March.

Music by five favorite composers is to be played by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in its 6 to 7 o'clock concert over KSD. Conductor Stock announces this program:

Overture to "Oberon" ..........Weber
Andante and Pizzicato, from "Symphony No. 4"......Tschaikowsky
Adagio Pathetique ..............Godard
Two Slavonic Dances ..........Dvorak
Irish Rhapsody ...............Herbert

Fiske O'Hara, the Irish tenor, is to sing in the Dictograph concert over KSD at 5:30. O'Hara starred in musical comedies written by Anne Nichols before she became famous as the author and producer of "Abie's Irish Rose." He is to sing "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Acushla Macree" and "Ireland Is Ireland to Me."

The quartet will sing a medley of Irish songs. The closing number will be selections from Victor Herbert's "Eileen."

Nicholas Vasileff, dramatic tenor, is to sing during the Capitol Family concert over KSD at 7 o'clock. Among his numbers will be some songs in Russian.

Vasilieff was born in Petrograd. His father and seven brothers were all well-known tenors. As a lad of seven or eight he became soprano soloist in the Petrograd Cathedral where 150 opera singers formed the rest of the choir.

His father, who knew the vicissitudes of a professional singer's life, did not wish Nicholas to be a musician, and destined him for the priesthood. But he ran away from his teachers and guardians to listen to concerts and operas. He continued to sing at the cathedral and won the distinction of being presented with a gold medal from Czar Nicholas. His father was killed in the revolution.

When he reached manhood the head of the Russian church sent him to America where his success was assured. He has sung leading tenor roles with opera companies in this country.

Sigrid Onegin, operatic contralto, who is to be soloist in the Atwater Kent concert over KSD at 8:15 tonight, was born in Stockholm, the daughter of an attache of the French Embassy and his German wife. She married a Russian, who died in a military prison during the World War. She made her first great triumph as a singer in a performance of "Carmen" with the late Enrico Caruso.

Her voice is remarkable, ranging from a deep, round toned contralto to the highest range of a mezzo-soprano, and capable of coloratura effects in middle and high tones. Her success in concert in America has been unusual. Coupled with her skill in using her voice, her experience of life has given her an understanding of the poetry and romance of song possessed by few of her fellow artists.

The program:

Dance of the Clowns, from Snedourotchka, Rimsky-Korsakoff Orchestra.
a. Von Ewiger Liebe ........ Brahms
b. She Never Told Her Love.... Haydn
c. Piercing Eyes ............... Haydn
Mme. Onegin.

Lalo Music in KSD Program.

The overture to Lalo's opera, 'Le Roi d'Ys," will be played by Walter Damrosch's orchestra in the General Electric concert over KSD next Saturday night.

Musical Revue in KSD Eveready Hour Next Tuesday Night

Don Barclay to Be Starred in Principal Role—Rosaline Green as Heroine.

The "Be Kind to Apples Week Club" of Tweedleville, Mo., and a mammy song send Jeremy Scott to Broadway. There he puts over his song and wins the girl.

How it all happens is to be broadcast in the Eveready Hour over KSD next Tuesday evening in a complete musical revue. Don Barclay, former star of the Ziegfeld Follies, will be the principal.

The furnace in the town hall of Tweedleville had been wanting a new grate for nearly four years. But when the "Be Kind to Apples Week Club" met to raise the fund, the meeting was stampeded in behalf of the town's mammy song singer. The question rises whether the town hall will get a new furnace or whether Tweedleville will be put on the map by sending Jeremy Scott to New York to get his songs published. Jeremy gets the decision.

Jeremy was getting desperate. He was going to sell the old cow to get to New York. But the cow was so thin her sale would have got him only to Chicago. Then Helen Gordon, the big nut and bolt man's lovely daughter, blows into Tweedleville in her Hispano-Rolls and tells Jeremy she always was sweet on him anyway and if he'll only become famous on Broadway.

Jeremy's mammy song was a world beater in Tweedleville, but just another mammy song around Times Square. Jeremy is obstinate. He knows his song is good. Then the beautiful Helen gets in again and lifts him over a hurdle. She knows a big producer who will try it if he can jazz up the time and make it a snappy fox trot. Jeremy has to give in. The song is a hit, and the revue ends with Helen and Jeremy in a real lover's knot.

A large company of Eveready Hour artists will support Don Barclay in the revue, which is called "The Local Boy Makes Good." Rosaline Greene will play Helen Gordon.

Beethoven Opera on KSD.

Beethoven's opera, "Fidelio," is to be sung over KSD by the National Grand Opera Company of WEAF tomorrow night.

Dr. Cadman Will Discuss Religion

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman is to discuss "Institutional Religion" in his broadcast at 3 o'clock this afternoon over WSAI, WOW, WHAS, WSM, KVOO, WKY, WHO, KOA and other stations. His program includes:

Processional: The Lord Is in His Holy Temple"; Hymn: Nearer, My God, to Thee"; Prayer; Response: "Sevenfold Amen"; Anthem: "No Shadows Yonder"; Scripture reading; Response: "Write All These Thy Laws in Our Hearts"; Hymn: "Go To Dark Gethsemane"; Address: Dr. Cadman; Anthem: "Sing Hallelujah Forth"; Questions and answers; Prayer; Hymn: "When I Survey the Wond'rous Cross";; Benediction; Recessional: "Holy Spirit, Truth Divine."

Two 5000 Watt Television Stations

Having been granted transmitting licenses by the Federal Radio Commission, the Jenkins Television Corporation is building a powerful television transmitter at Jersey City, N. J., and another in Washington, D. C. According to James W. Garside, president of the corporation, the Jersey City transmitter will operate on 2150 kilocycles (about 140 meters), with a variable power up to 5000 watts. It is hoped to put the Jersey City transmitter on the air for preliminary tests by April 1. Call letters will be W2XCR.

The Washington transmitter also will have 5000 watts power.

Brazil-New York Auto Trip on Radio

Jose Mario Barone, only man to drive an automobile from Rio de Janeiro to New York, is to talk during the Studebaker program at 9:15 tonight over WEAF, WGN, WOW, WHAS, WMC, WSM, WKY, and other stations. Three of his mechanics were killed or died en route, and Barone bears many scars of his advenures.

A large novelty orchestra under Jean Goldkette will play transcriptions of songs of the day.

Tenor With Orchestradians.

Carlton Boxill, tenor, is to sing with the Fried-Eisemann Orchestradians over KWK next Tuesday night.

Lew White to Play Own Music.

Lew White is to play his own music, "The Storm," in his Saturday night organ recital over KSD.

WFBM, Indianapolis, is to broadcast an American Legion program, with band music, at 10 o'clock Thursday nights. WFBM is on 1230 kilocycles.

Many Broadcasts By NBC Are From Chicago and West

A survey by the National Broadcasting Co. shows that New York does not monopolize national radio programs, despite all that has been written and said of Manhattan as an entertainment center. Of the 689 programs heard through NBC stations in January, 179 originated in the company's Pacific Coast and Chicago studios. Fifty-eight Pacific Coast programs were transcontinental broadcasts.

Twenty-seven of Chicago's 50 programs were lectures on livestock and agriculture, while the 510 broadcasts from New York included 212 lectures on subjects ranging from household matters to politics and the automotive industry. Almost every variety of music from jazz and vocal selections to light and grand opera was contained in the 233 musical programs. In addition there were 28 plays and sketches and 93 special announcements of news events and the like. Fourteen new programs were broadcast during the month.

WCFL Becomes Link in NBC Chain

WCFL, Chicago, has been added to the National Broadcasting Co. system, and is already broadcasting NBC programs.

WCFL is owned and operated by The Chicago Federation of Labor and is supported by The American Federation of Labor. It is the only important radio station in the country controlled by labor organizations. It is supported by subscriptions.

It operates on 970 kilocycles (309 meters). It recently received a permit from the Federal Radio Commission to erect a 50,000 watt transmitter.

Julia Sanderson In New Radio Team

Julia Sanderson, of musical comedy fame, and Frank Crummit, singer and ukulele player, have been engaged for exclusive Robert Burns Pageant broadcasts over the Columbia chain. They are to team in radio as they did in "Moonlight," "Oh Kay," "No! No! Annette," "Tangerine' and other Broadway successes.

They are to specialize in the newest of popular song "hits," and will be supported by the orchestra that has been playing in the Burns concerts.

Singing Violins in KWK Concert.

The Singing Violins, heard so often in the Seiberling concerts, will play during the RCA demonstration hour over KWK next Saturday afternoon.

Trade Notes

The Aeolian Co. of Missouri has been appointed a Victor disrtibuter.

N. E. Hill and F. J. Dicks, formerly N. E. Hill & Co., have been appointed factory representatives for De Forest tubes.

Majestic dealers in this territory are to leave St. Louis by special train at midnight Wednesday for a two-day inspection of the Majestic plants in Chicago. The Benwood-Linze Co., distributer, will be in charge of the trip. A new factory is being erected at the Armitage avenue plant, Chicago, and another at the Dickens avenue plant. It is stated that over 7000 employes are working now, and that the additional factories will be able to house 4000 more. Production of Majestic tubes in April is predicted.

Production of 50,000 tubes a day soon after the plant gets into operation is planned, with 100,000 tubes a day by fall expected.

The dealers will see Majestic receivers made wholly from the raw materials in the Majestic prints.

The National Radio Store, 7187 Manchester avenue, Maplewood owned by Daniel C. Stone, has been extensively remodeled and redecorated.

Sunkist Tenor Is Typically Spanish

Julian Oliver, the Spanish tenor, who is soloist with the Sunkist Serenaders, is typically Castillian.

Before his radio debut, Julian Oliver was associated with the San Carlo and Manhattan Opera Companies. He is well known to operatic audiences in Madrid, Valencia, Milan, Florence, Paris and in the principal cities of Africa, South and Central America.

At one time he was an adventurer in Tunis and Algiers. Striking in appearance, Oliver has been sought by motion picture producers.

ELECTRO-DYNAMIC

TRUE—
for every kind of music

The tinkly patter of the xylophone comes through the Atwater Kent Electro-Dynamic as clear and true as the song of the violins, as the plucking of the harps, as the voice of every instrument.

No note is too high for this set, no note too low. No overtones too subtle, no orchestra too big. You can listen to anything—and hear it naturally—at any volume you please.

The price is low—the set is an Atwater Kent, and we guarantee it—that's enough.

Quart of Water Cleans Kidneys

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder Is Troubling You

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

ONLY BACHELOR KING SOON TO TAKE BRIDE

Boris Starts on Tour With Rome as an Important Stop.

By the Associated Press.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 17.—King Boris of Bulgaria, the world's only bachelor sovereign, apparently has made up his mind to marry.

He is even now on a "tour," with Rome as an important stop, and announcement of his engagement to Princess Giovanna, pretty daughter of King Victor Emmanuel, confidently is predicted in court circles before his return here.

The wedding will take place in Sofia, these forecasts assert, some time this spring in connection with the celebration of Bulgaria's fiftieth anniversary of independence from Turkish rule. Boris is just past 30 and Giovanna is 21. Member of the House of Savoy, she is a Roman Catholic. Although baptized a Catholic, Boris, whose mother was the beautiful and pious French Princess Marie Louise of Bourbon-Parma, later became a member of the Orthodox Church of Bulgaria at the instance of his godfather, Czar Nicholas II of Russia.

Pope Reinstates Ferdinand.

For allowing his son thus to secede from the Roman Catholic Church, former Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria, was ex-communicated by the Pope. On a recent visit to Rome, however, Ferdinand was received at the Vatican and the Pope reinstated him in the Catholic Church.

As kings go nowadays Boris is relatively a poor man (his salary is only $43,000 a year and he gives half of it to charity). However he will be able to give Giovanna not only a part of his throne, but half a dozen palaces in different parts of Bulgaria.

It is understood the Bulgarian Government will give the King a substantial increase in his civil list to enable him to keep Giovanna in a style suited to the dignity and taste of a queen.

As a part of her dowry, Giovanna also will receive from Boris a full-fledged menagerie of elephants, lions, tigers, buffaloes and other animals, as well as the finest and largest collection of butterflies and rare insects in Europe, several huge conservatories of flowers, a narrow-gauge railroad (which encircles the palace grounds in Vrania, near Sofia), several American automobiles, and such crown jewels as Boris was able to save out of the post-Armistice wreckage of his country when Czar Ferdinand, his father, fled abroad.

Versatile King.

Giovanna will find in Boris a King whose intellectual qualities and versatility are far above those of the average monarch. Boris not only knows all about ruling a country, but is a first-class engineer, zoologist, botanist, bibliophile, and a great authority on natural history. He also is a brilliant linguist, speaking French, German, Russian, Bulgarian, Turkish, English, Italian and Albanian.

More than that, his majesty is something of a genius in mechanical matters. He is a licensed locomotive engineer and chauffeur, and has a passion for the construction and operation of mechanical contrivances of all sorts. He can take an automobile, sewing machine, radio set, machine gun, or the finest jewelled watch entirely apart and put it together again with absolute precision.

In his study at the royal palace is a superb silver and steel model of a famous American locomotive which was presented to him on his birthday by Charles R. Crane, former Minister to China, a great admirer of the young sovereign.

He Has Simple Tastes.

In spite of his exalted position, Boris is the personification of simplicity and democracy. He may be seen any day driving his own automobile through the streets of Sofia, or roaming the countryside chatting with peasants about their home problems. He repeatedly has helped stranded motorists along the road.

When Princess Giovanna comes to Sofia to share the fortunes of King Boris, she will find life in the Bulgarian capital totally different from the gay and interesting social activities of Rome. For Sofia is known as one of the gloomiest and dullest cities in Europe, especially since the World War left the little Slav kingdom prostrate and bankrupt.

Giovanna will find that her royal spouse dislikes social functions and all forms of elaborate State or court ceremonial. Beside Boris the Italian Princess' only royal companion will be Princess Eudoxia, the King's 31-year-old unmarried sister, who lives at the palace.

While Giovanna is lively, gay and vivacious, the King is of a most serious, almost solemn mould. Reared in the secluded and austere atmosphere of the absolutist regime of his father, who was as much feared as Boris is loved, the young ruler was denied all the pleasures and pastimes usually enjoyed by a young man.

Met Her Only Once.

Until he met Giovanna the King never had a love affair, nor did he ever cultivate the society of women. Indeed, his engagement to the Italian Princess can scarcely be called a love affair, for the marriage will be essentially a political alliance, or "marriage of convenience," because Boris, who has rarely left the narrow confines of his own country, never had an opportunity of courting and wooing Giovanna in the traditional romantic style. So far as known, he met Her Royal Highness only once, and that was when he visited Rome a year ago.

The King, when only 24, was called upon to assume the monarchical duties of his father, who brought Bulgaria to such utter ruin and desolation during the World War, that he was forced to abdicate.

Boris has since reigned over his 5,500,000 subjects with great sagacity and moderation, and has won the favor not alone of his own country but of all Europe.

The King's friends declare that Boris will make a model husband. He is described as gentle, unassuming and soft-spoken in manner, possesses great charm and exceedingly gracious and democratic. Physically, he is of rather frail stature, being inclined to thinness.

PHARAOH WEARING A WIG FOUND BY PARTY IN EGYPT

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, March 16.—Austria's archeological expedition to lower Egypt reports that it has found near Luxor the grave of a sixth dynasty ruler who wore a wig. At least a statue of the old Praraoh, who bore the name of Scheschemnefer, shows him adorned with false hair, something previously unknown among Egyptions of that period.

The figure was one of four which, in pairs, flanked the massive sarcophagus. Near each statue, the archeologists report, there were three obelisks.

Shortly after the British expedition under Howard Carter had closed the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen in the Valley of the Kings, the Austrian Academy of Sciences sent an archeological mission, including the country's most eminent Eggptologists, to take up similar work in the vicinity.

The Austrian scientists have reported that they found a whole line of graves of the period of the Mycerenus Pharaohs, who ruled the land of the Nile for 600 years. The grave of Scheschemnefer was discovered near the pyramid of Gizah, to the south of the Cheops pyramid.

Cuba's Population 3,598,933.

HAVANA, March 16.—The Census Bureau reports that Cuba's population is 3,598,933. Havana, city and province combined, give residence to 949,611 persons.

SCHOOLS TO EXHIBIT WORK MAY 29-JUNE 1

Elementary, Intermediate and Special Divisions Will Join in Demonstration.

in St. Louis public schools will be conducted in the seven high schools of the city from May 29 to June 1, inclusive. Intermediate, elementary and special schools will participate, their work to be shown at the high school for the district in which the schools are located.

The Central High School district exhibit will be shown at the Yeatman Intermediate School, which is the temporary home of the high school. Included in this exhibit will be the work of 26 elementary, two intermediate, three special schools and one vocational school.

Exhibits will not be selected through competitions as the purpose is to enable the public to visualize the work of the public schools. Items will not be grouped as entries of individuals or of particular schools, but by grades.

The program each evening will begin at 7 o'clock, an hour being devoted to examples of the work of kindergarten and primary grade children, another to the work of elementary school pupils, and the third for high school students. There will also be demonstrations of work in physical education, Boy Scout drills, and drum and bugle corps.

Another feature will be an exhibit of the free supplies and textbooks furnished pupils from kindergarten through high school. The cost of each item will be shown.

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men

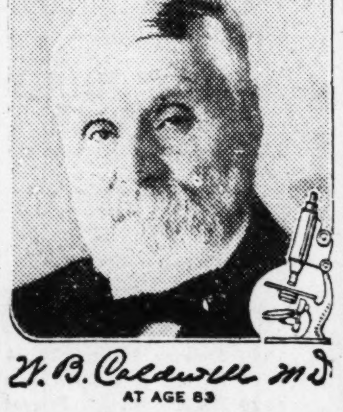
As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and placed it on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a public success as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us it helped when everything else failed.



W. B. Caldwell MD
AT AGE 83

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, its mild, gentle action is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Theater Guild Season Here

New York Organization to Present Some Eight Weeks of Drama at the American Theatre Next Fall and Will Place Performances on a Subscription Basis as Has Been Done in Other Cities—Shubert, Dark for Next Two Weeks Will Reopen Last of the Month for Three Productions.

WHILE this, the second week of Thurston, the Magician, will, in all probability, wind up the season at the American Theater, the Shubert is to have three more attractions before finally closing its doors for the summer. During the past week Manager Karty has received notice that, despite 14 days of idleness, which start tonight, the Grand avenue house will be reopened on March 31 with the musical play, "Music in May." This will be followed by a return engagement of the delightful "Desert Song" on April 7, with the final week, starting April 14, given over to one of the most successful dramas of the year, "The Royal Family."

With nothing left to talk about for this season Manager Beismann at the American is announcing plans for next fall with the statement that plans for a New York Theater Guild subscription season in St. Louis next fall and spring have practically been completed by the Guild and A. L. Erlanger, managing director of the American Theater. Under the arrangement with the Guild, some eight weeks of the American's coming season will be held for Guild attractions. The tentative plan is to inaugurate the local subscription season with the highly successful play, "Caprice," now drawing the largest audiences of any non-musical attraction in New York. This will be followed by the Guild's Acting Company in "Major Barbara" and "Marco's Millions." Next in order will be a Guild company in "Wings Over Europe" and a return engagement of Eugene O'Neil's "Strange Interlude." Later St. Louis will be visited by other Guild attractions to be sent on tour.

THE New York Theater Guild is now one of America's foremost producing organizations. In previous years its activities were confined mainly to New York where the Guild has thousands of subscribers and where it operates a number of theaters. The season just closing saw the Guild extend its efforts to six other cities and in each the organization presented a subscription season to excellent results. Thus highly encouraged, the Guild is again branching out and adding to the cities where it will offer its attractions on a subscription basis.

Just as soon as the local plans are completed, the Guild will invite St. Louisans to subscribe for seats for the attractions it will present here. These subscribers will be entitled to a reduction in the price of tickets and first choice in the matter of seat locations.

The newly organized Theater Society of St. Louis is already in the field with a similar subscription plan for this summer and next winter. The Society is to present musical comedies at the Garden Theater during the warm weather and dramas at a theater, yet to be announced, starting next fall. Subscriptions are reported to have come in rapidly during the past few weeks and the organization will announce its complete plans shortly.

☼ ☼ ☼ ☼

GUILD attractions that visited the American this winter were "Porgy," "Strange Interlude" and the Repertory Company in "The Doctor's Dilemma," "Ned McCobb's Daughter," "The Second Man" and "John Ferguson." The attendance was more than satisfactory and indicated to the Guild that this city could provide large audiences for high-class productions.

While plans for next season at the American, other than those that apply to the New York Theater Guild, are vague at the present time, the Market street house will have more attractions than it did this year. Ziegfeld is expected to send "Show Boat," his greatest success, and Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee," here for extended engagements. Charles Dillingham will present "Three Cheers, an outstanding current musical attraction in New York. The successful mystery play, "Dracula," which was due here this spring, will be an early visitor at the American, as will the widely-heralded all-colored revue, "Blackbirds of 1928." Thurston will play his usual engagement and George M. Cohan will probably offer his musical success, "Billie," at the American next year. George C. Tyler is planning several "all-star" revivals and these will be included in the bookings of the American.

Richard Barthelmess

Incidentally the American will be wired during the summer months and time not filled by dramatic or musical attractions will be given over to "road show" talking pictures.

Children in Two Plays.

On Friday, March 22, at 8 p. m. the children's Sunday assembly of the St. Louis Ethical Society will give an entertainment consisting of two plays. The senior groups will present "Bon Voyage" by William Dean Howells, coached by Marie E. Clark and the junior groups will present "Little Gingersnap's Birthday Party," based on a Southern folk tale.

Many New Stars For the Summer Opera in Park

Alice Mackenzie, Florenz Ames and William McCarthy Only Old Favorites to Be Re-engaged for Municipal Theater Season.

ONLY three principals of previous years will take part in the eleventh annual season of Municipal Opera, scheduled for the open air theater in Forest Park, starting June 3 and ending Aug. 25. The opening night's performance will find seven newcomers in leading roles.

The 1929 cast was engaged after the Cast Committee of the Municipal Theater Association, headed by former Mayor Henry W. Kiel, had made an exhaustive survey of the talent available for repertory work. Early in January the committee spent 10 days in New York and hundreds of applicants for places in the cast were granted auditions. The final selections were made after due consideration of the roles the various principals would have to fill in this summer's productions.

The three principals who will require no introduction to Municipal Opera patrons are Alice MacKenzie, ingenue soprano; Florenz Ames, principal comedian; and William McCarthy, comedian. Miss MacKenzie and Ames were members of last summer's cast. McCarthy will be spending his eighth consecutive year at the Municipal Theater.

The newcomers are Eva Clark, prima donna soprano; Grace Yeager, contralto; Sybill Bowhan, soubrette; Roy Cropper, tenor; Pierre White, baritone; William Gordon, basso; and Truman Stanley, juvenile.

Miss Clark began her stage career in the musical comedy, "Dew Drop Inn," and later played in "Our Nell," the Ziegfeld Frolic, Ziegfeld Follies of 1923, and "Madame Pompadour." Miss Yeager sang with a number of grand opera organizations before graduating to musical comedy. "Listen Lester" and "Blossom Time" are two of the lighter pieces enriched by her presence. Miss Bowhan is one of the youngster stage favorites. She achieved a great success as Wanda in "Rose Marie," a part she will essay here this summer.

ROY CROPPER, the new tenor, is quite well known locally. He appeared here previously in "Blossom Time" and "The Student Prince" and last fall at the Shubert-Rialto in "Nobody's Girl." Pierce White, the baritone, started his career with Joseph Santley in "When Dreams Come True," later appearing in "Blossom Time," George Cohan's "Mary," 'The Gingham Girl" and "Rose Marie." William Gordon, the basso of the 1929 cast, came into his own two years ago as a member of Winthrop Ames' Gilbert and Sullivan troupe with which he appeared in St. Louis. Previously he supported Fritz Scheff in "Babette," "Two Roses," "Girofle-Girofla" and "Fatinitza." He sang in two Henry W. Savage productions, 'The Clinging Vine" and "Lollipop," and also was in "Rambler Rose." Truman Stanley, the juvenile, who is expected to add zest to the opera productions because of his skill as a dancer, is a graduate of the George M. Cohan school.

According to present plans, all of the principals will take part in each of the 12 operas to be produced this summer. The repertory as announced earlier in the week, includes five operas having a first production at the Municipal Theater and seven pieces that have been given there in former years. The new works are:

"Wildflower," music by Herbert Stothart and Vincent Youmans; book and lyrics by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

"Golden Dawn," music by Emmerich Kalman and Herbert Stothart; book and lyrics by

Jewish Folk Songs At Y. M. H. A. Tonight

A group of Jewish folk songs will feature the final number of the program to be given tonight by the "Y" Glee and Choral Clubs at the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A., Union and Enright. The songs, "Schlaf Mein Vogele," "Yome Yome," and "Eli Eli," have been arranged by William Parsons. The numbers will be rendered by the combined glee and choral clubs.

Each of these organizations will sing a group of songs. Arthur Baron, violinist, is the soloist for the program. This concert is the final one of the musical programs of the "Y" for the current season. The artists for the next year will be announced shortly.

To Give "The Crucifixion."

The Ninth Annual Rendition of "The Crucifixion" by Sir John Stainer will be given in Vandervoort Music Hall Wednesday afternoon, March 27, at 3 o'clock, and also on Thursday afternoon, March 28, under the direction of William M. Jenkins, organist of Westminster Presbyterian Church. The choir is composed of St. Louis' soloists with Carl R. Latowsky, tenor, and G. J. Lehleitner, baritone.

German Players in A Musical Comedy

The German Stock company, performing at Jeffla Auditorium every Sunday, will present the musical comedy "Polnische Wirtschaft," known on the American stage under the title, "A Polish Wedding," tonight.

The play will be given in honor of Miss Helen Rothe, the soubrette of the company, who will take the part of "Marga," the beautiful little Polish peasant girl.

She will be assisted by the entire company and a chorus in songs and dances.

Talkies at St. Louis Next Month.

Technical engineers of the Radio Corporation of America, who have been engaged in a survey of the St. Louis Theater for the forthcoming sound installation of Photophone, have found it necessary to set back the opening date of the installation at that theater from March 24 to April 7. This delay was due to recommendations made by the engineers for a radical enlargement of the equipment to be used at the St. Louis. With a view of making the installation as near perfect as mechanical means will permit, the experts have decided to use 16 speaking units on the stage instead of eight as was the original intention.

GARRICK — Mutual Circuit Burlesque.

Several Novelties On "Pop" Program At Odeon Today

Eugene Goossens to Offer a Widely Varied Bill With some "First Time" Numbers Included.

TWO Wagnerian transcriptions by Eugene Goossens, guest conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, will be presented in the orchestra's Sunday popular program at the Odeon at 3:15 today. One is an excerpt from "Gotterdammerung" in which the male chorus of the Gibichings is arranged for the brass choirs of the orchestra, while the second, from Act III of "Siegfried" includes the Prelude to that act and continues through the shattering of the spear and the climb up the mountain to awake the sleeping Brunnhilde.

Another "first time" number on Goossens' program is the Rimsky-Korsakoff "Sinfonietta" in A minor, a work recast from his string quartet on Russian themes. The three movements are "In the Field," "At the Charivari," and "In the Khorovod," a round dance and orchestral song.

Widely varied are the Goossens' offerings today. They include Debussy's "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun," the Brahms "Academic Festival" overture; Massenet's ballet music for "Le Cid," and Sinigaglia's riotously overture depicting the quarreling, brawling, caterwauling people of Chiozza, where the composer once lived.

In detail the program is:

"Academic Festival" overture ... Brahms
Prelude to "The Afternoon of a Faun" ... Debussy
Sinfonietta ... Rimsky-Korsakoff
In the Field.
Charivari.
In the Khorovod.
Excerpt from Act III of "Gotterdammerung"
Excerpt from Act III of "Siegfried" ... Wagner
(Arranged by Eugene Goossens).
(First orchestra performance in St. Louis)
Ballet music from "Le Cid" ... Massenet
Overture: "Le Baruffe Chiozzotte" ... Sinigaglia

Harry Rose After Peabody

Wise-Cracking Comedian to Be Next Master of Ceremonies at the Missouri With Milton Slosser Filling In on the Job for a Week—How Little Janet Gaynor Rose to Stardom and a Few Words About John Gilbert, the Flapper's Delight.

BY NIE

THE deep, dark mystery concerning the successor to Eddie Peabody as the Missouri's master of ceremonies is out. Harry Rose, will crack wise and sing for the customers at the Skouras Grand boulevard song-and-dance palace. The Ambassador fanettes have had two recent glimpses of the clowning Harry, who anticed—or is it anticked?—most engagingly with Eddie Lowry. Though he is no Barrymore, Rose is not displeasing to the female eye. There is a distant resemblance—say, about 3,000,000 miles—to Jimmy Hall of Paramount pictures. And Harry is big enough that when he is standing on his hind legs, the balcony customers do not have to cry: "What's the idea of crouching? Stand up!"

As an entertainer, Rose is closer to the Eddie Lowry type than is any of the other erstwhile masters of ceremonies who have flitted in and out of St. Louis theaters. Like Lowry, he is quick-witted; like Lowry, he can act a bit; like Lowry, he can clown through a comic song, and like Lowry, he can sing a ballad so soulfully that the girls from Woolworths get all snarled up emotionally.

Rose starts Saturday, March 30, for an indefinite engagement, the length of which will depend on "how he goes over" with the girls. Milt Slosser will pinch-hit between Peabody and Rose.

☼ ☼ ☼ ☼

ROSE is an entertainer of years' experience. He was with George White's Scandals; and, in vaudeville, on the Orpheum circuit as a headline act. In presentations, Rose has traveled over the Publix and Fox Theater circuits. He was the first master of ceremonies on the sound-screen, having acted in that capacity in two M-G-M revues, one of which played Loew's State; and, in which, Harry sang that immortal ballad, "Frankfurter Sandwiches."

For the benefit of the Girl Friends, who will want to know all about Harry, he's 33, an Englishman by birth, a native of Leeds, though, as he admits, the Leeds Chamber of Commerce is trying to hush up the matter; an American by choice; the husband of a St. Louis girl, the former Edna Muehlman of 2233 Dodier street; and the proud father of Sibyl Rose, age 10.

☼ ☼ ☼ ☼

THIS being Eddie Peabody's farewell week, the folks who've raved over his banjoing are expected to turn out to hear their favorite sound his "A," and otherwise do things with the skill that has caused him to be called the world's greatest string picker.

From here, Eddie goes to the Warfield Theater in San Francisco, where he will buck Brooke Johns, another former Missouri Theater master of ceremonies. Johns, also a banjoist, is at the Granada Theater, just a block or two away from the Warfield.

But before he leaves, Peabody will uncork a show that will give the customers something to talk about, the modest young men who press-agent the Skouras shows blushingly announce.

☼ ☼ ☼ ☼

THAT the Radio Keith Orpheum circuit is invading the ranks of the motion picture players for personal appearances on its stages is evidenced by the list of screen stars now under contract and who are to appear at the St. Louis Theater within the next few months. Ruth Roland, formerly one of the movie thriller heroines, who retired from the screen after making a fortune in Los Angeles real estate, is back in vaudeville with her husband, Ben Bard. Bard, formerly of musical comedy and vaudeville, has been in pictures only a short time. The couple are taking their honeymoon while playing the vaudeville circuit.

Jackie Coogan is another screen star who is scheduled for an appearance here very soon. Likewise Kenneth Harlan, the handsome gun-totin' lover of the screen, is appearing in a comedy playlet and meeting with considerable success.

The shimmy shaking Gilda Gray, who made a number of successful pictures with Paramount, is back on Radio Keith Orpheum stages and Betty Blythe and Irene Rich have just started a tour on the Pacific Coast which should bring them here within the next few months.

Among the first of the movie stars to come to the St. Louis Theater will be Leatrice Joy, who arrives next Sunday. Miss Joy, who is said to be one of the most radiant personalities on the screen, displays a delightful singing voice in a series of special numbers.

Miss Joy's most recent screen success was in "The Bellamy Trial," seen in St. Louis only a few weeks ago. Among other features in which she has been starred are "Man Made Woman," "Man Slaughter," "Blue Danube," "The

How a Lady Is Sawed in Half

An Inquisitive Young Woman Allows Herself to Be Cut in Twain by Howard Thurston in Order to Explain Just How the Trick Is Worked, and Here Is the Explanation, Which Gets Nowhere at All.

WATCHING a car and 8 girls pass out into thin air may be one thing to the blase, but to the more gullible, it surpassed all pre-Jones act demonstrations and made Henry Ford's fast disappearing model T look like next year's auto show. The more gullible clung to the rail of a box and watched frantically for wires and trap doors until her jaded optics nearly succumbed to myopia. That might have been a help, for what would be more satisfactory than a near sighted person at a sleight of hand performance?

Fortunately, Mr. Thurston did not ask me to disappear in the automobile, for I'd probably have been 300 miles west by now, but I was invited to "come over tomorrow afternoon and get sawed in two"—surely a novel way of saying, "let's get together."

And so I went back stage at the American Theater where Howard Thurston is playing his annual engagement in the black arts, prepared to be sawed in half if only to find out how the trick—you know he "saws a lady in half" every night and twice on matinee days—is worked. I was sawed up all right, or least it looked that way, but even in the position of the sawee I never discovered just what happened or how he removed my feet and legs from my body. I didn't feel them go but the onlookers assured me that he did and certainly I heard the big saw chewing its way through the box although I'm willing to swear its teeth never touched me. That much, at least, I am sure of.

After being assured by the young lady who gets sawed in two every night in order to make a living, that I would be restored to my original state of single blessedness, with no aftermath of nervous shock, I slid into the glorified cookie box, with a last request that they would please refrain from tickling my feet while I was not close enough to them to fight back.

A FEW forward passes with the saw, and then I could hear it's teeth biting into the box, a low groan which seemed to mount to a pitch of ravenous delight. I thought of all my sins, how I carried off the mail box key over the weekend, so my poor roommate couldn't get her mail; how I lied to the big hem and tuck man from Stitching who wanted me to model his dresses, and what I said to the cop who chased me all the way down Washington avenue only to tell me that I had no tail light—which I knew when I started out. All these things and many more to the dolorous accompaniment of the saw.

But before I knew it, there across the stage were my erstwhile running mates and sole companions, looking as lonesome as a rumble seat on a rainy night. Being one of those types of idiots who is always interested in reactions and that sort of thing, I was interested in noting the feeling I had when I saw that our connections had been severed. Did I think, "Now, old feet, you have served me nigh onto a quarter of a century. Sometimes you have done what I told you to, and sometimes you haven't. You've hurt me at times, but come back home; all is forgiven? No, not I. In that grave moment, contrition was far from me. Instead I made an agonized mental note that the seams in my hose were crooked! Woe is me that I could not be sawed with straight seams. Mr. Thurston, being the understanding man that he is, noticed my anguish, and straightway reprimanded the property man for not oiling the saw sufficiently. But not even he comprehended my misery, and fearing that I would have a spell of kicking and screaming, with only the facilities for screaming, I was immediately assured that preparations were afoot to put me together again.

At that ticklish moment, Prince, who is the African lion of the Thurston company, took it upon himself to indulge in a large growl that had to me all the earmarks of calling off the hunger strike—they said it was the second time he had gotten up energy enough to even yawn during the entire trip. But nevertheless, I felt that if the hope that is particularly peculiar to lions and such things were calling forth such chop-licking moans from Prince, that I would just as soon be in full possession of my dogs. Not that I had cold feet about the proposition, but I'd just feel better about it if I could take off on a moment's notice. Before I knew it, I was lifted out as safe and sound as a bank merger.

WHAT happened, how did he do it? Frankly, I don't know and my expected exposure of "Sawing a Woman in Half" was a flop.

It's always been a mystery to me, as I suppose it has to everyone else, where, under the sun, moon and stars do all the tricks and illusions come from. A man who has attained to the eminence of Thurston in his craft, and has been shuttling over much the same route season after season for a matter of 20 odd years, must have some way of getting new effects with which to baffle his audiences.

"Where does he get them?" One hears the question asked in the auditorium between acts. And it is one of the most frequent questions Thurston is asked by interviewers.

The answer is simple. He invents his own tricks and illusions, and builds them too. And, for the simple reason that there is no other way to get them. There are novelty shops galore where one may buy magical toys, puzzles, and the small beer of the magician's craft. But there is no pantechnicon where a master magician may buy the major paraphernalia of his calling.

And there is good reason for this. A man who becomes a master of his art must have the creative faculty. And a master magician is a creative artist. He must originate his own effects and illusions or he will not get very far in his chosen profession. And having created his own illusions, the master of the magicians must build them. Not by his own hands, of course, but by skilled mechanics and artisans under his own personal direction.

The stage trappings, magicial furniture and paraphernalia one sees at a Thurston performance represent only a small part of the magician's "props" so to speak. At his home at Beechhurst, Long Island, he maintains the largest factory in the world devoted exclusively to magic. There, the year round, is employed a large force of scenic artists, mechanical experts, stage carpenters, chemists, and electricians. And day by day, the year round, they are working on new tricks and illusions, the ideas for which have been furnished by their employer.

He told me so himself and I believe everything he says—except that I know he never ran that saw through my body.

MANY NEW STARS FOR SUMMER OPERA SEASON IN THE PARK

Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

"The Love Call," music by Sigmund Romberg; book and lyrics by Edward Locke and Harry B. Smith.

"Castles in the Air," music by Percy Wenrich. Book and lyrics by Raymond W. Peck.

"The Enchantress," music by Victor Herbert. Book and lyrics by Fred de Gresac and Harry B. Smith.

THREE of the new operas—"The Golden Dawn," "The Love Call" and Castles in the Air"—have never before been seen in St. Louis. The operas which will be repeated this summer are:

"The Vagabond King," music by Rudolf Friml; book and lyrics by Brian Hooker and William H. Post.

"Rose Marie," music by Rudolf Friml and Herbert Stothart; book and lyrics by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

"The Student Prince," music by Sigmund Romberg; book and lyrics by Dorothy Donnelly.

"Prince of Pilsen," music by Gustav Luders; book and lyrics by Frank Pixley.

"The Chocolate Soldier," music by Oscar Straus; book and lyrics by Stanislaus Stange.

"The Bohemian Girl," by Balfe.

"Babes in Toyland," music by Victor Herbert; libretto by Glen McDonough.

The order in which the operas will be produced has not yet been determined. The pieces will be staged by Fred A. Bishop, who served as the opera's stage director in 1921.

THE association has made every effort to raise the artistic standard of the productions at the Municipal Theater. The repertory is said to represent the cream of American and foreign pieces released by the original producers and the royalties for their local production rights are the greatest ever paid by the association. Likewise, the cast is the most expensive ever engaged for an al fresco season in Forest Park.

An intensive drive for new season seat subscribers will be inaugurated next week. At present the advance seat sale is over $85,000, the largest ever recorded by the association. Officials of the opera enterprise hope to double this by the opening date of the season so that the financial success will be absolutely assured.

Day by Day In New York

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, March 16.

HERE'S how New York affects some people. In a letter to a newspaper a man writes: "I have decided to leave New York until I get a grip on my manners. I was reared in Virginia and taught from my mother's knee that the rights of others, particularly elders, must be respected. For several years I have found myself joining the elbow-jabbing, shin-kicking crowds and adopting their tactics. The other night I kept my seat in a subway while three women hung to straps in front of me. I suddenly awakened to the fact it was time to skip."

Several comparatively unimportant people apparently aching to appear important have been having a fling at Will Rogers lately. They think Will's jibes at the great are too broad. They probably belong to the finger nail biters not considered important enough by Will to introduce from their seats in the audience when they go to see him. Will Rogers has never posed as a refined humorist. He has employed the easy rough and tumble manner of the ranch house. In being himself, lies his greatness. No person from Coolidge and the Prince of Wales on down has ever before thought his clowning was intended for anything but intimate fun. Anyone who knows Rogers, knows he would not intentionally hurt a fly. It is a little too late to make a Noel Coward of him now. If for no other reason, Rogers would get my vote for never indorsing a cigarette.

A comedian speaks of one of these quiet roadhouses where a man can take his wife and children and get cock-eyed.

Another clown refers to a certain lady he admires as being like a California bungalow—modern but no heat.

The radio broadcasters had better stop announcing some pianist and then starting an electrical piano. That's one of the things that caused the downfall of the legitimate theater i. e. humbuggery. Not everybody listening in over the radio is 100 per cent dumb. Every now and then we listeners have a lucid interval.

Also the radio will do well to cut out this sort of blather. Last night a very emphatic gentleman announced: "Of course, the city boy knows much more of life and understands people better than nis country cousin."

What rubbish! The small town boy has sown his wild oats, settled down and is raising a family about the time the city boy has begun to cast sheep's eyes at a cafeteria waitress. There are few boys in our town who hadn't hoboed across the country and back before the average city boy pays a visit to the outskirts of his city. The country boy has read every book in the public library before he gets out of high school. He comes in more intimate touch with humanity than the city boy and consequently understands it better. The city slicker may sell him a gold ring that turns green before he gets home and have his laugh and if that indicates a wider knowledge of life, the city boy has it. And is entirely welcome. It is my observation that when the country boy goes to the city, the city boys go to work for him.

A magazine in which my autobiography was appearing was suddenly shot from under the publisher. Several readers—well, at least, one anyway, have asked what happens to the autobiography now. It will be continued in another magazine shortly.

Short shavings: Only seniors at Yale may have autos at college . . . Mabel Boll, now flashes the heaviest rocks along Broadway . . . A chorus lady thought Peoria was what four out of five have . . . Dramatic critics seemed to have discovered Eugene O'Neill's clay feet at the same instant . . . Paris is to call "Show Boat," "Mississippi." . . . "Bateau-Spectacle" would sound rather misleading . . . Author seeing film release of his book: "Well, anyway they used the title." . . . Roy Howard wears patent leather spats with evening clothes . . . All the big song writers are in Hollywood . . . Talkie profits promise bigger pay than stage shows.

The Palm Beach visitors have reached home again, after their trying season of trying to be seen at the right place in the right clothes at the right time—all exhausted but happy. Most of them managed to get their pictures in the rotogravure sections which was the big idea. And next season they will go through the ordeal all over again. Once the Palm Beach bug bites, nothing will stop you save an empty pocketbook.

Those "in the know" on Broadway laugh at the idea that Arnold Rothstein's murderer is under arrest. It would seem everybody knows who killed the gambler—but the police. But anyway, Mayor Walker and Commissioner Whalen had a dandy vacation in Florida this winter.

* * *

For no reason at all it suddenly occurs to me while typewriting away here that all my life I have been suspicious of people who announce they are putting all their cards on the table. I always suspect an ace up a sleeve.

At The Play

—By— St. John Ervine

NEW YORK, March 16.

NO one who is familiar with my writing will accuse me of enmity towards, or indifference to, the Little Theater. On many occasions, in print and on platforms, I have asserted that it is the hope of the drama. Practically all off the work of fine quality that has come on to the stage of the world in modern times has come out of Little Theaters. The names of some of them need only be mentioned to informed playgoers to prove the truth of that statement. The Abbey Theater in Dublin, the Gaiety Theater in Manchester, the Repertory Theater in Birmingham, the Art Theater in Moscow, the Vieux Colombier in Paris and the Little Theater in Washington Square out of which, with such triumph, the Theater Guild of New York emerged—all of these had not only added honor to the stage of our time, but have added practically all the honor that it has.

It is an odd fact that in this season which is generally desribed as dire, the Little Theater, which should have found in Broadway's distress an opportunity to prove its own worth, has been more empty-minded than the commercial theater.

I lately witnessed three Little Theater productions, one done at the Grove Street theater by the New Playwrights when a piece called "Airways, Inc.," by Mr. John Dos Passos was performed; another, a piece by Arthur Schnitzler entitled "Playing With Love," done at Cherry Lane by the Players Co-operative; and the third by a group which deserves its high reputation, the Provincetown Players, who revived a one-act play, "Before Breakfast" by Eugene O'Neill and produced for the first time a two-act piece, sub-divided into eight scenes, entitled "The Earth Between" by Mr. Virgil Geddes.

THE majority of these authors are writers of note and consequence. Mr. Dos Passos is hte author of novels that made some stir. Schnitzler was, rather than is, a dramatist of distinction. I need not mention the wide reputation of Mr. O'Neill. It would seem, then, that the intelligent playgoer, bored by the banalities of Broadway, might hope for good entertainment in theaters producing the work of such authors as these. Yet the truth has to be told that the night I spent in Grove street and Cherry Lane and MacDougall street were wasted nights.

I glance through a pretentious pamphlet issued by the New Playwrights and find in its an article by Mr. Louis Lozowick on "The Theater of Meyerhold," in which he tells his readers how Vsevoled Meyerhold has "passed beyond the uncompromising actualism" of Stanislavsky. Mr. Lozowick's article is much funnier than he will ever realize, and I recommend my readers to purchase a copy of the December issue of "Theater 1919," price five cents, in which it appears. The magazine is published at 133 West Fourteenth street, New York City. Meyerhold, apparently, has revolutionized the Russian theater. Somebody is always revolutionizing something in Russia. One of these days a Russian will cause a frightful sensation by leaving something alone. He directed Verhasren's "The Dawn:"

"It was thoroughly revamped to suit the needs of the moment. The settings were done in a semi-cubist manner. There was an attempt to bring the stage and the audience into close communion. Actual sailors came on to the stage mingling with actors, and a military orchestra joined in with the theatrical orchestra. The climax of the performance was reached when an actual telegram from the field of battle was read announcing Smilga's victory over Gen. Wrangel."

That stuff dazes me, but Mr. Lozowick evidently imagines that the introduction of actual sailors on to the stage that they might mingle with actors, who, I hope, were actual, too, signified something and raised the tone of the drama. I envy Mr. Lozowick his ability to be elated by such "improvements" as these.

THIS production apparently created a storm among the critics, and I find myself wondering what poor Verhaeren, a gentle Flemish poet, who seemed to me, when I met him, to be the saddest figure of the whole war, would have thought had he lived to see what the exuberant and, I fear, partially demented Meyerhold was doing with "The Dawn." Meyerhold introduced "constructivism" into stage setting and "bio-mechanism" into acting:

"Constructivism was simply to be the theatrical parallel to industrial technique demanding the exclusion of all useless decoration and the precise functional organization of the stage. Bio-mechanism was the study of the physiologic and psychologic laws that govern the actor's body as a normally functioning mechanism so that its every gesture and movement might be utilized with the greatest efficiency."

How these revolutionary lads love abstract polysyllables! Will anyone assert that this pretentious flapdoodle means anything? Read what Mr. Eliot Paul writes of Mr. Virgil Geddes, the author of a melancholy and invertebrate piece which was recently produced by the Provincetown Players:

"Virgil Geddes has many rare qualities, but none of them are acquired. His life has been a constant process of simplification; his observation has not been encyclopedic, but he has selected instinctively the essential problems reflected in his own experience and in that of others around him, and he has brought about these things in solitude. In this sense he is an intellectual. In place of the gusto and enthusiasm expressed by young heralds of an untried and vigorous order, he displays a detachment almost Oriental in character..... Surrounded by a complex and noisy civilization, Geddes is lonely and serene. His acquaintance with the world of print is as limited as his human contacts. His objectivity is not assumed, but actual. His work is performed within his own mind, and perfected within its boundaries." To all of which I can only add, "Dear, dear."

WELL, nothing of worth is coming out of that sterile intellectuality. I do not find fault with Mr. Geddes for abhorring the printed word, but I greatly doubt if anything of value is going to be written by a gentleman whose human contacts are limited; and I suspect that what is wrong with the Little Theater at this present time is that it has become so over intellectualized that it is nearly in a condition of driveling idiocy.

The Little Theater doesn't need fewer human contacts, but more, and if Mr. Geddes is to become a dramatist at all he must, I am afraid, abandon a little of his aloof serenity and mingle with the common crowd. For the stuff out of which literature is made is this "complex and noisy' congregation of clamoring men and women. No work of fine quality has been made out of the lives of exceptional persons in the sense in which the self-consciously arty-and-crafty people are exceptional. The great figures of fiction have been ordinary men and women extraordinarily seen and portrayed. and when authors and artists solemnly withdraw themselves from "human contacts" and ostentatiously live alone, they soon cease to be authors and artists. Life in Eden began to be interesting when Adam founded a community with Eve It was not until the advent of Man Friday that Robinson Crusoe became an interesting person If the Little Theaters continue to experiment in aloofness and to abstractly polysyllabic and metaphysicaly pretentious, they will perish. And their stench will be terrible.

THE rapidity with which Janet Gaynor has climbed up the ladder of success in Hollywood has been a matter of wonderment even in that city of miracles. Three years ago this winsome actress was an unknown extra, making the rounds of the studios and occasionally getting a day's work Today she takes second place to no one as a popular artist whose "next picture" is eagerly awaited by motion picture patrons.

Miss Gaynor leaped to fame as "Diane" in "Seventh Heaven." As the star of "Sunrise" which is at the Fox Theater this week, she has made her hold on stardom secure.

Her birthplace was Philadelphia, but during her childhood she lived in Chicago and San Francisco. In the latter city she graduated from the Polytechnic High School, from which George O'Brien, the other star of "Sunrise," also graduated. Miss Gaynor was barely 18 when her family moved to Hollywood so that she might attempt to make her way in motion pictures.

When Janet moved to Hollywood with her family in 1924 she wasn't greatly excited about the prospect of becoming an actress. While she was attending Polytechnic High School in San Francisco she worked nights as an usher in the Castro Theatre. There she had enjoyed the figures upon the screen but never thought about being one of them.

She had been an extra around the Hollywood studios only a short time when she came to the attention of Winfield Sheehan, vice president and general manager of Fox Films. In her winsomeness, her dainty beauty, her grace and, above all, her naturalness, Mr. Sheehan saw geat possibilities and lost no time in signing her up on a long term contract.

Her first real part was in the Fox picture, "The Johnstown Flood," and her work in that production under the direction of Irving Cummings justified everything that was expected of her when she first obtained a contract. She continued her excellent work in "The Midnight Kiss," "The Blue Eagle," "The Return of Peter Grimm" and then in "Seventh Heaven." Up to the time she had played in "Sunrise," however, her work in "Seventh Heaven" had completely dimmed all of her earlier triumphs.

In spite of her frail appearance, she is an ardent devotee of outdoor life and spends many hours on horseback and on the tennis courts. Miss Gaynor's name has been frequently linked with those of eligible bachelors in Hollywood as a soon-to-be bride, but as yet she is heart whole and fancy free, with only one ambition—to climb to greater heights as a screen star.

JOHN GILBERT, the answer to the movie flapper's prayer, who is starring in "Desert Nights' at Loew's this week, was born in Logan, Utah, and received his education in various institutions throughout the country during his early theatrical training. He later attended the Hitchcock Military Academy, San Rafael, Cal. He played his first role on the stage under Eddie Foy and fluctuated between pictures and the footlights for several years, during which time he was, among other things, a rubber salesman and newspaper reporter. He began as an extra in the films and worked himself up through small parts to leading roles until signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, when he was soon made a star. He will be remembered for his work in "The Big Parade," "The Cossacks," "Four Walls," "Mask of the Devil" and "A Woman of Affairs."

Burton Holmes in Two Final Tours To Siam and Paris

THE last regular travel talk by Burton Holmes at the Odeon this season will be given tomorrow night with his illustrated lecture on Siam. On Tuesday night a special "tour" will be conducted through Paris.

Under the title "Siam, the Land of Chang," Mr. Holmes is to reveal one of the uttermost fringes of the earth, a land that has not yet become a part of the globe-trotter's routine. Siam is a part of the southeasterly projection of Asia. It is reached by rail from Singapore and by sea from anywhere. Bangkok, its chief city and seaport, is a place to catch the eye and ear and nose. It is one of the few places of the changing East that still retains everything to stimulate travel imagination.

The talk Tuesday evening will be on "The Glories and the Frivolities of Paris." This will be Mr. Holmes' last appearance in St. Louis this year.

Harold Samuel, Pianist, To Be Symphony Soloist On Friday and Saturday

Artist, Long a Student of Bach, to Be Heard in That Composer's D Minor Concerto for Piano and Strings—Goossens Arranges a Varied Program.

HAROLD SAMUEL, unparalleled in his devotion and his interpretations of Bach, is to be soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at the Odeon next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, when he plays the Bach D Minor Concerto for piano and strings.

Samuel, a mature artist, has devoted a life to the study of Bach. It was Samuel, who, in 1921, in six successive days played six full concerts of Bach's music, and all from memory. To no man more than he is due the recent revival of intereht in Bach's music. For Harold Samuel browsing among these scores that pedants had surrounded with their reverential dust, suddenly discovered that Johann Sebastian Bach was not a musical geometrist, but a very human composer of some very lovely and very lively tunes that anyone would like.

One of the finest things in his repertory is this D Minor Concerto, just as it was one of Bach's own favorites—for the composer used its music as the basis of not less than three other works.

Mr. Goossens has, in the building of his program followed his plan of presenting classics, romantics and moderns in the same concert, unifying the whole with nothing more than the intrinsic interest and beauty of the music he plays.

Mozart and Bach are represented from the classics. Berlioz, towering genius among the romantics, is there in three movements from his seldom-heard "Symphonie Fantastique. Wolf-Ferrari's "Secret of Suzanne" overture is among the offerings, and a "first-time" number in St. Louis is the "Norfolk Rhapsody" of Vaughan-Williams. A Vienese, a German, an Englishman, an Italian and a Frenchman have contributed to this program which ranges in time through two centuries.

Berlioz "Fantastic Symphony" is in part the tragic story of his love for the English actress, Henrietta Smithson, from whom he was kept apart for some years by the malicious tongues, that lied to her about him, and to him about her. In despair he wrote this music, which he hoped would humiliate her. The three excerpts played are: "In the Fields," which illustrates Berlioz own madly distracted state as he wandered over the fields day and night accompanied by his dreams of his beloved; "The March to the Scaffold," which reflects his own dream of murdering her when he heard the lying gossip about her character, and "The Witch's Sabbath," in which she is pictured as one of those evil spirits who enter into a Satanic orgy, including a Black Mass.

Incidently, Berlioz finally overcame obstacles and married the actress, after she had bankrupted herself, and their life together was a horror of jealous and clashing temperaments.

The detailed program is:

Overture to "Don Giovanni" .... Mozart
Concerto in D Minor for Pianoforte and Strings ........ Bach
Allegro non troppoe energico
Adagio
Allegro
Mr. Samuel
Tone Poem: "A Norfolk Rhapsody" ........ Vaughan Williams
(First Performances in St. Louis)

COMMERCIAL PLANES CONQUER LOFTY ANDES

Aircraft and Autos a Blessing to Many South American Nations.

By the Associated Press.

LIMA, Peru, March 16.—Alexander P. Moore, the United States Ambassador at Lima, says the airplane was "God's gift to Peru." It was also God's gift to Colombia, Ecuador, Bolivia and Chile.

When nature strewed the lofty Andes along the west coast of South America she created a barrier over which man has crept with great difficulty in his efforts to develop the fertile empire which lies east of the mighty mountain range.

Railways have been built over passes which rise as high as 14,500 feet. But they are few in number. The cost of construction was so great that freight rates are almost prohibitive. Trains are not numerous and vast empires are still hundreds of miles beyond rail end.

So the establishment of local airplane routes was hailed with joy. The prospect of regular through air mail from the United States to Valparaiso, Chile, with connecting service to points east of the Andes, is awaited with eagerness by the republics along the west coast.

Opening Sequestered Area.

Their great farming areas which drain into the Amazon and Rio Plata will soon have New York letters a few days after they are mailed, and passenger planes must inevitably come into more general service between Pacific Coast ports and the undeveloped heart of South America.

Many local air routes are already operating. Lima, Peru and La Paz, the lofty capital of Bolivia, are linked by air. Lima sends mails regularly to Upper Amazon points in farming areas which were formerly weeks away from the capital. Barranquilla, Colombia, on the Caribbean, and Buenaventura, the chief Colombian port on the Pacific, are served regularly by planes which call at Bogota and other cities on their flights from ocean to ocean.

The automobile, too, has been a benefit to Peru and the neighboring republics. Bogota, which formerly was a week by train and mule from Buenaventura, can now be reached in three days by train and automobile.

Big Oil Developments.

From Panama to Chile it is only the narrow strip of land between the Pacific and the mountains which has been developed. Extensive oil development at points on the Peruvian and Ecuadorean coasts have added to the wealth of these two republics and created towns with forests of derricks almost as thick as those which line the beaches of Southern California.

Venturesome mining companies with large capital have tapped the mineral wealth of the high mountains of Peru and Chile and constructed railways which bring copper and other minerals to Pacific ports. And Chile's arid northern plateau is supplying the world with much nitrate.

But lack of transportation has prevented the development of anything but the really great ore deposits and has isolated enormous agricultural and fruit areas.

Women Voters' League Meeting.

Probate Judge Sam D. Hodgdon of St. Louis County will discuss the Webster Groves sewer project at the fifth open meeting of the Webster Groves League of Women Voters at 2 p. m. next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Walter F. ## ROSSMAN-CLEMENS OPENS CLOTHING STORE IN CITY

Chain Organization Has Entrances to New Establishment on Olive and Seventh.

Rossman-Clemens, a national chain clothing store organization, yesterday opened a St. Louis store at Seventh and Olive streets in quarters formerly occupied by a Childs' restaurant. The store, which has two entrances, at 614-16 Olive street and 212 North Seventh street has been remodeled at a reported cost of $75,000. It has been leased for a long term at $27,500 a year.

The St. Louis store, the twentieth in the Rossmann-Clemons chain which includes Kansas City, Des Moines, New York, Duluth and St. Paul. The first store, in St. Paul, was started 16 years ago by six brothers who adhered to the one-price idea in marketing men's clothes. The St. Louis store, which occupies three floors in connecting buildings, will employ only St. Louisans, it was announced.

Eugene Field's Letters Tell of Pressing Debts In His St. Louis Days

Collection of W. K. Bixby Includes Unpublished Poems, Some With Comment of His Editors.

THE debts of Eugene Field—of itself a large and sometimes pressing topic—his fancies, faiths and aversions are preserved in his own unusually fine but exceptionally clear script in Washington University library.

This group of manuscripts, letters and keepsakes of the poet, whose brief six years on St. Louis newspapers left a trail of pressroom legends, is the most extensive and in many respects the most engrossing of the remarkable collection given to the university by its president, W. K. Bixby. Other items in the collection have been described in the Post-Dispatch.

In 1876 Field returned from the St. Joseph Gazette to the St. Louis Journal as an editorial writer. Mrs. Field remained in St. Joseph, waiting for funds to settle up and join him, but on Nov. 12, 1876, Field was writing her that he had so far been unable to raise the money for his St. Joseph debts. It may be noted here that on Nov. 5, 1895, the City Council of St. Joseph was to adopt a formal resolution of regret upon his death as "a calamity to the civilized world."

Finds Rooms at 1410 Olive Street.

"I have found two rooms at 1410 Olive street that I think will suit us," Field wrote, in a script so fine that a typewritten copy of five pages of small note paper covers seven sheets of letterhead size. "The landlady proposes to rent them to us unfurnished, with board, fires and gas and accommodations and board for one servant for $65 per month." Significantly he estimated that without the servant the rent might be cut to $50. And the reader may judge for himself whether local entertainment or politics has changed, from the following:

"The theaters have been stupid This week they will have Italian opera at De Bars and Chanfrau in 'Kit the Arkansas Traveler' at the Olympic. It is possible that I will go to Jefferson City at the opening of the Legislature but will not remain more than a week—that is, if the session does not prove of more importance than is now anticipated."

"Boloney" was used by earlier cartoonists than Rube Goldberg, as appears in a caricature by Art Young, dated Feb. 12, 1892, from Field's own library. Field is shown with a forefinger to his forehead and an elbow resting on the head of a sculptured Horace, whose shoulders seem hunched under the weight. About Field's bald head and labeled "Culture's Garland" (the title of his first book) is a wreath of sausages.

Archaic Style in Nursery.

Fields's giddy fancy shows in a reduction of the pseudo-archaic style to absurdity in a nursery rhyme, of which one stanza ought to be plenty:

It followed her to school one day
The which was sore against the rule.
To see the lamb at school
Did make the children laugh and play, withal.

But it did not show half so much there as in a professional request which the newspaper man sent to "Miss Marie Johnson, Grand Opera House" in the form of a handwritten sheet of music, "con expressione," with these lines:

"O lady with the radiant eyes, make me still more your debtor
By letting me use what part I choose of your bright and charming letter:
Please—please—please; oh, please let me use that letter—the letter—oh please!"

"There is perhaps no one to whom letter writing is, as a practice (I had almost said habit), more of a horror than it is to me," he wrote from London on Jan. 9, 1890, to M. L. Gray of St. Louis, who had been his guardian and remained his friend. "The conventional letter seems to me to be a dreadful thing—twice dreadful (as Portia's quality of mercy was twice blessed), an affliction to the sender and equally an affliction to the recipient."

Comment on His Sons.

He related that his children were attending German schools, adding, "In her last letter Trotty says, with a naivete that is simply electric: 'Nobody would guess that the boys were your boys— they are so gentlemanly'!"

Many of the manuscripts are unpublished. Among them is the "Yankee Abroad," which winds up:

For, go where I may
On my wandering way
I give little heed to whatever folks say;
Wherever I am
I don't care a ——
For I know I'm a nephew of old
Uncle Sam.

The dash was his.

Among them also is a page of prose, scrawled across with the editor's "kill" and the note, "Dear Field; This would give serious offense to a good many people." It was one about the traveling salesman. This time he heard "The Messiah" and protested:

"I like singing, but I draw the line where a lot of old maids rise up at one end of a platform and sing, 'Unto me a child is born,' while a lot of husky, long-whiskered old bachelors rise up at the other end and answer 'Wonderful! Wonderful! Wonderful!'"

A manuscript dated Nov. 10 at New Orleans concludes:

Night wind, through the lattice sweeping,
Cease thy wooing of the rose—
Whisper to my darling sleeping,
Lull his soul to sweet repose.
Tell him of the rose tree blooming
In the yonder quiet vale,
And the rose, whose rare perfuming
Steals thy heart, O evening gale!
Tell him of the prayerful blessing
Of the heart that lives to weep—
Tell him that, with fond caressing,
Mother love will guard his sleep—
Mother love will guard his sleep!

Arranges to Pay Debts.

The very first letter in the collection dated Sept. 22, 1894, is a request of Field that his employer, Victor F. Lawson, publisher of the Chicago Record, pay Mrs. Field $50 of his weekly salary and devote the remainder to debts, mostly bills incurred in his frequent illnesses, amount to $2000. With it is Lawson's order that the request be folowed "WITHOUT DEVIATION."

Among his manuscripts is a mock epitaph, closing:

His last brave words, as eke his soul
Transcended every human fetter,
Were these: "Old Field, upon the whole
I never had a more constant debtor."

A memorandum covered with figures, indicating that checks for $1613 left Field with $374 in bank, is accompanied by "A Fable" in verse about a "barren field" and "a tree with golden fruit" which "will drop not a sou on the field."

Many pressroom traditions concern Field's genius for getting into debt, and his ingenious escapes from it. There is the story that he ran up an inordinate bill at a Sarah and Olive barroom, but one night brought in a large and lively party whose festivities more than balanced the bill. The bartender—so the old-timers say—called Field aside and said the bill was considered settled.

"What'll you have, boys?" asked Field, calling his crowd to the bar. "I believe it's customary, when a bill is settled, for the house to stand treat."

Creditors Help Him Go.

There also is the story that when Field left St. Louis "for Chicago" he called his creditors together. The meeting overflowed the Four Courts pressroom and adjourned to Druid's Hall. Field spoke so seductively that the tradesmen not only agreed to let him out of sight, but to "invest in his genius" to the extent of paying his fare.

That, however, must be somewhat inaccurate, for in his "Auto-Analysis" Field relates that when he left St. Louis in 1880 it was to become managing editor of the Kansas City Times. Therein he set down such off-hand shots as these:

"I believe in ghosts, in witches and in fairies. I should like to own a big astronomical telescope and a 24-tune music box. * * * I have no unconquerable prejudice against feminine beauty. * * * I do not love ALL children. * * * I dislike crowds and I abominate functions."

And written in at an angle is a line deleted from the published version—"I do not care particularly for so-called literary people; they make me weary."

BERLIN BARS NEBUCHADNEZZAR

Won't Allow Parent to Inflict Name on Boy.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 16.—Nebuchadnezzar Amanullah was the name which a Berlin father named Mueller wanted to give to his first-born to distinguish him from the many thousands of Muellers in the Berlin directory. But the Registrar of Births shook his head.

There were limits to Christian names for babies, he said, and Mueller was overstepping them. The parent replied that he had spent many a sleepless night thinking of a front name that sounded really distinguished. He was told to think again. The registrar refused to admit "Hindenburgia," "Proletaria" and "Cannonia" as names chosen by parents for girl babies.

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair
If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.
It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.
You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

New Recipe for Coloring Gray Hair
By LOIS PAGE
One of the questions most frequently asked me is: "What shall I do for my graying hair?" Unhesitatingly I recommend that tried and proven recipe of sage tea and sulphur. A brew of common garden sage with sulphur and alcohol added, makes the best hair restorer I know of.
You can either prepare the mixture yourself at home, or, as most people prefer to do, buy it already prepared and ready to use. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur is the name of the read-to-use preparation and, since all druggists sell it at 75c a bottle, there is really no need of going to the bother of making it yourself.
You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it and draw it through the hair, one strand at a time. One application banishes the gray, and one or two more completely restores your gray, faded or streaked hair to its original color. There is no hard, dyed look. The whole effect is one of perfect naturalness. Thousands of men and women use this preparation with no one suspecting it.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH DEDICATION

Five Days' Program Begins With Services Starting This Morning.

The dedication of the First Congregational Church, Wydown boulevard and University Lane, will be preceded at 10 a. m. today by memorial services in honor of James Joseph Timmons, the small son of Dr. Wofford Colquitt Timmons, pastor of the church, who was killed recently by an automobile. Boys and girls will participate in the dedication of a fountain to be known as the "Jimmie Joe Timmons Memorial Fountain," which Dr. and Mrs. Timmons have given the church.

The dedication of the auditorium and tower of the new church, which have been completed and joined to the chapel in which the congregation has met for 14 years, will begin at 11 a. m. A five-day program is announced in observance of the occasion, including interchurch services and community dinners.

The Rev. Dr. Ozora Sterns Davis, president of the Chicago Theological Seminary, will preach at the dedication service this morning, and also at evening services.

The Zelle Memorial organ in the church will be dedicated tomorrow evening. Tuesday evening a church school banquet will be held with Chancellor Throop of Washington University and Dr. Thomas W. Nadal, president of Drury College, as speakers.

The spring meeting of the St. Louis Association of Congregational Churches will be held at the church Wednesday and a community banquet and Church Federation service Thursday evening.

MAN SHOULD LIVE 150 YEARS, RUSSIAN SCIENTIST ASSERTS

Prof. Michael Tushnoff Is Experimenting on Means to Make Organs Last Longer.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, March 16.—Prof. Michael Pavlovitch Tushnoff's startling theories and experiments in stimulating life have aroused widespread discussions in scientific circles.

He holds that human life would average at least 150 years if all the textures and organs of the body would wear out proportionately, and is seeking a method that would assure this condition.

Death, says this scientist, does not result from wear and tear of the textures, but from the acute interruption of the functions of one or more of the most important bodily organs.

Prof. Tushnoff, attaching great importance to the peculiarities of food assimilation in each living organism and the residue of poisonous matter collecting in textures and cells impeding the processes of various organs, has concluded that hypodermic or muscular injections of products made up of various deteriorated textures may stimulate the life processes of the organism—or, on the contrary, may cause atrophy; the nature of the reaction depends on the strength of the doses.

The latest experiments made by Tushnoff at the Kazan Veterinary Institute on both persons and animals gave splendid results in a short time. Experimenting on goats, Tushnoff increased their milk yield by 60 per cent. One hundred and eighty chickens shortly after receiving injections gained more than half their normal weight and some hens which had stopped laying eggs began again to lay.

CHARACTERS DECLAIM LINES IN NEW STYLE ITALIAN OPERA

America to Have Chance to Hear "Fra Gherardo" by Ildebrando Pizzetti.

ROME, March 16.—Something new under the opera sun has come to Rome in "Fra Gherardo," by Ildebrando Pizzetti. It is discussed here as "the heretical opera." America, it is understood, will have a chance to talk about it, too, as it is to be presented at the Metropolitan in New York.

Pizzetti has two other operas, "Phaedra" and "Deborah," to his credit. But Rome, unenthusiastic for the radical, is just now hearing the first of Pizzetti, and is not entirely sure of what it thinks.

Pizzetti's method is something new—that is, new for the modern world. The gist of it is that the characters of his operas do not sing to the music of the orchestra. They declaim their lines, and the orchestra plays merely a kind of setting for the declamations.

This method, says Pizzetti, follows that employed by the ancients.

Pizzetti's idea is that music in the opera ought never to have a character of embellishment, but to be intsead the direct and genuine expression of the drama.

Pizzetti makes full use of choruses—according to some, too much use of them. In "Fra Gherardo" the chorus chants and declaims hymns somewhat after the order of the old Greek choruses.

Clears Up Bad Skin

When blackheads mar your beauty remove them this easy way. Never squeeze!—large pores will result. Safest way to clear up bad skin is to dissolve blackheads all at one time. Ask druggist for two ounces powdered calonite, simply sprinkle on hot, wet towel, apply and presto! —they're gone! You've never seen anything like it. Results are simply amazing—even in worst cases. And don't tolerate wrinkles. Simple, safe, home method removes them instantly. Get two ounces of eptol at druggist, mix with water and teaspoonful of glycerine. Makes delightful, rich cream. Spread lightly over face, neck and around eyes. Hungry tissues absorb it rapidly as you work well into skin until gone. Then see the amazing transformation!—wrinkles, frown, age lines, crow's-feet—gone! Leaves skin smooth, firm, lovely. Genuine eptol is most dependable—be sure you get it.

58 LETTERS IN NAME ROUT POSTMASTER

Welsh Town Succeeds in Ousting Englishman Who Could Not Pronounce It.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 16.—The little Anglesey town of Llanfairpwllgyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllandsiliogogogoch, pronunciation of whose oversize name of 58 letters challenges the tongues of all except those most expert in the ancient language of Wales, has just won a case from the government which finally was aired in the House of Commons.

The English translation on the name is: "St. Mary's Church-On-The-Hill-Of-Whitehazels-Near-The-Whirlpool-By-The-Church-Of-Dysilio-Near-The-Red-Cave." The inhabitants are proud of this polysyllabic cognomen and jealous of its fame.

"Llanfair P. G.," as the natives call the place until they are old enough and long-winded enough to pronounce it, suffered the outrage of having an Englishman appointed as its postmaster. It was just too much for the sentimental feelings of the citizenry. Besides Postmaster Crick could not speak Welsh.

Sir Robert Thomas, member of the House of Commons for Anglesey, held up the legislation of the Empire while Parliament discussed the issue. Indignant Welsh members declared the name of their home town had been misspelled in the parliamentary calendar; others called on Mitchell Thomson, the Postmaster General, to try and pronounced it.

"It begins with Llanfair . . . and ends with gogoch," announced the Cabinet member triumphantly. "Perhaps with all this influenza about I had better not pronounce it."

Then amid cheers he announced the capitulation of the government.

Postmaster Crick had resigned. A Welshman would be appointed to the post.

Sir Robert Thomas took one more shot at the Government. He insisted that the new postmaster be able to pronounce the town's name . . . and he rolled, gurgled, sputtered, gasped and gargled each and every syllable. Breathless, but triumphant, he sat down. The House of Commons rocked with cheers.

Viscount Sandon brought Parliament back to its sense of responsibility. "Does this word count as one in a telegram?" he asked.

"Yes," answered the Postmaster-General without the loss of an iota of ministerial dignity.

"Courtesy" Tickets for Motorists.

By the Associated Press.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., March 16.—Visiting motorists who violate Morristown's police parking rules will receive a ticket containing a list of historical and other places in and out town worthy of a visit. The notice will be known as a "courtesy ticket," says Police Chief H. H. Wildey's announcement. It will call attention to the infringement, but inform the owner of the car that he is to be shown every courtesy possible during his stay. Then will follow the list of show places, but no order to appear in Police Court.

VELMA HINLEY

"Happiest Girl in Missouri"

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything you can secure from home prepared fruit juices, by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California Figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how bilious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, under-nourished children respond to its gentle influence: how their breath clears up, color flames in their cheeks, and they become sturdy, playful, energetic again. A Missouri mother, Mrs. Wm. Hinley, 821 Madison Ave., St. Louis, says: "My daughter, Velma, became so constipated that I was badly worried. Then I decided to give her some California Fig Syrup. It stopped her constipation quick; and the way it improved her color and made her pick up made me realize how run-down she had been. She is so sturdy and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say she's the happiest girl in Missouri."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is imitated, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

PLANES VICTUAL OUTPOSTS OF MARINES IN NICARAGUA

Journey to Ocotal That Formerly Required Two Weeks Now Made in 90 Minutes.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, March 16.—Airplanes have become the chief means of victualing the outposts of United States Marines in Nicaragua. Less than a year ago long trains of oxcarts and pack animals were started out from bases at Leon and Managua during the dry season with supplies which were expected to last for many months. From May to January Ocotol, the chief northern base, could not be reached, except by pack trains and because of the condition of the roads and it required from 10 days to two weeks for the animals to struggle over the 140 miles of roads.

Today with five transport planes in service, virtually all foodstuffs required for more than 1000 Marines in the northern area can be transported from Managua to Ocotol in an hour and a half. There are no landing fields near the majority of the posts so the planes drop supplies for the camps. For example, on two successive days of January 2350 pounds of supplies were dropped from the air for the detachments of Capt. Merrit A. Edson, who commands the northernmost patrol, operating near the Honduran border.

President Wilson a Victim Of French Cajolery in Making Peace, Says Lloyd George

American Executive "Bound Hand and Foot" Former Premier Declares in Reviewing Winston Churchill's Latest Book on World War.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.
(Copyright 1929. All rights reserved.)
LONDON, March 16 (by cable).

OF all the numerous histories of the World War and its sequel which have poured out from the press during the last few years, that which emanated from the pen of Winston Churchill is much the most brilliant.

His latest volume of the World Crisis Series is in some respects the most interesting and the most valuable of the four. That is probably accounted for by the fact that he is dealing with issues that are still on the boil—the treaty of Versailles, reparations, disarmament, French security and Russian Bolshevism.

The reading public of the world is for the time being not much interested in military feats or failures. Readers are sick of war and the story of the battles and maneuvers of the great war no longer enthral them.

Winston Churchill's latest volume deals with the urgent and practical problems of peace. We are much too near the World War, with the passions it aroused, to be able to form a calm and unbiased judgment as to its causes, its conduct or its immediate sequel. Moreover, most of the books hitherto written on these subjects have been composed either by men who actually took a part, great or small, in the shaping of events or in the controversies that followed. That detracts from their value as accurate and reliable records of these events. Nevertheless, they will supply material for the historian when he appears a generation hence.

Has Detached View.

When it is borne in mind that Churchill was personally associated with many if not most of the incidents he so graphically depicts, the measure of impartiality and fairness with which he tells his tale is highly creditable. He has, of course, his own point of view, and makes that apparent, but on the whole he writes with commendable detachment and is just to those from whom he differed.

Winston Churchill played a considerable part in the making of the story which he relates in these four volumes. His most notable contribution to the Allied victory was the tank. Those who claim credit for inventing it are legion, but there is only one man who could legitimately claim that he made it possible as an experiment and that he subsequently forced it on the military authorities as an integral part of the offensive weapons of their armies, and that is Winston Churchill. It is attributable to his imagination and initiative that it found its way to the battlefield and played so conspicuous a part in breaking through the German entrenchments.

His most debatable contribution to the war was the Dardanelles. For the idea of that campaign he was responsible although he is certainly not entirely responsible for its failure. The effect of that episode on the course of the war has not yet been weighed by any impartial and competent observer. I cannot pretend to be unbiased. for I always had grave misgivings as to its strategical soundness. Was it a good plan mishandled, or was it altogether a misconceived adventure?

Failure Prolonged War.

Would its success have effectively opened a fairway to the Black Sea and thus shortened the war, or would the Straits have been blocked behind the fleet by mines or artillery planted on the Asiatic shore? Would it then have been necessary to send an army to Asia Minor to fight the whole unbroken strength of Turkey on that shore? These and many other questions will have to be answered before the Dardanelles strategy can be either condemned or commended.

That the whole enterprise was thoroughly muddled by all concerned in it there can be no question. Nor can there be any doubt that its failure prolonged the war by heartening Turkey and determining Bulgaria to throw in its lot with the Central Powers. The sum of the damage inflicted on the Allied cause by this ill-starred venture cannot be computed merely in casualties, but the responsibility must not rest entirely on the shoulders of Winston Churchill.

The campaign against Bolshevism he inherited when he came into the War Office, as he himself very justly points out. It was part of the effort made by the Allies in 1917 or 1918 to reconstruct the front against Germany in the East. It was vital to cut them off from the grain, copper and oil which the Russian Empire provided. The Bolshevist regime capitulated in October, 1917, and the gateway to these stores which were essential to the success of Germany was left wide open to the German armies, and it was closed and padlocked in their faces by remnants of the Russian army under Gen. Alexeiff, with the assistance of the Czecho-Slovak army, which was organized out of the prisoners captured from time to time during the war.

Various Views of Tactics

There may be two opinions as to whether Churchill converted this legitimate war measure into a political campaign against Communism. It is difficult to decide when he could have stopped without laying himself open to the charge of abandoning to their fate the men who had gallantly fought the battle of the Allies and had rendered an essential service to the Allied cause at a critical juncture.

Apart from the literary quality of its style, this last volume has one supreme merit as a historical book, that in judging events and the men who handled them, he makes just allowance for the temper and conditions of the time. If the treaty of peace had been negotiated today—that is, 10 years after the last shot had been fired and four or five years after the signs of devastation had been obliterated—the task of the negotiators would have been easier.

When the four met in that gloomy room in President Wilson's house in Rue Nitot, we had just emerged from a war where France had lost 1,500,000, the British Empire nearly 1,000,000, and Italy had lost 500,000 of their young men. More had been crippled and mutiliated. We met wounded everywhere hobbling along the streets, or lying along the balconies of improvised hospitals.

The northern departments of France had been devastated beyond recognition. A tour through the picturesque old towns and villages of this shell-shattered area was like a visit to the ruins of Ephesus. Houses, churches, gardens and fields had been churned up by explosives into impassable desolation. Britain, France and Italy faced the future with a load of debt so high and so heavy that it looked more like a hideous nightmare than a reality which had to be shifted.

Burden Put on Germany.

Germany was responsible for all this catastrophe, and the bill had to be written out and delivered to her then and there. Securities must be exacted for its due payment. Above everything there must be effective guarantees that there would be no repetition of this vandalism which came near

CAPT. WILKINS, BACK FROM THE ANTARCTIC, TELLS OF DISCOVERIES WHICH CHANGE MAPS AND CHARTS OF SOUTH POLAR AREA

British Explorer Recounts Difficulties in Building Take-Off for Wheels When Sun Melted Frozen Snow and Made Use of Skiis on Airplane Impossible—Hampered by Myriad of Birds When in the Air.

The Post-Dispatch presents herewith the first installment of Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins' detailed narrative of his flights in the Antarctic last December which attracted world-wide attention and resulted in important discoveries that have revised existing geographies. Capt. Wilkins arrived in New York last Tuesday from the Antarctic.

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS,
Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.
(Copyright, 1929.)
NEW YORK, March 16.

MY third Antarctic journey is ended.

Years ago, toiling at the end of a heavy oar and tossing in an open lifeboat I struggled for 14 days at the feet of the Antarctic's majestic mountains and in that time mapped some 30 miles of unknown coastline. Throughout every waking hour I was awed by the stupendous majesty of the scenes unfolded. Every foot of the way was fought for. Every point of land had to be landed upon and a bitter half hour spent with freezing fingers manipulating a surveyor's transit. Hours and hours, sometimes a day of delay, was suffered because of clouds and low visibility.

Then came a thrilling three days sail before a storm. Only a corner of a sail was necessary. Three of us, one as lookout at the bow, one at the sail and I at the tiller, which was fractured and threatened to give way at every moment, were swept before a gale of wind and huge following seas for 50 hours without rest or sleep. Twice we ran aground on hidden rocks. We jettisoned our food and ballast and was washed off again, the boat half full of water. It floated because of water tight compartments. Only the sturdiness of the boat and destiny saved us.

Lure of the Ice Inspired Latest Trip.

I returned to civilization with an awesome fear of the Antarctic. Yet I had a mind to dare again. There is something thrilling about a place where one has faced great risks.

My next Antarctic visit, with Shackleton, was made in a ship 112 feet long. We slowly pushed our way through several thousand square miles of pack ice. At one point for six weeks the pack ice held us fast in its icy grip. It appeared as though we would be forever held in the arms of Her Majesty the Queen of the Antarctic. I learned to adore her and her whims and fancies as each day she appeared in spangled icy dresses, scintillating color, and fascinating everyone who could comprehend her presence. I for one would have felt pleasure for eternity in her embraces. But a mighty iceberg, no doubt jealous of our attentions, came along, smashed the pack ice, and released our ship. We returned to civilization eight years ago.

I journeyed South this last year hoping to woo the royal lady of my acquaintance. I returned conscious of having done nothing more than having rudely stumbled upon her bathing in her private pool.

We had carried our two Lockheed-Vega monoplanes to Deception Island at the edge of Antarctia on board the Hektoria Whaling Co.'s 15,000-ton transport ship Hektoria and were comfortably established with the ship as our headquarters. There we lived in a degree of comfort not excelled on an ocean liner.

In anticipation of using snow surfaces for takeoff, with weather cleared, we changed our pontoons for skiis and the machines stood in readiness about half a mile from the ship.

Dull clouds with low ceiling continued for many days. The snow was damp and sticky. Unable to do any useful work, even if we had gone into the air, we decided to avoid unnecessary risk and kept the machines on the ground.

A photograph of Capt. Wilkins taken last week in New York, after his return from the Antarctic, and above, views of his two planes which were used by him on expedition.

Then came a period of unusually warm weather. Snow disappeared from the hills as if by magic. Water formed six inches deep on the flat bay ice. Our snow covered skii field disappeared in a night. There was nothing to do but clear away the hillside, remove our skiis, and use wheels for trial flights.

Under the circumstances it might have been advisable to replace our floats but there was always the possibility of the water in the harbor being blocked with ice on the days when the weather was fine. The menace of bird life in the harbor was serious and might easily lead to trouble. With the help of 20 whalers we cleared the loose stones for a 40-foot runway on a projecting peninsula of volcanic cinders.

The peninsula at its base was less than one mile wide. To cross it required the climbing of one slight rise, a turn of 20 degrees, gliding down an incline, climbing another slope to a hill crest 100 feet above the starting point and then turning at an agle down the other side—a complicated proceedure for a heavily laden fast moving ice plane. It was more so, because the surface was soft and gravelly and there was always the risk of turning a wheel inside out.

The weather continued warm and cloudy with short intervals of sunshine. These intervals were used to test the machines in flight and to search the neighborhood for a better landing field. From the air the land locked harbor of Deception Island could be clearly seen.

Breaking Through Ice After Plane Landed.

The neighboring islands ranged higher than Deception and they were more snow covered, but the mountains rose sheer from the sea. They shed many steep glaciers, the reticulated feet of which reached out into the water making it almost impossible to approach the mountains from the sea level.

We flew for many hours about these majestic masses, and at last when the sun's slanting rays allowed the warm air currents to form engirdling clouds, we turned our fleet-winged monoplane and followed the shadowed coast to our temporary home.

One day we essayed to try a landing with wheels upon the fast disappearing sea-ice in the bay. It was in this we took our greatest risk and suffered a remarkably narrow escape.

It seemed possible that if we could, on an unusually cold day, land with wheels, change quickly to skiis, put on our load and take off at once we might in that manner be able to remove our base to some point further south. One morning Eielson made a perfect landing on the ice far down the bay. The machine slithered along the smooth surface for three hundred yards, then at the moment of coming to rest, struck a soft spot and plunged through into the water. The broad wings held it from disappearing with its pilot still on board.

Eielson crawled out uninjured and after a strenuous and extremely dangerous 10 hours work and with the kindly and timely help of 20 Norwegian whalers we had the satisfaction of seeing the machine safe on solid ice. It was not much the worse for its ducking.

In a few days we had overhauled the sea-coated engine and had the machine flying in the air. That one adventure was sufficient to assure us that we could not use the harbor ice or skiis on Deception Island that season. Normally, from observations recorded each year since 1914, the harbor ice is strong and solid until Christmas. Our adventure happened on the first day of Decemebr.

We had regretfully come to the conclusion that our first long effort would perforce be made from the gravelly landing field, but before that could be done there was much improvement to be made on its surface.

We had carried out our test flights, met with distressing adventures and had come to realize that we could not hope to enter the realms of Her Majesty of the great white South without a struggle and great risk.

Off on a Flight To View New Lands.

A peculiar spell of warmth and quite unusual rain had melted the snow and formed pools of water everywhere. Then suddenly the clouds gave way to perfect sunshine. Our field was not yet prepared so we decided to try a trip with pontoons—one machine was then so equipped, the other with wheels. We hoped with pontoons to fly south, land on the snow and make a depot of supplies. Fearing the hazards and a wholesale slaughter of sea birds which throng the harbor, we set off for a trial flight. A motor boat preceded us. Our speed soon excelled that of the motor boat and we drove our way through the whirring, squawking pigeons, nallies, sea gulls, terns and Mother Carey's chickens, fortunately missing them in our take-off.

With even a light load the machine was sluggish on the water but facing a breeze we managed to rise and once in the air the machine behaved perfectly. We descended to take on a greater load and as we came gliding down the air seemed full of sea birds. It was impossible to miss them all.

There was a crash as the body of a large bird struck the propeller hub, a momentary hesitation of the engine and a gasp of fear from pilot Joe Crossan, and myself. But Crossan, always dependable, soon righted the machine and we came smoothly to the water. The cowling and the leading edge of the wing was smeared with blood and feathers but the machine, except for a dented stream line was undamaged.

We took on our supplies, and although we tried in ideal conditions we could not leave the water. There was nothing to do but transfer our equipment, further clear the runway, and using the land machine, have faith in our Whirlwind engines.

The final clearing of the field was easier said than done. Much of the surface was of volcanic tuff and lava lying in ridges like huge furrows on a field deeply plowed. In some places we had to remove two feet from the surface: at others, fill in ditches several inches deep and many feet wide. Our friends,

Hoover, Two Weeks on Job, Is Running Things His Way; Cabinet to Do His Bidding

Good Beginning Made, Friendly Relations With Press Established—How He Will Handle Congress Remains to Be Seen.

By Charles G. Ross, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, March 16.

WASHINGTON for the moment is a one-ring circus. The Supreme Court is in recess, with the O'Fallon case, the New York 5-cent fare case and other large issues yet to be decided, and the Seventy-first Congress, though technically in office, is still to begin functioning.

The limelight, therefore, beats almost exclusively on the head of the new President.

In the view even of observers inclined to be highly critical, Herbert Hoover has made a good start. His Cabinet is not a galaxy of luminaries, but it appears to be of sound administrative ability. It is not, of course, precisely the cabinet that Hoover would have chosen if he had been untrammeled by political considerations, but it comes measurably close to that standard.

It is a cabinet of men who will work with the President in the execution of policies which he himself will originate and for which he must bear the responsibility. The general makeup of the body indicates that the President, in several of the departments of Government will be to all intents and purposes his own cabinet minister.

A Strong Hooverian Flavor.

To the largest extent since Wilson, the foreign policy of the Nation will be guided directly from the White House. The policy of the Department of Commerce will continue to be what Hoover himself, as head of the department, made it. The farm relief plan to be offered in the special session of Congress, beginning April 15, will be the President's plan. Under both Harding and Coolidge, he was often, in effect, the Labor Minister, and now that he holds the reins he will more than ever determine the course to be followed by the amiable Mr. James J. Davis. With his close personal friend, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, heading the Interior Department, it is safe to assume that not only the oil-leasing policy of the Government, but all the others for which that department stands sponsor will come to have a strong Hooverian flavor.

All this—and more of the same sort that might be said with respect to the other departments—is but another way of stating the obvious fact that Mr. Hoover will take upon himself the active direction of a good share of the Government's business. For better or worse he will be a positive force in the presidency. His method furnishes a perfect contrast with that of Harding, who relied upon the composite wisdom of his cabinet of "best minds" to run the country.

Better Relations With Press.

One of the real achievements of Mr. Hoover's first two weeks in office has been the establishment of an improved relationship with the press. I doubt whether the importance of the regular twice-a-week meetings of the President with the Washington newspaper writers is fully realized. Save for the infrequent public addresses of the President, these press conferences, as they are called, furnish the only direct channel for the communication of the President's views to the public. In a sense, they are a substitute for the questions-and-answers period in the British House of Commons.

Regular press conferences were held at the White House under Wilson until the entrance of the United States into the World War. Harding restored them. At first, like Wilson, he permitted oral questions: but after an incredible blunder during the Washington arms conference, when he casually gave to a pending treaty an interpretation quite different from that of the State Department, he decreed that questions must be submitted in writing. This system was continued under Coolidge.

The relations of the press with Mr. Coolidge, considering the limitations of the system, were fairly satisfactory. Though, as was his privilege, he sometimes shuffled questions to the bottom of the heap and ended the interview without answering them, he did make known his views on a good many problems. On some occasions he was positively loquacious. Indeed, it must have seemed to those readers who were not deceived by the thin veil of mystery thrown about the "White House Spokesman" that the President sometimes went out of his way to deliver pontifical utterances on a wide range of topics.

The "Spokesman's" Defects.

The principal defect of the system, both under Mr. Coolidge and under his predecessors, was the rigid ban that it placed upon direct quotation of the President. No matter how innocuous the utterance, it could not be attributed to the President but could only be used under some concealing guise. Hence arose the circumlocutions "It was made known at the White House today," "It was learned on the highest authority," and the like. Finally, during the Coolidge regime, there was evolved, simply as a convenient peg on which to hang the sayings of the President, the famous "White House Spokesman."

In fairness to Mr. Coolidge it should be said that he did not create the "Spokesman," or, as he was sometimes called, the "Spooksman." The news writers themselves called him into being, and they did it for the sole reason that he relieved them of the necessity of resorting to circuitous and awkward phraseology in reporting the White House conferences. He served a useful purpose, and no doubt he would have lived right down to the end of the Coolidge administration if the President himself had not killed him. He killed him in secret, and thereby imposed upon the correspondents the perplexing problem of how to tell of the death of the spokesman at the hands of the spokesman, when it was forbidden to say that such a creature as the spokesman had ever existed! The difficulty was solved when Pat Harrison got up in the Senate and told of the spokesman's life and inglorious death.

The no-quotation system had the fault, as Mr. Coolidge saw, of putting the President in the position of handing out gratuitous statements on all sorts of subjects, when he was merely answering requests of the reporters for information. It was the realization of this fact that made him kill the spokesman.

From the newspaper point of view, it had the further and graver disadvantage of placing the responsibility for any White House outgiving solely upon the press. If any statement by the President had an unpleasant flareback, it was within the power of the President completely to disown it, as Mr. Coolidge once did in the case of some critical remarks he had made about a speech by former Ambassador Jusserand.

The system made it possible, moreover, for the President to put up "trial balloons" without any risk to himself. If the policy represented by the balloon caught the public fancy, the President could take full credit for it. If it fell flat, the President was safe from all blame, for officially he had never promulgated the policy; only

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

In the Observation Ward.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAD an interesting experience the other day. While visiting the observation ward on behalf of an unfortunate friend, I chatted with some of the patients. One especially impressed me. He was very intelligent looking. Externally he seemed to be all right. So I asked him how he came to be there.

He replied: "I have made a great discovery, which I am trying to give to the world, and my friends insist that I have gone nutty."

"Ah!" said I, "perpetual motion?"

"Oh, no! Something extremely practical," he replied. "It has to do with the operations of the capitalistic system. It is well known that all countries now have an almost constant condition of over-production or glut, which results in economic ruin to the farmers, the decimation of the small business class, irregularity of employment, and to a fierceness of competition in selling that is almost hysterical. It is also well known now that for the masses to be frugal, to save, would create a ruinous condition in all business. Each new process increases the productivity of labor, reduces the number of employes required, and strikes especially at those whose skill is no longer required."

"I see," said I, "and your great discovery is what?"

"Well, sir, like all world-changing ideas, it is very simple," replied the old man. "I have been trying to form an organization composed of the wealthiest citizens in the upper brackets, who would make up an annual Prosperity Fund, of say a billion dollars. This billion dollars would be distributed throughout the country, so much to each town, and further prorated to the retail establishments, and for which new and saleable merchandise would be purchased. This merchandise would be destroyed publicly." Here the old man looked at me with a trace of apprehension. "Go on," said I.

"Well, you can see," said he, "how this would jazz up business. The retailer would have to order more goods from the wholesalers, the wholesalers would order more from the factories, the factories would call upon the producers of raw material—the railroads would get increased tonnage, and the unemployed who now clutter up the offices of the employment agencies and charitable organizations or who are mooching on their relatives, would all have jobs; bootleggers would turn to honest toil. Undercover workers and paid agents of the Anti-Saloon League could reform and become again good neighbors and worthy citizens; people could take Hennery Ford's advice and spend hilariously, for there would always be more wages where the last came from.

"Oh, it would be grand," and the old man's eyes burned, "grand to live in a world such as this will be when my great plan goes into effect. Undreamed of prosperity for all; no beggars, no paupers, no community chest, everybody with a bank account, everybody on a spending jamboree, Saturday nights the stores crowded with mothers and fathers filling their baskets with glad abandon; young men and women getting married with no thought of the morrow; preachers happy, as the collection plate comes in filled and overflowing; bill collectors transferred to the factory or selling floor; credit men living out their allotted spans of life; unlimited crops of new millionaires annually, graduating into the class of super-patriots, who make up the annual Prosperity Fund. And I have figured out that by 1936——"

Just then an attendant spoke: "Visiting hours over. Say good-by to the gentleman," and led the old man away.

F. P. O'HARE.

Another St. Louis-Memphis Route.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

REFERRING to your editorial, "Missouri's Opportunity," I wish to call your attention to the fact that we have a perfect all-weather route from St. Louis to Memphis that is now in perfect condition—gravel and pavement—and about 50 miles shorter than the continuous 61 route.

Leave 61 at Patton and go through Lutesville, Advance, Bloomfield, Dexter, Bernie, Malden, turning east at Kennett and reaching 61 at Hayti and thence to Memphis. This route is all completed and passes through some wonderful country and some beautiful towns.

Bernie, Mo. T. C. ALLEN.

Opposes Borough System.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Webster sewer fight is a good example of what we would let ourselves in for under the borough system—a fine chance for politicians and fee-grabbing lawyers that fatten on the taxpayers' money. It's the same crowd that defeated annexation in 1926, and now they come along with the borough system.

We, the people of St. Louis County, who pay the tax bills, want annexation, the real thing. We would have had it in 1926 if the politicians had not kept us from having watchers at the polls, and we won't let the politicians and the fee-grabbing lawyers beat us out of it again with Mr. Roessel's borough system.

ANNEXATIONIST.

FORMER MAYOR KIEL'S REGULARITY.

During the primary campaign for the Republican nomination for Mayor former Mayor Kiel was thoroughly dissatisfied with Mayor Miller and his administration. He criticised them severely. He charged that the municipal government under Mayor Miller had been guilty of waste and extravagance in the expenditure of bond issue funds and current revenues. These are serious charges and lie at the very roots of good government.

Today former Mayor Kiel is an ardent supporter of Mayor Miller for re-election. He will preside at the first meeting of the Miller campaign. He will defend the Miller administration. He will forgive, gloss over and ignore whatever sins he has accused the administration of committing.

Either Mr. Kiel fought a sham battle against Mr. Miller in the primary campaign, or he is now fighting a sham battle for Mr. Miller.

Mr. Kiel's excuse for his changed attitude toward the Miller administration is that Mayor Miller is the nominee of the Republican party, and being a Republican himself he must be regular. The mere fact that Mayor Miller is the party nominee makes him ipso facto the best candidate in the field, wholly regardless of the merits of any other candidate.

We cite this instance of the bonds of party regularity, because of its glaring conspicuousness, to demonstrate the sham of party politics. It is only one instance in many that are constantly occurring, showing the continuing sacrifice in practical politics and among politicians of the public interest to party interest. Both party leaders and party voters support party nominees merely because they are party nominees. In many cases they support the worst nominee on account of party considerations.

This condition prevails in national, State and municipal elections. It might be justified in rare cases in which a great principle of justice or liberty is involved. But in municipal elections there is no principle of that kind. Nothing is involved in municipal elections except the public welfare and honest and efficient government. When a voter sacrifices his convictions to party regularity in a municipal election, his sole consideration is the advantage of party and his personal advantage in being regular. He votes to give the party power and patronage, regardless of consequences.

It is not for the purpose of comparing the merits of the candidates for Mayor in the pending municipal election that we mention Mr. Kiel's rapid change of attitude, but to direct the public's attention to the effect of the bondage of party in politics. What confidence can be put in party government when party interest is paramount in the support of candidates for public office? Surely intelligent voters can see the possibilities of vicious results in blindly following party leadership. Their conscienceless subservience to party should warn voters to disregard party and vote on merits. The public welfare should be the voters' concern.

THE ROBOT'S PROGRESS.

Art, like truth, though crushed to earth, will not down. When that Robot of this mechanical age, the automatic vending machine, first made its appearance it seemed to care only for man's passing gustatory fancies. By inserting a penny in the slot and pushing a plunger, one might obtain gum, chocolate, peanuts and other innocent delights. Then came the penny weighing machine, predicated perhaps, on the theory that if one eats chocolates and peanuts it is wise to watch one's weight.

Progress made the Robot more utilitarian. It wasn't long before pie, doughnuts, coffee and shrimp a la creole could be gotten by the same fundamental coin and plunger method. More practical minded the Robot became; he seemed well on the way to becoming a Philistine entirely bereft of high sentiment. And now, just as we were about to give the fellow up for a hard-fisted plutocrat, he about faces most nobly—he turns to art. Witness, then, the advent of the "Copper Whopper," a penny-in-the-slot machine, conceived and invented by a St. Louisan, fostered by St. Louisans, a machine that now for the first time sees the light and sees it in St. Louis, and so doing offers short stories by such fellows as H. G. Wells, Emile Zola, Mark Twain and Guy de Maupassant for a penny each. We consider it a bright feather in this city's cap that the first Robot with an artist soul should be a citizen of this municipality.

BOOK BORROWERS HONEST.

Lyle Stephenson of Kansas City, in this State, who is given to collecting a library for himself, noting the other day that his shelves disclosed great vacant spaces, considered the situation. It was not that he needed new books; it was that his old volumes had been borrowed—and not returned. Mr. Stephenson's confusion was acute. He didn't remember who had borrowed which book; he couldn't think of all his borrowers, or remember the titles of his missing books. How was he to reach his public? Being an advertising man, he ran true to type. He inserted little ads in a newspaper. Books began to come in five at a time. Some he had forgotten he owned came back. Each post brought him old friends.

The result is that Mr. Stephenson is convinced that book borrowers are honest. His discovery is of an importance that must not be neglected in this iconoclastic age. When book borrowers will return books of their own volition, honesty still is triumphant, and faith in human nature survives. We salute the book borrowers of Kansas City.

THE SECOND PHASE.

After a decade of laissez faire, in which prohibition became a national jest, that ill-starred reform has moved into the second phase. Thus we have the Jones law.

Some people think the Jones law does more than increase the penalties for habitual offenders. They think it brings into operation an old Federal act under which to have guilty knowledge of a felony is also felonious. In our opinion, that is unlikely. It is true, as was repeatedly pointed out when the Jones law was debated in the Senate, that a Federal Judge under such an act may abuse his powers and become a tyrant. Nevertheless, it was expressly understood that the law is to apply only to those who habitually make and sell liquor. That is, to moonshiners and bootleggers.

Even so, prohibition is at this juncture exactly where the fugitive slave laws were when they passed into their second phase. Some of the States made it a felony for a juror to refuse to convict persons violating the fugitive slave act. Others went so far as to convict of felony Judges who refused to punish those violating the law. The United States Supreme Court held the fugitive slave acts constitutional, but Mr. Lincoln subsequently said that the will of the people is the law.

That must be so. Otherwise government with the consent of the governed would become impossible. If the people of the United States become convinced that prohibition is impracticable, their will alone can prevail. The Jones law brings this question to a crisis. All such questions become critical when compulsion is brought into the field as a means of forcing a great body of the people to do what is against their judgment.

THE CASE OF MR. LENROOT.

Irvine L. Lenroot, former United States Senator from Wisconsin, feels keenly, the failure of the Senate to confirm his nomination to the United States Court of Customs Appeal. He denies that he was a lobbyist for the Power Trust, which was the ground upon which the Senate failed to confirm him. Mr. Lenroot says he was retained, as any lawyer might have been.

The country will likely agree with the Senate. It is quite true that Mr. Lenroot is privileged to practice his profession wherever his services are required. However, there is an ethical distinction which enters into such a commission as he received from the Power Trust. The Walsh resolution was up, and the power people were exerting their full strength to beat it. It was felt at the Capitol that Mr. Lenroot was a powerful factor in the successful effort to avert investigation by a special committee headed by Senator Walsh.

The published record of the hearing on the resolution before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce certainly does create the impression that Mr. Lenroot, who had just recently left the Senate, was serving in a somewhat extraordinary capacity. The Louisville Courier-Journal doubts that the power people paid him $20,000, as reported at the time, for pure legal ability. It imagines they could have retained Mr. Hughes or Newton Baker for that, and cannot dissuade itself from the view to which Mr. Lenroot objects.

Perhaps our own and politically lamented James A. Reed of Missouri will clear up this ethic for the country so that everybody may understand it. The great Missourian has resumed the practice of law in Kansas City. He is at the height of his powers. No doubt other causes imperiled by the inquisitiveness of the Senate will look longingly in time to come upon his undoubted influence with that body.

If so, the country will expect from him a very clear definition of the proprieties in such matters.

NIAGARAS OF OIL.

President Hoover's decision to issue no more permits for prospecting for oil on public lands is based on two valid considerations. First, a determination to avoid the possibility of further scandal in which the policy of leasing such lands has been enmeshed. Second, the problem of actual and potential overproduction which confronts the oil industry.

Last year the United States produced 898,000,000 barrels of crude oil. We imported 79,000,000 barrels, exported 19,000,000 barrels and increased the amount in storage by 21,000,000 barrels. Our consumption, therefore, was 937,000,000 barrels.

There is no prospect of suddenly increasing the consumption of petroleum products, regardless of any cut in present prices. But our production, immense as it is, is scarcely more than a drop in the bucket compared to what it could be.

Consider, for example, the West Texas fields which were opened up in 1920. If operated at full capacity it is reliably estimated that those fields alone could produce 2,000,000,000 barrels a year, or 5,000,000 barrels a day—sufficient to supply the world's market. The output is now limited to 370,000 barrels a day by reason of restriction agreements and the prorating of transport facilities by the Texas Railroad Commission.

The deepest oil well in the world is in West Texas. It is 8520 feet deep and produces 1500 barrels per day. The claim is made, on the finding of modern geophysical instruments for locating oil deposits, that there are vast pools in that territory at depths of from 10,000 to 15,000 feet. This is only one of our oil fields. There are in the United States, according to the latest figures, 322,338 active oil wells. From some of them, to be sure—the old wells of Pennsylvania—only a trickle flows, say a halfbarrel a day. But there are gushing thousands, with unknown thousands more waiting to be let loose.

So, the Hoover policy of safeguarding the Government's supply of oil by withholding our public lands from exploitation is sound conservation. It is assuredly the long look ahead for which posterity will be grateful. The conditions of present supply, as here roughly sketched, not only sanction, but, it seems to us, compel Mr. Hoover's decision. The approval of public opinion may be confidently assumed, and the probability of Congress overriding the President's policy dismissed.

THE SUPER-GOLF ERA.

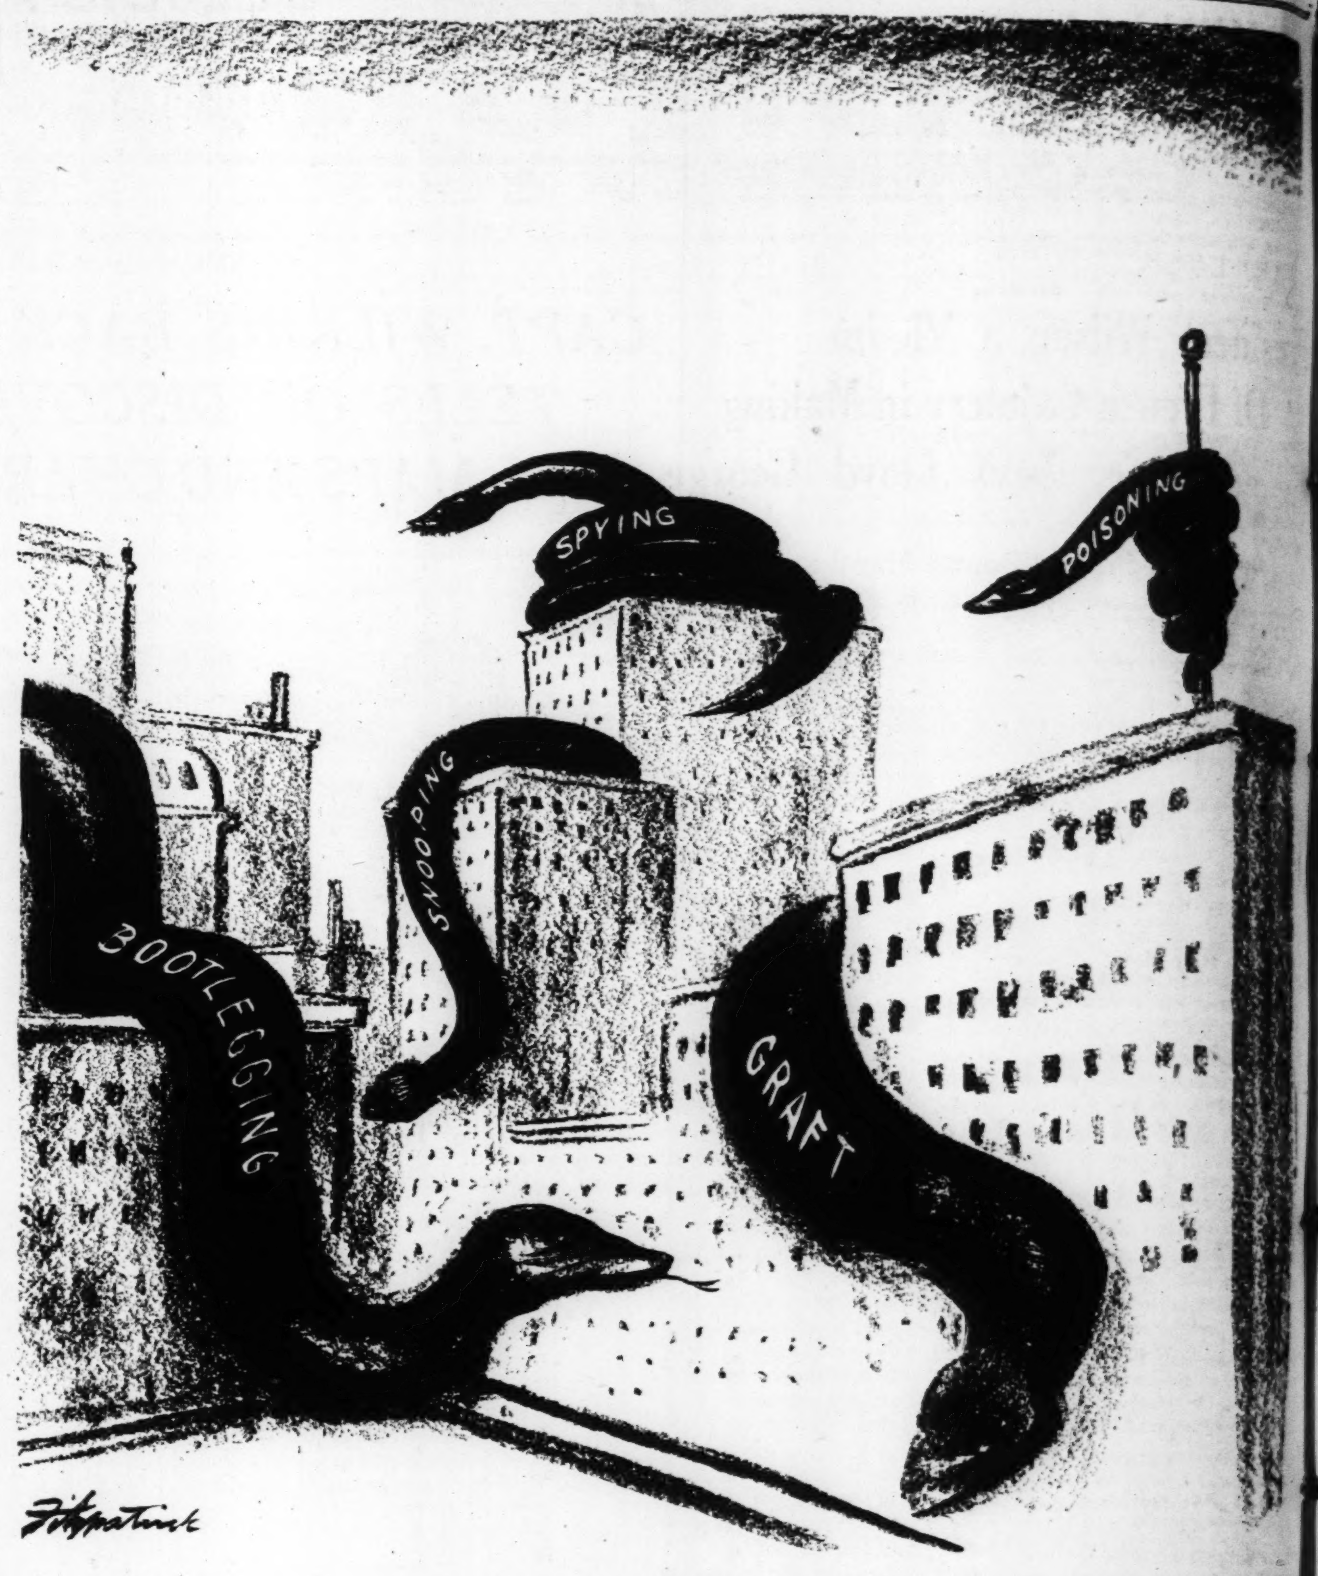
In golf, as in baseball, the livelier ball has long been the vogue. The 200-yard drive, once as rare as the home run, is now as commonplace as the Ruthian smash. Indeed, anything short of 300 yards from the tee now occasions practically no talk at all. Cognizant of all this, the authorities have been debating and have decided to excise the "rabbit" from the ball for the honorable purpose of reinstating the ancient game's pristine skill and venerable tortures.

Now comes the announcement of something new in club construction which is guaranteed to add from 40 to 50 yards to the driver, brassie and spoon, with proportionate distance to the irons. So the plan of the dictators to restore the old dwarfish dimensions has gone, as the poet observed, "agley."

What does this portend? Aplenty, brothers, a colossal and costly plenty. First, the present yardage of our courses will have to be extended if there is to be any real line of distinction between the pluperfects and the dubsters. Second, all the extant equipment is obsolete. It will be hard to part with some of the scarred old weapons, rich in the priceless memories of noble triumphs. Tears may be shed, but golfers, being of stern stuff, will junk their heirlooms. Third, a new technique will have to be acquired at the customary tuition. Fourth and finally, we don't believe that Satan, with all his ingenuity, can add 50 yards to any golfer's woods or irons or imagination.



CHANCE FOR ANOTHER ST. PATRICK.

The Myth of Disarmament

While the stage is being set for another disarmament conference, goings-on behind the scenes foreshadow its failure; United States, France, Italy, Russia, Japan and Great Britain are spending huge sums for armament; estimates for 1928-29 show a proposed expenditure of 13,205,000,000 gold francs, as against 10,160,000,000 in 1913

GENEVA.

AFTER a year of inactivity, the phantom of disarmament is again appearing. The next scene in the drama will be in Geneva on April 15, provided unforeseen upsets do not occur during the March Council meeting.

Today Germany is spending more per man on her little army than is any other country in Europe, and her armaments budgets have mounted faster, in proportion, than those of any of the big Powers. Bluntly put, Germany's disarmament propaganda is large buncombe—and the Germans themselves admit it. Repeated demands by the semi-Socialist Government that the Versailles treaty and League covenant be respected go well with the Socialist voters, but do not affect the fundamental fact.

As for England, the about-face of Sir Austen Chamberlain in approving an early meeting of the Preparatory Commission needs no explanation, unless it is to point out that:

1. A general election is just ahead and the opposition has made both economic retrenchment and curtailment of armaments expenditures issues in the campaign.

2. The United States is driving rapidly ahead on its big-navy program and the British Admiralty has always considered that prevention of the construction by a potential enemy of a war vessel in peace time is equivalent to the sinking of that vessel in war time.

3. The collapse of Mr. Coolidge's Geneva conference and the unfortunate trend of the Anglo-French naval compromise has left a political situation that must be remedied.

As for the French position, one need only point out that consenting to the demand of Germany for immediate continuation of disarmament discussions is a "cheap concession." France yields on an issue which costs Briand absolutely nothing, but means a considerable political gain for Herr Stresemann. Chamberlain, too, is always willing to throw crumbs to his colleage from the Wilhelmstrasse. Then again, the French have no intention of letting disarmament get out of their hands—or the hands of the League. Traditionally, militarism means more to France than to almost any other country. The French still cling to force as their greatest guaranty of security. The Quai d'Orsay and the general staff have never shown any disposition to let disarmament, as a movement, get beyond control. One of the reasons why France refused to participate in the Coolidge naval conference was that she had no desire to be placed in a position as awkward as that which faced her at Washington, where she was decisively outvoted and outmaneuvered diplomatically.

Then there is the Anglo-French naval compromise. After its collapse—and there are those who say that France counted on that very collapse—it was a bit disconcerting for Paris to watch the drift toward an Anglo-American naval rapprochement. That France could never tolerate. Of lesser importance, yet worth considering, was the "cheap concession," France's beau geste to Stresemann, which was also a sop to the German Reichstag. And at Lugano Stresemann was thankful enough for that.

So the situation stands. The League's commission—of Generals, Admirals, Air Marshals and a few statesmen—will assemble shortly. Ambassador Hugh Gibson, Washington's spokesman, has been called home for new instructions. Whether these will differ from the instructions of the past one can only guess. Since the Preparatory Commission last met the pact of Paris has been approved by a half-score of Governments. The Russian border states have signed their own peace pact and a few arbitration treaties have been negotiated. Outwardly, at least, "security," which so many countries have demanded as a prerequisite to disarmament or limitation of armaments, has come perceptibly nearer.

On the other hand:

The United States has authorized the construction of 15 cruisers, while the 1928-1929 military expenditures, as estimated by President Coolidge, are to be $658,000,000, as against $628,000,000 a year ago.

France—not considering her naval program—is spending 2,200,000,000 gold francs this year for defense. Last year she spent 1,929,000,000 gold francs as against 1,580,000,000 the year previous.

Italy—confessed believer in force—has allotted 1,324,000,000 gold lire for armaments in 1929 and spent more than 1,127,000,000 gold lire last year and 976,000,000 the year before.

Russia—who would scrap all military equipment—manages to raise 900,000,000 gold rubles for defense in 1928-1929, and spent 813,300,000 last year and 692,500,000 in 1926-1927.

And Germany! Disarmed by the peace treaties and with an army strictly limited numerically she has almost doubled her financial expenditures since 1924. On the force for which she spent 465,750,000 gold marks in 1924-1925 she spent 717,154,000 gold marks in 1927-1928.

The neutrals: Switzerland, which spent $7,700,000 in 1909, had more than doubled her expenditures by 1926. Sweden, after a century of peace, spent $42,900,000 in 1925-1926, against $24,100,000 in 1914. Spain spent $50,000,000 in 1913 and now is expending nearly $150,000,000 annually.

Great Britain—leaving out the dominions—appropriated more than £120,695,000 for military purposes in 1928-1929, as against £122,818,000 the previous year, or an actual decrease of 1.8 per cent—the only one of the great Powers to make a reduction.

Summing it up (leaving Germany out of consideration, since comparison of her prewar military expenditures with her present figures would be unfair) the big nations of the world—France, Great Britain, the United States, Italy, Japan and Russia—five years before the World War spent 8,011,000,000 gold francs yearly preparing for war. On the eve of the world conflict they spent (1913) 10,160,000,000 gold francs. Eight years after the armistice their expenditures surpassed 10,787,000,000 gold francs. The estimates for 1928-1929 (and estimates are always less than actual expenditures because of supplementary items) show these six nations preparing to spend the colossal figure of 13,205,000,000 gold francs!

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, March 16.

HOSTESSES who will come into Washington with the new administration are certain to find that their social knowledge, however extensive it may be, is not adequate to take care of every situation likely to arise during their stay.

Occasions of ceremony in the national capital follow certain rules and regulations, ignorance of which often brings humiliation; and indifference to those rules calls down stern criticism upon the offender.

Indeed, it is the wise newcomer who acquaints herself with the rules. By so doing she will not only simplify life for everyone, but will also save herself much embarrassment.

Washington is different from European capitals in this respect. On the continent when statesmen are dined and feted, there is a "protocol" which assigns to everyone his or her relative rank, and does so with the official sanction of the Government.

NO SUCH court of appeal exists in the capital of this country. There are available in the State Department certain rules and regulations. The department, however, refuses to be quoted as an authority and supplies no written lists.

It is up to the individual to do the proper thing.

And the proper thing to the uninitiated at times presents a real problem.

Faced with the decision whether to take a foreign Minister out to dinner when a Justice of the Supreme Court is present, for example, has sent any number of wives of state officials scurrying to the telephone for assistance. How and when to be nice to the wives of her husband's colleagues, as she would be to the wives of his partners at home, has given more than one state lady many anxious moments.

For each knows that in Washington such intended courtesy, mistakenly offered, might subject her to mortifying rebuffs.

FOREIGN Ambassadors and Ministers are not, as Lincoln is said to have been, "Willing to follow anyone who wants to precede them." They represent their country or their rulers, whose dignity they are responsible for upholding in their own persons. To use the words of a clever and distinguished Ambassador: "Since the Good God made us so that we cannot all get through the door at once, there must be precedence."

Each year Washington sees men come here in official positions of great importance. They represent sovereign states, each one proud of its dignity. An affront to them is an affront to those states.

Thus the wives of Washington officials are faced by conditions not duplicated anywhere. And they soon come to know that knowledge of the rank of officials at dinners and elsewhere is necessary, not merely in giving entertainments, but even in attending those given by others.

the Norwegian whalers—without whose aid we could not have succeeded—came to our aid. They brought extra picks and shovels, wheelbarrows, forks and buckets and we set to work with a will.

Fortunately the material was not heavy, but it was considerable in bulk and the many tons of it we shifted stood in rows feet high on both sides of the 40-foot wide runway, adding, of course, to the hazard. The weather was warm and ideal. It could scarcely continue so for more than a day or two. We had been trying to fly the seaplane for 20 hours; for 16 hours we dug and raked and carried off the lava; our backs were breaking and every finger blistered.

Decision to Take Off.

At last the way was clear but it was by no means perfect. We could use it at frightful risk, but the risk of not getting more of such perfect weather was greater. I hurried to transfer my instruments from the seaplane Los Angeles to the land plane San Francisco, and while the others snatched a little rest I fixed radio, drift indicators, compasses, sextants, camera, charts and chronometers which were necessary for navigation.

By 4 a. m. these instruments were installed and I awakened Eielson so that we might test them in the air. Crossan and Porter came out to help. We circled the field for half an hour. I made final adjustments and when everything was in order we landed. Only the tanks remained to be filled, but even the carrying of 200 gallons of gasoline over 200 yards of gravelly field and filtering it through chamois leather is no light job. Crossan and Porter filled the tanks with lubricating oil and gasoline.

Eielson and I tramped the runway. It ran in three directions with two sharp turns. It was up hill and down dale. Eeach side was banked with lava ashes. We had named it Hoover Field.

Would the machine with its heavy load steer on the soft surface? Would it in the short distance gather sufficient speed to take us into the air? We spoke but little. We looekd at the field and at each other. We both knew that for safety's sake we should spend another 24 hours preparing the runway. I said to Eielson: "What do you think?"

"Whatever you say," he replied.

I thanked God for the courage of my companion. I knew I could depend more upon his skill than upon the weather. As yet there was not a cloud in the pale blue sky, but the thermometer stood a few degrees above freezing and the barometer, falling steadily, indicated that the clear weather would not last.

Off on Momentous Trip.

All our food, consisting of pemmican, biscuits, chocolate, malted milk and raisins, our spare clothing and stove for melting ice was arranged in packs which we could throw upon our backs. The packs served as sleeping bags. Each man's equipment was separate and complete—a necessary precaution when traveling over crevassed ice and where one might fall through and disappear forever.

Our Alpine climbing gear, axes, snowshoes, ropes and small, strong blocks and tackle, were carried separately.

Capt. Marinius Sansen of the Hektoria came along to wish us "Good luck" and we took our seats.

The engine was turning over smoothly. A final checking of our time was made by Victor Olsen, our faithful wireless operator, and we rolled forward. It took some time to gather speed, but we could not afford to go fast until we had turned the first sharp bend.

Then we went on down the hill plowing through a snow bank. We experienced a great bump as we passed a ditch. Then another and deeper one bounced the machine in the air. It was a wonderful tribute to the sturdiness of the Lockheed plane that it stood the strain. As we climbed the second hill we gathered speed, entered another ditch near the top and bumped with such violence that I was thrown from my seat and the contents of the cabin tumbled o top of me.

Flying True South.

Eielson clung to the controls guiding the machine with consumate skill. Then as we reached the hill top the ground sunk beneath us and we were in the air. None but we two can ever realize the immensity of our relief. The danger of futile risk was passed. If we crashed later in the day we would have at least accomplished something. For many miles our way lay over ice strewn waters, then we came to Trinity Island, its highest peak standing more tha 6000 feet above the sea.

Beyond Trinity Island we could see the cliffs and plateau of Graham Land. The Pacific Ocean side of Graham Land is sharply indented with bays of open wa ter. We passed Salveson Bay. Then to the table top of Graham Land, as we soared 8200 feet above sea level.

The surface of the plateau i probably more than 7500 high and it carries an ice crust from 50 t 100 feet in thickness. We crossed Graham Land to reach the Weddell Sea and opposite to where we crossed we could see the seale Nunataks in the distance.

The west coast of Weddell Se is a huge ice barrier similar t that in Ross Sea and as we crossed it near the land we found it frightfully crevassed. Looking down 5000 feet we could see scores of cracks into which our machine could fall and leave no trace.

Beyond Trinity Island we could see the cliffs and plateau of Graham Land. The Pacific Ocean side of Graham Land is sharply indented with bays of open water. We passed Salveson Bay Then to the table top of Graham Land, as we soared 8200 feet above sea level.

The surface of the plateau is probably more than 7500 high and it carries an ice crust from 50 to 100 feet in thickness. We crossed Graham Land to reach the Weddell Sea and opposite to where we crossed we could see the sealer Nunataks in the distance.

The west coast of Weddell Sea is a huge ice barrier similar to that in Ross Sea and as we crossed it near the land we found it frightfully crevassed. Looking down 8000 feet we could see scores of cracks into which our machine could fall and leave no trace.

We flew almost true south and noticed that several long, ice-filled fiords almost severed Graham Land near its northern end. We called these the Hektoria fields.

In the distance we could see the peaks of Mount Williams and Mount Francais. We then came to new territory which never before had been seen by man.

Looking southward we could see that Graham Land at that altitude became more and more broken. Soon it was evident that an ice filled channel cut Graham Land in half. A conspicuous mountain near the end of North Graham Land we called Mount Napier Byrks after an Australian who years ago placed funds at my disposal for geographical work in the Antarctic.

The north end of South Graham Land widened and its easterly point we called Cape Northrop after the engineer who designed the famous Lockheed plane. The mountains behind the cape we called Lockheed Mountains..

It soon became evident that even South Graham Land was an island. It ended abruptly in a steep mass of mountains which we named after Mr. T. V. Ranck who was largely responsible for the arrangement which made it possible for me to organize the expedition this year. The channel between the mountains and the next island, called Scripps Island, after Mr. William Scripps of Detroit, was named Casey Channel. Beyond Scripps Island was another channel which we gave the name of Lurabee Channel in honor of Lura B. Schreck who has given me much help in my Polar work.

New Strait Discovered.

South of the channel there is a group of islands which we decided to call Finley Islands in honor of Dr. Finley, among other things, president of the American Geographical Society of New York.

Then we came to the most important discovery we had made. A wide level strait parted the group of islands from an extensive snow slope which we believe to be the Antarctic mainland. We named this Stefanssen Strait.

It would have been difficult to distinguish between the ice in the Strait and the mainland had it not been for a low ice cliff which apparently was caused by the rise and fall of the tide.

We had no means of telling the thickness of the ice, either in the strait or on the land. The cliff we judged to be not more than 1000 to 1500 feet high. The sun shone directly on it and from our height it was not possible to show it clearly on a photograph.

Southward and beyond the ice foot, the snowy surface rose gradually until it was lost in the pearl grey, hazy sky. We named this new section of the continent Hearst Land. Looking into this vast unbroken expanse we could see no more than one can see with eyes tightly closed and facing a strong incandescent light. We could sense an opaque greyness lightly tinged with red but not a speck of anything cast a shadow or relieved the surface.

Discoveries Summarized.

We had left the mountains far behind and knew by doing so that we had made a real discovery. It was not merely the extension of an area already discovered as had been our mapping of the new coast of Graham Land and the Weddel Sea. We had not only made a discovery which had broken down a century-old belief but we had gone beyond that and discovered something separate and new.

We do not know as yet just how important that discovery may be. It is important from a geographical point of view because it chops about 40,000 square miles off the supposed Antarctic continent and places more than 20 new islands, three new channels, one strait, many bays, scores of mountains and more than a thousand miles of new coastline on the map.

It is important from a geographical point of view because it shows that the Graham Land group of islands are an intrusion which rises between South American continent and Antarctica. This information will bring much evidence to bear on the theory of distribution of continental areas and the continuity of volcanic belts.

It is important from a biological point of view because much evidence was assumed when fossiled trees, mosses, lichens, tufts of grass and insects were found on Graham Land which was then supposed to be part of the continent. All these specimens will now have to be reclassified.

It is important from a geophysical point of view because it brings much light to bear on the theory of tidal movement and the distribution of ocean currents which in their turn influence the meteorological condition.

It also upholds an assumption that the Antarctic continent, like all other known continents, has one low side.

Who Owns Land.

It was on that assumption that I made bold to state, eight years ago, my plans for flying over the area between Graham Land and the Ross Sea, believing that along this coast—which is still unknown—we would find low land and consequently not more than ordinary winds and normal weather. In such conditions it would be safe to use airplanes.

Our recent discovery is important from a political point of view because it shows that the British were not the first to see the actual Antarctic continent and it will probably mean a re-arrangement of territorial rights.

Our flight can't fail to interest historians because it was undoubtedly the first flight on which absolutely new territory has been discovered and that on the first flight ever made within the Antarctic circle.

To which country and to whom does the pride of these discoveries belong? We might equally well have claimed the new territory for the United States, England, Australia, or Norway, whose people have materially assisted us and every other expedition without exception visiting the Antarctic the last few years. But it would have been presumptuous on our part and meaningless to claim it for anyone.

If it is agreed that we can effectively claim country discovered from an airplane it would lead to many complications. Could one claim all the country seen or that together with all the area we might reasonably assume to lie between that part seen and the next known area?

If it were agreed that we could claim only country mapped, what degree of accuracy would be needed in the mapping? Would it be necessary to alight on the country and for how long, and then would our claim cover only the country seen from the ground or from what height? And if once having set foot on the ground for a few hours or days does that mean absolute right of possession?

Clearness of Atmosphere.

No, it is not for the modern scientific explorer to seize upon and claim things at sight. It is our privilege to gather information which in these days of world conferences, international associations and League of Nations can be digested and acted upon for the benefit of the greatest number.

Naturally some of these thoughts flashed through our minds as we turned our machine on its homeward flight but our attention was soon occupied with the problem of returning safely.

In the distance we could see cloud areas developing and again in high latitudes and from high altitudes I had the opportunity, as I had on our Arctic flight, of judging distant meteorogical conditions and proving that from an altitude of 8000 feet I could, from the observation of cloud intesity and formation, interpret the weather 300 miles away.

This may be due to the clearness of the intervening atmosphere in the Polar regions but partly no doubt to the flattening of the earth at its Poles. In the Arctic it might have been that my interpretation was a lucky guess but our forecasts this year also proved correct. This demonstrates an important possibility for the aviator flying in high latitudes. With a knowledge of meteorology they will be able, if they choose, to avoid getting into difficulties with the weather.

Safely Home.

We speeded our engine and hurried home at a velocity of 130 miles an hour. Even at that speed we would reach home none too soon. As we crossed Graham Land storm clouds were forming. Southwest of us the sun was reflected in the waters of Bransfield Strait, illuminating the coast of Graham Land and Brabant Island.

Ahead the clouds had settled about Deception Island hiding it from our view until we were almost above it. Then we caught a glimpse of a familiar rock and a section of the coastline.

From 5000 feet above it we looked down through a hole in the clouds and saw the landing field.

Eielson nosed the machine into a steep spiral dive and we landed safely after having viewed many thousands of square miles of country never before seen by man.

We were both tired out after a strenuous 40 hours of hard work and a further 10 hours on a flight of absorbing interest.

We had been most fortunate in many respects and we realized, of course, that much of our success depended on the help of many friends, but on none more than our companions, Joe Crossan and Orval Porter.

Our machine safely moored and with our companions sharing the burden we carried our 100-pound packs of food and supplies unbroken to the good ship Hektoria.

And what were our feelings after such a journey? Were we thrilled with the knowledge of success? For my part I was sadly disappointed. We had passed through the gamut of human experiences.

Would Try Again.

Through faith in the worthiness of our project, through hope for opportunity and kindly treatment by the elements, through anxiety when things seemed utterly against us, through labor and physical exhaustion in preparation, through adventure brought about by necessary risk and indifferent judgment, through extreme dangers, by choice, for fear of greater hazard, through reverent joy and exhilaration at danger passed and opportunity afforded, through boundless, absorbing interest in new scenes unfolded, through extreme satisfaction with the knewledge of expressed theories proven, through thrills beyond measure with new discoveries, and solemn thankfulness with the knowledge of preservation for further effort. Yet did that bring happiness? Positively, no.

From a rower's seat in an open boat I have been awed and frightened by the stupendous immensity of the Antarctic. From the deck of an ice bound sailing ship I had been compelled to love and worship the beautiful, grand, majestic spirit of the great white south. But from the heated cabin of an airplane, borne on wooden wings, two miles a minute, high above the dripping mountains, staring down rudely at their glistening peaks, looking into the innermost recesses of their valleys, wresting secrets safely hidden until then from humans, I felt as mean and shameful as a dirty tramp peeping into a royal lady's boudoir. But time brings indifference to, and a tolerance of, even one's own misdemeanors, and now I am anxiously looking forward to another opportunity, which we hope will come next December, to prove the sincerity of our purpose, and to peep again into Antarctic mysteries.

Our machines await us at Deception Island. Nearly 2000 miles of coast in a bee-line, awaits to be discovered. With the continued help of friends and with my skilled companions, Eielson, Crossan and Porter, I hope that work will be accomplished.

Then will come the more important work. By taking advantage of the knowledge gained and through an international organization we hope, after a few years' observation, to submit to the world information of economic importance to all primary producers and of value particularly to travelers by aircraft.

ANTI-BEGGING BOARD REPORTS ON CAMPAIGN

Sixty-Two Cases Dealt With—Only Four Reversions to Mendicancy After Attention.

A campaign to rid the city of beggars by rehabilitating those who are actually in need and driving professional beggars from the city, has been conducted during the last few months by the Citizens' Anti-Begging Committee, affiliated with the Community Fund, with the result that 62 cases have been specifically dealt with, according to a report issued by the committee yesterday.

"Beggars as a group are usually deficient physically and mentally," said T. A. Hendricks, secretary of the committee. "However, of the 62 only four have reverted to begging in St. Louis, and then only temporarily. Our study shows that homes were given 12 by relatives who guaranteed to prevent them from begging, friends accepted responsibility for two, two were returned to legal residences elsewhere, 14 returned to work and 10 were found to be genuinely in need.

"Seven were given material relief temporarily and four permanently, three left St. Louis, and many were given physical and mental treatment. We helped one collect a back pension from the Canadian Government for war service."

Hendricks cited the case of a man who begged in St. Louis for eight years with a tin cup and a "Help the Blind" sign, although he was a fugitive from the Nebraska insane asylum, to which he was returned recently. Another case was that of a woman drug addict who begged in order to get money for narcotics although her son was able and willing toy maintain her. She is now under treatment for the drug habit.

The Anti-Begging Committee is composed of 32 business men, police officials, Judges and representatives of social agencies. Sidney Maestre, vice president of the Mercantile Trust Co., is chairman.

Curtis Returning to Washington.

MIAMI, Fla., March 16. — Vice President Curtis left Miami at 10:05 o'clock this morning for Washington, concluding a four and a half day visit to Miami and Miami Beach.

Hoover Starts By Running Things His Way

the "spokesman" had done that, and the "spokesman" was a mythical creation of the newspapers.

Hoover Finds a Remedy.

Mr. Hoover, none better, saw the flaws in the system, and even before he was inducted into office set about to remedy them. In this he had the valuable aid of George Akerson, his secretary, a former Minneapolis newspaper man. The first thing the President did at his first meeting with the correspondents was to announce that he hoped to improve and extend the conference system. The correspondents applauded.

The President immediately put one of his theories into practice by permitting direct quotation of what he had said about his relations with the press. He asked the correspondents themselves to work out a set of rules to govern the interviews.

All this was a hopeful augury, and to date the expectations aroused by it have been fully realized. The President has become again the accessible and useful source of information that he was when Secretary of Commerce. His conferences are being attended regularly by from 150 to 200 news writers—the largest such gatherings that the White House has seen since the Washington arms conference brought writers here from all over the world.

The manner of the President was at first rather nervous. He had never become habituated to talking to large groups of reporters. Practice, however, as well as the manifest good will inspired by his initial pronouncement has put him at his ease. He runs the conference now in friendly but business-like fashion. Unlike the former President, who used to plunge right into the business of answering queries, he greets the correspondents as they enter, calling some of them by name

Oral Questions Allowed.

The rule requiring written questions still obtains, but there is now a noticeable freedom in asking oral questions once the President has signified his willingness to open up a topic. It is still, of course, forbidden to quote all that he says. Certain questions are answered with "background" information, which the correspondent is permitted to use but not to attribute to the White House.

The important change that has taken place consists in the answering of certain other questions for direct quotation It is possible now to write, in dealing with some of the topics covered by the conference, that "President Hoover said" thus and so.

At successive conferences, Mr. Hoover has authorized direct quotation of his remarks about the conference system itself, about the scope of his proposed investigation of law enforcement, and about his policy for the conservation of Government oil.

A clear gain in the interest of accurate and helpful publicity—helpful alike to the President and the public—has thus been made. Possibly the new system will break down as the President becomes harassed by the cares of his office, possibly it will be destroyed by some act among the correspondents, but the start, at any rate, is in the right direction.

In other respects, too, Mr. Hoover has shown a gratifying sureness of touch. He lost no time in throwing the full weight of the administration behind the Mexican Government in the current rebellion; he took a decisive stand for Government oil conservation; he redeemed promptly his campaign pledge to call a special session of Congress and he continued to resist the demand of industrial interests for a general upward tariff revision.

In the two weeks he has been President he has, of course, settled none of the great problems ahead of him. He has worked no miracles. But he is on the job—very much on the job—and the presidency is again remindful of the days of Roosevelt and Wilson. How he will far when he gets Congress "on his hands" is a question that only the event can answer.

Lloyd George Says Wilson Was Cajoled by French

to enslaving Europe if not shattering the whole of European civilization.

France was not only sore when it contemplated what it had suffered but was also frightened when it thought of what it had escaped. It was during the prevalence of that mood that we met to frame the conditions of peace.

America had come late into the war. Her total casualties were therefore no higher than those of Australia. Moreover she was removed by many thousand miles of ocean from the scene of devastation. Her representatives consequently were in a better position to exercise calm and dispassionate judgment than were those of the countries where hundreds of thousands of homes mourned their dead. Half-way through the peace conference, I had to return to England to deal with a serious revolt amongst my parliamentary supporters who had been stirred up to suspicious antagonism by reports of my constant efforts to restrain the French severity. I was attacked in the powerful newspapers for my anti-French attitude. Nevertheless Britain recovered comparative composure before France. That was to be expected.

Britain's losses were appalling, her taxes were crushing, her cities had been bombed and her unarmed ships had been sunk by submarines. But the enemy had never landed on her soil. Her pride had not been humbled by seeing the German flag flying on British soil within 50 miles of her capital. Her workmen had not been forced to work for German taskmasters. She had not been compelled to destroy her own towns and villages by hundreds in order to rid them of an invader. She had won victory in battles fought on foreign soil and neutral seas. That is why it was more difficult for French statemen than for any other delegation to agree to a moderate or reasonable peace.

Praise for Clemenceau.

The public opinion to whom they were responsible was angry and terrified.

When these circumstances are taken into account, I think Clemenceau showed a calm and restraint that was beyond praise. Poincare, who was then President of the Republic, and Marshal Foch, the greatest military figure in the war, demanded much more exacting terms and they had French sentiment—at least Parisian sentiment—behind them in their demands. Had the control of the negotiations been in their hands, France would have insisted on annexing territory to the left of the Rhine. To meet in Paris was the cardinal blunder. President Wilson, when he visited London on his way to Paris, agreed that the Parisian atmosphere would not be a favorable one in which to discuss the terms of a treaty for remodeling and reconstructing European frontiers. When he went to Paris, he was over-cajoled into departing from this wise decision. President Wilson's subsequent surrender was largely due to Paris. Paris wore down his resistance by the usual admixture of insults and flatteries, threats and cajoleris.

As Churchill points out in his book, the duty of moderating the terms of peace thus fell ultimately on the British Empire delegation. By that time the bitter war between President Wilson and Paris had been concluded by the terms of peace negotiated between Clemenceau and Col. House. Paris had won and the poor President was bound hand and foot. On Silesia he was inclined to be obdurate. He wanted the whole province handed over to Poland. The French naturally agreed with him. Their main purpose at that time was to limit, strip and enfeeble Germany. The disparity in the population of France and Germany was with them an obsession and they favored any proposal that would reduce the German numerical superiority.

How Britain Aided Peace.

Had they succeeded over Silesia, another war would have been inevitable at no distant date. Rebellion would have followed repression and that would have drawn Germany into the conflict. Thanks to the firm intervention of the British Empire, proposals for a plebiscite of the Silesian population were forced into the amended draft. Churchill gives a dramatic account of this historic incident.

He also brings out the important fact that in the reparation clause of the treaty, no figures were inserted. Reckless critics of the treaty who take care never to read its terms assume that Germany was called upon by the treaty of Versailles to pay fabulous sums. No sum was mentioned in the treaty. The framers deliberately avoided giving any figures in the reparation clauses. It was the wisest course to pursue; first, the amount of the damage had not been assessed; second, prices were at that time abnormally high and the cost of restoring and rebuilding at that moment would have been at least twice as high as was likely to be in another couple of years. For that reason, any figure acceptable to the French or British opinion would have been extravagant. At that time very few people had realized the difference betwen payment made inside a country to its own nationals with national currency, and payment made across a frontier in foreign currency.

As Churchill points out, the treaty postponed to a later date not only the assessment of the German damage, but also the amount Germany was expected to pay. It prescribed that the extent of the damages should be surveyed and the cost of repairing be estimated. Germany was to be given an opportunity of checking these figures and afterward show cause as to the limit of her capacity to pay. Two years were given in which to prepare these estimates. A wise delay.

Time to Cool Off.

Time was given for passions to cool down and for financial problems to be examined and explained. It was easier to cut down in 1921 than it would have been in 1919. The aggregate damage inflicted on all the Allies was assessed in May, 1921, at $33,000,000,000. A colossal figure. But it was forgotten when the Allies came to consider Germany's capacity to pay, and their demand was reduced to the equivalent of $12,500,000,000. That was in 1921.

In 1922 further deductions were discussed. The German representatives at Cannes pleaded for a reduction in the 1921 annuities. Briand was quite ready to give full weight to the considerations urged by them. But Poincare thought otherwise. He was convinced he could easily collect all the cash needed to pay the whole bill in the Ruhr Valley. It was impossible to get any satisfactory solution until the Westphalian obsession had been disposed of.

When the reparation terms of the treaty are debated, one essential feature of those clauses is always overlooked. It was stipulated that the Reparations Commission set up by the treaty should be empowered from time to time to revise its demand if Germany raised the issue of her capacity to pay the annuity. It was also stipulated that the commission should include an American representative.

France Dominated League.

The action of Senate in rejecting the treaty altered the whole balance of the commission. It was vital that the United States should be represented on the tribunal. America was the only entirely disinterested party on that body. She claimed no share of the award. When the United States retired, France dominated the commission for whenever there was any division of opinion Belgium always in the end took the French view. The chairman was also French—he was Poincare.

That is the reason it was hopeless to seek any national decision as to the German capacity to pay from the Reparations Commission. The Dawes committee was in effect a restoration of the reparations clauses of the treaty as originally drafted. It set up a tribunal upon which the states were represented. Its decisions were not final and another committee is now sitting to reconsider the whole position. That is exactly what was contemplated by the treaty.

On reparations, experience has demonstrated the wisdom and foresight of the provision then made and the inexorable events have driven the parties back to the treaty of Versailles.

VALUABLE SITE ON DELMAR AND UNION PURCHASED

Acquisition of Southeast Corner by Unnamed Syndicate Follows Deal Across the Street.

$300,000 WAS LIST PRICE OF PROPERTY

Importance of Union Boulevard Enhanced—Recent Projects Involve $1,000,000 to $6,000,000.

By Berry Moore.

Attention is being focused on the southeast corner of Delmar and Union boulevards, 103x176 feet, purchased yesterday by a syndicate represented by Perles & Stone, with offices in the Central National Bank Building. A two-story building comprising six stores and 15 apartments now occupies the site.

The consideration was not announced. The property, which was held by Joseph M. Ebeling and Bixby Smith, Inc., was listed at $300,000, a trifle less than $3000 a foot for the Delmar boulevard frontage of 103 feet. Annual rentals of the building approximate $20,000.

Identity of the syndicate was not disclosed. Speculation is keen as to the plans in connection with the purchase, which is regarded as the forerunner of the improvement of the site with a pretentious structure. As one of the most prominent corners in the West End the site is regarded as destined ultimately to be improved with a building on a major scale.

15-Story Project Starts May 1.

Plans were recently announced for a 15-story apartment building of the set-back type, with stores on the first floor to replace the five-story Romayne apartment at the northwest corner of Delmar and Union boulevard. The site has a frontage on Delmar of 145 feet and on Union of 183 feet, extending to the Savoy court, which forms the north boundary. It was recently bought by a syndicate composed of clients of the Giraldin Bros. Real Estate Co., which will erect the building. Construction is scheduled to begin May 1. Cost is estimated at $1,500,000, including that of the site.

Purchase of this site was on a basis of $2000 a foot for the Delmar boulevard frontage, a total of $290,000, the building plans excluding from consideration the value of the present building. This corner has long been regarded as the premier site in this part of the city for a large apartment building, because of its large frontage on two of the most prominent east-west thoroughfares.

Importance of Union Enhanced.

The importance of Union boulevard has been greatly augmented by the Senate apartments and Congress Hotel and Embassy apartments, all Koplar projects, which have enhanced its prestige in no small degree. The Gatesworth Hotel, which preceded those three structures, is another distinguishing feature of this thoroughfare.

A noteworthy number of building projects, involving $1,000,000 or more in each instance has been disclosed since the first of the year. The largest in the downtown district contemplates the 25-story office building for the half block on the west side of Twelfth boulevard between Pine and Olive streets, as was told exclusively in Thursday's Post-Dispatch.

Others include an 18-story building with rail facilities for industrial interests to occupy three-quarters of a block at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Spruce streets, involving a cost of $6,000,000, and the 25-story Wenzlick Tower, to cost $2,000,000, designed for the southeast corner of Eleventh and Chestnut streets.

The most notable apartment building venture in the West End is the 28-story Park Plaza apartment Hotel now under construction by Koplar Construction Co., at the southeast corner of Kingshighway and Maryland avenue which, when completed, will represent an outlay of $6,000,000 or more.

North Union Apartment.

Ground has been broken for an apartment and mercantile building on the North Union boulevard opposite Lexington avenue, which will contain 26 units of four and five rooms each, with large stores on the street front. This project is announced by Cornet & Zeibig representing the Monarch Realty & Building Co., of which F. F. Meckfessel is president. The contract for this project has been awarded to the Meckfessel Construction Co.

This building, which will occupy a lot 130x175 feet, will be of Spanish architecture, three stories in height. It will embody the most modern scheme of decoration and Cost is estimated at $1,500,000, including that of the site.

Purchase of this site was on a basis of $2000 a foot for the Delmar boulevard frontage, a total of $290,000, the building plans excluding from consideration the value of the present building. This corner has long been regarded as the premier site in this part of the city for a large apartment building, because of its large frontage on two of the most prominent east-west thoroughfares.

Importance of Union Enhanced.

The importance of Union boulevard has been greatly augmented by the Senate apartments and Congress Hotel and Embassy apartments, all Koplar projects, which have enhanced its prestige in no small degree. The Gatesworth Hotel, which preceded those three structures, is another distinguishing feature of this thoroughfare.

A noteworthy number of building projects, involving $1,000,000 or more in each instance has been disclosed since the first of the year. The largest in the downtown district contemplates the 35-story office building for the half block on the west side of Twelfth boulevard between Pine and Olive streets, as was told exclusively in Thursday's Post-Dispatch.

Others include an 18-story building with rail facilities for industrial interests to occupy three-quarters of a block at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Spruce streets, involving a cost of $6,000,000, and the 35-story Wenzlick Tower, to cost $8,000,000, designed for the southeast corner if Eleventh and Chestnut streets.

The most notable apartment building venture in the West End is the 28-story Park Plaza apartment Hotel now under construction by Koplar Construction Co., at the southeast corner of Kingshighway and Maryland avenue which, when completed, will represent an outlay of $6,000,000 or more.

North Union Apartment.

Ground has been broken for an apartment and mercantile building on the North Union boulevard opposite Lexington avenue, which will contain 26 units of four and five rooms each, with large stores on the street front. This project is announced by Cornet & Zeibig representing the Monarch Realty & Building Co., of which F. F. Meckfessel is president. The contract for this project has been awarded to the Meckfessel Construction Co. This building, which will occupy a lot 130x175 feet, will be of Spanish architecture, three stories in height. It will embody the most [illegible] scheme of decoration and fixtures, together with equipment and appointments.

Ben Shapiro, architect, designed the structure, which was promoted by Anson H. Klauber, in connection with the Edward K. Love Realty Co. Cornet & Zeibig will have the management of the building which is scheduled for completion Aug. 1, 1929.

WORK ON 35-STORY BUILDING EXPECTED TO START MAY 15

Interior and Exterior Plans for $6,500,000 Structure at Olive, Twelfth and Pine, Are Announced

Plans for the exterior and interior construction of the new 35-story, $6,500,000 office building on the west side of Twelfth boulevard, from Olive street to Pine street, have been announced.

The building, as shown in a view printed in Thursday's Post-Dispatch, is to be of the seriate tower type. Its frame will be of structural steel, fireproofed with concrete, the floors and roofs being reinforced concrete. It will be supported on 75 concrete caissons extending to bed rock about 50 feet below the sidewalk level.

The exterior will be of fine matt brick, trimmed with terra cotta bandings at the top of each of four stage levels. Partitions will be of gypsum or hollow tile. Marble will be used for the wainscoting and terrazzo for the floors.

Wide entrances, several stories in height, on Twelfth boulevard, Olive and Pine streets, will open into an arcade extending 193 feet from the north to the south end. Shops will have display windows within and without. The building will be equipped with 11( high speed elevators, capable of traveling 650 feet a minute.

It is planned to start excavation May 15. Twenty-five per cent of the office space has been taken, the management says. The company incorporated to construct the building is the Builders' Investment Co., but it is stated that no name for the structure has been selected, even tentatively.

Officers of the company are: President, E. W. Bannister, vice presidents, W. E. Bixby and W. J. Holbrook; secretary, W. J. Knight; directors, the officers and H. L. Campbell, G. R. Bartling, J. Gates Williams and Lon Harlow. Mansky & Bartling are architects, and W. J. Knight & Co. and the structural and foundation engineers. The ground was purchased from the Essex Investment Co. and the Barnight Realty Co., in which Bixby and Knight are interested respectively. The ground was assembled by Henry R. Weisels, Inc., and the Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Trust Co.

The project was financed through Chicago institutions, the owners being represented by Young & Becker, brokers of Chicago.

This new building, with the Missouri Pacific building and the Olive-Plaza building, its nearest neighbors, is expected to enhance values on Olive street in the Plaza neighborhood and farther west. It will be a big step in the making of the new Olive street, in the opinions of real estate men.

Gurney Newlin of Los Angeles, president of the American Bar Association, has accepted an invitation to attend. About 500 guests are expected.

Ex-Senator James A. Reed will be one of the speakers. Among the other speakers will be one of Judge Stone's Federal Court associates.

The former Eighth Circuit, over which Judge Stone presided extended from the Canadian line to Mexico and included Arkansas, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oklahoma, Utah and Wyoming.

SUES POSSE FOR KILLING GIRL, 6

Father of Slain Child Brings $10,000 Action at Clinton, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

CLINTON, Mo., March 16.—Suit for $10,000 was brought today against August W. Kahman, sheriff of Henry County, and six members of a posse alleged to have killed Elenore Herrigon, 6 years old. The sheriff on Jan. 10 notified T. G. Hall of Windsor, a constable, to halt an automobile which the sheriff had under suspicion. Hall formed a posse and attempted to halt a car driven by Phillip Herrigon, father of the girl, and the plaintiff in today's suit.

Herrigon, mistaking the members of the posse for robbers, put on speed to pass them. The possemen fired and the child was killed. Other parties to the suit, aside from the sheriff and the constable, all members of the posse, are Windsor business men. They are R. K. Palmer, Ross Major, J. W. Piper, A. L. Duff and Robert G. Frazer.

Could You Use a Man or Woman on Some Extra Work?

Here are St. Louisans asking for an opportunity to do various kinds of household or office work.

You will find their advertisements in the Situation Wanted Columns in the Classified pages of the Post-Dispatch today. They are grouped alphabetically for ready reference. Many give their phones and can be called at once—or a postal will bring the one you want for an interview.

During February, the Post-Dispatch printed 2,862 separate situation wanted advertisements, 1,577 of these from women and girls and 1,285 from men and boys. The Post-Dispatch printed a total of 1,271 more of these offers to work than appeared in all the other St. Louis newspapers combined!

BUSINESS PROPERTY FOR SALE

Central

MAIN 4124

IT DOESN'T HAPPEN OFTEN!

½ Block North of Olive Bl., 2900 West

Improved with most substantial three-story building; basement under most all.

The interior, being the former St. Louis Club, is both elaborate and beautiful; the carved paneling and oak woodwork in all parts of the building being in a state of good repair. Contains possibly 35,000 square feet of usable floor space with parking for approximately 20 autos.

It is not a property suited to all kinds of business, but should have an appeal for professional men, with a practical turn of mind. It is also ideally suited for wholesale display purposes.

SOME SHREWD INDIVIDUAL WILL TURN THIS PROPERTY INTO A GREATLY INCREASED VALUE. It is a bargain, because the selling price is based ALONE on the cost of the ground and is lower in price than any other corner on OLIVE BOULEVARD, WASHINGTON, OR LOCUST.

A LARGE CORNER, being 135 feet on Ewing and 147 feet on Locust. Remember, just one-half block from OLIVE BOULEVARD and close to downtown.

At a moderate cost, this property can be placed in first-class condition and provide both elaborate and comfortable quarters.

In 15 minutes we can see it all. Phone me today.

GARDNER GRAVE VAULT
Rust-Resisting Steel
Air and Water Tight

Frederick D. Gardner announces to the public that he has arranged with the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, for the manufacture of the world famous Gardner Vault a sheet of 12 gauge steel weighing 350 pounds with a copper alloy (rust resisting).

This sheet is 6' 10¾"x7' ¼" thus enabling the manufacture of the entire top and sides of the Gardner Vault in one piece without a single seam.

This Mr. Gardner considers a remarkable manufacturing feat and enables him to pass his personal guarantee of 50 years to every purchaser of a Gardner Vault in all the world.

The Gardner Vault is manufactured in large quantities at a small overhead and, therefore, is within the reach of all. No crumbling, disintegration, cracking or leaking.

Ask your funeral director for it.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

MRS. F. L. C.—Inquire at the Social Service Exchange, 2221 Locust street about a home for elderly blind persons. You will be able to give the whole details of the case so that a suitable place may be found.

HOPEFUL.—(1) The form "am" is correctly used in "It is I who am the sinner." (2) Your question as to a country being personified by a name is not clear. If you want the derivation of a name it is necessary to trace it in books on the subject in the library. But any one is at liberty to form a name by the addition of "anne" or "enne" and it may not have any authentic source. (3) A majority is one more than half. A plurality is merely the highest number. (If the rules of a body specify that two-thirds is a majority, two-thirds of membership would be, for that particular body.)

D. M.—As to what the Bureau of Internal Revenue serves, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has general supervision of the assessment and collection of all internal-revenue taxes, enforcement of revenue laws; preparation and distribution of instructions, regulations, forms, etc. For the purpose of administration the duties of the Bureau are assigned to various units, as follows: Commissioner and miscellaneous unit, income tax unit, miscellaneous tax unit, account and collection unit, general counsel's unit. The income-tax unit is the agency of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for administering the income and profits tax provisions of the revenue law. Its duties are to prepare regulations, to receive, audit and verify the returns (except certain individual returns showing net income not in excess of $5000) covering such taxes; to review and dispose of claims for refund, abatement and credit, and to compile statistics from these returns. The miscellaneous tax unit is concerned with sources on internal revenue other than income and profits tax. The accounts and collections unit is engaged in work having to do with the management of the offices of collectors of internal revenue and their field forces. The general counsel's office is the legal branch of the bureau, having the interpretative, civil, penal, appeals and administrative divisions.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

MAY.—If the notes secured by the deeds of trust have been given to the children, then on the husband's death the wife would not share in them.

E. C. H.—Land owned by you in Montana could be sold or leased without your husband's signature. (2) The same is true as to land in Missouri, but a title company may refuse to approve the title unless your husband signs the deed also.

HI B.—File your claim and proofs of your mother's death. If the insurance company fails to pay the policy, write to the Superintendent of Insurance, Springfield, Ill. It would be well to consult a lawyer if you have any trouble. Keep all the papers that you have.

C. A. B.—The landlord has not the right to dig up the back yard for planting flowers for his own use on premises he has rented, without the consent of the tenant.

ANDY.—The fact that a person had committed a misdemeanor in another city, and was fined for it, would not be a legal bar to his holding a position with the city. (As to what weight it might have in the judgment of those liable to employ him, no one but the employers could say.)

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

C. M. R.—Some symptoms which ordinarily indicate a condition may occur without the condition actually existing. The only way to determine the true conditions would be by consulting a competent physician.

M. E. T.—As to what could be advised for regaining the health in the case mentioned, a tonic, such as Neoferrum in tablespoonful doses three times daily after meals could be taken. Systematic out-door exercise, such as walking, is in order. Diet is important, and a list of foods will be mailed if you send for this with addressed, stamped envelope, repeating something of the condition so your answer may be identified.

LITCHFIELD WORRIED. — (1) The condition may be due to diabetes, as you ask. (2) The cause may be heredity, over-work, and worry, infections, toxemias, debility from any cause, unrestricted eating and drinking, alcoholism, are among the most frequent causes. (3) It may be cured with proper treatment in some cases if not of too long duration. For best results the case should be under the personal care of a competent physician. Some one will be recommended if you wish this and send a stamped, addressed envelope repeating the reason. Questions received late in the week may not be published the first Sunday following.

W. L. B.—Arthritis is a general term and means any disease involving a joint, but especially a joint or articular inflammation. All the structures composing and surrounding joint, including the synovial membrane, are embraced in the inflammation. It may be due to injury rheumatism, syphilis, tubercular, gonorrhoeal or typhoid infection, gout, spinal lesions, etc. For the chronic form or stage, the treatment consists of fresh air, cleanliness, good food properly selected, as provided in such a list as may be sent to you if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope asking for this. Internally Guicol and creosote, the dose and directions to be determined by local and general conditions. All such cases require the personal care of a competent physician. Hot applications and Iodex ointment applied night and morning often give relief. This answer may be of help to you as you are not in St. Louis. Where one had access to hospitals they are advised to have the treatment given such as that of the hydro-therapeutic department of Barnes Hospital.

MRS. MICHAEL STANEK AND SON EDWARD.

IN MEMORIAM

BECKER—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Matilda Becker (nee Diedrichsen), who passed away March 14, 1917.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRAND-CHILDREN. (c)

BRICKEY, THOS. G.—In loving memory of our dear husband and father who passed away March 18, 1924:
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, DAUGHTER AND SON.

BRUEGGE—In loving memory of our darling baby sister, Amilie Bruegge, March 18, 1928:
She suffered hours of pain
To wait for care, but all in vain;
God alone knew what was best,
He called her home to eternal rest.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture of our sister we laid to rest,
And in memory's frame we shall keep her because she was one of the best.
Surrounded by friends, we are lonesome,
In the midst of our joy we are blue;
With smiles on our face we have heartaches,
Longing, dear darling, for you.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss you,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss you,
In the home that is lonesome today.
Sadly missed by brothers and sisters and brother-in-law.
MRS. W. FELDBUSCH. (c)

BRUENNING—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mary Bruenning, who departed this life March 18, 1914.
Sadly missed by all
Gone, but never forgotten.
By HER DAUGHTER, GEORGIA ROTH.

BURGER—In memory of my dear father, Robert Burger, who died March 19, 1917:
In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear father,
I do not think of you.
DAUGHTER, LULU. (c)

BURLIS, GEORGE O.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, who departed this life March 7, 1928.
Sadly missed by broken-hearted
PARENTS AND SISTER. (c)

CASE—In loving memory of Beulah Case, who departed this life March 14, 1925:
The flowers we placed upon her grave
May wither and decay,
But love for her who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.
Sadly missed by Mother, Sisters, Brother and all who loved her.

EHRLER—Martha. In memory of our dear mother, who passed away two years ago, March 20, 1927.
You are not forgotten, mother dear,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
Sadly missed by HER FAMILY.

EHRET—In memory of our dear husband and father Martin G. Ehret who departed this life three years ago, Feb. 21:
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear Daddy,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by:
HIS WIFE AND CHILDREN.

ELSER—John Elser, who departed this life March 16, 1927:
Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to love and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
HIS HEARTBROKEN MOTHER SISTERS AND BROTHER.

FRIEDEWALD—Fred, who died March 15, 1927.
He has gone from his dear ones, his children and his wife,
Whom he willingly toiled for, and loved as his life.
O, God, how mysterious and strange are Thy ways,
To take from us this loved one in the best of his days.
LOVING WIFE AND CHILDREN.

HAMM—William J.
One year has passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away;
God took him home it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.
MOTHER, FATHER, SISTER AND BROTHERS.

HERBST—In loving memory of my dear wife and our dear mother, who departed this life two years ago, March 17, 1927.
Sadly missed by: FAMILY

HERZOG—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, A. J. Herzog, who departed this life five years ago, March 20, and our dear son and brother, Jos. A. Herzog, who departed this life one year ago, March 23:
How we would love to hear their voices
And see their cheerful smile:
Their kindness made them many friends,
And they died beloved by all.
Sadly missed by Loving Wife, Daughters, Mother and Sisters, and all who loved them.

JUTZE—In sad and loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Florence Jutze, who departed this life March 14, 1927.
In our home she is fondly remembered;
Sweet memories cling to her name,
Those who loved her in life sincerely
Still love her in death just the same.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, SISTER AND RELATIVES.

KALENOWSKI—Joseph: in loving memory of our dear husband and father, who departed this life one year ago, March 13, 1928.
Dear father, when you left us
We lost our dearest friend;
We loved you and, we miss you,
And will until the end.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, SON AND DAUGHTER.

KOHLER-PFENIG.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Katharina Kohler-Pfenig, who departed this life four years ago, March 13, 1925.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture,
Of a mother we laid to rest,
And in memory's frame we shall keep her
Because she was one of the best.
Sadly missed by
HER CHILDREN AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

LAKIN—In memory of Mary L. Lakin, who died March 15, 1926:
There was an angel band in heaven
That was not quite complete.
So God then took our darling Mary
To make the band complete.
Sadly missed by
BABY, HUSBAND, MOTHER AND FATHER.

IN MEMORIAM

LUTZ—In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, Selma Lutz, who departed this life, March 19, 1927.
I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss her more
As I walk through life alone.
Sadly missed by husband,
CHAS. F. LUTZ, AND CHILDREN.

MEYER-LEICHT—In memory of our mother, Mary Meyer-Leicht, who departed this life March 13, 1926:
Her memory is as dear today
As in the hour she passed away.
Sadly missed by HER CHILDREN.

MICHEL—In sad memory of our dear sister, Ella Michel, who departed this life five years ago, March 20, 1924.
Sadly missed by
HER SISTERS. (c)

PRICHETT—In loving memory of Florence Pritchett, who departed this life three years ago March 14, 1926.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, SISTER, AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

RICHERT—In memory of Jacob Richert, who departed from this life March 21, 1922:
Gone but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by WIFE.

SCHICK, LOUIS JR.—In memory of my dear husband and father who died March 17, 1922.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps him near.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

SCHMITT, JACOB P.—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Jacob P. Schmitt, who departed this life March 16, 1928.
We often sit and think of him when we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak when all other things decay
Our love for him will still keep green and never fade away.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN. (c)

WAGSTAFF—Arthur. In loving memory of my dear husband, our dear father, Arthur Wagstaff, who departed this life two years ago today.
In the graveyard softly sleeping, where the flowers gently wave
Lies the one we loved so dearly in his lonely, silent grave;
Peaceful be your sleep, dear Arthur, 'tis sweet to breathe your name;
In life we loved you dearly—in death we do the same.
Just two years, dear, since you left us, yet it seems so long ago—his merry voice is still—
All that is left for memories is the grave on distant hill.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN, and All Who Loved Him.

WESTHAUSE—In memory of our dear mother, Elizabeth Westhause, who departed this life one year ago, March 16, 1928:
Deep in our hearts lies a picture of a mother we laid to rest,
And in memory's frame we shall keep her because she was one of the best.
Sadly missed by
VIOLA AND ERWIN.

WOTLI—In memory of our dear father, George Wotli, who departed this life one year ago, March 11, 1928.
One year has passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away,
God took him home, it was His will,
Within our hearts he liveth still.
Sadly missed by CHILDREN. (c)

Has Solved

LIFE'S FINANCIAL PROBLEM FOR MANY MEN AND WOMEN

BUT THIS SHORT, EASY COURSE MAY SOON BE LOST TO YOU FOREVER.

STATE LAWS MAKE IT MORE DIFFICULT.

See Clipping

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 24.—(AP)—A bill which would raise the standards of barbering and beauty culture in Nebraska and place colleges on a plane with institutions of higher learning was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Brazda of West Point.
(Nearly every state in the Union is passing similar laws.)

A YOUNG GIRL

just out of grammar school inquired of a newspaper about a clean, dignified position that would pay well. She learned Beauty Culture at Moler's and is now employed in one of the largest and most exclusive Beauty Shops in the city.

AN AMBITIOUS YOUNG MAN whose aim was a Law Course in one of our big Universities learned Barbering at Moler's and worked his way through the University—by Saturday work alone—more than many men get for a full week. A splendid stepping stone.

NEW YORK.

WHEN she was 16 she weighed 140 pounds and could lick any man her size. Sometimes she went outside her weight class. She could climb the rigging faster than any able seaman on the Minnie A. Caine. She could splice a knot and reef and steer. She could chew a quid and spit a curve to windward. Such words as hell and damn rolled lightly from her lips—and still do. She was a sailor, born and brought up to the sea. Then there came a turning point in the career of Joan Lowell Lazzarrevich. Sailors among whom she had lived and fought and cussed from the age of 11 months began to notice that she was a girl—almost a woman. One night one of them kissed her. Her father saw it was time to put her ashore. So he set her adrift in San Francisco with a second mate's papers and thin air in her pockets and a tender parental admonition in her memory

"I've licked you every day of your life," he told her. "You know discipline. You've seen a lot of the world. You've lived amongst the hardest men in the world—and some of the finest. Now it's up to you to go ashore and see if you've got the guts to fight. If you're slated to go to hell you'll go to hell anyway, even if I stood over you all the time. I've got faith in you. Now go out and fight for yourself. There isn't anything you can get worth getting unless you have to fight for it."

It was 10 years ago that Joan Lowell Lazzarrevich—a lineal descendant of the proud Lowells of Boston—came ashore at San Francisco to fight her way. She didn't have a penny or a change of clothing. That was the way with old Captain Nicholas Lazzarrevich. When he said fight he meant it. She paid for her first supper on land by washing dishes in a restaurant.

THAT same Joan Lowell—she has dropped the Lazzarrevich now—made a triumphal return to New York the other day. Where once she had come to beg for a lowly place in the cast of a stock company, she came this time to bask in glory and riches as a successful author and as a potential stage star and movie star. Her book has "gone over" and her ship has come in laden with a cargo of gold. She is under contract to play the leading role in both the stage version and the screen version of her extraordinary life story, "The Cradle of the Deep," which has just been published by Simon and Schuster.

A short time ago, when urged to write her story, she said she couldn't; she didn't know enough words. But on being assured that she could use the same ones over again, she set herself to the task. She wrote the book in eight weeks, lying on the floor on her stomach, propped up on her elbows and pecking at a typewriter between bites of apples. And she wrote it well. She wrote herself into both fame and fortune. Fat contracts with producers are not the only reward. Royalties from sales of the book alone promise to run well into six figures before the year is out. For "The Cradle of the Deep," pronounced by authors and critics "a tale as remarkable as anything that has ever come out of the sea," has been selected as the March choice of the Book-of-the-Month Club and starts with a first edition of 75,000 copies. Except for one work by George Bernard Shaw, it is said to be the first book on record with a first edition of such proportions.

THREE months ago, the Boston Lowells, reputed in ancient verse to speak only to God, wouldn't have thought of acknowledging her as a relative. She was brought up on a smelly ship, chewing tobacco at 12 and swearing like a pirate, and as recently as five years ago she was living on the nuts and cakes she cleaned up from the tables on which she waited one night a week at supper dances. Think of it, my dears! A Lowell! But now literary circles are making more fuss over this female skipper of 26 than they have made over any other Lowell since the days of James Russell himself.

Whatever the Boston Back Bay families may think about it, the girl is a Lowell so far as blood is concerned. Her mother was Emmeline Trask Lowell of exclusive Cape Cod circles. But Emmeline Trask Lowell was a rebel and she jumped the family traces at an early age. When she was visiting in California at the age of 14 she met and married a common sailor, a deckhand on a sailing ship and a foreigner at that. He was Nicholas Lazzarrevich.

The relatives back in Boston held their noses high and refused to inquire into the man's origin, but they figured from the name that he must be a mixture of Turk and Montenegrin. They let it go at that and said as little as possible about it.

Emmeline Trask Lowell, now Mrs. Lazzarrevich, sought no parental forgiveness. She told the family where to go and then settled down to family matters of her own, of which she had enough for any one woman. In the course of 16 or 18 years were born eleven children. Four died within two years. Joan Lowell was the youngest. They called her the lick of the pan because she was the last one and there was so little of her. No one expected her to grow up but her father said, "This is the last one and I am going to save it; I'll take it away from the land and let the sea make it the pick of the puppies." Having become by now a sea Captain and bought his own ship, Nicholas Lazzarrevich took his 11-months-old baby girl with him on a trading voyage across the Pacific. His ship was a full-rigged sailing vessel used for freighting copra from the South Sea Islands to ports of the Far East.

Until the Minnie A. Caine sank off the coast of Tasmania years later, it was the only home

A Prison Term Made Him a Sculptor

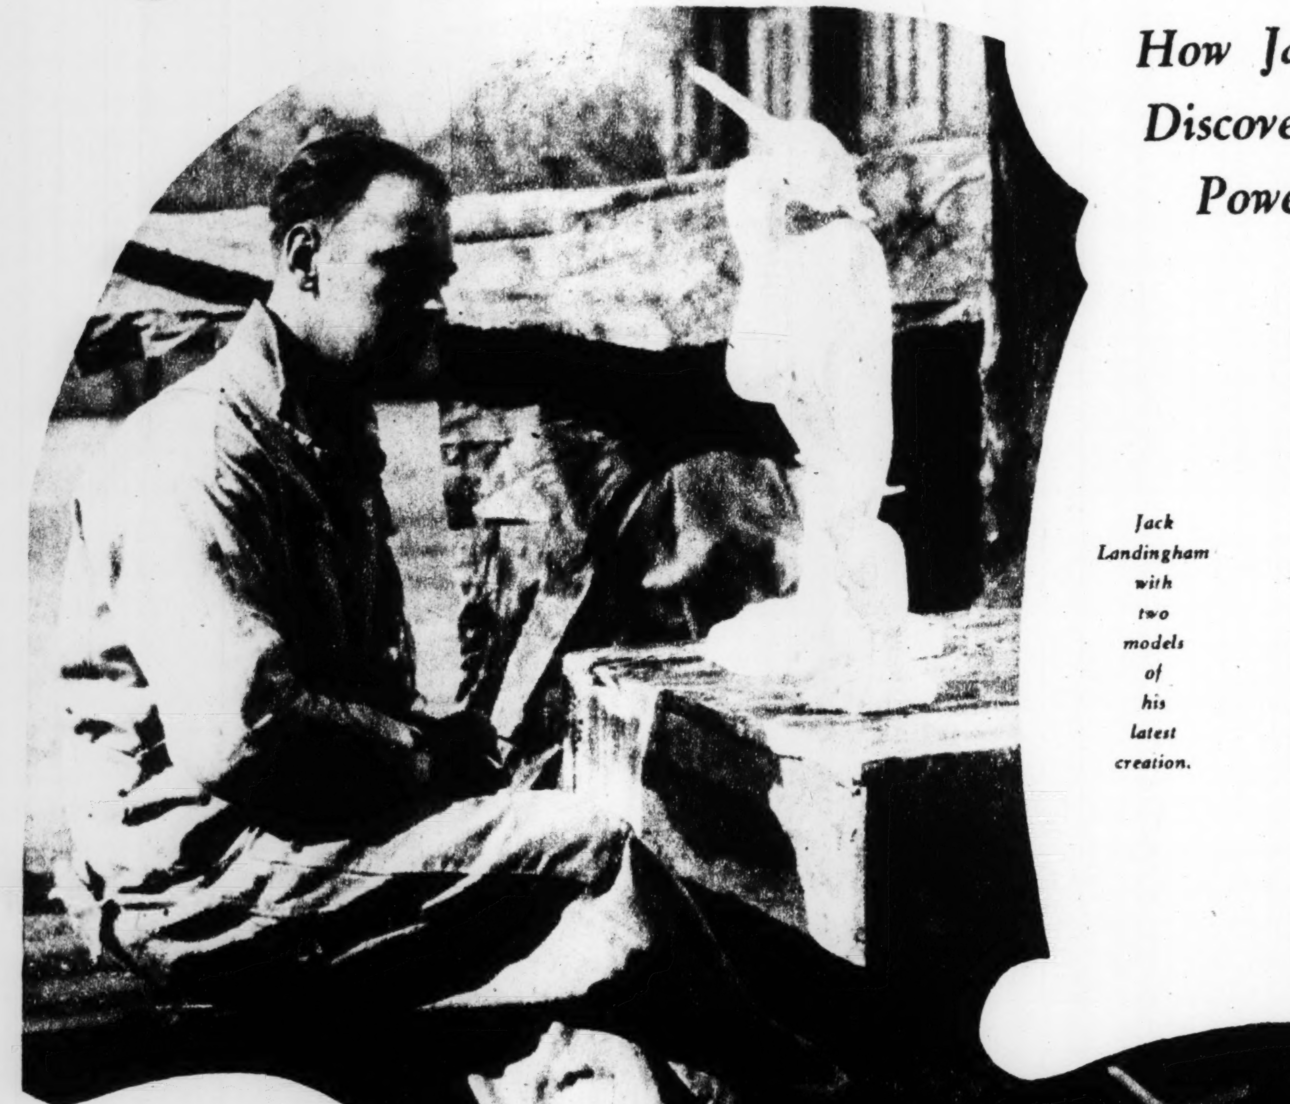
How Jack Landingham Discovered His Artistic Powers in a Cell.



Jack Landingham with two models of his latest creation.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

RALEIGH, N. C.

JACK LANDINGHAM hasn't done the first year of his time, for he only entered the big North Carolina State prison, here, in May of last year. When he became an inmate, he was regarded quite as any other prisoner. And not having a trade, they made him a plumber's helper. He still is. But in his short stay of 10 months within the high walls, his fingers and his ambition have found themselves. In his spare time, when other prisoners are glad for the opportunity of relaxation, Landingham has taken a pocket knife and a sponge, a whetstone and a small piece of steel spring, and carved beautiful things.

Landingham's first work was a model of Amelia Earhart made from a newspaper photograph. This model was made with concrete, and the sculptor contracted a bone-felon on his hand from carving the hard material, but he created a striking likeness of Miss Earhart.

Prison officials saw the statue of Miss Earhart. The North Carolina prison officials try to encourage their prisoners to learn useful trades while in the prison, so that they will be useful citizens when they are freed. Superintendent George Ross Pou made Landingham a present of a few sacks of plaster of Paris and gave him permission to fashion statues outside of his working hours.

A newspaper picture of Alfred E. Smith, on his way through Dixie, caught the eye of the young sculptor. Some pictures of Smith bearing little resemblance to the Democratic candidate appeared in the papers. It was one of these that Landingham copied.

Landingham next made a good likeness of Edwin Pou, elder son of the superintendent; then busts of the other Pou children, and one of a son of another official. Next he did a dying gladiator.

Landingham cannot keep his hands from carving. After he finished these pieces, he made a white heron, a rabbit, a bulldog, a horse and a lion. For each of these the sculptor had to use pictures instead of natural models. But he did good work.

Jack Landingham was born in Knoxville, Tennessee, some 32 years ago. He does not talk very much of his past. He spent some time as an art student at Rice Institute in Texas. Then the World War. Landingham went overseas. A month in the trenches. One night found him out in front of the lines in a listening post with four other soldiers. Tatt, tatt, tatt went the enemy machine guns. Landingham carries seven machine-gun wounds in his body. His companions were killed.

THEN peace. Landingham came back. He was broke and jobless and had no money to finish college. He worked for a while with an advertising man; a fellow who sold an advertising scheme to a community and went on his way.

The procedure was to contract with a leading automobile dealer in a town to advertise his car. The car would be kept running for seven or eight days without stopping, and dealers in tires and accessories were to pay their part for the advertising they received.

Jack Landingham soon began business for himself. He worked various cities in the West and at last entered Asheville. Now Asheville had a city ordinance that each advertising agency must pay the city $80 for a license to do business. Landingham says he didn't know this. He started his business and the third day the Merchant Association became interested.

At that time he had practically all his money in the proposition and had none to pay for the license demanded. Then the automobile dealer backed out of his contract, half the merchants refused to pay their part of the advertising, and the other half wanted him to carry out his contract. The Merchant Association threatened to have him arrested, and Landingham, frightened, he says, decided to leave town. This he did, and the merchants who had gone into the scheme swore out warrants of forgery and false pretense. Landingham had no money to fight the case, and his running away, he feared, would convict him anyway. When brought back to Asheville, he entered a plea of guilty.

The attorneys for the Merchant Association who helped to prosecute him begged the Judge to make an example out of his case, "so that our honest, hardworking merchants of North Carolina will not be fleeced by educated fly-by-night salesmen from without the State." Landingham drew a sentence of from five to six years on one charge, and from four to five on the other, the sentences to run in sequence.

When the long prison day is ended, Landingham lays down his pipe wrench, puts his pieces of pipe in a pile on the ground, puts away his tools. Then comes the routine of supper. And next to his cell.

Once there, he gets down to business. Under a wet tow sack is his modeling clay and his plaster of Paris. He goes to work and he works well into the night.

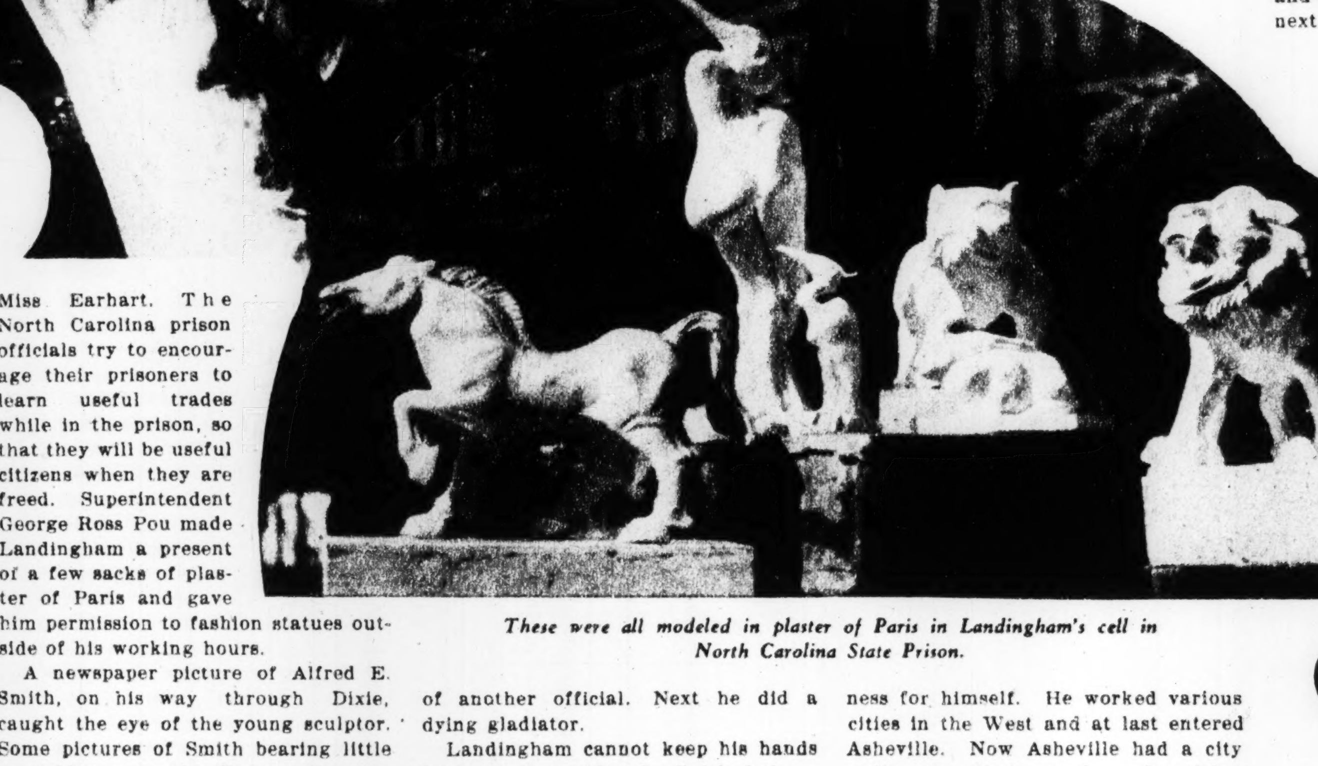
He is handicapped by lack of funds and lack of models. Still he plans his next piece, more ambitious than any he has essayed. He speaks of this contemplated work as "The Spirit of Reformation."

"The scope of sculpture is limited, in my opinion," Landingham says. "You can only tell a certain amount of your story. But in 'The Spirit of Reformation' I intend to portray as vividly as possible the lives of two types of people: those that dissipate, and those that live clean lives."

THIS proposed group is to show an angel, "The Spirit of Peace," climbing down a flight of steps with her face turned to her right, her hand stretched towards a family group. The family group is a madonna with a child in her arms and two children playing at her feet. A husband, strong and rugged, is to be sitting at her side, facing an open hearth fire, suggesting home life. To their right is to be another angel, who is beckoning towards stairs that lead towards heaven. To the left of the angel, who is the center of the group, is a war-like figure. To his left is a young woman drinking; at her feet lies a young man who is dying from poisoned whisky. To the left of them is a jeering figure of the devil with horns and a beckoning hand.

Landingham figures it will take six months to model the group in clay, and three years to complete the figures in plaster of Paris. The young sculptor plans to raise the money for his material by selling the figures of animals that he makes.

Though his prison term has but begun, he already thinks of the days when he will be free. Those days, too, he says, will be given to sculpture.



These were all modeled in plaster of Paris in Landingham's cell in North Carolina State Prison.

With a bust of Al Smith made from a newspaper clipping.

THE FOUR-YEAR-OLD BOY WHO HAS READ 29 BOOKS

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BIRMINGHAM, Alabama.

HOWARD YOUNG is but a little past 4; he plays on the nursery floor with train, blocks and cars, just as any other 4-year-old. He still sleeps in his little white baby bed, which receives his tired little body at 7 each evening. Throughout the day Howard romps and plays with the children of the neighborhood, flying kites, picking up pretty stones, digging holes in the soft earth and getting himself as dirty as any other normal youngster. To meet him casually one would see only a bright-faced, blue-eyed boy, not long out of the cradle, and not differing greatly from a host of other young Americans.

But there is one big difference in Howard: Where other children depend upon parents or nurse for their stories and poetry, Howard reads his own; where other 4-year-olds see a printed page as a maze of strange-looking marks, Howard sees words which tell fascinating stories to him.

Already he has read 29 books, read them through, enjoyed them, and calls for more. Fifteen minutes of reading a day will make you educated, runs the assertion of one book seller. But Howard, on the average, reads two hours a day.

Howard is a normal boy in his preferences in reading. Fairy tales and animal stories are his choice, although his healthy appetite for reading includes everything.

He has read almost all the fairy tales of the Grimm brothers and Hans Christian Andersen.

"Do you like poetry?" the writer asked him.

He looked up somewhat blankly.

"He calls them songs," explained his father, standing nearby.

"Songs; oh, yes!" exclaimed Howard, his face alight again.

And off his shelf, built low that he might reach it, he pulled a copy of Eugene Field and turned to "Wynken, Blynken and Nod." And then he read that favorite of children since the day the harum-scarum columnist scribbled it off to help fill up the space in his daily column.

He read it easily, enunciating somewhat precisely but always without hesitation. Occasionally he would come to a word not quite familiar. He would try it, however, and then quickly ask if that was right. It was never far from being correct.

HOWARD understands what he reads. And he makes comments on what he is reading. As he read Eugene Field's poem he came to the lines:

"And some folks thought 'twas a dream they'd dreamed
Of sailing that beautiful sea."

Howard turned quickly to the writer and said: "Well, it was a dream, of course," and read on.

His mind sees connections in his reading that older persons miss. For example, in "The Fir Tree" the words candles and candies appear in the same sentence.

"They both have 'can' before them, don't they?" he remarked, with the air of having made an interesting discovery.

Sometimes when he lies on the floor of his nursery, chin in hands, his legs kicking behind him and the book on the floor, he is overheard to make comments on what he reads, comments showing that he is absorbing what he is reading and that his curiosity is going behind the printed words.

Once when he was reading Aesop's fable of the crow and the pitcher, Howard expressed a curiosity as to how the crow raised the level of the water in the pitcher until he could reach it. A pitcher partly full of water was given Howard, and by dropping pebbles in it he demonstrated the fable.

This incident explains much of Howard's precocity. He has ever had the opportunity of gratifying his curiosity. Not always are his questions answered directly. Often, as in the instance above, he is encouraged to prove by experimentation the truth of something he has read, or he is told to read on and the book will explain it. But no question ever goes utterly unanswered.

His father, a physician, Dr. T. H. Young, has been to a large extent the teacher of this boy. When Howard was just a little more than 3 years old he showed an interest in the books read to him. He wanted to know how those black marks on the paper could tell pretty stories.

So Dr. Young bought some simple primers and, setting the youngster on his lap, held the book at the proper angle and distance and began to teach him words. The boy was easily taught, for Howard has a quick and retentive memory.

Howard learned to read through learning words by sight. First it was names for simple objects in pictures, then to form sentences about the things seen in the pictures. Even now he does not know all the letters by sight, and spelling has never been a part of his training.

Every day Howard reads aloud to his father, the periods being short that the eyes may not be strained. Dr. Young holds the book in order that the boy's muscles may not get tired and reading ever become irksome. When Howard reads by himself, which is several times a day, the book always rests upon the floor.

These periods of reading, whether voluntary or at the father's suggestion, are always short.

"HOWARD is just like other boys," says the father, "and too long concentration at any one thing is unnatural. Howard is no freak. He is a natural, average boy, who has been given every opportunity and encouragement to read."

Starting first with primers, Howard has been led upward under his father's guidance through the readers used in the first three grades in school, with many other children's books. Each volume that is bought is carefully selected, especially with the view of obtaining just a few new words, not enough to discourage the boy, but as many as he can assimilate at one time. Books are never borrowed from the library. Every book that Howard has read belongs to him. The pride of ownership is encouraged.

Howard is fond of animal stories. This is but a reflection of his boyish liking for pets and all things that grow or are found in the out of doors. There is a very close relation between what he reads and his experiences with nature. He may stop his reading to allude to things he has seen outside. Or animals he meets in life may remind him of those he has read about in books.

In the quiet and comparatively simple suburban home where Howard and his parents live the boy keeps in contact with the earth. For two years now he has had his own garden plot, planting the seeds himself and watching the first green sprouts grow into the aster, tomato and lettuce.

Howard also delights to go with his father when the physician calls on his patients. The boy stays in the car outside, sometimes with a book, often to look about him while his father is within the house. After such a trip Howard can tell his father every house where they stopped and the name of the people who live there.

Howard's advancement is not the result of any kindergarten. He has never received any formal instruction, and the only help he has received has come from his mother and his father.

Both of Howard's parents have had experience in teaching. They are graduates of the State Normal School for Teachers at Florence, Alabama, and both taught several years. The father did his medical studies at Tulane, Vanderbilt and Harvard. The ancestors of both were preachers and teachers.

There are two brothers in the family older than Howard. Both were precocious, the oldest, Hendrix, having entered Harvard University last year at the age of 16. Hendrix is specializing in romance languages.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK'S night club racket is on the eve of a great boom.

After staggering through an extremely drab period lasting many months, these famous—or infamous—marts of dizzy, dazzling frivolity are again "sitting pretty," with the path apparently cleared for a revival of activity that is likely to reach unprecedented heights.

There is a tremendous stir among the gentry engaged in this exhilarating "sucker" game, in consequence of the collapse of the Federal Government's war to put them, all and sundry, out of business. Three resounding metaphorical cheers swept the ranks of the night club gang when the good news reached their eardrums, for they can envision anew a Niagara of dollars such as they enjoyed in the days of yore. Of late, the pickings have been lean indeed.

What has happened? Just this—the Federal officials engaged in the prohibition enforcement battle have frankly confessed that they "simply cannot get New York juries to convict offenders brought before them on charges of conspiracy to violate the liquor law." Conviction on this charge calls for a penalty of two years in prison, or a fine of $10,000, or both.

Special Assistant United States Attorney Norman J. Morrison, who has been doing the best he can to fulfill the wishes of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant United States Attorney-General, in charge of prohibition, has sorrowfully informed the Federal Court in New York that, henceforth, convictions will be sought only on the much milder charge of "maintaining a nuisance."

IN MAKING this confession, Morrison has dropped the prosecution of a long list of defendants under the more serious charge. He is continuing his efforts to convict on the lighter charge, which usually rates a fine of $50 to $100 hereabouts.

Morrison asks that the Court measure out jail sentences on the "nuisance" convictions, but the chance of this being done is pathetically small, it is generally agreed.

That the effect of the collapse of the Government's campaign to apply the "sting" in the law will be enormous, is unquestioned. It has been pretty clear, during the past few months, that many night club racketeers, courageous as they are, have been mighty wary of gambling with arrest and conviction under the conspiracy indictment with its stiff cash and jail penalty. But at these little $50 and $100 fines they just chuckle, and get back to business.

Hat checking privileges bring in small fortunes—the check-room girls have clothes with no pockets and are under constant surveillance.

Probably no phenomenon in our turbulent American life has stirred more widespread interest throughout the land than have these night clubs of New York. Any scandal or shooting affair, whether it involves denizens of the underworld in a gang war, ladies and gentlemen of the "haut monde," a millionaire broker and a chorus sweety, or a staid business man from Oshkosh, the affair inspires an extra thrill for the reading millions if it boasts the romance of a New York night-life angle in it somewhere.

Confirmation of the fact that the night club operators quickly sensed the disappearance of the menace of serious punishment for their booze-selling, and that they propose to whoop things up again in a big way, comes to the writer first hand.

Nor is there a tear to be found in the eye of "Texas" Guinan, queen of all night club hostesses, albeit she is a bit saddened by a sentence of four months just pronounced upon her brother "Tommy," one of the very few prison awards that have been handed out to offenders here.

"Tex" herself is a defendant in a case that has been hanging fire, growing out of her alleged connection with the establishment in Forty-eighth street which bore her name. But this scintillating lady, ever optimistic, is presiding over a new establishment, "The Club Intime," in West Fifty-fourth street, close to Broadway, which has promptly become one of the most popular places in town. This latest club is located in the Hotel Harding, and it is reported that she has taken over a 19-year lease on the hotel as well.

OF ALL the thousands of characters engaged in this amazing New York "industry," Miss Guinan is by all odds the most brilliant, the most startling, and the most successful. She could sell the Brooklyn Bridge to the city of New York and convince that sophisticated municipality that it never owned it in the first place—or ever heard of it. She'd tell 'em it would help to solve the traffic problem.

"People come here for entertainment and we give to 'em," Miss Guinan explained. "Sure, they've got to pay for it; they know that when they come. If they haven't got the cash, night clubs are no place for 'em," is her frank view. She probably is the only entertainer in the world who calls her customers "suckers" to their faces and makes them like it. It's an amazing psychology, but it works.

A German priest was steered to a "joint" where, after being served a sandwich and a glass of wine, he was presented with a bill for $20. When he protested he was severely beaten.

There came the other day the first explanation from official circles of the Federal raids upon the New York night clubs last June. The country has long sought an answer to the question as to whether these raids, which came on the very day that former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York was given the presidential nomination by the Democratic convention at Houston, were a coincidence or whether they were timed to strike a political blow at the "wet" Al Smith. Special Assistant U. S. Attorney Morrison, who has handled the court prosecutions here and who filed the warrants for the raids, has given his explanation.

"The launching of the Federal campaign here had nothing to do with Mr. Smith's nomination at Houston, nor could it have had, even if we had had such an idea," Morrison said.

"For weeks our agents had been gathering evidence against these clubs. Summer was near and already two of the places we had completed our cases against had closed voluntarily until fall. In another week, a dozen more of them would have done likewise.

"I wrote the warrants in my hotel room, in utmost secrecy, so there would be no leaks, and on the same day went before a Federal Judge, who granted them. I called my raiders, all picked with the greatest of care, together, and told them we were going to raid that night. These preparations were made hours before Mr. Smith was nominated by the convention.

"Further than this, there was no way of knowing whether the nomination would come that day, or whether there would be a hundred ballots over a period of 10 days, as happened in New York four years before."

Several important factors combined to put the quietus on the night-club business, which had thrived so vigorously until the sad days came. And most of these were direct reactions from the manner in which the enterprises were conducted.

In the first place, you will find the name of none of our "best citizens" on the rolls of those who run these establishments. It has been shown that a considerable proportion of them are operated, sometimes openly, sometimes secretly, by big bootleggers or others of the ilk who chronically make their living outside the law. No less an authority than O. O. McIntyre, who knows his New York as well as Babe Ruth knows his way around the bases, says that 90 per cent of the operators are of this breed.

THE campaign of raids and arrests launched by the Federal officials last June had thrown a genuine scare into the club owners and attaches. Patrons were frightened away in droves when the raiders, in some of their earlier swoops, gathered in the customers along with the rest. This policy of seizing the patrons did not continue but the effect was permanent. What crook is going to hang around a "joint" that is likely to be "pinched" any night? And what high-browed sight-seer or business man, seeking to bask a bit under the glittering Mazdas, is going to risk being hustled off to the station-house, with the added shame of seeing his name in the morning newspapers?

A series of shootings and stabbing affairs, together with extremely rough stuff in other forms, including the beating up of patrons who dared refuse to pay their grossly padded checks, brought the clubs into increased disfavor.

And many a customer who might have come back for more was alienated by the prices he was forced to pay for his liquor. Whisky—they call it that—at $25 to $40 a quart is a sizeable price in any man's cash; $50 and even $60 a quart for alleged champagne, as charged by many places when a customer looked as if he would stand the traffic, or was too drunk to argue about it, is pretty steep, no matter how wild the party or how huge the bankroll.

The result was that many tables remained idle, night after night, in these places, which swarm the side streets through the Forties and Fifties east and west of Broadway, with smaller colonies in Greenwich Village, Harlem and the Bronx, and with generous sprinklings throughout Manhattan in every direction. Few sections, even including the exclusive Park avenue area, are immune.

On top of the scores of places that were closed through padlock proceedings, scores of others put up the shutters of their own accord. "There's nothing in it," the owners said, and for many there probably was not.

BUT the padlocks in many cases failed to discourage, especially in the cases of clubs that were prospering. On numerous occasions, when a place was clamped shut by these proceedings, the Federal authorities would find it going full tilt in a new establishment in a nearby street, perhaps just around the corner, or on another floor in the same building.

Here is a case that illustrates the difficulty the Federal authorities experience in obtaining convictions. James Moore, proprietor of the popular "Dinty Moore's" place in West Forty-sixth street, was in court recently charged with violating the prohibition law. Federal agents, one of them a young woman, testified that on separate occasions they bought rye highballs and old-fashioned cocktails at Dinty's—both being drinks which require mixing, not to mention a place to mix them. Moore's witnesses were mainly his employes, who denied serving liquor. One waiter who had a bottle of liquor in his possession testified it had been given to him by a friend, to help his cold.

The Federal Judge sitting on the case gave it as his opinion that Moore was innocent, that he knew nothing about liquor being served in his establishment, and the Court dismissed a motion by the Government to put a padlock on the place and to seize a bond of $15,000 under which Moore had been placed some months before.

It has been said repeatedly that the night clubs of New York are supported by visitors to the city, on pleasure bent—and often on pleasure broke. This is only partly true. Make no mistake, New Yorkers—I include those of the great metropolitan area—supply the larger proportion of the dollars that jingle into the coffers.

While visitors from the nooks and corners of the country make up a formidable total, the "sweet night

And this of all my hopes—
This is the silent end.
Bountiful colored my morning rose,
Early and sere its end.

Never bud from a stem Stepped with so gay a foot,
Never a worm so confident
Bored at so brave a root.

It ceased to hurt me, though
So slow
I could not see the trouble go—
But only knew by looking back
That something had obscured
The track.

Nor when it altered,
I could say—
For I had worn it every day
As constant as the childish frock
I hung upon the nail at night.

Nor what consoled it—I Could trace,
Except whereas 'twas wilderness
It's better, almost Peace.

The world feels dusty
When we stop to die;
We want the dew then,
Honors taste dry.

Flags vex a dying face,
But the least fan
Stirred by a friend's hand
Cools like the rain.

Mine be the ministry
When thy thirst comes,
Dews of thyself to fetch
And holy balms.

EMILY DICKINSON was one of the most remarkable women that ever lived. She rarely stuck her nose out of the door of her father's house in Amherst, Massachusetts, and she knew more about life than Jim Tully. She remained a spinster and became a recluse because she refused to run away with the man she loved, and achieve her own happiness by ruining another woman's. She was never ashamed of having been a good woman. She wrote poetry which rears its head among the songs of the great. She rose out of the dank puritanism of her native New England, a liberal in mind and in spirit, as anachronistic to her surroundings as Bernard Shaw would be to Kansas. She had the rare ability to be kindly in practice as well as theory. She had, in short, a soul, and there is nothing arty about that.

Yesterday there appeared on the book stalls a volume entitled "Further Poems of Emily Dickinson" (Little, Brown & Co.) There are in this book 150 poems. They are the pieces suppressed by her sister, Lavinia, at the time of Emily Dickinson's death in 1886.

It is these heretofore suppressed verses that sing the song of the tragedy in Emily Dickinson's life, the unhappiness which set upon her when, as a girl of 23, she lost the man she loved by her own choosing. Had he been free to take her, we would not have had the poems that now appear; how great the literary compensation for that loss might have been is mere conjecture. Her loss was the great turning point in her life; it is this experience that colors all the verses just given publication.

Lavinia Dickinson put these poems aside; they were, she felt, too intimate explanations of the hidden thoughts of this hidden woman. The sister's feelings in the matter are perfectly obvious. They are easy to understand. But to Lavinia's everlasting glory, this editorial sister failed to destroy them—more likely, she kept from sending them to the fireplace of that old Massachusetts home. For their resurrection we may thank Martha Dickinson Bianchi, the poet's niece, who, properly intrigued by her aunt's greatness, has compiled the volume which but yesterday saw the light. It is Madame Bianchi who in 1924 published "The Life and Letters of Emily Dickinson," a volume that, if at times a little too much the enthusiastic tome of an admiring niece, is instructive, mostly complete, conscientious in its inclusion of notes and letters, and, at times, beautiful in its implications.

EMILY DICKINSON was, is, and always will be something of a mystery. Born and reared in a community which knew its God only as one Who should be feared, a community that, like all its neighboring communities, learned its spiritualism only so its individuals might be saved from eternal hellfire on the judgment day—so born she saw through them and their superstitions and, on pain of everlasting torture, believed as her own fine spirit bade her believe.

Her courage and her convictions in this instance were but a part of her astonishing whole. How a woman who had so few contacts with the world, a spinster-recluse who when still in her twenties considered it a long journey to tread the path across the lawn to her brother's home—how this woman ever came by her firm philosophy of life, her excellently balanced view of it all, is a matter of great wonder—of high surprise. To say she was a seer is entirely too mystic; to say she was a poet impregnated with congenital genius begs the question.

There is but one explanation. She had, undoubtedly, a mentality so keen and embracing, so alert and understanding, so great an ability to analyze and to deduce, that where your average fellow—and your more than average—must be buffeted by circumstance after circumstance before he wakes up, if ever, to the unhappy realization of what the business is all about, this retiring woman could comprehend on hearing the first footfalls of significance. They did not need to walk up to her; she caught their meaning as they passed her by and walked on to others. And where less gifted folk must only come to knowledge through multitudinous experiences, this woman knew that much good and much evil may both arise out of a fundamental fact.

EMILY NORCROSS DICKINSON—she was named for her mother was born December 11, 1830, in an old house at Amherst, a structure said to have been the first built of brick in the community. She had a brother, Austin; later there came Lavinia.

"There was nothing"—says her biographer—"in the parentage or direct heredity of Emily Dickinson to account for her genius . . . Her parents did not interfere with her actual life and behavior, both because they never realized her preoccupation quite fully, and because they had no will to destroy the individuality of their three children. Her parents' dignity was of the stiff, reserved type resenting the least encroachment on its individuality in character and privacy in habit—which they insured by conforming handsomely to the sense of their community, the laws of their state and country, and the will of God as expounded from the pulpits of the white meeting-house in Hadley and later in Amherst, where the colonial train of Emily Dickinson's ancestors undeviatingly worshiped.

"Her heredity is distinctly traced for nine generations in America. Her first local ancestor settled in old Hadley and a later generation was one of the founders of the church and town of Amherst. There were Dickinsons mentioned in Hadley among the first letters of the original Indian grants in 1659.

"Her own grandfather, Samuel Fowler Dickinson, was the first of her direct line in Amherst. His connection with the establishment of Amherst Academy, from which the College later sprang, is familiar local history. In his fervor for 'the in-bringing of the Kingdom' he foresaw the universal education of ministers, and calculated the millennium in the near future of 'about seven years.'

"His oldest son, Edward, who was the father of Emily, was brought up strictly and with a regard for the missionaries first. He grew up to be a rather haughty, austere man, shy and gentle, laconic and strict. . . He followed the family profession and went into the law, practicing in Amherst, drawing the deeds that no modern court has ever been able to set aside or adjudge not binding. He was a pillar in the First Church, and served its interests with utter fidelity . . . The Squire was a proud man but his name was the first on any subscription to relieve want or disaster."

The Dickinson home at Amherst, Massachusetts.

As for Emily's mother, she was "an exquisite little lady of the old school," whose family was well off. When she was married her dower was brought to Amherst "by several yoke of brindle oxen." There was no doubt about her family's resources, for "her mahogany was claw-footed and pineapple cut; her silver had the baskets of flowers on the handles."

There you have the motif of Emily's ancestors, far-off and immediate; it was in just such a civilization as was responsible for them that she was reared. As a child, she and her brother and sister went to the public school in Amherst; they went berrying and chestnuting and, on particularly august occasions, they rode in the family cabriolet, a pompous affair of high doors and oval windows, the upholstery of which was cream-colored broadcloth.

Emily and Lavinia and Austin had playmates, of course; there was, for instance, little Helen Fisk, the daughter of Professor Fisk. On one occasion Mrs. Dickinson wrote a note to Mrs. Fisk, asking if Helen might not come and play "under the syringas" with Emily. Mrs. Fisk replied:

"Professor Fisk will lead Helen over to play with Emily beneath the syringas this afternoon. In case it prove not convenient to send her home, he will call for her in the chaise toward nightfall, before the dew falls."

A charming picture of children in innocent surroundings. But whether Mrs. Dickinson found it convenient to send Helen home or whether Professor Fisk was forced to call for her in the chaise, history fails to record.

When Emily was 16 she met the girl who was to be of prime significance in her life, a girl who grew into a woman of no mean ability herself, one who was to appreciate Emily's work, advise her upon it, and encourage it. The girl was her "Sister Sue," who later married Austin Dickinson. Emily and Sue met in 1847, the occasion being a visit by Sue to Amherst.

In later years when Emily's mother's astonishment at something Emily had said "summed itself up in the shrill cry, 'Why, Emily! How can you talk so!' or when her father evidenced displeasure by taking his hat and cane and passing out of the door in silence, it was to Sister Sue that Emily fled for safety."

"Up to the time of Emily's going away to school," her biographer relates, "she was of rather precocious mentality, somewhat sentimental and given to girlish outpourings written in the accepted verbosity of the style of the mid-century."

But it didn't take Emily long to get away from the "accepted verbosity" of the middle 1800's. In 1847 she entered the South Hadley Female Seminary—the name tells the school's character—and this witty child, missing the discussions of politics, national and international, which she was used to at home, was undeniably a little bored with life at a young lady's seminary. She wrote to her brother, in mock despair:

"Please tell me who the candidate for President is! I have been trying to find out ever since your last visit, and have not succeeded. I know no more about the affairs of the outside world than if I were in a trance. Was the Mexican War terminated? Is any nation about to besiege South Hadley?"

We come to the first great rebellion in Emily Dickinson's life. Its bravery was magnificent; its implications tremendous.

It seems that the first Thanksgiving at South Hadley brought a vacation with it. Her brother called for her, took her home, and the days before the following Monday, when she must return to the Female Seminary, were days all aglitter.

"BUT," to return to the biography, "if Thanksgiving was radiant, Christmas was gloom in comparison. It was only a day in advance that Miss Lyon—the head of the school—announced, at morning devotions, that Christmas would be recognized as a fast. The girls were not to leave their rooms through long, definite hours and were to meditate to order. After laying down this unseductive program she added that the school might rise in token of responsive observation. The school did rise—all except Emily and her roommate. The school sat down and Miss Lyon, appalled by such flagrant disregard of the decent required pieties, enlarged upon her program. At the end of which she added that if there were any so lost to a sense of the meaning of the day as to wish to spend it otherwise, they might stand that the whole school might observe them. And be it said to her eternal glory, of the two terrified objects of her anathema Emily stood alone."

The afternoon stage to Amherst carried, among its passengers, Miss Emily Dickinson. No loud huzzas marked her return to the family fireside. But the shock to the Lyon's bosom of Emily's fall from grace finally was soothed; the matter was smoothed over, and Emily was permitted to return to South Hadley, "unconvinced and unrepentant."

The year 1853 found Emily spending the winter in Washington with her family. Her father, to serve a special cause, and not through political ambition—so it is recorded—had got himself into Congress. It was said Emily immediately impressed the great gentlemen at the capital with her "insight into men and affairs," the while she created a sensation with her wit.

EMILY by this time was well on the way to greatness. Swiftly she was coming by her ability to express herself on paper, and her genius for comprehension was nurtured by her new contacts.

Then came a visit to Philadelphia. It was the most important journey she ever made. It was on this visit that Emily met the man she came to love. As her niece puts it, she was "doomed once and forever by her own heart. It was instantaneous, overwhelming, impossible."

This man was a minister of the gospel; he was married and he had a child. Emily's problem was plain—take him or leave him. He begged her to have him. And she refused. It was contrary to her sense of the fitness of things to find joy in what must be his wife's and his child's misery. So decided, she did the only thing she could do: she fled to her home.

But her man was not yet done for. He followed her, went to her home, put his plea before her once again. Her father and mother were away; no one was there but Lavinia. Lavinia, in her great fright, ran to Sue. Grabbing her by the wrist, Lavinia cried: "Sue, come! That man is here! And I'm afraid Emily will go away with him."

She need have had no fear. Emily's affection for him had not diminished; neither had her convictions altered. She sent him on his way.

He returned to his home, but his knell had sounded. In an effort to work his cure he packed up and, with his wife and child, made for another city on the other side of the continent. His flight was unsuccessful. The unhappy man learned that geographical change brought no remedy; in a few years he was dead.

Emily went on alone. On the wall of her room, in a heavy oval frame of gold, hung a picture. Emily, characteristically, gave no explanation for

The BOGUS COUNT and his Half-Million Dollar Haul

Berlin Taxi-Driver Made Himself a Titled Military Officer and the "Suckers" of Saxony Did the Rest.

Guido Behrens, alias Count Guido von Imberg.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BERLIN.

THE remarkable story of Guido Behrens, recently sentenced to two years' imprisonment by a German court, may be called a counterpart of the celebrated case of the Captain of Coepenick, which poked unforgettable fun at the Germans' inborn deference to military uniforms. The Coepenick affair was sprung on a sunny summer forenoon in Berlin. Twelve soldiers were marching on the street leading to Coepenick, a suburb of the capital, when suddenly a Captain stopped them, placed himself at their head and bade them to follow him. When they reached the city hall of Coepenick the Captain placed four of his soldiers with fixed bayonets before the entrance and marched with the others into the office of the Burgomaster. He demanded the books of the cashier, declared the Burgomaster and the cashier under arrest on suspicion of grand larceny, seized all the accounts and the cash on hand, put the two officials in irons and led the group back to Berlin. On the way, however, he changed his mind, ordered the soldiers to deliver the prisoners at a certain armory, where he was to meet them later, then disappeared with the cash. The authorities promptly discovered the imposition, but it was not until four months later, when the Captain was arrested, that they learned he was not even a soldier, but a shoemaker named Vogt whose only contacts with the army had been when he shined the shoes of officers.

GUIDO BEHRENS had a distinct advantage over the Captain of Coepenick, in whose steps he followed. He had served in the army as a private and so had opportunity to study the manners of aristocratic officers, whom he later imitated with so much success. On the other hand, he played his amusing game in a post-war republican Germany where uniforms, titles and medals are supposed to have lost their glamour. Yet Guido Behrens was able to overcome these handicaps and played his assumed role so well that his loot exceeded by far the paltry sum taken by the Captain, a mere 7000 marks, while Guido, the man of audacious, grand gestures, contrived to get 2,000,000 marks, the equivalent of $500,000. And all through the clever use of the still magical uniform of a German Army officer.

It was about a year and a half ago that Guido Behrens decided to capitalize his most valuable asset—namely, an intimate knowledge of the habits and manners of swanky army officers. He knew them by heart and could assume them with plausible ease. His father was a coachman on the estate of a wealthy family in Saxony, and Guido himself, while serving in the Imperial Guard, was for a time orderly to a real Count. The Count's name was Imberg, and Guido observed the impression this name made everywhere. The Count could order what he liked on credit and shopkeepers felt honored when he condescended to buy from them. Guido wondered if he could not make a similar impression if he had the same name.

Of course, the name alone was not enough. He had to have good clothes, brilliant uniforms and military decorations. To these (a finishing touch) he would add a monocle set firmly in his right eye.

So one fine day Guido Behrens sold his taxicab, bought some civilian clothes, a uniform, a few medals and barrets and three monocles. Then he bought a railroad ticket to Liegnitz, a small town in Saxony, and launched upon his spectacular career as Count Guido von Imberg.

He took the most expensive suite in the best hotel, donned his uniform and breezily entered the dining room on the evening of his arrival. He was elegant, good looking, a bit reserved but genial, and spoke German with a Prussian accent in the short sentences and commanding tone affected by the officers of the former Imperial Guard. He ordered champagne, and when the proprietor of the hotel came to ask if His Excellency was satisfied with everything Guido nodded graciously and asked him to recommend a reliable automobile house where he might buy a car. The proprietor called a dealer and Guido bought a car. There was an initial payment required, which paltry sum Count Guido ordered to be paid by the hotel clerk and added on his bill. He couldn't be bothered with bagatelles. For the balance payment Guido gave a note, which was readily accepted by the dealer and as readily discounted by the local bank.

The gay Count gave many parties and had many love affairs in Dresden and Leipsic.

The next day Guido hired a chauffeur and made a tour about town. He took luncheon at an exclusive restaurant where the town's most prominent business men assembled. Count von Imberg found it easy to make acquaintances. He received invitations, which, however, he did not accept for the time being. He was duly reserved, as became a real aristocrat who could be a charming companion at the dining table, but was particular about his social connections.

On the other hand, he made no secret of the fact that he was interested in business. He was an exporter of German goods, he explained, and was out on a buying tour. There was a chemical factory in the city. Guido visited it, bought a large quantity of chemical products, for which he gave promissory notes by way of payment, and had his purchases sent to a Berlin address. It was the place where he had lived as a taxicab driver.

Two days later Guido went to Berlin, received the stuff and sold it promptly at a low price for cash.

On the strength of this exploit Guido decided that he was eminently fitted for the Count business and made the necessary preparations to set up in this business on a larger scale.

So now Guido Behrens—or, as he styled himself, Count Guido von Imberg—traveled to and fro among the industrial centers of Saxony. He established his headquarters in Dresden, where he rented a fine apartment in the fashionable section of the city, furnishing it with antique pieces and reserving two rooms for office purposes. His method was simple and invariable; he bought merchandise on credit and disposed of it at very low prices for cash and in the meantime lived on the grand scale of a real and wealthy Count. He was clever enough to know that if he wanted to keep up this business for any length of time he must establish a real credit and pay his promissory notes when they fell due. In order to do this he had to manipulate on an ever-increasing scale, buying larger and larger quantities of merchandise and disposing of them as summarily as possible.

Of course, the gay Count gave parties and had love affairs in Dresden and Leipsic, the two cities where he spent the greater part of his time. In Dresden he courted a beautiful chorus girl, and in Leipsic he was often seen in the company of an equally attractive stenographer. His entertainments were famous among the young people of the Dresden bourgeoisie, who were blinded by the luxurious atmosphere of Count Imberg's quarters, peopled by an impressive array of butlers and servants.

THINGS went smoothly enough up to a few months ago, when Count Guido suddenly came to a point where he needed at least $30,000 to meet his notes. Business conditions were slack and he couldn't dispose of the merchandise he bought as quickly as was desirable. Emboldened by his success with gullible tradespeople and manufacturers, Guido conceived the bold idea of going to a bank for money. With his usual nonchalance he tried a house of some importance in Leipsic, introducing himself and presenting a note which he wished to have discounted. The vice president received him with the same deference as the manufacturers and merchants had done and told him the matter would be attended to. But, unfortunately for Guido, the bank made an investigation into the affairs of the Count von Imberg before granting the loan. The investigators started by looking up in the Almanach de Gotha the family of Count Guido von Imberg. There was no Count Guido von Imberg in the Almanach. The bank became suspicious and notified the Dresden police. Three days later the former taxicab driver was under arrest and Germany had a sardonic laugh when the Saxon manufacturers presented their claims. Guido owed about 2,000,000 marks. He had spent over $500,000 within a year.

The prison sentence he received was comparatively light. In the opinion of the Court the fact that he had received credit without the slightest difficulty was regarded as a mitigating circumstance. As to the victims of Guido, the Judge virtually declared that they deserved to be fooled.

"If the uniform of a former Captain of the Imperial Guard is enough to induce German business men living under the republican regime to grant unlimited credit to a person without investigating his business affairs, then they have only themselves to blame if they are made the victims of an impostor."

HOW to SPEND MONEY for CLOTHES

Adolphe Menjou Describes the Way He Lives Up to His Sartorial Ideal on $14,500 a Year. But Adds That It Can Be Done on $2500 or Even $500.

By ADOLPHE MENJOU

Best Dressed Man in the Movies

EVERY year the National Association of Merchant Tailors convenes, and after much deliberation issues a communique as to the number of suits, overcoats, dinner coats, hats, pairs of shoes, plus fours, riding breeches and so on a man should have in his wardrobe if he wants to be considered well-dressed. This year they met in Philadelphia and ordained that until they meet again the minimum would be 20 suits.

Now, you cannot blame the merchant tailors. It may be that somewhere in so large a country as ours there is an individual who accepts the communique like a soldier, rushes out and orders 20 suits, assorted types and styles, with suspenders and clothes hangers to match.

The last time I was in New York I was struck by the number of young men who dressed exactly alike—derby hat, long black box overcoat, white neckscarf and cane—just as if they had followed the advice of some single mentor, such as the style reporter in the daily press, in the selection of their apparel.

OF COURSE, such slavish acceptance of someone else's ideas is the death of style, and—yes, of good dressing. There must be originality, art, the personal touch. . . . But no matter. The merchant tailors get editors, writers, persons like myself, for instance, to talk about clothes. And, as I know as well as most actors, publicity keeps the pot boiling.

They call me the "best-dressed man on the screen," and so on. And I confess I do my best to live up to the idea.

There doesn't seem to be much doubt that clothes go much further nowadays to make a man than ever they did before, whether you like it or not. In business, other things being equal, it is the well-dressed man who gets ahead. Snappy, attractively-garbed salesmen certainly outdistance sloppy, careless-looking ones, always excepting the occasional slovenly genius who proves the rule. If you are well-dressed, persons think you are someone and let you in; otherwise they delay and put you off.

By far the majority of successful American executives I have met have been men who paid a deal of attention to clothes. Their own clothes. And, indeed, a mighty big part of my own progress on the screen has been due to clothes and the way I've worn them.

Adolphe Menjou.

I spend $14,500 a year on clothes. But I remember when I first went to Hollywood $500 a year was about the limit. If I do say it, I dressed well on that, well enough to attract Charlie Chaplin's attention when he was looking for a gay, man-of-the-world type to play in his "Women of Paris." Before that, I had dressed on $2500 a year. And I found a man can dress well on almost any amount—even a little less, perhaps, than $500, if he will—despite what the merchant tailors say. It all depends on how he apportions his money and how much care and attention he gives to the details, such as color, valet service and the little tricks of wearing things with that indefinable quality of personality.

OF COURSE, at first thought, $14,500 a year for clothes seems extravagant. But it must be remembered that I am playing the part of the best-dressed man on the screen. Which is quite different from that of the man on the street. Clothes are a part of my business.

In the course of a year I visit many countries. In every one I make it a point to visit the tailors. I get new ideas. Always I visit England, for that is the home of the best tailors in the world. I go to Germany and France, where also there are good tailors. Everywhere, I buy suits of clothes. They cost about $75 per suit, including tariff duty.

Still, America, and particularly Los Angeles, is my main laboratory. In Los Angeles I have the best tailor in the world—that is, for my requirements. He has style, patience and a sense of class. He loves his work. Sometimes I have 30 try-ons, as he calls them, before he pronounces a suit perfect. The suits run about $165 each, with the dress clothes being even more costly.

Countless other details of dress receive attention. When I was married, for example, I wore a particularly low-cut collar, especially effective with my old-fashioned black Ascot tie. When I wear my evening cape I choose, as a rule, white gloves with heavy black lines of stitching on the back. I am particular to have suspenders for each suit. My shoes are custom made and cost about $45 a pair. I buy more hats than anyone else, I think, in the world, for the hat is very important to appearance and must be just so.

The annual $14,500 is apportioned as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Suits (40) | $4,800 | Shirts | 500 |
| Overcoats (10) | 1,200 | Pajamas | 500 |
| Hats (30) | 500 | Collars | 50 |
| Dinner jackets | 500 | Neckties | 500 |
| Evening clothes | 400 | Underwear | 400 |
| Morning clothes | 500 | Socks | 100 |
| | | Shoes | 500 |
| | | Hose supporters | 50 |
| Suspenders | 100 | Luggage | 1,000 |
| Waistcoats | 200 | Lounge robes | 500 |
| Handkerchiefs | 200 | Valet service | 500 |
| Jewelry | 1000 | | |
| Canes | 500 | Total | $14,500 |

Now let us go back to my $500 days. The contrast is amusing as well as informative. Needless to say, I was my own valet, whenever possible. I had three suits and twice as many hats. Even in that day, you see, I recognized the importance of the toppiece in one's appearance. The $500 was divided, and I think wisely, in the following manner:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Suits (3) | $150 | Shoes | 30 |
| Overcoat (1) | 50 | Hose supporters | 3 |
| Hats (6) | 30 | Dinner jacket | 50 |
| Shirts | 22 | Waistcoat | 15 |
| Collars | 15 | Handkerchiefs | 15 |
| Neckties | 30 | Pajamas | 10 |
| Underwear | 20 | Valet service | 30 |
| Socks | 10 | | |
| | | Total | $500 |

With care, as I found, a dinner jacket can be made to last three years, and an overcoat at least two, so that other things can be added as the years go by. Despite the tailors, I think a man can be quite well-dressed on this allowance if he cares to give time and attention to such an ambition. And he should buy hats to fit his face, as well as suits to fit his body.

ON AN annual $2500 for clothes a man can go in for everything, and do it very well. He can have his clothes made to order and buy everything of the finest quality. I should say, for general purposes, that is, for every-day life, $2500 would be an ideal amount for clothes. And I would apportion it about this way:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Suits (4) | $660 | Underwear | 100 |
| Overcoats (2) | 330 | Socks | 25 |
| Hats | 100 | Shoes | 72 |
| Shirts | 200 | Hose supporters | 8 |
| Pajamas | 50 | Waistcoats | 50 |
| Dinner jacket | 165 | Jewelry | 50 |
| Full dress | 190 | Handkerchiefs | 25 |
| Formal morning clothes | 190 | Canes | 50 |
| Collars | 25 | Lounge robe | 60 |
| Ties | 100 | Valet service | 100 |
| | | Total | $2,500 |

Inversely, a man with bizarre taste in clothes can dress five times as badly on $2500 as he does on $500.

Some day I should like to do a comedy about clothes. Only I fear I should be, despite the end in view, too serious about them. To make clothes appear gay and easy and attractive is indeed a serious thing!

LAURA LA PLANTE

In the TINSELED MOVIE WORLD at HOLLYWOOD

(Third of a Series)

The Missouri Beauty Who Rose From Slapstick Comedy to Legitimate Stardom.

Luckily, she always accompanied the pictures, which resembled passport likenesses.

By JIM TULLY

Author of "Beggars of Life," "Jarnegan," Etc.

BORN of a French father and a Yankee mother, Laura La Plante came from the rural districts of Missouri to attack the citadel of celluloid art. Her mother was nearly 20 years of age before she attended a school. One of 19 children on a run-down farm, she walked many miles and attended classes with 6-year-old children. A desire for education overwhelmed humility. In six years she was school teacher in a muddy district.

This in itself is of importance. It sufficed to make character for a daughter who was to fight her way through another morass.

Laura La Plante's father was a French dancing teacher from the Missouri colony of Bonne Terre. In quest of adventure, he married Elizabeth Turck, a farm girl, when she was 32.

Two children blessed their unhappy union. After eight years Mr. La Plante danced away from the cares of a gentleman who must live by his feet.

The mother toiled in a St. Louis department store until she earned enough money to send her children to California . . . in the care of a proverbially kind cousin.

After some months she joined the children. It seems that all American children have a maddening desire to become musicians. Thus all neighborhoods are infested with the horrifying noises of the fife and clarinet, the banjo and the fiddle. Since the birth of the republic not enough second-class talent has been developed to pay the irate bourgeoisie for loss of sleep and shattered nerves.

LAURA LA PLANTE learned something of music. But with a sense of humor she wisely gave up her noise-making at 15. She had decided to become a queen of the movies. Plumply adolescent at the time, she made matters worse by wearing her golden curls in the Mary Pickford manner. The rage for these curls passed all bounds, human and divine, in Hollywood. Female title writers, between 30 and 50, wore them each Sunday. They were affected by scenario writers of both sexes. The film city, with its usual tolerance for the freakish in life, retained its calm.

Laura La Plante started to make the rounds of the studios. She obtained a small part with the Christie company.

With three days' salary as an extra she decided to secure photographs of herself. She went to a dime museum and had some made. She took these monstrosities about with her. Luckily, she always accompanied the pictures, which resembled passport likenesses.

When the Christies decided to make the "Bringing Up Father" series, every available girl was given a test for the leading role—that of Jiggs' pretty daughter. Laura La Plante was always used as "atmosphere" when the tests were made. None of the girls suited the "New York office." Word finally came to take a test of the "other little girl on the left."

A test was taken. It passed the powers that be. She was given the much-coveted role at $50 per week.

THE "Bringing Up Father" series was a failure. For some months Miss La Plante was forced to look for extra work again.

At last she succeeded in getting a part as the ingenue with James Kirkwood and Louise Glaum under the direction of Wesley Ruggles.

The little Missouri girl played many arduous weeks in this film. Her work was not considered outstanding. This did not deter her from taking all her relatives to see the film in a pre-view. They discovered that everything was intact in the film but Laura. She was not in the picture.

Ripened somewhat by this bitter experience, she returned to the Christie Studios.

It can be seen that much of Miss La Plante's early screen training was obtained under the direction of the Christie Brothers. These men, early rivals of Mack Sennet, were more polite. Never so vulgar as the Irishman, they were, as a result, not so sensationally successful.

Two women developed by them later reached high rank in more serious work . . . Betty Compson and Laura La Plante.

Cecil B. de Mille was the first man to choose a comedy girl type for a dramatic role. When he selected Gloria Swanson, film producers, always in the ruts of convention, were aghast. Miss Compson was the second girl to emerge from comedies. She was chosen by George Loane Tucker for the leading role in "The Miracle Man." Much has been said in the public film prints about the advantages of comedy training for a dramatic star. There are other advantages.

Such girls as Gloria Swanson, Betty Compson, Mae Busch and Laura La Plante, appearing as they did in a new comedy each week, were known to millions of clubwomen, stenographers and editors the world over. As a result, film exhibitors were eager to secure pictures in which they appeared.

Once it was found that comedy girls, being internationally advertised products, were successful at the box office in cheap domestic triangle dramas, producers, like sheep going over a broken-down gate in Judea, followed one after another.

So the comedy girls gained experience while the producers learned. In the meantime, Miss La Plante tried to obtain more serious roles.

Her best role during this period was that of the little country-girl sweetheart with Charles Ray in James Whitcomb Riley's "The Old Swimmin' Hole." This film ranks with "The Girl I Loved," as a classic of a sort. Ray also appeared in this Riley opus. She often alternated by being a villainess at the Fox studio and a comedienne at Christie's.

Her family came to live with the new star.

Hard luck usually arrives with families. Miss La Plante was soon besieged by a siege of idleness.

There is, near Hollywood, a place where film players often retreat when old age, destitution or the fury of the mob is upon them.

Miss La Plante finally secured work in Universal serials.

The first serial in which she appeared was "The Perils of the Yukon." Encamped in the California Sierras for three months to film this "snow epic," she endured many hardships.

Each person acted as his own "prop" man. Laura was the only girl in the company. The chivalrous crew believed in the equality of burdens. She "mushed" nine miles each day, most of the distance on snow shoes.

SHE also did all the hair-raising stunts required of her—without a double. She fell into ice-filled streams, she was thrown promiscuously into many parts of many oceans, she spent many nights chasing the dreaded Huns in submarine boats.

Indeed, she needed all the stamina of a backwoods mother to enable her to survive.

When Miss La Plante finished her serial work with Universal, the benefactor of humanity who was then the general manager told her that as a reward for such good work she was to be given a permanent position in stock at $40 a week.

There was a panic in the industry at the time. The timorous girl with the many relatives hesitated about signing the contract. The manager blithely told her that there were thousands of girls much better looking and who were far more capable actresses who were eager to sign. But Laura held out for a slightly larger salary.

It was possibly one of the best investments in human beings that Universal Films ever made.

The press agents of Hollywood have banded together for mutual protection. They call themselves "The Wampas." Each year they choose several young ladies who, in their opinion, have done the best film work of the year. It is the Nobel Prize of the tinsel people.

Miss La Plante was chosen as Hoot Gibson's leading lady and a Wampas Baby Star. She was taken ill the same month.

Becoming well, she disregarded her dignity and anatomy by riding bronchos over mountain and desert with that daredevil hero, dear to the hearts of cornfed ladies, Hoot Gibson.

Soon Miss La Plante's salary was $150 a week. Two years later the Universal company gave her a new contract which called for $750 a week. One year later the same company again tore up the contract and gave her a new one at $1500 a week.

Next she received $2000 weekly.

She is married to William Seiter, one of the leading young American directors of farce-comedy.

HER fame has steadily grown around the world. In fighting the proposed measure to place a high tax on American films a member of the House of Lords arose to say that as American films were the best being made, and as his favorite actress was an American girl named Laura La Plante, he did not see why he should be barred from seeing her on the screen at his favorite theater. The London Times chronicled the event. It was the first time the name of an American film actress had been mentioned publicly in England.

Miss La Plante is 24 years of age. She has dimples, golden hair and a sense of humor.

"No sailor respected me because I was the skipper's daughter. But any sailor respected me when I could climb the rigging faster than he could, when I could haul on a rope as hard as he could, when I could steer a trick at the wheel the way he could and when I could spit a curve to windward and swear as well as he could. I was chewing plug tobacco when I was 12 years old. It kept my teeth white."

She spent her childhood in a circle of wide, wet horizons, broken by visits to strange, savage islands and Oriental ports reeking with strange smells and strange sins. At 6 she had acquired such a vocabulary, she relates, that she could rip out the most picturesque of seamen's oaths for two minutes running, without repeating a word.

She wore the singlets and overalls and sea boots like the rest of the crew when she didn't go barefoot. Never while on shipboard did she wear a dress or other feminine clothing. Her father sought by every means to keep both her and the crew from becoming conscious of her sex. She grew up as a boy and met the sailors on their own deck, in their own rigging and with their own speech.

"THERE wasn't any coddling the baby girl on the Minnie A. Caine," she recalled with a chuckle. "My father licked me about every day with a rope's end. He told me I was a strange mixture of blood and needed discipline like hell—and I got it.

"No sailor respected me because I was the skipper's daughter. But any sailor respected me when I could climb the rigging faster than he could, when I could haul on a rope as hard as he could, when I could steer a trick at the wheel the way he could and when I could spit a curve to windward and swear as well as he could. I was chewing plug tobacco when I was 12 years old. It kept my teeth white."

Twice she saw her mother, once when she was about 8 and the second time some five years later, when she spent three weeks at home, shocking the neighbors with her prodigious oaths. When she sailed again she wouldn't kiss her mother good-by because she thought it would be too sissified.

During those years she learned about the mysteries of sex from studying the insides of a female shark. She learned 14 of the native dialects of the South Sea Islands from native chiefs and their wives, who were her friends. She learned trigonometry, astronomy and navigation from her father and the crew. She was an able seaman. Then, alas, just when she had won her second mate's papers, came a Danish sailor's clumsy attempt at amour and her father sent her ashore virtually to begin life over again.

The girl had fought hurricanes and man-eating sharks. She had nearly starved on a ship becalmed when the grub ran short. She had dived 60 feet from the cross-trees into the Pacific, hit the water at an angle, ruptured both her ear drums and suffered two years of deafness. She had fallen from the rigging some 20 feet to the deck and broken her nose. She had escaped from a burning ship in midocean and starved and thirsted in an open boat for days before being picked up. She was schooled in hardships of the sea, but the land and its rigors were new when she ventured upon it to fight it on her own terms. Her sole equipment was her courage and the outfit of women's attire her father bought for her—a pair of high black shoes and stockings, a middy blouse, plain underwear and a short navy-blue skirt.

She worked first in a cheap restaurant. Then she went over to Berkeley and got a job as a telephone girl. But even Berkeley, her birthplace, was not exactly cordial. Her mother was dead and her two surviving brothers and one surviving sister were scattered. She eked out a meager living, a few dollars a week. Money was strange to her. All her life she had been accustomed to bartering goods with native islanders for copra and bartering copra in ports for the necessaries of life. She determined to become a stenographer, but that required schooling. To raise a few extra dollars for a course of shorthand and typing she worked extra. She waited on tables, washed automobiles and minded babies in the afternoon for bridge-playing mothers. She finished her business course in four months and for a time worked as a stenographer for a San Francisco lawyer for $125 a month.

IT WASN'T long, however, before she got homesick for the South Sea Islands and quit the job. She started by way of Hollywood, arriving in the movie metropolis with $52. She had heard a studio there was to send a company to the South Seas. She asked for a job—any kind of a job. The doorkeeper slammed the wicket in her face.

"By God, I'll lick the lot of you yet," she swore. Then she went to a Hollywood hotel and got a job as waitress. "It gave me a swell address," she explains. But for a time she was able to work only one night a week at supper dances. That furnished a living.

"Thank God, nobody eats much at supper dances, anyway," she says. "I used to stuff my pockets with the left-over nuts and cakes and scraps when I cleared the tables. I carried them back to my room over a garage and lived on them for about five days. I could always get a drink of water free."

At last she got a job as assistant to the wardrobe mistress at a studio at $25 a week. But the mistress made her promise she wasn't movie struck. One day Rupert Hughes and Marshall Nielan came along, saw her in the studio and had film tests made of her. The wardrobe mistress promptly fired her. She went back to washing dishes and cars.

"I fought it out and starved it out," she told this correspondent, "and then I got a note from Hughes and Nielan asking me to come around and see my film tests. They weren't a lot, but they were good enough for a three-year contract at $75 a week. And the wardrobe mistress who had fired me had to help me now. Did I gloat? I gloated like an unregenerate son of a sea-cook!"

In the next three years she took part in a great number of pictures, the most important of which was Charlie Chaplin's film, "The Gold Rush." At last she came to New York and after another fight got a place in "Port of London," then playing on Broadway. But she needed experience. That realization led her to quit and to go to Detroit, where she played in stock. She played in 89 different plays in 89 weeks. Then she came back to New York and a job in a Woods cast. It was while here on this engagement that she chanced to go to dinner one night with two writers. She was telling them about her South Sea adventures.

"My God, why don't you write a book on that?" inquired one of her spellbound listeners.

"Me write a book? I don't know enough words."

"Hell, use the same words over again. Write it the way you talk it."

She tried it. She wrote 5000 words and a skeleton outline of the chapters, and showed it to Simon & Schuster, publishers of "Trader Horn."

"Write 80,000 words more," they ordered. "If it's as good as this we'll take the book."

"I can't write that much," she wailed. "Give me a chance to study how to write."

"IF YOU try to study how to write, we'll break your damned neck," said Mr. Simon emphatically. "Go ahead and write. We'll pay you the same salary the theater is paying you till you finish."

Back she went to her typewriter and apples and in two months the job was done.

In some minds, perhaps, will arise the question: Did Joan Lowell really live through the remarkable scenes, experiences and adventures of which she writes? Could it have been imaginary? Here is the answer of William McFee, himself an author and a man of the sea:

"It is easy to go bail for Miss Joan Lowell. No art could simulate nature to this extent, I fear. The thing is all of a piece and all too short. One has the impression of a breathless girl blurting it out in order to explain a pardonable but very astounding past."

New York's Night Clubs on the Boom Again

hostesses" and their smart cohorts would be out of business completely were it not for that inexplicable genus homo, the New Yorker, the "wisest guy" and the "biggest sap" on earth.

FOR Broadway dazzles many a native, even as it dazzles and befogs the guests from Peoria, Seattle and Joplin. The city is filled with ardent disciples who like to woo the Goddess of the Good Time in places such as these.

The clubs profit immensely from people who suddenly come into big money for the first time in their lives. They have benefited enormously from the unprecedented stock-market boom of the past couple of years.

There are no statistics on these things, of course, but club attaches figure that the happy gatherings on any given night will average 25 per cent of visitors from out of the city.

And understand that these out-of-towners are welcome creatures —aye, most welcome—for the best of reasons. Reasons so good, indeed, that club attaches become pretty expert in picking them out.

It has to do with the cash drawer. Along about 3 a. m., say, the guest, after a glorious night, has laid before him by the smooth waiter the bill for his own entertainment, and, unless he went accompanied, for that of the pretty young woman he picked up, but who was there for the purpose of boosting the business and her own 10 per cent.

The bill is enormous. Here he is, a stranger in a strange land, and probably with a pretty nice glow on as well. He protests feebly, but he pays. It would be bad judgment to refuse.

An illustration. A German priest visiting here asked a taxi driver to take him to a good place to eat. The cabbie drove to a club in Fifty-eighth street, where the priest had a sandwich and a glass of wine. The check was $20. When he refused to pay he was beaten up, two men holding him while a third delivered the wallops. The man he accused was one of the proprietors. The latter was freed in court.

THE fact that many night clubs let out their coat-room privileges on contracts often calling for as much as $10,000 to $15,000 a year indicates the amount of money that is poured into these establishments.

A man who holds the coat-room contracts in at least six of the leading clubs recently confided that he pays $15,000 a year for the privilege in one of the places, but he has been taking in $35,000 a year at this establishment.

How does this man prevent his employes from stealing a big slice of this tremendous income? He has a trusted watcher to keep his eyes on the one other man and the two girls who serve in each coat room. These attaches have no pockets in their clothes. To attempt to slide money into their shoes, or into some other hiding place, spells certain discovery.

But aren't there any "good" night clubs in New York, where a respectable person can go, where the environment is right and where fair treatment is forthcoming?

Yes. There are many excellent establishments, with snappy entertainment, where you will be treated with utmost courtesy and consideration. If you discriminate in where you go, you can run your eye over the gathering and see excellent people all about, many of them obviously cultured and of the best class. In all fairness to the people who run their places on such a plane, this much should be said.

Expect, however, to pay well for what you get. You can't be a thin spender and be welcome. You're occupying valuable space and the overhead is high.

AS TO "speakeasies," New York is literally alive with them, and to all appearances will continue to be, notwithstanding the vigorous drive with which Grover A. Whalen, the new Police Commissioner, has inaugurated his regime. Three hundred or more places have been raided by the local police under Mr. Whalen and some convictions have been obtained, but with the thousands of speakeasies in operation here—estimates run from 6000 to 10,000 in Manhattan borough alone—it is expected that the "industry" will continue to be a thriving one.

Suppressed Poems of Emily Dickinson Finally Published

it. That was all there was about it.

In Emily's own words, she had "got through with peace."

As far as her contemporary world was concerned, Emily Dickinson just about failed to exist. Her home and the grounds of it became her territory. But her tragedy otherwise did not show upon her; morbidity was not in her make-up.

She embraced words more than ever before. With them she worked wonders. Her brother's home stood next that of her father; her visits to it became the bulk of her intercourse with mankind. Her brother, Sue, Lavinia, her parents and her brother's children became the chief mortals of her association.

In Emily, Austin's children found an aunt among aunts; one who wrote them delicate bits like gold thread traced on ivory, who became one of them, a subtle director of their thoughts, and yet a partner in their plots and their connivings.

SHE read widely and profited much, and her spontaneity of mind was ever venting itself in notes and letters, which, if they did not break into actual poetry before they were completed, carried the melody of poems in their prose.

She writes, in part, to an absent member of her family:

"Nothing is gone, dear, or no one that you know. The forests are at home, the mountains intimate at night and arrogant at noon. A lonesome fluency abroad, like suspended music." And further along in the same note: "Come home and see your weather; the hills are full of shawls."

A Christmas offering of ice plum cake and candy is sent to Sue in the afternoon, accompanied by this apology:

"Please excuse Santa Claus for calling so early, but gentlemen 1882 years old are a little fearful of the evening air."

Sending a small pie to her nephew, Ned, she writes:

"Dear Ned: You know that pie you stole? Well, this is that pie's brother. Mother told me when I was a boy that I must turn over a new leaf. I call that foliage admonition. Shall I commend it to you?"

And another time to this same Ned:

"The Devil, had he fidelity,
  Would be the finest friend—
Because he has ability,
  But Devils cannot mend.
Perfidy is the virtue
  That would he but resign—
The Devil so amended
  Were durably divine."

Emily's friends beyond the family circle were few, but they were well edited. Among them were the Hollands of Springfield; Dr. Josiah Gilbert Holland was one of the founders of Scribner's and became one of its editors; there was Judge Otis P. Lord of Salem, a noted jurist of his day, Helen Hunt Jackson, the same little girl who played under the syringas, now become an author, and the intellectual Martha Whitney, a professor at Smith College.

When Emily Dickinson died, in 1886, they collected her poems and gave them to the presses; she wanted no publication while she lived. Before that but very few had appeared, poems pirated by friends who could not resist the urge to publish her.

She goes down in history as a poet of unusual deftness, who told chapters in a line with the agility of a Dryden or a Pope, and lacking their thunder, substituted the grace of the flute.

She was a philosopher. She was honest when it was more dangerous to be honest than it is today. She was an altogether noble woman.

What Mammy Is to Dixie Manana Is to Spain

Picking on the Picador, and the Barber of Seville.

Sam Heilman.

"DON'T you just dote on the Alcazar?" gushes Minnie Mellish, after we'd spent the greater part of a day picking 'em up and laying 'em down in the show places of Seville.

"No," I returns, "but then I only dote with difficulty. I remember the trouble my mother had trying to make me dote. I would say to her: 'Mother, I will sing for you, and I will dance for you, and I'll even learn to play the bass flageolet for you, but I will not dote for you.' What do you think about it, Joe?"

"I'm inclined to agree with you," comes back Joe Davis. "While the Alcazar may be a pretty hot hut, as huts go in these altitudes, it's just so much stuck-up stucco to this neatly-dressed democrat. For example, I don't believe the dump's to be compared to the new garbage incinerator they built recently at Salisaw, Oklahoma."

"You said it, feller," I enthuses. "Last year I made a special trip out there to give the building the up and down. Such simplicity of design! Such untutored beauty of proportion! And that corrugated iron roof, studded with rivets! What a—words fail me."

"It's about time," snaps the wife. "I thought they'd failed when your brains went bankrupt."

"You can just bet," goes on Davis, "that any building that Joe Moore and his brother Ike put up"——

"That's funny," cuts in the Mellish skirt, thoughtful; "according to the guide the Moors built the Alcazar."

"They couldn't have been the same fellers," I assures her. "I don't think Joe and Ike were ever out of Oklahoma."

"Never," declares Davis. "Besides, don't forget, the Alcazar was built before Columbus discovered America."

"Oh, well," says I, "that practically settles it. You'll have to pick up the ball, Min, and roll her down another alley."

"Jehoshaphat and company!" howls Mellish. "You fellers going to keep up this cuckoo chatter of yours the rest of the journey?"

THAT is precisely our intention. Davis and I had been dragooned into taking the European trip with the Mellishes and it's our plan to leave no turn unstoned to make a tramp out of the traipse abroad and bring it to an utimely end. Anything to cause pain is our motto.

"Will you please ring the bell?" asks the wife at this juncture. "I ordered tea an hour ago."

"And you already expect to get it?" I exclaims. "Where do you think you are—back in the states? This is the land of manana, lady, where immediately means some rainy Thursday in a year or so, and soon signifies you should live so long."

"That's correct," nods Davis. "Let me tell you about that peculiar custom they have in Spain in this connection. When a young girl is married here, her first act, after shaking the rice out of her ears, is to go out and order a present for the tenth birthday of her grandson. If she is a person of influence, the gift is occasionally delivered on time, but I don't mind telling you in confidence that such haste is rarer in Andalusia than fish that climb flagpoles."

"Rarer," says I. "Take, for instance, the case of Don Manuel Cordova y Toledo y Sandusky y Chillicothe y Washington Courthouse y"—

"What the deuce are you doing?" scowls Mellish. "Reciting a piece from a Big Four time-table?"

"Manuel," I goes on, "went to Malaga in the fall of 1928 to catch a train for Madrid. After waiting at the station only from Mardi Gras to Thanksgiving Day, the choochoo arrived. Dazzled by his luck, Don made a dash for a compartment, when he found his way blocked by soldiers. And what do you imagine!

"Shoot," urges Joe. "You know me and suspense."

"It was the royal train," I explains, "carrying Ferdinand and Isabella from the conquest of Granada 400 years before. Don Manuel married a girl from Barcelona later on, and to his dying day denied that he had had anything whatever to do with the sinking of the Maine in Havana Harbor."

A couple of hours and several quarrels later a flunky shows up with the tea the frau had ordered.

"Listen here, Pedro," I yelps. "Did"——

"My name," says he. "It is not Pedro."

"Is that my fault?" I demands. "You foreigners just have the habit of blaming everything on us Americans. . . . What's the chance of getting a couple of tickets for a bullfight?"

"It is not the season for the bullfight," says the garcon.

"What?" I gasps. "No bullfights?"

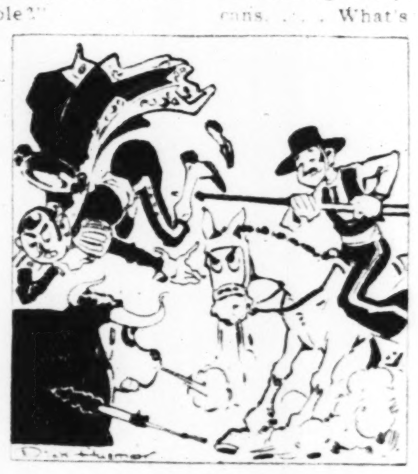
"It is not the season," repeats Pedro, sullenly.

"That," points out Davis, shrewdly, "is your tough luck, not ours. We came here to see a bullfight, and no American must ever be disappointed. Do you want me to complain to the Consul and have a fleet of projected cruisers backed against the front door of this hotel?"

"That'll be enough of that," glowers his wife. "I wouldn't go to a bullfight if there was one here."

"I think it would be wonderful," says Minnie. "Don't I, Ira?"

"I don't know," barks her husband. "I'll take it up with the Interstate Commerce Commission when I get home. What I'd like to see right now is a boat headed for New York."



A picador drives his trusty matador between the horns of a bull.

"NOT a step will I move," asserts Joe, "until I have seen a picador drive his trusty matador between the horns of an enraged bull. I once saw a fight in Mexico"——

"What was it like?" I cuts in. "You may go, Pedro."

"Well," says Davis. "It was in the fall of 1918, or perhaps it was a Thursday—I'm not quite sure—when Harry Goofle and I went to Tia Juana. Goofle, at the time, was traveling for the Eczema Manufacturing Company, selling Irish lace, horseshoes and hydraulic mining equipment. The Eczema concern wasn't a bad layout. It was capitalized at $50,000, had bills receivable of $37,642 and assets generally of $87,323. Does this interest you?"

"I'm all a-twitter," I assures him. "What was their net after depreciation and taxes?"

"I don't recall at the moment," returns Joe, "but I can get the figures from Mordecai Thistlewood, the president of the layout. You should have known Mordy. What a card he was! I remember once, before his marriage to Euphrosyne Dawfish, one of the Dawfishes of Cedar Rapids, she was—that's an up-and-coming town, Cedar Rapids—86 miles of paved roads, 11 churches"——

"When do we get to the bullfight?" interrupts Minnie, whose brains are eight laps ahead of her and gaining all the time.

"Bullfight!! exclaims Davis. "I didn't say anything about a bullfight. I said a fight. This was a"——

So easy to fight fat

Have you wondered why the extra-fat people of old days have so largely disappeared? The chief reason lies in a scientific discovery made some 25 years ago. Medical research found that a great cause of excess fat lay in a deficient gland. A way to correct it was discovered. Since then, physicians the world over have employed this method in the fight on fat.

A famous medical laboratory perfected the utmost in this method in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 21 years—millions of boxes of them. You can see the results wherever you look. Excess fat in men and women is nowhere near as common as it was.

No starvation, no over-work, corrects the cause of excess fat, but moderation helps. When the cause lies in a defective gland, that cause must be corrected.

The slender figures that you see about you are largely due to Marmola. The new youth and beauty, new health and vigor that you envy. You do yourself a grave injustice if you omit this help.

The way is to correct this gland deficiency. No abnormal exercise or diet. Simply take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Watch the fat go, watch the new vitality return. You will be delighted. Do this now to live life at the full. You should not delay a day.

YOU'LL SEE THEM AT PALM BEACH

WHEREVER well-dressed people gather, wherever a hat is something more than a covering for the head, there you will find Stetsons in the overwhelming majority. For it is a recognized fact that Stetson styles are accepted as authoritative, not only in Palm Beach, but all the world over. . . . New facts about
CLEANING TEETH

that there are thousands of tiny crevices in healthy, normal teeth and gums?

that no toothbrush can get down into these microscopic places?

that food particles and mucin deposits lodge in these crevices and start decay?

that the real test of a toothpaste is its ability to cleanse these crevices?

A remarkable scientific discovery has recently brought to light some new facts about cleaning the teeth.

A scientist recently measured the power of toothpastes to penetrate the tiny crevices in teeth and gums where food particles lodge and where decay begins. He discovered that Colgate's has a higher penetrating power than any of the leading dentifrices on the market today.

This is the secret of Colgate's remarkable ability to clean—it gets down deep into the hard-to-clean places where the toothbrush cannot reach. Colgate's superior penetrating power is due to the fact that it contains the world's greatest cleansing agent. When brushed, this cleansing agent bursts into a sparkling, snow-white foam that sweeps over teeth and gums. This foam possesses a remarkable property (low "surface-tension") which enables it to go deep down into the tiny tooth crevices where decay starts. There, it dislodges clinging food particles and mucin, washing away these impurities in a detergent wave.

In this foam is carried a fine chalk-powder—a polishing material used by dentists—which polishes the enamel safely, brilliantly.

Thus Colgate's cleans and beautifies, purifies and refreshes the entire mouth restoring natural loveliness of teeth and gums. If you have never used Colgate's, please try it. Mail the coupon below for a generous free tube.

How Colgate's Cleans Where the Toothbrush Cannot Reach

Greatly magnified picture of tiny tooth crevice. Note how ordinary, sluggish toothpaste (having high "surface-tension") fails to penetrate down where causes of decay may lurk.

This diagram shows how Colgate's active foam (having low "surface-tension") penetrates deep down into the crevice, cleansing it completely where the toothbrush cannot reach.

only 25c

The famous 25c tube of Colgate's contains more toothpaste than any other leading brand priced at a quarter. This is because Colgate's is the largest selling dentifrice in the world.

Pond's 4 delicious Aids to Swift clean Beauty of Skin

SWIFT, CLEAN-CUT, runs the modern rhythm. Young, clean of line is the modern silhouette. Alert and beautiful are modern faces—eyes bright with zest of life, clear skin kept firm and young with modern care.

Pond's famous Method is the open secret of the meticulous grooming of skin that modern life exacts, yet must achieve upon the wing.

No time? No matter!

Pond's four simple steps, once fixed in habit, are swift yet scientific in the precision of their effect.

Pond's four delicious aids to beauty are the utmost modern science can offer in exquisite fineness, in amazing efficacy.

Light and pure, Pond's Cold Cream cleanses your skin immaculately, and Pond's new Tissues, soft, absorbent, remove the cream with welcome economy of laundry and towels.

Pond's Freshener keeps your skin fresh and young looking, and Pond's delicious Vanishing Cream makes your powder cling for hours.

Chic and beautiful women everywhere use these famous four products in their daily régime for home treatment of the skin. They owe their lovely complexions to these four simple steps, which they practise faithfully.

FOLLOW POND'S METHOD: One! Cleanse thoroughly with Pond's Cold Cream . . . Two! Wipe away cream and dirt with Pond's new Cleansing Tissues . . . Three! Close pores, tone, firm the skin with Pond's new Freshener, banishing oiliness . . . Four! Smooth on a little Pond's Vanishing Cream for powder base and protection.

Give your skin this complete care as often as you need it through the day. At bedtime thoroughly cleanse with Cold Cream and remove with Tissues. Try this swift, sure Method!

"Utmost in Comfort" says Mrs. Robert R. McCormick

"Handsome looking" says Mrs. Henry W. Taft

Mrs. Robert R. McCormick—from a portrait by an eminent English painter. Mrs. McCormick, a distinguished Chicago hostess, treasures pictures, having in her collection fine examples of Cezanne, Matisse, and other leading moderns. She is a painter of some note herself and, extremely versatile, raises a choice Guernsey herd at her place at Wheaton.

Mrs. Henry W. Taft—of the old Ohio family, so distinguished for its brilliant attainments in the law and its pre-eminent political service to the country. Her own personal life is devoted to a large group of important charities, to her family, her wide circle of friends, and to religious movements. Her New York apartment on lower Park Avenue, commands an interesting vista of the new New York.

From prominent women all over the country come golden words of praise like these—enthusiastic commendation of the marvelous Simmons Beautyrest Mattress and the new Ace Box Spring!

Each night over 650,000 people in the United States enjoy the marvelous repose the Beautyrest affords.

This mattress has been perfected by the Simmons Company after three generations devoted to the construction of superior bedroom equipment. It has a unique inner construction—a center of hundreds of fine coils, buried deep in layers of luxurious upholstery, making it unbelievably buoyant and long wearing. The damask covers in their two stunning patterns and six lovely pastel colors come in for their share of praise as well.

And the Ace Box Spring, with its cover of matching damask, stitched sides and neatly taped edges, boasts the same sturdy materials and superior construction.

Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, the distinguished Chicago hostess, says, "I can't say enough in praise of these buoyant Beautyrests and the new Ace Box Springs. They are the last word in comfort, fit the scheme of the room perfectly, and complete its harmony of color and comfort."

Mrs. Henry W. Taft, of the pre-eminent Ohio family, has Beautyrests and Ace Box Springs in her spacious New York apartment. She approves the unique inner construction of the mattress which she says "is a great improvement over the old type. And the damask cover is as great an advance in appearance."

In all better furniture and department stores you will find them—Simmons Beautyrest Mattress, $39.50 and Simmons Ace Box Spring, $42.50. Simmons Ace Open Coil Spring, $19.75. Simmons Beds, $10.00 to $60.00; No. 1581, $32.75, No. 1567, $53.75. Look for the name "Simmons." The Simmons Company, New York, Chicago, Atlanta, San Francisco.

This Exquisite Bedroom in Mrs. McCormick's Chicago Home has walls of soft green, light rose organdy glass curtains and deep peach taffeta hangings. A marvelous Aubusson rug carpets the floor. Simmons Beds No. 1581 in blue-green with apricot trim have Beautyrest Mattresses and Ace Box Springs in rose damask. Bed No. 1581 also comes in peach, mahogany, and walnut.

Simmons Beautyrest Mattress and matching Ace Box Spring made by the world's largest maker of fine beds, springs and mattresses, are unique in their luxurious comfort and beauty. The Beautyrest has a center of hundreds of individually pocketed, resilient inner coils, buried deep in layers of finest upholstery. Coils extend to edges and are stitched in place to keep sides firm and uncrushable. The Ace Box Spring is sturdily constructed with coils of best Premier wire. Both are covered in damask, two patterns, six colors, with stitched sides and taped edges.

BEAUTYREST MATTRESS $39.50

ACE BOX SPRING $42.50

Simmons Ace Open Coil Spring—the perfected un-sed spring, famous for sturdy construction, is arvelously resilient, light in weight, and long earing, with coils close together for maximum mfort and wear. Smooth banded

. Tailored slip cover additional.

$19.75

The Rose Guest Room in Mrs. Taft's New York Apartment, for which she chose Simmons Beds No. 1567, a French 18th Century design so charming with her inlaid rosewood furniture of the period. Worthy of this handsome furniture and the rose brocaded hangings and upholstery, is the fine texture and beautiful design of the rose damask covering of the Beautyrest Mattresses and Ace Box Springs.

"Here we are"—three words that will go down through history as the symbol of epochal accomplishment. The Spirit of St. Louis is one of the interesting exhibits in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington.

A visit to Washington is more than a pleasure trip—it is a duty that you owe to your children once they have reached the age of appreciation—the duty of patriotism—a part of the education for citizenship.

Washington, where throbs the heart of our Nation. It must be seen to be understood; it must be visited to realize its greatness. It is an inspiration.

For here, amid the memorials and monuments to the past, daily transpire events that are to leave their impress on the future. Here, every day, history is being written. One cannot look upon the scenes where the destiny of the Nation is decided without feeling that he has touched the very pulse of our government and felt its living throb.

HEART-LEAF quality throughout . . . in both Domestic and Imported Tobaccos

...and that's how OLD GOLD became the throat-easy cigarette

"EVERY OLD-TIMER KNOWS THAT THE HEART-LEAVES MAKE THE SMOOTHEST SMOKE"

"Round here in the foothills of the Blue Ridge, we've been raisin' tobacco since my grandpap was a boy. We grow the makin's for all the leading cigarettes.

"Well Suh, a few years ago an OLD GOLD man came through here and said: 'I don't want any of your sleazy ground-leaves. I don't want any of your gummy top-leaves. I only aim to buy your heart-leaves. And I'll pay the price.'

"Now every old-timer, down in his heart, knows that the top and bottom leaves may bite the throat. And that the heart-leaves make the smoothest smoke.

"But when the OLD GOLD people demanded the heart-leaves, that was something new in these diggin's. That's how OLD GOLD became the throat-easy cigarette . . . that's where 'not a cough in a carload' came from. That's why you can smoke OLD GOLDS morning, noon and night."

YEARS THAT LURK IN THE SHADOW

AGE lies waiting in the shadow of your chinline. The faintest drooping of the underchin is an unmistakable sign that time, or neglect, has begun its cruel attacks upon your youth. Keep your chinline young!

Dorothy Gray evolved simple, scientific treatments and preparations for preventing and correcting double chin. You can readily follow these treatments in your own home, for at leading shops in your city you will find the same preparations which have proved successful in the famous Dorothy Gray salon treatments. The Dorothy Gray method is clearly explained in the booklet which this coupon brings you.

FABRICS

TRADE MARK REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

for your Spring and Summer Wardrobe

CELANESE IS

—the brand name of a modern synthetic textile fibre, unlike any other that science has made. Spun into fine arns, it is woven into many fine fabrics. There are Celanese Voiles, Ninons, Taffetas, Velvets, Crepes, Satins, Moires—and other types of textures that you know.

Soft, Supple

Celanese fabrics are astoundingly soft and supple, entirely lacking in harshness. Their "drape" and "feel" are the drape and feel of the most luxurious fabrics.

Resists Stains

Ordinary fruit, jam or grease stains re readily washed off, even in cold ater, as only the surface of the bre soils. Being equally resistant dust and dirt they are uniquely ygienic.

Insulates

Celanese fabrics do not cling uncomfortably when damp and do not ain permanently from perspiration. Their unusual insulating qualities make them remarkably cool to wear in summer and warm in winter.

Color Fast

Special dyes give an exceptional brilliance and beauty and unusual astness to the colors in Celanese lain and printed fabrics.

Washes and Irons

ash them and iron them as you ould any other fine fabrics with e staunch assurance that they ll not shrink or stretch.

Reasonable

he price of Celanese fabrics is ch lower than you would expect to y for materials of such loveliness, d they wear wonderfully well.

anese yarns, fabrics, and articles made of synthetic products manured exclusively by the Celanese poration of America, 180 Madi-Avenue, New York City.

FOUR leading fashion editors affirm the utter smartness, adaptability and loveliness of the new spring Celanese fabrics now on display in the important stores of the country. They have chosen the smartest Paris inspired frocks from their spring-summer patterns and picked out the loveliest Celanese fabrics to interpret them. These frocks, illustrated here, were made up according to the selected patterns, and photographed—their answer is convincing. The designs and textures, as you will find them at your store, are appealing—and so—emphatically, is the reasonable price of these fabrics.

VOGUE

For a tailored ensemble such as Vogue devises here, Celanese Permanent Moire is preferred for the coat and skirt, and Celanese Taffeta for the tuck-in blouse. Celanese Moire is the only one we know whose pattern won't fade out in damp weather. Vogue Patterns 9708, 9709 and 9717.

McCALL'S

For this evening gown McCall's chooses the rippling lustre of Celanese Permanent Moire. The beautiful moire pattern is unaffected by moisture, cleansing or pressing. Augustabernard inspired this gown. McCall Pattern 5644.

VOGUE

Imagine a chic, useful "little tailored frock" like this that will actually wash—and come up bright and soft and smiling to pay you back in wear! That is what has been achieved here with Celanese Crepe Amcella. Vogue Pattern 9634.

BUTTERICK

"Tier upon tier of ruffly waves splashing capewise down the shoulders, as Molyneux does" said Butterick's fashion advisor when she saw this crisp, enchanting Celanese Taffeta. "Then tie a pert bow under the chin—and cut the coat to wrap well 'round." Celanese Taffeta too, is washable.—Butterick Pattern 2437.

BUTTERICK

Butterick's fashion editor uses Celanese Printed Ninon in a gay floral motif for an afternoon frock that Patou inspired, showing the new soft sleeve-line, and a casual modification of the skirt. The Celanese Ninon is washable. Butterick Pattern 2582.

PICTORIAL REVIEW

A lustrous white Celanese Taffeta makes up this tennis frock—inspired by Jenny. Sleeveless—to invite sun-tan—and in Celanese Taffeta it holds its brilliance after repeated tubbing. Pictorial Pattern 4745.

PICTORIAL

Ingeniously the fashion editor has made up in Celanese Printed Voile this knowing little tailored frock, in the manner of Rolande. It washes as readily as a dainty handkerchief. Pictorial Pattern 4788.

To Every Housewife

7 Reasons Why American Housewives were quick to recognize and eager to accept the freedom from household tasks that Kansas—"The National Cleansing Powder"—offered

1 Can't Scratch—because it contains no sand, grit or any other harsh abrasives.

2 Cleans Quickly, Thoroughly—the soft, fluffy particles of Quaker Volcanic Ash have a gentle, insistent cleansing power that other cleansers approach only with strong caustics.

3 Is Harmless—because of its pure ingredients that do not corrode or harm the most sensitive skin.

4 Does Not Clog—because it forms no sediment in your drains—flushes right through.

5 Purifies—Takes dirt out as well as off—has no odor—leaves no odor.

6 Economical—because a little of it goes a long way, does a lot of cleaning, gives you twice as much satisfaction in the end and costs less than half what you usually pay in the beginning.

7 Removes Stubborn Spots and Stains—dingy rust spots, your sink and bathtub disappear; enameled ware is kept shiny without scratches; nickeled ware looks bright; copper, steel, glassware and aluminum are immaculate; while woodwork, linoleum and kitchen floors are a delight to behold.

The sweeping popularity of this big, new can has enabled us to make the most unusual offer in merchandising history.

You can easily identify Kansas—"The National Cleansing Powder"—at your grocer's by the big, bright "K" on the tall, blue can.

OH I WISH I HADN'T PROMISED TO GO TO THAT CARD GAME. WELL ANYHOW, DON'T YOU DARE PAINT THAT BEDROOM FLOOR UNTIL I GET BACK GEORGE BUNGLE. OR YOU WILL, AS USUAL, HEM YOURSELF INTO A CORNER.
WAIT UNTIL YOU GET BACK, EH? FINE! DON'T WORRY.
JUST TO MAKE SURE SHE DOESN'T RUN BACK HERE AND SURPRISE ME... SHE'S STARTED........GONE!......TRA LA WELL NOW TO GET BUSY.
HI LE-EE HI LOW HI LE-EE HI....
COMING ALONG FINE. YES SUH..........AND TOWARD A DOOR TOO, BUDDY.
FINISHED! EXCEPT THIS BIT WHICH I'LL GET FROM OUTSIDE THIS DOOR. A GOOD JOB WELL DONE. HI - LE-EE HI LOW HI.....
WHAT?
MY WORD, A CLOTHESCLOSET!
SUCH LUCK! WELL I'LL JUST HAVE TO SPOIL A PERFECT JOB AND WALK TO THAT DOOR ON THE PAINT. TOUGH! OH, WELL.....
WHY WORRY! ANYHOW I CAN PATCH THESE PLACES UP LATER, OR.........
WHAT?
DON'T TELL ME THIS DOOR IS LOCKED! THAT SPRINGLOCK ON THE OTHER SIDE IS CAUGHT! SUCH LUCK!
WELL I'VE DONE MY BEST. NO MAN CAN DO MORE. I'LL JUST HAVE TO WALK OUT.........TAKE LONG STEPS........I CAN PATCH UP THE FLOOR SOMEWAY.. ........LATER............AFTER I THINK.
THE IDEA! JOSEPHINE LEAVING THIS WAY.
SHE PICKED UP HER CARDS.. ......LOOKED AT THEM, AND THEN SAID, I MUST GO NOW!
BUT JOSEPHINE YOU SIMPLY CAN'T LEAVE US NOW. THINK WHAT.....
NO! I MUST GO NOW. I HAVE A FEELING THAT SOMETHING HAS GONE WRONG AT HOME. I JUST MUST GO. SORRY!

HOW ABOUT A SHOW TONIGHT, DORA?
I'LL GO TO A MOVIE WITH YOU, ROD, BUT YOU MUST REMEMBER, I WANT YOU TO START SAVING YOUR MONEY NOW THAT YOU HAVE A GOOD JOB
BOY! I'M GLAD THE BOSS DIDN'T HEAR ME MAKING THAT DATE--HE'S GOT A CRUSH ON DORA HIMSELF
DORA, THIS IS JACK DUNN--WHAT ARE YOU DOING THIS EVENING? I'D LIKE TO-- I'M AWFULLY SORRY, JACK, BUT I HAVE A DATE FOR THIS EVENING
HA-HA THAT'LL BURN HIM UP
DAWGONNIT-EVERYTIME I TRY TO MAKE A DATE WITH HER SOME OTHER FELLOW'S BEATEN ME TO IT
OH, MR. DUNN--THAT'S A PITY--I KNOW HOW YOU MUST FEEL JUST WAIT UNTIL I FIND OUT WHO THAT FELLOW IS THAT'S ALWAYS BEATING ME OUT AND I'LL--I'LL-- YUK-YUK-YUK
I'LL PHONE ROD THAT I'LL MEET HIM DOWN-TOWN--NO USE MAKING HIM COME AWAY OUT HERE TO GET ME- POOR KID WORKS SO HARD ALL DAY
HE'LL APPRECIATE THIS
ROD--COME ANSWER THE PHONE--IT'S FOR YOU
OH-OH! IF THAT'S DORA I'M SUNK! I'LL GIVE HER A PHONY LINE--I'M SURE SHE HAS SENSE ENOUGHT TO UNDERSTAND WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT
WHY, YOU MUST BE MISTAKEN! I HAVE NO DATE WITH YOU TONIGHT--I'M GOING TO STAY DOWN AND WORK OVERTIME--I'M TRYING TO GET AHEAD IN THE WORLD
WHY, ROD RUCKETT-I'M SURPRISED AT YOU-VERY WELL, IF YOU'RE TRYING TO GET OUT OF OUR DATE TONIGHT, YOU'RE OUT--LET ME SPEAK TO MR DUNN-YOUR BOSS REALLY, DORA? YOU MEAN YOU WILL GO OUT WITH ME THIS EVENING, AFTER ALL?--THIS IS TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE
I NOT ONLY GOT BEAT OUT OF MY DATE, BUT THE BOSS HEARD MY CONVERSATION, NOW I'LL HAVE TO STAY DOWN AND WORK TONIGHT TO MAKE IT GOOD

It's An Ill Wind —

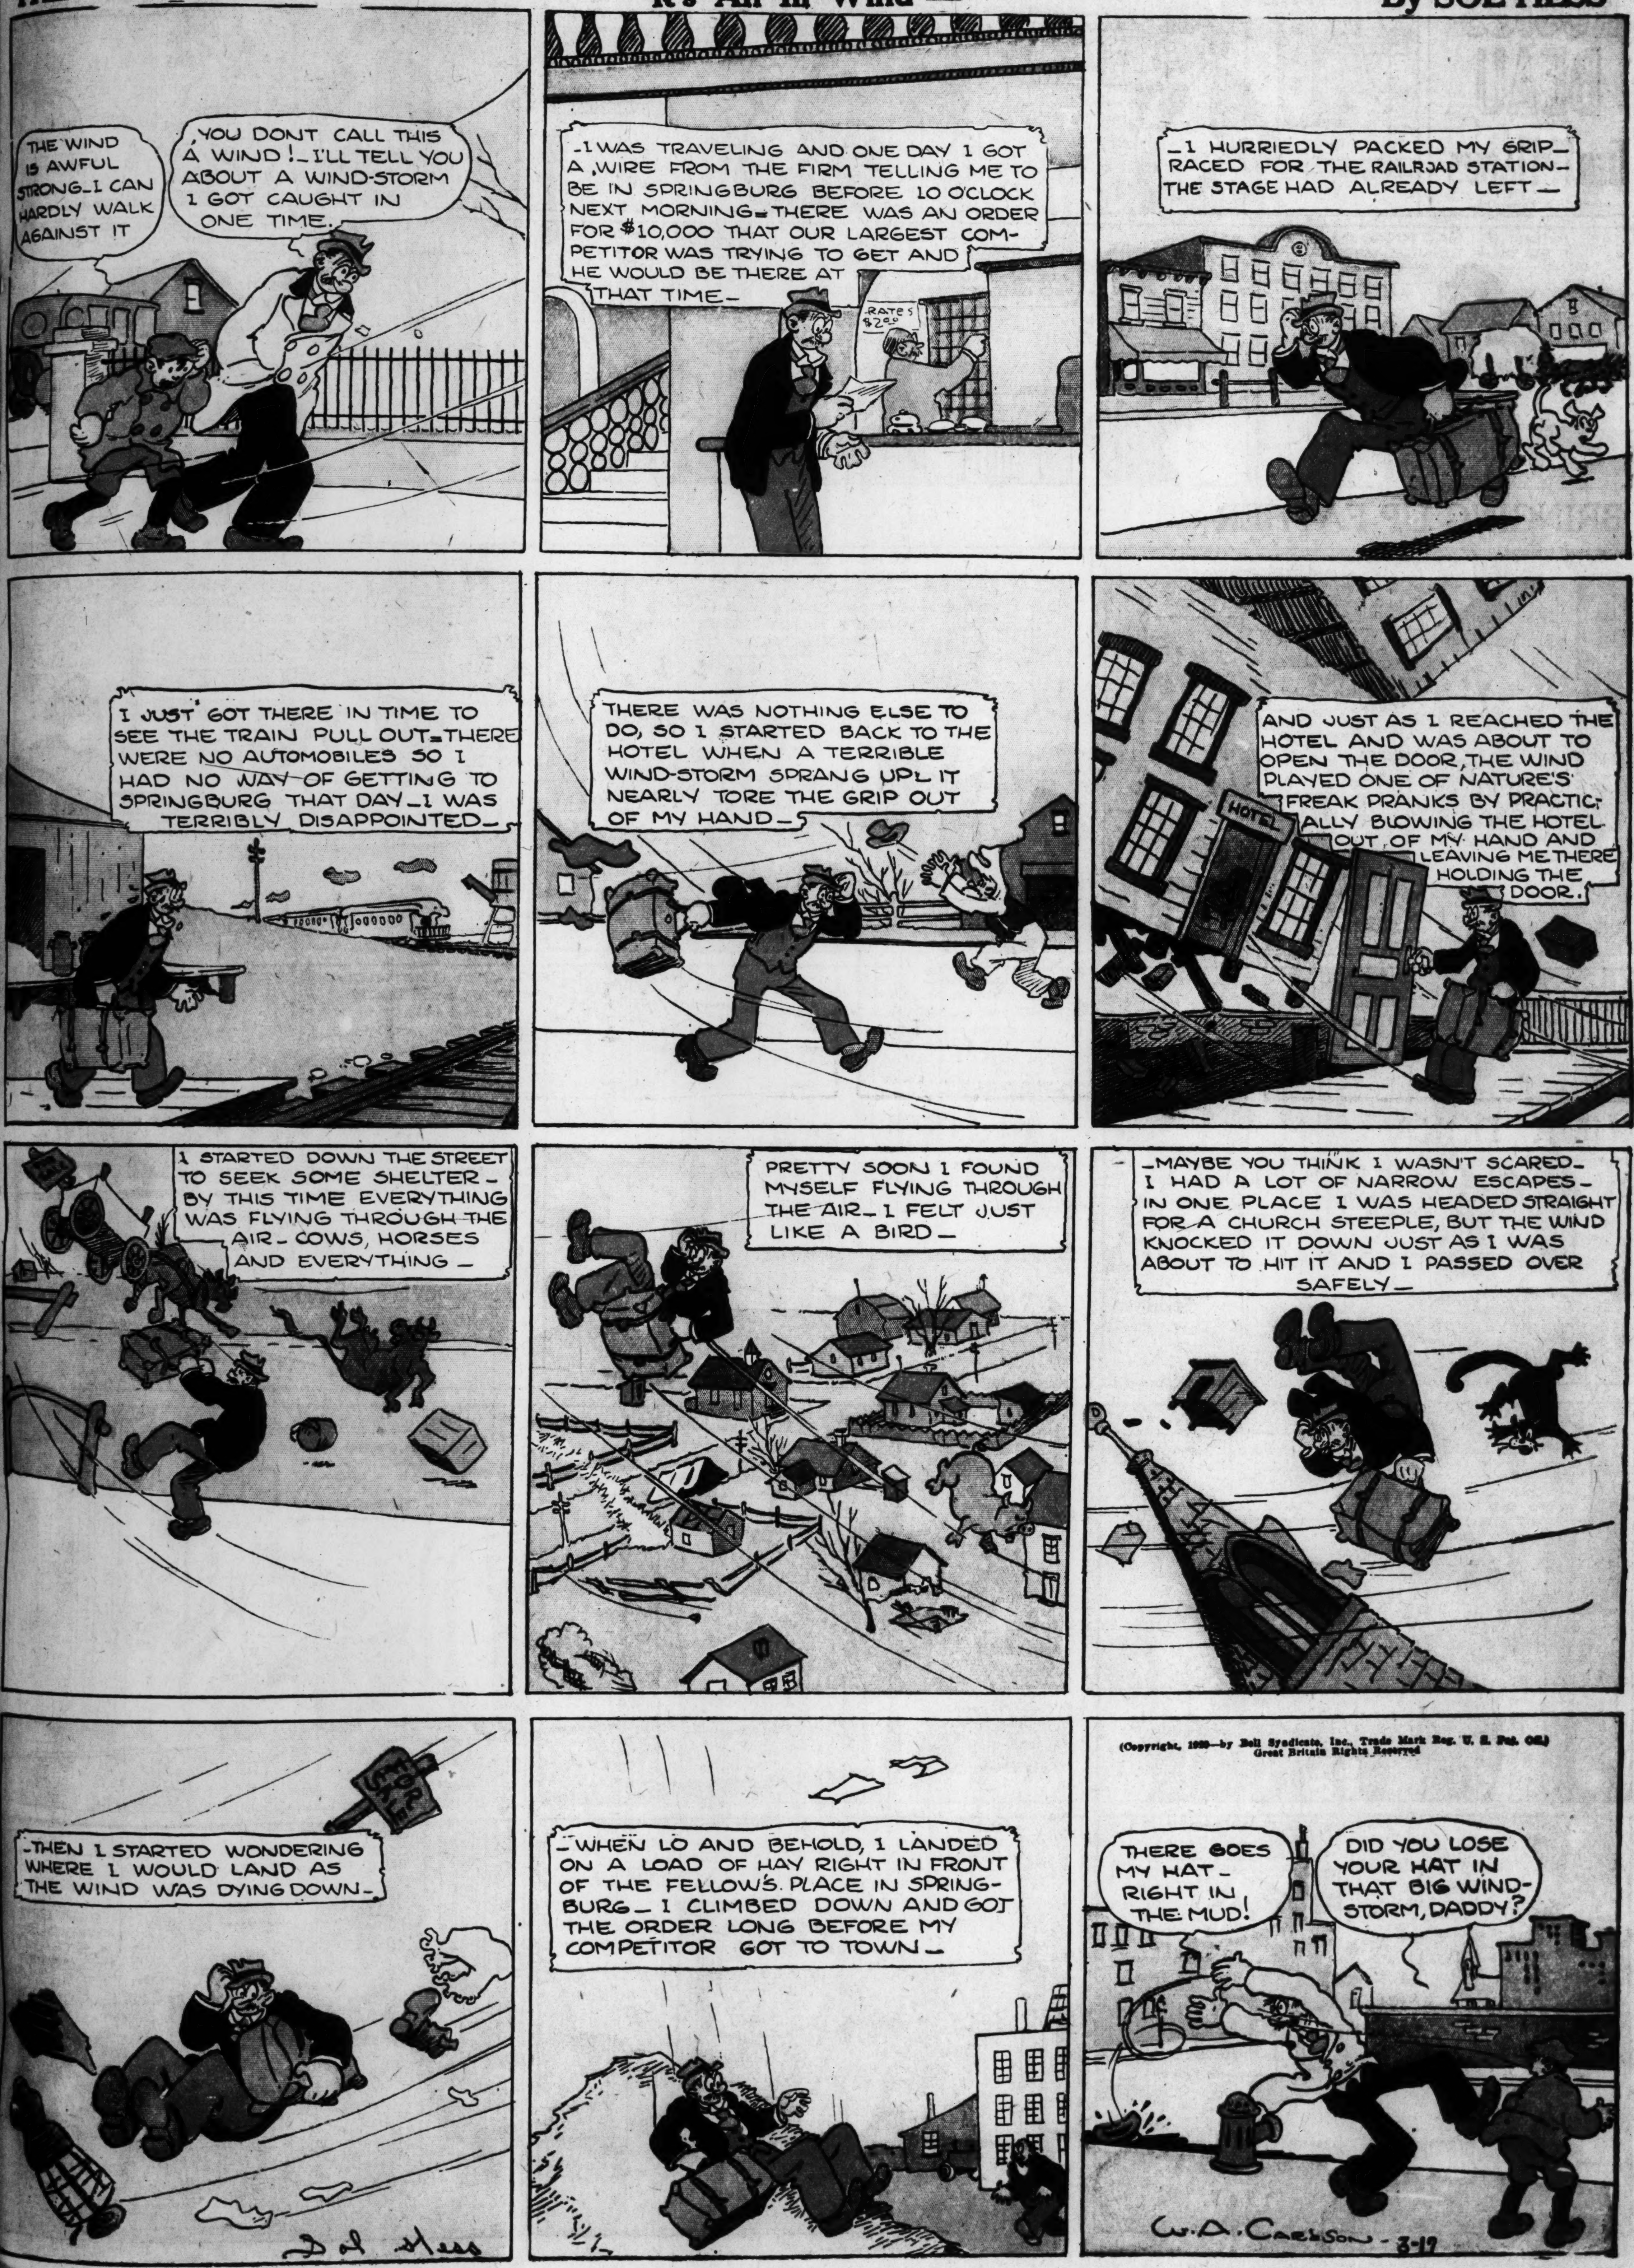
By SOL HESS



THE WIND IS AWFUL STRONG - I CAN HARDLY WALK AGAINST IT
YOU DONT CALL THIS A WIND! - I'LL TELL YOU ABOUT A WIND-STORM I GOT CAUGHT IN ONE TIME.
- I WAS TRAVELING AND ONE DAY I GOT A WIRE FROM THE FIRM TELLING ME TO BE IN SPRINGBURG BEFORE 10 O'CLOCK NEXT MORNING - THERE WAS AN ORDER FOR $10,000 THAT OUR LARGEST COMPETITOR WAS TRYING TO GET AND HE WOULD BE THERE AT THAT TIME -
RATES $2.00
- I HURRIEDLY PACKED MY GRIP RACED FOR THE RAILROAD STATION - THE STAGE HAD ALREADY LEFT -
I JUST GOT THERE IN TIME TO SEE THE TRAIN PULL OUT - THERE WERE NO AUTOMOBILES SO I HAD NO WAY OF GETTING TO SPRINGBURG THAT DAY - I WAS TERRIBLY DISAPPOINTED -
THERE WAS NOTHING ELSE TO DO, SO I STARTED BACK TO THE HOTEL WHEN A TERRIBLE WIND-STORM SPRANG UP - IT NEARLY TORE THE GRIP OUT OF MY HAND - AND JUST AS I REACHED THE HOTEL AND WAS ABOUT TO OPEN THE DOOR, THE WIND PLAYED ONE OF NATURE'S FREAK PRANKS BY PRACTICALLY BLOWING THE HOTEL OUT OF MY HAND AND LEAVING ME THERE HOLDING THE DOOR.
HOTEL
I STARTED DOWN THE STREET TO SEEK SOME SHELTER - BY THIS TIME EVERYTHING WAS FLYING THROUGH THE AIR - COWS, HORSES AND EVERYTHING - PRETTY SOON I FOUND MYSELF FLYING THROUGH THE AIR - I FELT JUST LIKE A BIRD -
- MAYBE YOU THINK I WASN'T SCARED - I HAD A LOT OF NARROW ESCAPES - IN ONE PLACE I WAS HEADED STRAIGHT FOR A CHURCH STEEPLE, BUT THE WIND KNOCKED IT DOWN JUST AS I WAS ABOUT TO HIT IT AND I PASSED OVER SAFELY -
- THEN I STARTED WONDERING WHERE I WOULD LAND AS THE WIND WAS DYING DOWN - FOR SALE
Sol Hess
- WHEN LO AND BEHOLD, I LANDED ON A LOAD OF HAY RIGHT IN FRONT OF THE FELLOW'S PLACE IN SPRINGBURG - I CLIMBED DOWN AND GOT THE ORDER LONG BEFORE MY COMPETITOR GOT TO TOWN - THERE GOES MY HAT - RIGHT IN THE MUD!
DID YOU LOSE YOUR HAT IN THAT BIG WIND-STORM, DADDY?

TIED BY LITTLE CICERO
I WAS STANDING BY THE WINDOW PLAYING CARDS WITH MUTT, AND WHEN HE HEARD HIS WIFE COMING UP-STAIRS HE JUST GAVE ME A SHOVE! I'M TIRED OF THESE STILTS!
AH, IT'S GREAT TO STAND ON LAND AGAIN! NOW I'LL BE ABLE TO TAKE CARE OF MYSELF! NO MORE STILTS FOR ME!
I THINK IT WAS CICERO WHO TIED MY STILTS TOGETHER SO I COULDN'T MOVE OUT OF MY TRACKS! JUST FOR THAT I'LL BORROW HIS AIR-GUN!
I WAS HAVING LOTS OF FUN ON THOSE STILTS UNTIL MUTT LEANED ME UP AGAINST THAT WINDOW SO WE COULD PLAY CARDS!
THERE HE IS TELLING HIS WIFE HE NEVER ASSOCIATES WITH ME ANY MORE!
NO, M'LOVE, I WOULDN'T LOWER MYSELF TO ASSOCIATE WITH JEFF. I DETEST HIM!
I'M SO HAPPY TO HEAR THAT, MUTT!
OUCH!
WHAT'S THIS?
OUCH!
SPING!
LUCKY I HAD THIS BOMB. SOME BOZO IS IN THE TREE SHOOTING AT ME WITH AN AIR-RIFLE!
COULD IT BE CICERO?
BOOM!
HAVEN'T I TOLD YOU I NEVER WANT TO ASSOCIATE WITH YOU AGAIN! NOW BEAT IT!
THAT'S THE WAY TO TALK, MUTT!

MR. AND MRS.——

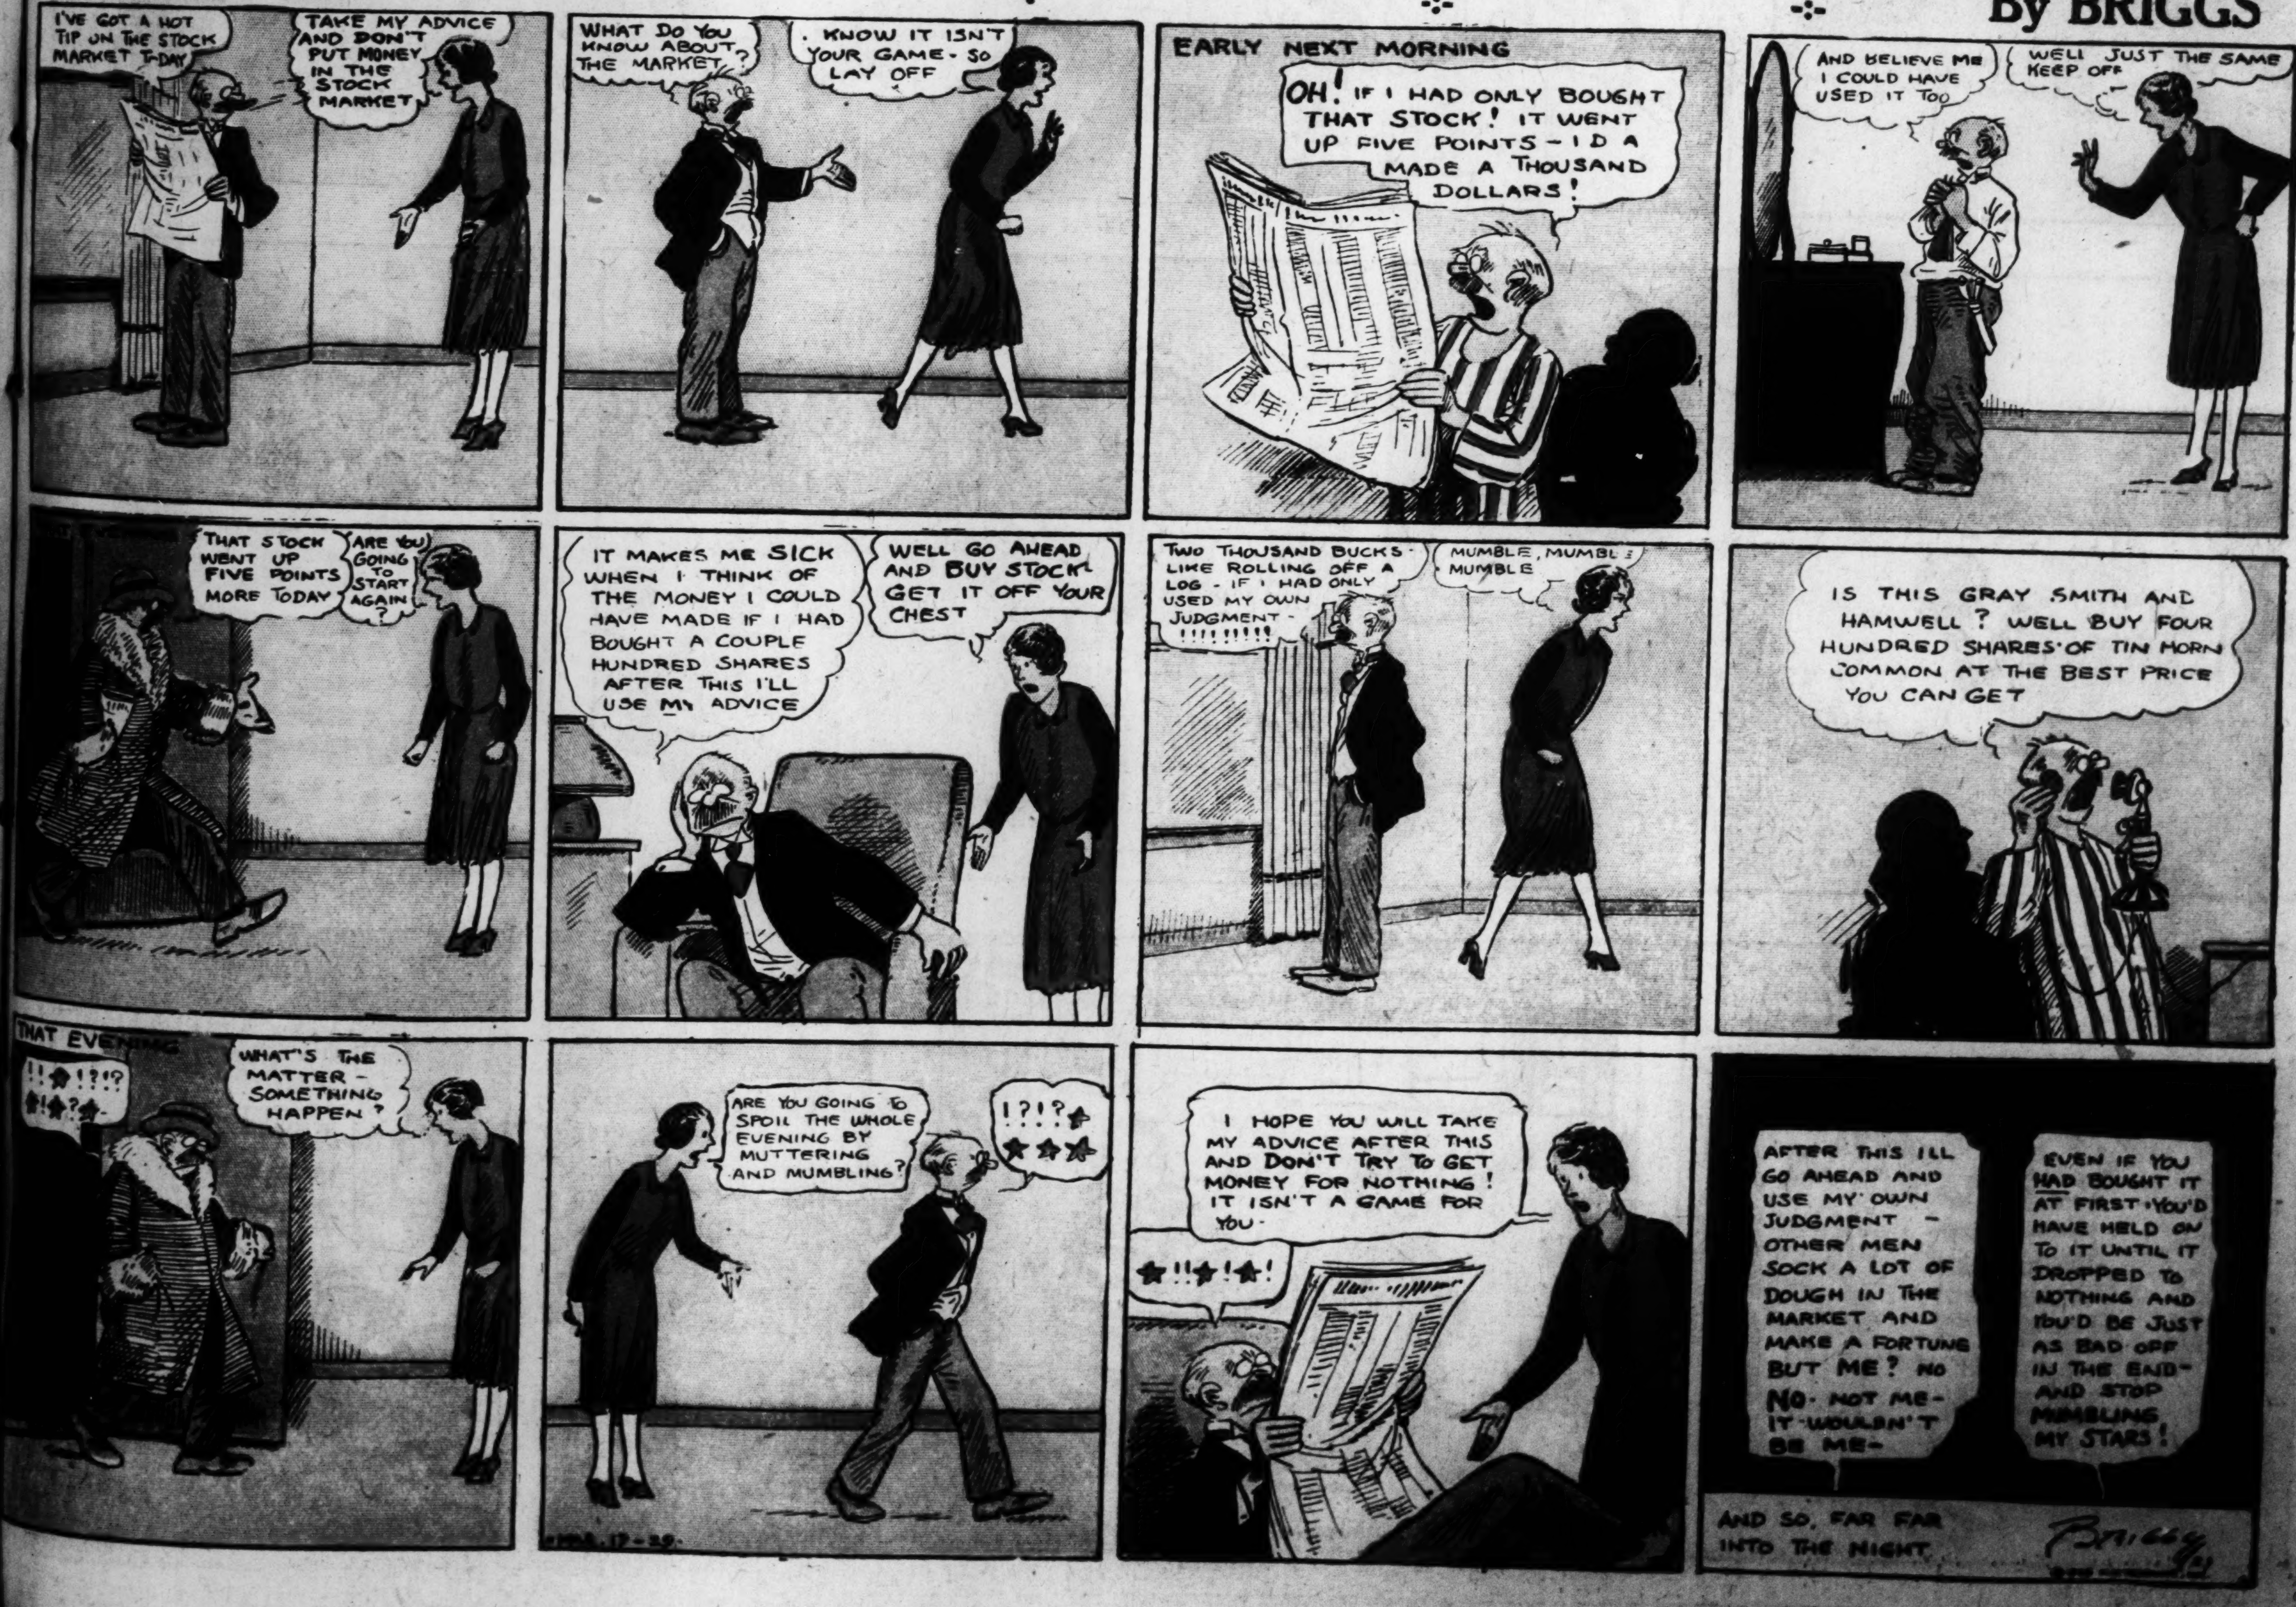
By BRIGGS



I'VE GOT A HOT TIP ON THE STOCK MARKET TODAY
TAKE MY ADVICE AND DON'T PUT MONEY IN THE STOCK MARKET
WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THE MARKET?
. KNOW IT ISN'T YOUR GAME - SO LAY OFF
EARLY NEXT MORNING
OH! IF I HAD ONLY BOUGHT THAT STOCK! IT WENT UP FIVE POINTS - I D A MADE A THOUSAND DOLLARS!
AND BELIEVE ME I COULD HAVE USED IT TOO
WELL JUST THE SAME KEEP OFF
THAT STOCK WENT UP FIVE POINTS MORE TODAY
ARE YOU GOING TO START AGAIN?
IT MAKES ME SICK WHEN I THINK OF THE MONEY I COULD HAVE MADE IF I HAD BOUGHT A COUPLE HUNDRED SHARES AFTER THIS I'LL USE MY ADVICE
WELL GO AHEAD AND BUY STOCK. GET IT OFF YOUR CHEST
TWO THOUSAND BUCKS - LIKE ROLLING OFF A LOG - IF I HAD ONLY USED MY OWN JUDGMENT - !!!!!!!!!
MUMBLE, MUMBLE MUMBLE IS THIS GRAY SMITH AND HAMWELL? WELL BUY FOUR HUNDRED SHARES OF TIN HORN COMMON AT THE BEST PRICE YOU CAN GET
!!★!?!? ★!★?★
WHAT'S THE MATTER - SOMETHING HAPPEN?
ARE YOU GOING TO SPOIL THE WHOLE EVENING BY MUTTERING AND MUMBLING?
!?!?★ ★★★
MAR. 17-29.
I HOPE YOU WILL TAKE MY ADVICE AFTER THIS AND DON'T TRY TO GET MONEY FOR NOTHING! IT ISN'T A GAME FOR YOU.
★!!★!★!
AFTER THIS I'LL GO AHEAD AND USE MY OWN JUDGMENT - OTHER MEN SOCK A LOT OF DOUGH IN THE MARKET AND MAKE A FORTUNE BUT ME? NO NO. NOT ME - IT WOULDN'T BE ME - EVEN IF YOU HAD BOUGHT IT AT FIRST YOU'D HAVE HELD ON TO IT UNTIL IT DROPPED TO NOTHING AND YOU'D BE JUST AS BAD OFF IN THE END - AND STOP MUMBLING MY STARS!
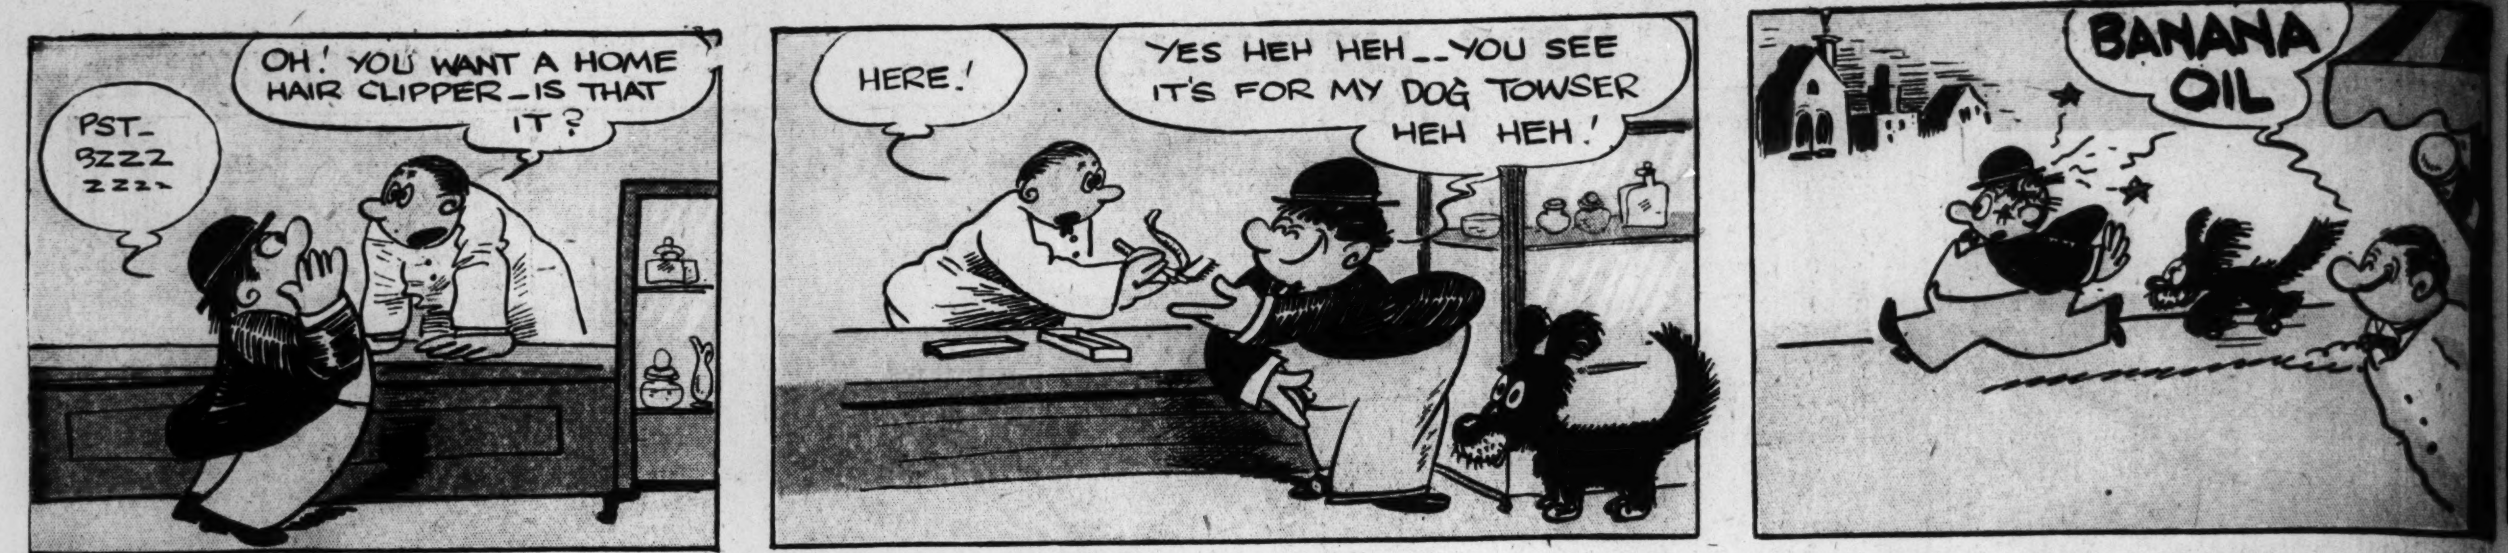
AND SO, FAR FAR INTO THE NIGHT
BRIGGS



PST- SZZZ ZZZ-
OH! YOU WANT A HOME HAIR CLIPPER—IS THAT IT?
HERE!
YES HEH HEH—YOU SEE IT'S FOR MY DOG TOWSER HEH HEH!
